Introduction

One of the greatest values of an “elective” course like sports and entertainment marketing is its ability to transform the classroom into a dynamic atmosphere where progressive “new age” learning can take place while reinforcing the same academic standards students learn within the confines of a generic business or marketing class. The examples used to support each lesson resonate on a different level for students thanks to course content that most students take a genuine interest in.

Unfortunately, many instructors today wishing to integrate elective studies into the classroom face the inevitable challenge of being handcuffed by severe budget constraints. Sports Career Consulting (SCC) understands the current budget crises and is empathetic to the needs of the school system. And, while we’re all certainly advocates for the adoption of current, up-to-date and effective class resources, the realist in us knows that isn’t always an option. This publication is available to teachers to help ease some of those pressures.

Today the business and marketing world has evolved into a multi-dimensional work-in-progress for companies around the globe. Sports and entertainment companies are no exception. From the NBA and Nike to Paramount Pictures and Spotify, organizations pay a premium to remain ahead of the curve in a world of evolving technologies and shifts in trends within the industry. This publication is designed to share those practices with you, and ultimately, your students.

Please note, this publication is not meant to replace the use of any existing textbook, nor is it the goal to be sole provider of instructional material for your class. SCC believes you should find any and all resources that offer the best fit for your teaching style. Just as important, as you know, is to continually search out other supplemental resources for your course. At SCC, we are confident you will find our program to be an excellent resource for all business or marketing classes in your quest to provide the best classroom experience possible for your students.

So, whether your school offers a sports and entertainment specific marketing class or a general business class with this topic area as a medium for introducing the basic principles of marketing, we believe you’ll find this and other SCC resources to be a cutting-edge provider for enhancing the classroom experience for you and your students.

Enjoy!

SCC's Digital Textbook: Teacher User Guide

It is hard to believe that it has been sixteen years since I made the difficult decision to leave my dream job in the NBA to pursue a passion project as an entrepreneur. In that time span, the number of resources SCC has made available to our subscribers has grown exponentially. So, too, has the size and scope of this digital textbook.

To help our membership base navigate all the ideas and suggestions for discussions, activities and projects in this publication, we are introducing some images to help guide you. Now, if you are searching for some ideas for engaging students in class, you will have some visuals to help guide you as you skim through the book. The directory below offers a quick snapshot of what you will find and where you can find it. Enjoy!

Project Ideas: Stop when you see this symbol throughout the textbook for suggestions on relevant projects that correspond with the current lesson. The CD will feature two versions of each project: One in either PPT or Word format that allows you to make any edits and the other as a PDF that ensures the original formatting of the document will remain in tact.

Activity Ideas: This symbol in the teacher's guide of the e-book offers lots of additional activity ideas. These activity ideas are strategically placed throughout the book to instructors engage students, encouraging them to apply sports and entertainment business concepts in a hands-on environment.

Instructor Notes: Stop here at any point that you see this symbol throughout the teacher's version of SCC's e-book for general instructional notes or suggestions.  DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Like almost any other industry, the COVID-19 pandemic had an unprecedented impact on sports and entertainment businesses around the world. In some cases, the fallout could be catastrophic (like the prospect of a missed college football season) while others, like the streaming companies (Netflix) and gaming sector enjoyed a sales boost. The one thing that is a constant, regardless of segment or industry, is the looming uncertainty about how to recover.

Take this opportunity to engage your students in discussion on how the pandemic has impacted and will continue to impact the business of sports and entertainment. To help illustrate the impact of COVID-19 on the industry, consider downloading the “COVID-19 Part 3: Industry Impact” lesson plan, located in the unit one folder.

DISCUSSION

- 1. How has the COVID-19 health crisis impacted the sports and entertainment industry?*
- 2. Have all segments of the industry been impacted in the same way?*
- 3. Do you think the industry will recover? Why or why not? How?*

Lesson 1.2

Factors Contributing to Industry Growth

- A. Many factors in sports and entertainment business led to its enormous growth
1. Increase in numbers of those participating in sports and entertainment
 - a. The U.S. Youth Soccer Association reports that there were 100,000 registered players in 1974. Today the organization has grown to 3.2 million registered players and over 800,000 coaches and volunteers. ⁸
 - b. The number of U.S. golfers has risen to 12.6% of the population vs. 3.5% 50 years ago ⁹
 - i. According to the National Golf Foundation, the number of Americans over the age of five who played at least one round of golf on a course increased incrementally from 23.8 million to 24.2 million in 2018.
 - ii. Participation in “off-course” golfing, in the form of play at facilities such as Topgolf or at facilities with on-screen simulators, rose 6 percent, to 23 million participants, last year according to a Forbes report
 - c. According to the National Federation of State High School Associations, the sport of lacrosse has seen a 280% increase in participation in the last decade ¹⁰

 - e. According to a CBS Sports report, USA Hockey saw a record 519,547 people register as amateur hockey players in the US in 2014, 8,000 more players than any other year as non-traditional markets like California, Texas and Florida have grown exponentially over the past 20 years
 - f. Data from USA Water Polo (USAWP) shows water polo is one of the fastest growing sports in the USA, specifically at the high school level
 - i. According to swimmersworld.com, nationwide participation is up 25% in the last five years while memberships increased by 67% from 26,873 to 44,773 (an all-time high) in the last eight years
 2. Increase in numbers of those following sports and entertainment
 - a. U.S. television broadcast 800 hours of sports TOTAL in 1971 ¹²
 - i. Compare that to the coverage of the 2016 Summer Olympics in Rio, Brazil, when NBC featured more than 6,000 hours of television coverage (up from 5,535 in 2012) across its platforms (including NBC, USA, Bravo, CNBC, MSNBC) and all 130 competitions were streamed online ¹³

 - ii. Spikeball
 - (a) This fast-paced game was invented in the 1980's, disappeared during the 90's, and burst back on the scene in 2013 – today the sport boasts over 125,00 participants, has its own governing body and is the self-proclaimed fastest growing sport in the U.S.
 - (i) According to the Columbus Dispatch, over 300 official USA Spikeball tournaments were scheduled throughout the U.S. last year
 - (ii) According to Spikeball's website, there are over 1 million players in the US alone and 1,500+ nationally ranked teams

- ii. DirecTV offers over 285 channels as part of their “premiere” package, including over 50 channels dedicated specifically to sports programming (and that doesn’t include the seventeen “specialty” packages that require an additional subscription like the NBA League Pass, NFL Ticket or NHL Center Ice)
- iii. Last year, Maple Leaf Sports and Entertainment (the company that owns the Toronto Raptors, Toronto Maple Leafs, Toronto FC, Toronto Argonauts, Raptors 905 and Toronto FC II) partnered with Spalk (a virtual sportscasting studio that enables teams and organizations to provide hundreds of different commentators for live streams) to create a broadcast experience that allows fans all over the world to see their favorite teams play while watching in their preferred language
- iv. New broadcast companies like DAZN and FloSports have recently entered the market with ambitious growth plans, buying up media rights and determined to provide even more access to sports and events content

 - ii. In the summer of 2019, "Avengers: Infinity War" needed just 5 days in theater to surpass $1.2 billion in gross sales, setting a new record
 - (a) The previous record of 11 days was set just one year earlier by the blockbuster "Avengers: Infinity War"
 - (b) The record before that was 12 days, set in 2017, by "Star Wars: The Force Awakens" (so the record was broken three times in three years)

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

This is a good time to gauge your student's familiarity with the concept of inflation (great way to tie in a quick economic lesson)! Ask students if they think twice as many ticket buying patrons attended Titanic as they did Star Wars. Introduce the concept of adjusted box office gross (reflecting inflation). See the discussion topic presented in the PowerPoint slides for more details and an example illustrating this valuable lesson.

DISCUSSION

 Titanic more than doubled Star Wars at the box office in terms of overall global ticket sales, but is that the whole story?*

Do you think twice as many ticket-buying patrons attended Titanic than Star Wars? Why or why not?

Although Titanic's box office figures are incredibly impressive, the box office figures do not necessarily tell the whole story.

Ticket prices in 1997 were much higher than they were in 1977, the year Star Wars was released, and box office records are not adjusted for inflation.

TRIVIA

 When box office numbers are adjusted for inflation, the domestic top grossing film in American history is NOT Titanic. It isn't 'Avatar' either, nor is it 'Avengers: Infinity War' or 'Jurassic World.'. What is it???*

After adjustment, the top spot goes to 'Gone with the Wind.' According to filmsite.org, 'Star Wars: Episode IV - A New Hope' is second followed by 'The Sound of Music' and 'E.T.' with 'Titanic' taking the fifth spot. Click here to see a list of the Top 100 films at the box office after inflation.

5. Media coverage of sports and entertainment has grown significantly in the past half-century, placing athletes and entertainers in the public eye with incredible frequency
 - a. Television and radio provide alternative news sources to newspapers while social media provides an even newer alternative to all other forms of media
 - b. Profit potential and increased competition among media companies encourage increased competition for top stories
 - i. It is why we see the intense, over-the-top coverage of sports and entertainment stories like the "Kawhi Watch" following NBA superstar free agent Kawhi Leonard as he mulled his options on which team to sign with in 2019
 - (a) Click here to see more on the media frenzy "Kawhi Watch" stirred up in Toronto, including a helicopter "chase" that followed a SUV thought to be driving front office personnel from the airport to a downtown hotel
 - c. Introduction of Internet makes information available "on demand" with increased frequency and accessibility
 - i. Tiger Woods explains: "Arnold Palmer...came along at the same time television was exploding in America. Now we've got global Internet access. Our sport wasn't global when I began playing the Tour. Now it is. You can log on anywhere in the world and see what any player did in any tournament or for the year. With that international boom, that international stream of information, golf is getting exposed to parts of the world that it never even thought of getting into."¹⁸

* VIDEO SUGGESTION *

The Golf Channel aired a three-part documentary on the life of legendary golfer, Arnold Palmer. Palmer is widely recognized as the first professional athlete to leverage his celebrity and fame to build a business empire. Click here to read more from Palmer's website and consider sharing this content again in lesson 1.4 on industry pioneers. As for a video suggestion, the Golf Channel made the documentary available on YouTube for $1.99 per episode. The documentary features lengthy discussions about the impact Palmer had on the business of sports. Click here to visit the Golf Channel's YouTube page for access.

6. The international marketplace continues to provide a platform for driving sales of sports and entertainment products and services
 - a. J.K. Rowling's (UK) Harry Potter series
 - b. Athletes like the NBA's Luka Dončić (Slovenia), Ben Simmons (Australia), Rui Hachimura (Japan), Nikola Jokic (Serbia) and Giannis Antetokounmpo (Greece), MLS's Javier "Chicharito" Hernandez (Mexico), the NHL's Sidney Crosby (Canada), Alexander Ovechkin and Evgeni Malkin (Russia), the PGA Tour's Rory McIlroy (Ireland), LPGA Tour stars Ko Jin-Young (South Korea) and Nasa Hataoka (Japan), Tennis stars Novak Djokovic (Serbia), Rafael Nadal (Spain) and Roger Federer (Sweden), Track star Usain Bolt (Jamaica), UFC's Conor McGregor (Ireland) and MLB's Vladimir Guerrero Jr. (Dominican Republic), Yasiel Puig (Cuba) and Yu Darvish (Japan) help their respective sports, teams and leagues draw fans from all over the world
 - i. In 2017, Takuma Sato became the first Japanese winner of the Indianapolis 500 when he denied Helio Castroneves a record-tying fourth victory as the two traded the lead in the final laps
 - ii. At the start of the 2019-2020 season, and for the sixth year in a row, NBA rosters included over 100 international players representing 38 different countries and each of the 30 teams had at least one international player
 - (a) There were 11 international players on opening-night rosters who had been NBA All-Stars
 - (b) Last season, Washington Wizards forward Rui Hachimura's jersey was the top seller in Japan, ahead of stars like LeBron James and Steph Curry, and his jersey accounted for 24% of all jersey sales in the country. Additionally, the Wizards made up 13% of all team merchandise sales in Japan, according to the NBA.
 - iii. According to a release from Major League Baseball, 28.5% of players on last year's Major League Baseball's Opening Day rosters were born outside of the United States, over 100 hailing from the Dominican Republic

- d. Actors and actresses such as Cate Blanchett, Kate Winslet, Colin Farrell, Emma Watson and Russell Crowe help boost International box office sales for the films in which they have a prominent role
- e. Global events like Wimbledon, the Tour de France, FIFA World Cup, Olympic Games, and Cannes Film Festival attract world-wide attention, providing an exceptional marketing opportunity for ticket sales, sponsorship sales, licensing and merchandise opportunities while providing a tremendous economic impact for host cities
 - i. ESPN, CANAL + Events and Tignes Ski & Snowboard Resort (in France) launched the first Winter X Games to be held outside the United States and X Games Munich 2013 demonstrated the growth in global appeal of the event when 47.5 hours of action were broadcast across ESPN's various platforms, including 26.5 hours on live television

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Discuss the idea of building a global brand with your students in class. Ask them why leagues like the NBA, MLB, MLS, NFL and NHL all are engaged in efforts to build their brands internationally. Ask them why each league might be targeting specific markets (like NBA in China, India and Africa, MLB in India, Japan or Australia and NFL, MLS & NHL in Europe). To narrow it down, ask students specifically if they think it is a good idea for the NFL to eye expansion efforts in England or Mexico City. What are the advantages? What are the potential drawbacks? The idea here is to build a fundamental understanding of how a global marketplace helps sports and entertainment properties to grow.

This would be a good time to introduce the "Global Expansion Project" located in the "Lesson 1.2" folder. The project casts each group of students as a "consulting firm" and encourages students to develop an expansion strategy for U.S. professional sports leagues into international markets.

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

As the popularity of streaming grows and more social media platforms invest in rights fees, most analysts expect a shift in consumer preferences in terms of how sports and entertainment events are consumed. Forbes posed the question, "Will Facebook Become The Preferred Way Fans Watch Sports" (click here to read the story).

Ask students which platform they would be most likely to use to stream live sports or entertainment events. Why should sports and entertainment properties be concerned with the preferences of your students? Will a new platform (or even new technology) come along that will displace the way we currently view streaming sports and entertainment events? Ask students what they think the future of streaming live events might look like.

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Ask students if they can think of any examples of fandom. What is the craziest thing they can think of that a friend or family member has done in support of their favorite sports team, favorite athlete or celebrity? What is the craziest thing they have ever done?

- e. The existence of fandom is what ultimately fuels today's non-stop, around the clock media coverage of celebrities and sports stars and drives a culture in which athletes and celebrities are often forgiven for behavior that was once a lightning rod for criticism
 - i. While many media pundits publicly chastised LeBron James' decision to announce which team he would be joining in a one-hour ESPN special, the show (aptly named "The Decision") drew very high ratings as nearly 10 million people tuned in to watch ⁴³
 - ii. Despite being suspended for six games by the NFL in 2017 after a series of off-field incidents alleging domestic violence and crude behavior, Dallas Cowboys' star running back Ezekiel Elliott consistently remains at the top of league's list of best-selling jerseys (his jersey was the #3 top-seller last season according to the NFL) ⁴⁴
 - iii. Alex Rodriguez, former Major League Baseball star turned ESPN analyst, was at one point in his career considered to be not only the most hated athlete in baseball, but all of sports
 - (a) Retirement from the game and a job in the studio helped to rehab and repair his image, now many fans find Rodriguez to be extremely likeable
 - (i) Click here for a brief video from MSN.com on how A-Rod succeeded in reviving his post-baseball career
- f. Because of the strong emotional connection fans maintain with their favorite sports teams, wins and losses on the grandest of stages can yield incredible influence on a community at large
 - i. It can provide a positive experience when communities tap into fandom to help rally around a common cause
 - (a) As Nelson Mandela once famously stated: "Sport has the power to change the world. It has the power to inspire. It has the power to unite people in a way that little else does."
 - (b) After struggling with one of the worst national disasters in US history (Hurricane Katrina), fans in the New Orleans area often cited the New Orleans Saints Super Bowl win as an inspiration for the city's resurrection

- (c) After another devastating hurricane hit the gulf coast region, Houston area sports teams and athletes played a significant role in helping the area begin the recovery process
 - (i) Emotionally, the area got a huge lift when the Houston Astros won the 2017 World Series
 - 1. Click here to read a USA Today story on how “Astros' World Series run lifts Houston amid Harvey recovery”
 - (ii) Financially, the area got a giant boost from donations and fundraising efforts from local sports figures
 - 1. The Houston Rockets’ owner (who recently sold the team) donated $10 million while James Harden, one of the league’s biggest stars, voiced his support and pledged $1 million to aid in the city’s recovery
 - 2. Houston Texans’ star JJ Watt set up a fundraising campaign with a goal for raising $200,000 for disaster relief. In one of the greatest examples of the powerful platform available to athletes and entertainers, the campaign raised $37 million, thanks to donations from more than 200,000 people.
- (d) Sports have played a role in helping communities impacted by mass shootings to heal
 - (i) Click here for a touching story from abcnews.com discussing how sports helped the Orlando community move past the tragic nightclub shooting that took place in 2016
 - 1. In addition to providing an “escape” and emotional relief for fans in the community, area sports teams raised money for victims (the Orlando Magic donated $100,000, and their owners, the DeVos family, gave $400,000 to the victims, the Orlando City Soccer Club donated $100,000 and the Tampa Bay Rays raised $300,000 between ticket sales and donations for the game they dedicated to the city)
 - (ii) After a mass shooting in Las Vegas in 2018, many media outlets credited the city’s new NHL expansion franchise’s success for helping provide a diversion that helped the community get back on its feet by giving them something to rally around
 - 1. Click here to read more from the Las Vegas Review-Journal
 - 2. Click here for a brief video from Fox 5 Vegas
 - (iii) In 2019, Miami Heat star Dwyane Wade surprised graduates of Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School by appearing at the school’s graduation ceremony, sharing a message of hope and inspiration
 - 1. Wade and other Heat players visited the school in 2018 to try to lift the spirits of students and faculty after a mass shooting left 17 people dead
- (e) Fandom and the powerful emotional connection consumers have with their favorite teams, athletes, events and celebrities could very well have a positive influence on how the world recovers from the COVID-19 pandemic

- (i) Aside from the emotional attachment consumers have with sports and entertainment, athletes and celebrities have gone above and beyond to lend an assist during the pandemic
- (ii) As the pandemic brought the sports and entertainment industry to a standstill, athletes and celebrities jumped into action, doing their part to support not only the thousands of hourly workers at stadiums and arenas but the frontline workers fighting to slow the spread of COVID-19
 - 1. For example, NBA players Giannis Antetokounmpo, Kevin Love, Zion Williamson and Blake Griffin were quick to respond by making donations to cover the salaries of many of the workers
 - 2. By April, roughly 100 NBA players and the NBA Players Association Foundation had already donated a combined $5.5 million to nonprofits to assist in pandemic relief

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

To see how sports teams, brands, athletes and celebrities stepped up to help when the pandemic hit, consider downloading the "COVID-19 Industry Response" lesson plan, located in the "Lesson 1.2" folder online (it is also accessible in the "downloads" section of SCC's website).

- ii. Fandom can, unfortunately, also result in an unhealthy (and potentially dangerous) subculture of fans that become too emotionally invested and obsessive with their favorite sports teams or celebrities
 - (a) In 2017, 4 people were killed and 25 injured when thousands of soccer fans stampeded their way into National Stadium in Honduras to watch a championship match between Motagua and Honduras Progreso ⁴⁵
 - (b) After missing a critical call in a 2019 NFL playoff game, the officiating crew from the Saints vs. Rams NFC title game was forced to change hotels (escorted with heavy security) from downtown to the suburbs after a series of harassment while two Saints season-ticket holders sued NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell and the league for a range of damages, including mental anguish, emotional trauma, "loss of enjoyment of life" and "distrust of the game which has become the National pastime." ⁴⁶
 - (i) One die-hard Saints fan purchased billboards around the Atlanta area, where the Super Bowl was held, to voice his displeasure with the league with messages like "'NFL Bleaux It!' and 'Saints Were Robbed!'"
 - (c) Unruly fans sometimes tarnish sports championship celebrations when their revelry results in property damage, vandalism and/or violent activity

- (i) Four people were arrested after four people were shot in downtown Toronto during the Raptors' NBA title celebration in 2019
- (ii) According to nbc29.com, after the University of Virginia won the 2019 NCAA Men's Basketball Championship, Charlottesville fire and rescue crews responded to a total of 11 calls for service, including—seven furniture and/or bonfires, two medical calls for service, and two fire code enforcement actions for removing persons from the roof tops of two businesses
 - 1. For perspective, that was considered to be a low-key celebration, even prompting the Chief of the Charlottesville Police Department to tell nbc29.com: "I am proud of the City of Charlottesville in that they responsibly celebrated in this community. Fans did little to take away or detract from a national win or to bring any negative attention to the city."
- (d) After 13 years of being vilified and blamed for ending the Chicago Cubs' championship hopes for interfering with a play in 2003, a fan was given a $70,000 championship ring when the team won the 2016 World Series
 - (i) The vitriol directed at the fan warranted police protection and eventually he and his family had to move
 - 1. The incident was even featured in ESPN's popular "30 for 30" sports documentary series when "Catching Hell" aired in 2011
 - 2. Upon receiving the gift from the Cubs franchise, the fan's statement specifically addressed the concept of fandom: "My hope is that we all can learn from my experience to view sports as entertainment and prevent harsh scapegoating, and to challenge the media and opportunistic profiteers to conduct business ethically by respecting personal privacy rights and not exploit any individual to advance their own self-interest or economic gain."

 VIDEO SUGGESTION ***

ESPN featured the incident with the Cubs' fan in its popular "30 for 30" documentary series when it aired "Catching Hell" in 2011. The film is (for now) available to stream on Netflix and is also available for purchase on Amazon and in the iTunes store.

- iii. Because of the high levels of loyalty created by fandom, companies often create marketing strategies that try to connect their brands directly with fans (consumers)

- (a) Continental Tire, recognizing the incredible passion of soccer fans, tapped into fandom by becoming the official sponsor of Major League Soccer
 - (i) In 2017, the company launched a marketing campaign paying tribute to fans with a 10-part video series called “supporters”
 - 1. Click here to see one of the “supporters” commercials

- (d) College football rivalry games tend to create an extremely passionate bond between fan (consumer) and their favorite teams so, not surprisingly, some brands have found ways to sponsor these rivalry “trophy” games
 - (i) Every year, hundreds of these rivalry games are played, and according to Sports Business Journal, 32 of them are sponsored. Corporate involvement ranges from local State Farm insurance agents to global brands like AT&T and Proctor & Gamble.

Lesson 1.3

Media Impact on Industry Growth

A. What is media?

1. Media refers to a means of communicating a message to large numbers of people ⁴⁷
2. In the earliest days of sports, fans would have to wait to read the paper to “see” the game
 - a. It was not until the 1936 Olympics (broadcast by ABC radio) that Americans were truly exposed to the amazing talents of Jesse Owens, one of America’s greatest athletes of all time
 - b. Now, fans can follow athlete performances live through television, radio, Internet as well getting information through national papers, local papers, magazines, and industry specific journals
3. Media rights
 - a. Media rights (or broadcast rights) are fees paid by broadcast companies to sports or entertainment properties for the opportunity to provide live coverage of the property’s games and events on television, the radio or the Internet
 - i. Many media rights deals provide exclusive coverage rights
 - (a) Because of the NFL’s deal with DirecTV, no other television network can broadcast out of market games in their respective geographic markets. In other words, if you are a Green Bay Packers fan living in Virginia, you would need to order DirecTV for the opportunity to watch Packers games at your home each week.
 - (i) In 2014, DirecTV renewed their deal with the NFL through 2022 at a reported average of $1.5 billion per year
 - (ii) However, the league has the option to opt-out of that deal next season, leading many to speculate the possibility of a non-exclusive NFL Sunday Ticket package opportunity for fans
 1. Among those considered to be interested include non-traditional sports media companies like Apple and DAZN
 - (b) Fifteen years after Comcast Sports Northwest (a cable television provider who also owns a regional sports network) partnered with the Portland Trail Blazers for exclusive TV distribution rights, nearly 50% of fans in the Portland area still cannot watch Blazers games if they are DirecTV or Dish subscribers
 - (i) With the Comcast deal expiring at the end of the 2015-16 season, many fans hoped the franchise would find a broadcast partner that would expand its distribution
 1. After months of negotiations with other prospective partners and exploring other distribution options (like live-streaming via Twitter), the Blazers determined that Comcast Sports still offered the best option for reaching the most fans and extended their deal through the 2020-21 NBA season, a decision that disappointed many fans

- ii. Media rights contracts are not reserved for national broadcasting companies as sports franchises work to maximize revenues by selling regional broadcasting rights to regional partners in addition to generating revenue through national broadcast deals
 - (a) Time Warner Cable paid a reported $3 billion for exclusive rights to broadcast Los Angeles Lakers games in the L.A. market through the 2032-33 season. ⁴⁸
 - (b) Even in smaller markets, regional rights deals can be extremely lucrative. In 2018, the Milwaukee Bucks agreed to a new seven-year local TV deal with Fox Sports Wisconsin that was worth a reported $200 million.
 - (c) In 2019, Walt Disney Co announced plans to sell 21 Regional Sports Networks to Sinclair Broadcast Group Inc. for a reported $9.6 billion, including channels like Fox Sports Detroit and Fox Sports Florida
- iii. Rights fees have grown at a rapid rate
 - (a) Media rights fees for the Rose Bowl (per year) were $2 million in 1974, $30 million in 2012, and reached $80 million annually when ESPN inked an 11-year deal in 2015 ⁴⁹
 - (b) According to Plunkett Research, today the NFL generates over $6 billion annually from their contracts with major television stations and providers
 - (i) To put that in perspective, the NFL earned $2.4 million in broadcast rights in 1960 (adjusted for inflation, that's $19.4 million today)
 - (ii) Click here to see an interactive graphic illustrating the meteoric rise of NFL broadcast deals
 - (iii) Click here for a graphic breaking down the NFL's deals with each network from SCC's Pinterest page
 - (c) Major League Baseball's new media rights deal with Turner Sports, signed in 2020, is worth over $3 billion
 - (i) The deal will pay the league $470 million per year, up from the $325 million per season in revenue generated by the previous deal according to CNBC
- b. Why are media rights important to sports and entertainment properties?
 - i. In a word, revenue
 - (a) NASCAR generates a reported $820 million annually in media rights for television broadcasts from Fox, a 46% increase from the previous deal. ⁵⁰
 - (b) According to the Chicago Tribune, a dispute over the value of the Chicago Cubs' broadcast contracts complicated efforts to sell the iconic franchise. Because media rights are such an important piece to any major league sports organization's bottom line, negotiations to sell the franchise momentarily fell apart until the issue could be resolved. ⁵¹
 - (c) According to Nielsen (a company who measures ratings): "Ratings are used like currency in the marketplace of advertiser-supported TV. When advertisers want a commercial to reach an audience, they need to place it in TV programs which deliver an audience. The more audience a program delivers, the more the commercial time is worth to advertisers." ⁵²
- c. Why are media rights important to broadcast companies?

- i. Companies want to invest in advertising that will reach as many consumers as possible and sports and entertainment events provide an effective platform for advertisers to do that
 - (a) In 2015, the Super Bowl set a record for American television viewing when the Nielsen Co. estimated 114.4 million people watched the New England Patriots' 28-24 thrilling victory over the Seattle Seahawks ⁵³
 - (i) Super Bowl LIV, played in 2020 between the San Francisco 49ers and Kansas City Chiefs, was watched by 102 million people, the second smallest Super Bowl audience in 11 years, according to data from Nielsen
 - 1. For perspective, that still ranks as the 12th largest television audience in American history
 - (b) More than 3.5 billion fans tuned in to watch the 2018 World Cup in Russia – that's half the total world population ⁵⁴
 - (c) According to FIFA, the 2019 Women's World Cup attracted more than one billion viewers globally throughout the tournament for the first time in history
 - (d) According to the research firm Kantar Media, advertisers have spent $4.55B during CBS' coverage of the men's NCAA basketball tournament over the past decade to reach the millions of fans tuning in ⁵⁵
 - (e) NBC invested in the rights to the 2018 Super Bowl and 2018 Winter Olympic Games. According to AdWeek, the broadcast company was rewarded by generating a whopping $1.4 billion in advertising sales in just a 22-day period in February.
 - (i) Click here for a short video clip from AdWeek's website, entitled "How to Make $1.4 Billion in 22 Days"
- d. Media rights examples
 - i. Network/Cable TV
 - (a) The NBA recently extended its deals with TNT, ESPN and ABC through the 2024-25 season, generating over $2.66 billion per year in revenue for television broadcast rights (more than double what the league earned through its previous rights deal) ⁵⁶
 - (i) As a result, teams now have more money than ever to spend on payroll and player salaries will increase exponentially
 - (ii) Click here for an in-depth look at how the NBA's lucrative TV deals impact the league's salary cap (thereby increasing player salaries) from the New York Times
 - (b) NBC won a bidding war to retain its rights to broadcast the Olympic Games through 2020 for $4.38 billion ⁵⁷
 - (i) Why would NBC spend billions on the media rights to the Olympic Games?
 - 1. Said Dan Lovinger, Executive VP of Ad Sales at NBC Sports Group in an interview with Hollywood Reporter, "We're still going to deliver over 200 million viewers in 17 nights. We'll average over 15 million viewers in any given night. You can't find that kind of scale anywhere else. I think advertisers recognize that even if there's a slight decline in overall reach, [the Olympics] is still dominant."

2. According to Hollywood Reporter, the company had already surpassed $1.2 billion in ad sales for the 2020 Summer Olympics in Tokyo before the Games were postponed because of the pandemic
- (c) ESPN signed a deal reportedly worth nearly $500 million for the exclusive broadcast rights of Wimbledon through 2023 ⁵⁸
- ii. Satellite TV
 - (a) DirecTV's exclusive agreement for broadcast rights for out of market NFL games was extended in 2014 for eight years at a reported $1.5 billion per year (a 50% increase on an annual basis over the previous deal) but is set to expire at the end of this season
- iii. Satellite Radio
 - (a) Reuters suggested in an online news story that Sirius satellite radio has invested "billions" on rights to the NFL, NBA, NASCAR ⁵⁰
- iv. Network Radio
 - (a) The NFL's deal with Westwood One as its exclusive network radio partner is reportedly worth over $30 million ⁵⁹
- v. Multimedia rights
 - (a) Within the 17 months of acquiring Host Communications and folding it into its college division, IMG invested more than $700 million in multimedia rights fees ⁶⁰
- e. Ratings
 - (a) Radio, cable, broadcast television companies and streaming providers measure their effectiveness and reach through ratings, which are expressed as a percentage of the potential TV audience viewing at any given time
 - (b) Basically, a rating refers to the number of households or people tuned into a particular radio or television program at a specific time
 - (c) Example ⁶¹
 - (i) ESPN's telecast of the Alabama's thrilling 26-23 win over Georgia in the 2018 College Football Championship drew the best ratings for the network's college football coverage in eight years, attracting 28.4 million viewers
 - (ii) According to ESPN, its MegaCast of the 2020 College Football Playoff National Championship average 25.5 million viewers
 - (iii) Nielsen can identify peak hours in which the most people are tuned in to watch or listen
 1. For example, viewership peaked at 29.2 million viewers during the 2020 College Football National Championship when LSU took its first lead of the game
 2. Nielsen can also identify specific markets in which ratings are the highest; New Orleans led all markets for the telecast with a 48.9 rating, followed by Birmingham (42.7), Greenville, S.C. (33.9), Knoxville, TN (26.5) and Columbus, OH (26.4)
 - (d) International example
 - (i) Spain's top domestic soccer league, La Liga, saw a massive increase of viewership upon resuming play in June of 2020 after COVID-19 forced a postponement

1. Based on a data from a SportsPro Media story, Nielson Sports reported a growth of 210% in South Africa
 2. Viewership also saw a 73% increase in Africa and a 72% jump in Asia and India where games are broadcast on Facebook
 3. Europe experienced an increase of 56% with a 130% jump in Belgium, 46% in Denmark and 12% in Spain
- (e) Without ratings, broadcast companies would have a difficult time selling advertising and sports/entertainment programs would not be able to command million-dollar rights fees
- (i) Ratings will fluctuate from year to year, but a ratings increase or decrease will have an impact on the sports property and broadcast company
1. When NBC renewed its hockey deal (at a cost nearly triple the previous rights deal), the decision was heavily influenced by the fact that overall NHL television ratings in the United States had increased by 84 percent over the last four years ⁶²
 - a. After another year of record ratings, ESPN extended the deal Major League Eating (parent company of the Fourth of July International Hot Dog Eating Contest) in 2014 for ten years, guaranteeing the rights to broadcast the annual event on its various platforms through 2024 ⁶³

This would be a good time to discuss how media rights deals between broadcast companies and sports properties impact consumers. The huge sums being paid for broadcast rights are ultimately passed down to the consumer. Cable providers like Dish and Comcast pay a monthly “carriage” fee for each channel provided in their bundled packages. Sports programming through networks like ESPN and TNT are the channels that cost the most.

As these networks continue to spend billions on rights fees, the monthly bill that the provider charges its customers will continue to rise. Right now, live sports is more valuable than ever because it is the one segment of programming keeping many loyal sports fans from “cutting the cord” (dropping cable subscriptions in favor of less expensive options, like Netflix or other streaming options).

Ask students what they think the future holds. How will cable companies evolve and adapt? Can networks afford to continue paying billions for broadcast rights to sporting events? How will any changes in the future impact consumers?

- B. The progression of media and its impact on the business of sports has been significantly influenced by several specific events ⁶⁴
1. 1921 – First baseball game on radio (Philadelphia Phillies at Pittsburgh Pirates)
 2. 1935 – First full season broadcast (Chicago Cubs)
 3. 1946 – First major sports event on television (Joe Louis boxing match)
 4. 1954 – First sports exclusive magazine hits the stands, Sports Illustrated is introduced
 5. 1970 – Monday Night Football kicks off
 6. 1973 – Tennis match between Billie Jean King and Bobby Riggs (billed as the “Battle of the Sexes”) watched by 48 million in the US and 90 million worldwide
 7. 1995 – DirecTV and the NFL join forces to offer the NFL Sunday Ticket, a subscriber-based cable program enabling customers to watch any games of their choice ⁶⁵
 8. 1999 – Major League Baseball broadcasts World Series on the Internet ⁶⁶
 9. 2009 – CBS’ free online broadcast of the 2009 Men’s NCAA Tournament reaches an audience of 7.5 million ⁶⁷
 10. 2012 – NBC provides unprecedented LIVE coverage of EVERY Olympic event by streaming content online in addition to its traditional television coverage
 11. 2015 – The boxing match between Floyd Mayweather and Manny Pacquiao generated 4.6 million pay-per-view purchases in the U.S. alone (good for over $400 million in revenue, tripling the previous revenue record for a pay-per-view event)
 - a. The highly anticipated fight between Mayweather and UFC star Conor McGregor was expected to break the record set by Mayweather vs. Pacquiao, but in the end came up short, generating 4.3 million PPV buys ⁶⁸
- C. In the early days of team sports, concessions and tickets provided the only real source of revenue for team owners. Today, because of the numerous multi-media opportunities available, organizations have more options available to them to drive revenue. Examples of revenue generated through the sale of media rights could include:
1. National television contracts
 2. Local television contracts
 3. Cable television contracts
 4. Sale of radio rights
 5. Streaming Internet audio
 6. Online revenue
 7. Team specific publications
- D. Sports and entertainment business coverage has become widespread and easily accessible
1. National publications devote consistent coverage to the business of sports
 - a. CNN / MONEY and CNBC feature sports business columns on their Websites
 - b. The Wall Street Journal employs a regular sports business columnist
 - c. Forbes magazine frequently offers readers exclusive sports business-related reports and news
 2. Thousands of podcasts coverage all aspects of the sports and entertainment industry
 - a. For example, the Portland, Oregon based Sports Business Radio podcast show produces content focused on the business of sports
 - b. Local newspapers all around the country offer readers sports and entertainment business related coverage on a regular basis on their websites

- i. The New York Times and Wall Street Journal regularly cover the industry while mainstream business and financial publications like Forbes, Money and Fortune magazine often cover the business of sports and entertainment

Overview

Unit two describes the basic concept of sports and entertainment marketing and highlights the idea that sport is a form of entertainment. Lesson 2.1

Sports and Entertainment Marketing Defined

- A. Marketing
 - 1. Marketing is the process of developing, promoting, and distributing products, or goods and services, to satisfy customers' needs and wants ¹
 - 2. The term "marketing" has grown to encompass many business activities such as selling, promotion and publicity
- B. Sports
 - 1. Webster's dictionary defines sports as "a source of diversion or physical activity engaged in for pleasure"
 - a. Sports can be a participation or spectator activity, and it is a form of entertainment either way
 - 2. When we examine sport defined in terms relating to the sports and entertainment industry, we see a slight variation in definitions. Consider the following definition: "Sport, as used in contemporary sport management and in relation to the sport business industry, denoted all people, activities, businesses, and organizations involved in producing, facilitating, promoting, or organizing any sport business, activity, or experience focused on or related to fitness, recreation, sports, sports tourism, or leisure"²
 - a. This definition incorporates a business-oriented, broader description of the term, helping us to understand the unique nature of sports and entertainment as an industry
- C. Sports Industry
 - 1. The sports industry is the market in which the businesses and products offered to its buyers are sport related and may be goods, services, people, places or ideas ³
- D. Entertainment
 - 1. Webster's offers the following definition: "To entertain is to amuse or to offer hospitality"
 - 2. Entertainment is whatever people are willing to spend their money and spare time viewing rather than participating ⁴
- E. Leisure time
 - 1. Leisure time is the time available to people when they are not working or assuming responsibilities, often times referred to as "free time"
 - 2. It is the goal of the sports and entertainment marketer to provide a product or service that can satisfy the needs and wants of those individuals who choose to be entertained during their leisure time

The Fusion of Marketing with Sports & Entertainment

- A. After examining the definitions of sports and of marketing, how do we integrate the two to paint an accurate portrayal of the sports and entertainment marketing function?
 1. In the book Sports Marketing: A Strategic Perspective, Matthew Shank defines sports marketing as “the specific application of marketing principles and processes to sport products and to the marketing of non-sports products through association with sport.” ⁵
 2. We define sports marketing as the act of using sports as a platform to market products or services and increase sales or the process the of marketing and selling the sports property itself
- B. There are two types of sports and entertainment marketing, 1) Marketing through sports and entertainment and 2) Marketing of sports and entertainment
 1. Marketing through sports and entertainment
 - a. Companies use sports and entertainment as a vehicle to gain exposure for their products
 - i. Coca-Cola, Samsung, Panasonic, Visa, General Electric and others spending millions to sponsor the 2020 Summer Olympic Games in Tokyo as a tool to brand their product globally on the international stage
 - ii. Gatorade affiliating its product with athletes like Usain Bolt, Serena Williams, JJ Watt, Cam Newton, Paul George, Abby Wambach and Bryce Harper
 - (a) In 2020, Gatorade unveiled its “Goat Camp” campaign featuring Leo Messi, Serena Williams, Usain Bolt and Michael Jordan.
 - (b) The Goat Camp campaign concept: A mythical performance destination where promising athletes can learn from the best of the best. The specially selected GOAT athletes are identified, and they are given a golden ticket that gives them access to the camp.
 - (i) Click here for a great behind-the-scenes look at the campaign’s creation from thedrum.com
 - (ii) Click here to see the commercial from Gatorade’s YouTube channel
 - iii. A CEO entertaining potential customers at a PGA Event in the hospitality area as a sales tool
 - iv. Acura aligning its brand with some of the biggest entertainment events by sponsoring the Sundance Film Festival and New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival
 - b. Product placement (also called product integration) to promote a specific product
 - i. Brands like Coca-Cola, Audi and Ben & Jerry’s being prominently featured in the blockbuster film, ‘Avengers: Endgame’
 - ii. Judges on the hit TV show American Idol drinking Coke products during episodes
 - (a) Coke eventually ended their sponsorship after 13 years but AdAge examined how the relationship “transformed TV advertising” (click here to read the story)
 2. Marketing of sports and entertainment
 - a. The marketing of the sports and entertainment products themselves
 - i. The Potomac Nationals minor league baseball club offering a “holiday” ticket package to fans
 - ii. Organizers of the 2019 FIFA Women’s World Cup branding the event with the slogan “Dare to Shine” in hopes of communicating a message that inspires youth and future generations of athletes

- iii. Marvel Studios spending an estimated $200 million in marketing on the box office smash 'Avengers: Endgame' ⁶
 - (a) Compare that to 1980 when the average cost of marketing a studio movie in the U.S. was $4.3 million
 - iv. A country club offering a special rate to increase its membership
 - v. New Balance advertising the launch of a new sneaker or shoe line
 - vi. Field Turf selling and installing a synthetic grass football field at a high school
- C. Sports marketing vs. Sports management
- 1. The field of study known as sports marketing is often confused with sports management, but how do we differentiate between the two?
 - a. Sport management is the study and practice of all people, activities, businesses or organizations involved in producing, facilitating, promoting or organizing any sport-related business or product ⁷
 - b. Although the terms are often used interchangeably, sports management is best described as the application of management concepts and principles to the sports industry while sports and entertainment marketing refers to the marketing concepts and principles to both the sports and entertainment industries
 - c. Theoretically, sports marketing is considered a function of the broader field of study, sports management
 - 2. Sport management areas of study might include:
 - a. Sport law
 - b. Facility management
 - c. Human Resources
 - d. Sport governance
 - e. Leadership
 - 3. Sports marketing activities could include:
 - a. Allstate sponsoring the Sugar Bowl
 - b. An MLS team offering payment plan options for season ticket buyers
 - c. The Big East athletic conference agreeing to a 7-year television contract with ESPN worth an estimated $130 million ⁸
 - d. A corporation's purchase of a courtside tickets to entertain clients at NBA games
 - e. A sign or banner displaying a company's logo on the dashboards at a hockey rink
 - f. Coca-Cola paying for "pour rights" at an event or facility
 - g. A blimp flying over sporting events
 - i. Click here to see video of Met Life blimp behind scenes flying over Phoenix Open
 - h. Fans receiving free bobble head dolls at a baseball game
 - i. Foot Locker stores offering special sales or coupons to help increase sales
 - j. A local restaurant sponsoring the local high school soccer team

Refer to the “Stadium Project” from your flash drive to help students gain an understanding of the sports marketing and sport management functions. The project encourages them to evaluate a number of factors ranging from stadium security and concessions to marketing, PR and ticket sales. This project can be found in the “ACTIVITIES & PROJECTS” folder on your thumb drive.

D. Entertainment marketing

1. Entertainment marketing is the process of developing, promoting, and distributing products, or goods and services, to satisfy customer’s needs and wants through entertainment, or any diversion, amusement, or method of occupying time ⁹
 - a. Entertainment marketing can be focused on both content and delivery
 - i. For example, a studio makes money by producing films (content) and the theater (delivery) makes money showing the “product” (along with concessions)
 - ii. Much like paying rights fees to sports leagues, broadcast companies also pay for the rights to broadcast major television events
 - (a) Last year, NBC signed an 8-year deal for the rights to continue broadcasting the Golden Globes, (paying an estimated mid-$20 million per year according to Deadline) insuring the network will remain the official network for the popular awards show through at least 2026
 - (b) ESPN spends billions for the broadcast rights to live sports programming
 - (i) One estimate suggests ESPN could lose over $800 million in ad revenue without college football games to broadcast in 2020
2. Entertainment presents itself in many forms
 - a. Examples of entertainment
 - i. Seeing the Houston Symphony perform at Jones Hall in downtown Houston
 - ii. Attending an LSU Tigers football game
 - iii. Reading one of Suzanne Collins’ novels in The Hunger Games trilogy
 - iv. Visiting the Seattle aquarium
 - v. Going to a Zac Brown Band or Adele concert
 - vi. Listening to the newest Justin Timberlake song on your mp3 player
 - vii. Watching the Broadway musical “Lion King”
 - viii. Seeing a Cirque du Soleil show in Las Vegas
 - ix. Sea World opening its ‘Infiniti Falls’ (featuring the world’s biggest drop on a river raft ride) to help revive its brand, or Disney investing billions in theme park additions like Avatar or ‘Star Wars: Galaxy’s Edge’
 - (a) Click here to see how the introduction of new rides helped to boost SeaWorld attendance last year
 - (b) Click here to see LA Times’ ranking of the top theme park additions for 2019
 - (c) Click here to see why Disney invested $500 million on an ‘Avatar’ branded theme park
 - (d) Click here for a behind-the-scenes look at the creation of Disney’s ‘Star Wars: Galaxy’s Edge’

- (i) Click here to see how the marketing hype helped the new attraction to sell out its reservations within two hours of going on sale
- (e) Click here for actual ride footage of Millennium Falcons: Smugglers Run inside Star Wars: Galaxy's Edge at Disneyland

The "ACTIVITIES & PROJECTS" folder contains a "Theme Park Project" that requires students to create a business plan for a new theme park. The project is very comprehensive and might be a better fit if introduced later during the course, but you could always simplify if you wanted to share it in class at this point.

Lesson 2.3

Sports ARE Entertainment

- A. Comparing and contrasting sports and entertainment
1. There are many similarities between sports and other forms of entertainment as each activity is one that entertains or occupies our time
 - a. Watching a Broadway show
 - b. Listening to music on an mp3 player
 - c. Watching a movie
 - d. Watching a football game
 - e. Playing a game of soccer
 2. According to Peter Guber (Chairman and founder of Mandalay Entertainment, Co-owner of the NBA's Golden State Warriors and former studio chief at Columbia Pictures and chairman and CEO of Sony Pictures whose films have reportedly earned more than $3 billion in worldwide revenue and have been nominated for numerous Academy Awards):
10
 - a. "I believe sports is entertainment. I know there's athletic excellence. But when I watch a game-let's say I'm watching Charles (Barkley's) show on (TNT)-it's not just for the athletic excellence. Every piece of information is available in that telecast: scores, highlights, standings, analysis-0-right? I watch it because it's entertaining. It's about being entertained. It's about being consumed. You're a consumer, and you're consumed by the entertainment, you're engaged by the entertainment." ¹¹
 - b. ESPN broadcasts a number of events such as the national spelling bee and a hot dog eating contest. Because ESPN is the broadcaster, would you define those events as sports or entertainment?
 - i. Click here to see ESPN's intro/promo for the Nathan's Famous Hot Dog eating contest staged annually on July 4th, comparing eating champion Joey Chestnut to some of the most iconic, legendary athletes of all-time

* ACTIVITY IDEA *

As a class, come up with a name for a new sports and entertainment network to compete with ESPN, Fox Sports, Comcast Sports etc. Then, have students come up with ideas for programming to fill a week's worth of scheduling. Refer back to lesson 1.3 and media rights and give them a fictitious budget along with fictitious rights fees. Give them an option to create a cable network or an online platform (like Amazon or Netflix). Have them explain why they chose the programming they did and what type of advertisers they might attract.

 VIDEO SUGGESTION ***

ESPN explored the rivalry between two legendary competitive eaters in their popular '30 for 30' documentary series. Click here to view the trailer for 'The Good, The Bad, The Hungry' starring Japanese star Kobayashi and his American rival, Joey Chestnut on espn.com. The entire film may also available for purchase on Amazon.com or the iTunes store or on Netflix. As a reminder, please review the film before sharing in class to make sure it is appropriate for your students.

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

This might be a good stopping point for those lecturing in class to briefly gauge student interest in some of the "alternative" sports and events that some networks are beginning to broadcast more events like eating competitions, spelling bees and drone racing. The next big thing? E-Sports. Ask them if they think those events should be considered "sports" and/or should be broadcast on channels like ESPN. Follow that up with a question asking why they think ESPN would carry coverage of these events (ultimately it comes down to ratings as referenced in lesson 1.3 on media impact).

To expand the discussion, use the Internet in class to see if you can create a list of 10 different examples of events similar to the spelling bee that air on channels like ESPN, Comcast Sports Network or Fox Sports 1. For a fun twist, have students come up with their own list of alternative events that they would pitch to a network like ESPN, Comcast Sports Network or Fox Sports 1 and present a mock sales pitch in class convincing executives at the network to carry their programming.

3. There are several key differences between sports and entertainment
 - a. Unscripted
 - i. Consumers of sports do not know the outcome of the event in which they are participating
 - b. Emotional attachment
 - i. Traditionally, consumers of sports products have an emotional investment or interest in the outcome of the event (winning vs. losing, close games vs. "blow outs")
 - c. Differences in customer loyalty

- i. Customer loyalty is a customer decision to become a repeat consumer of a particular product or brand
- ii. Entertainment consumers lack the desire to be team or brand loyal, but rather want only to satisfy their own entertainment needs
- iii. If a company's movie, book, sitcom, amusement ride, video game, magazine, CD, DVD or video does not deliver the expected level of entertainment, it is likely that the consumer will turn to a competitor's product
- d. Despite the differences, sometimes it can be difficult to differentiate between sports
- 4. Integration of sports with entertainment and entertainment with sports
 - a. Cross promotion is the convergence of two entertainment properties working together to market products or services
 - i. Shakira and J. Lo performing at half time of the 2020 Super Bowl

How much do performers like Shakira and J. Lo get paid for appearing during the Super Bowl Half-Time Show? Great question.

The answer? NOTHING. The NFL does not pay the performers anything for appearing, suggesting that the millions of viewers tuning in to watch will give performers' brands (and music sales) a generous boost, more than adequately compensating them for their time.

Click here for an in-depth explanation as to why the NFL does not pay halftime performers.

- ii. Major League Baseball partnering with HBO to cross promote with the hit series, 'Game of Thrones'
- iii. FOX Sports partnering with The Simpsons for the Daytona 500 to help amplify marketing efforts with the hashtag #DaytonaDay
 - (a) Click here to see one of the commercials
- iv. ESPN's ESPY awards
- v. Minor League Baseball's Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp partnering The ECHL (minor league hockey) Jacksonville Icemen playing as the "Frozen Shrimp" for a game as a cross-promotion with another area team, Minor League Baseball's Jacksonville Jumbo Shrimp for a "Shrimp Night" promotion
- vi. To help promote "Stadium Series" game at Coors Field, the NHL Network cross-promoted the event with MLB Network when on-air personalities from the NHL Network appeared on MLB Network programming and vice versa
 - (a) MLB Network also built the "Rink at Studio 42" which appeared on-set during some MLB Network programming¹²
- vii. In 2019, the NFL partnered with Epic Games in a cross promotion that provided gamers playing 'Fortnite' with an opportunity to purchase and customize NFL team "outfits" representing their favorite NFL teams
 - (a) Click here for more details via NFL press release

- (b) Click here for a brief promotional video clip posted on Fortnite's YouTube channel
- b. Cross promotion can be an effective sales and branding tool for all parties involved
 - i. In promotion of the arrival of 'Cars 3' in theaters, Disney/Pixar teamed up with NASCAR
 - (a) The cross promotion included widespread activations to generate excitement for the 2017 race season and other NASCAR programs
 - (i) 'Cars 3' had a presence at various NASCAR races and events with physical displays and co-branded merchandise
 - (ii) NASCAR used the 'Cars 3' partnership to help promote NASCAR Acceleration Nation, its youth program, as well as the NASCAR Hall of Fame
 - (iii) 'Cars 3' incorporated the voices and characters of several young and upcoming NASCAR drivers
 - ii. In 2019, the NWHL's Boston Pride partnered with the NHL's Boston Bruins to help provide marketing, branding and financial resources to the upstart women's team in hopes of boosting the popularity of women's hockey in the Boston area
 - (a) Said NWHL commissioner Dani Rylan in an interview published on Forbes.com: "It's a multi-year deal and their support will help us offset various costs. A lot of the focus will be on marketing and promotional support and a commitment to grow the game in the Massachusetts area, from the grassroots all the way to the pros."

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Last season, Minor League Baseball teamed up with the Cartoon Network for a "Best Summer Ever" marketing campaign. A number of MiLB teams featured animated shows at the ballpark, along with other promotions to tie-in with the theme. The cross-promotion also included an anti-bullying campaign.

Click here for additional details via a joint press release. After reading the press release, ask students how each property (MiLB and Cartoon Network) would benefit from the partnership. What other cross-promotional opportunities might make sense for the properties? After the discussion, student should have a better understanding of the cross-promotion concept, particularly why a sports or entertainment property would engage in this type of marketing activity.

- iii. The NBA Finals partnered with Sony and the box office release of 'Spiderman: Homecoming' for a cross-promotional short film that starred key personalities representing both the movie and the league (Robert Downey Jr., Stan Lee, Magic Johnson, DJ Khaled and Jon Favreau)

- (a) According to forbes.com, the cross promotion successfully drove “a substantial amount of online engagement to both the NBA and the film”
- iv. Variety.com reports that a significant factor in ESPN’s successful launch of its Chicago-based website on all things Windy City was cross promotion, suggesting the cable company used “plenty of cross-promotion as a way to attract listeners to the site” ¹³
 - (a) It took just six months for ESPNChicago to become the city’s top sports site, attracting about 590,000 unique visitors in the month of June alone while the city’s historic newspaper company’s (Chicago Tribune) online sports section drew just 455,000 unique visitors ¹⁴
- v. Some cross promotions occur between unlikely partners, like the 2018 partnership between the NFL and Cirque du Soleil who teamed up to create the “NFL Experience Times Square”
 - (a) Click here to learn more about how and why the two properties collaborated on the project
 - (b) In 2019, Cirque du Soleil partnered with another sports property, this time with international soccer star Lionel Messi for ‘Messi10 by Cirque du Soleil’
 - (i) Click here to read the official release from the Cirque du Soleil website
- vi. Peloton and ESPN partnered to offer a Celebrity Spin Class featuring such stars as Rory McIlroy, Booger McFarland, Gordon Hayward, Kyle Rudolph, Kyla Ross, Dawn Staley, Colleen Quigley and Michele Smith
 - (a) The company held its largest ever spin class with more than 23,000 people streaming from home
- vii. Travis Scott teamed up with Fortnite for the premiere of a new song in 2020, “Astronomical”
 - (a) Over 12.3 million players participated in the event setting a new record
 - (b) Click here to watch as Travis Scott comes to life in the game of Fortnite
- c. However, not all cross promotions are successful
 - i. 20th Century Fox engaged in several cross promotional efforts, including a tie-in with TNT and the NBA playoffs and an advertising campaign with Farmers insurance, to promote the release of the film “X-Men: First Class”, yet the film was largely underwhelming at the box office, yielding around $36 million less in its opening weekend than 3 of the other 4 installments of the film’s franchise (the third film, “X-Men”, did just as poorly)
 - ii. A badly botched a Spider-Man 2 promotion in which MLB had planned to feature the Spider-Man logo on each base during the All-Star Game provides a cautionary tale to marketers considering cross promotional strategies. The league received such opposition from fans and baseball purists that the promo was eventually pulled. ¹⁵

Primary Marketing Functions

A. Pricing

1. Assigning a value to products and services on the basis of supply and demand
 - a. Tickets to the Super Bowl are very expensive because demand is high while tickets to see two marginal teams compete during the pre-season will be less expensive, particularly if the game is not sold out, because demand is lower
 - i. Supply and demand not only impacts ticket prices but concessions, parking and merchandise as well
 - (a) At Super Bowl 54 at Hard Rock Stadium in Miami in 2020, entrees from concessions area ranged from $22 hibachi steak bowls to $34 sausages and stone crab claw cocktails at a whopping $85, burgers cost $16, popcorn $15, footlong hot dogs, chicken sandwiches and pizza cost $14 and pretzels $9 while parking lots with a 20 minute walk away from the stadium put some fans out anywhere between $50-$100 and parking passes near the stadium were selling in the thousands (via ab7news.com)
 - ii. Due to lagging fan attendance, the University of Minnesota decreased ticket prices for men's hockey and basketball games last season
 - (a) The athletic department announced that season tickets for men's basketball would start at $340, the lowest price since the 1995-96 season ¹⁶
 - b. When demand fluctuates as frequently as it does in the ticketing world, companies must implement strategies to help identify the best price points to match demand
 - i. This is why many organizations are moving toward alternate ticket pricing strategies like "dynamic pricing", where games in higher demand cost more than the same ticket for a game with lower demand (more on dynamic pricing in unit 9)
 - c. The secondary and broker markets have a large impact on ticket pricing and availability
 - i. The anticipation of seeing Zion Williamson (the NBA's top overall draft pick) play his first professional game caused prices for his summer-league debut to skyrocket by over 220% on the secondary market
 - d. Supply and demand play a significant role in driving fans' buying behavior, especially for popular events, shows and games
 - i. Take for example Wimbledon where tickets to the 2016 Final sold out just 27 minutes after going on sale online
 - (a) Event officials anticipated a high demand for tickets and raised prices accordingly, yet The Guardian reported that over 111,000 fans were waiting in an online queue when only 22,000 total tickets were available
 - (b) As a result, tickets being resold on the secondary market commanded outrageous prices, starting at over $3,000 with the most expensive selling for nearly $25,000 ¹⁷
 - e. In 2020, Topps launched Project 2020 which involved 20 artists all putting their own unique design and spin on 20 baseball cards, a yearlong event that would ultimately produce a set of 400. The company made nearly 315,000 sales for the first 75 cards (not including 20 hand-numbered artist proofs that retailed for $200 and sold quickly).
 - (a) ESPN reported, on release of artist Ben Baller's Mike Trout card, Topps website crashed an estimated five times and roughly 10,000 cards were sold in the first 60 minutes
 - (b) Click here for details on the project and a complete list of cards with artists.

B. Distribution

1. Determining how best to get products and services to consumers
 - a. EA Sports sells their video game products at Target and in Best Buy stores, because they know their target consumers shop at those stores for video games and entertainment
 - b. On Demand and streaming services have become prevalent options for consumers in today's marketplace
 - i. In the last few years, many major entertainment properties (including Disney Channel, ESPN, HBO and Showtime) are making a targeted approach to reach "cord cutting" consumers by offering specific packages that do not require access to cable or satellite television
 - (a) In 2015, Twitter became the first social media platform to distribute live sports programming when they live-streamed Wimbledon
 - (i) They then signed a one-year $10 million deal with the NFL to stream ten Thursday night games for the 2016 season while also coming to terms with the NBA for an exclusive live programming agreement
 - (b) Twitter partnered with the NBA to offer a unique viewing twist for basketball fans (they already provide live stream video coverage of pre-game warm-ups, in-game and post-game highlights and post-game behind-the-scenes content), introducing an alternate camera angle view during the second half of live games, focused only on a single player
 - (i) Click here for more from techcrunch.com
 - ii. Topps Now, a subsidiary of Topps, the iconic trading card company, specializes in "utilizing on-demand printing technology" to produce daily trading card products "that capture the greatest moments from sports and pop culture" (via the Topps website)
 - (a) In 2020, the company released a Dr. Anthony Fauci baseball card on-demand, commemorating his first pitch on Opening Day
 - (b) The card was only on sale for 24 hours, but it shattered the company's sales record when it sold 51,512 copies, demolishing the previous record set when it released a card featuring Toronto Blue Jays' rising star third baseman Vladimir Guerrero Jr.'s first MLB hit
 - c. When COVID-19 disrupted the film industry and theaters were closed, studios were forced to re-think distribution strategies
 - i. Trolls World Tour was released as video on demand, skipping theaters entirely, and still racked up $100 million in digital sales in just three weeks, according to the Wall Street Journal, reportedly bringing in more revenue for Universal than the original Trolls' entire domestic theatrical haul
 - ii. Christopher Nolan's sci-fi thriller 'Tenet', one of the most highly anticipated films of 2020, completely shifted its distribution strategy after COVID-19 kept thousands of movie theaters across the United States closed
 - (a) The studio (Warner Bros) originally planned a July 17th release date, then delayed until July 31st, finally settling on an August 12th international release rather than a domestic release, with some experts speculating whether there would be a U.S. release at all with the studio turning to an on demand distribution strategy

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

The idea of “cord cutting” provides a fantastic example of distribution and the impact distribution strategies can have on a sports or entertainment property. Poll your students to see how they consume sports and entertainment content. Do they watch on TV? Mobile? Why might a sports or entertainment business professional be interested in learning how consumers in their age group are consuming content? How might those marketers adjust distribution strategies accordingly?

The concept of cord cutting is nothing new. One of the biggest factors keeping some consumers from “cutting the cord” was live sports programming. With COVID-19, the dynamic has shifted. Ask students how they see the future of “cord cutting” post-pandemic.

- d. Sports and entertainment companies must determine which distribution strategies will help to maximize sales, whether that is mass distribution in as many outlets as possible or partnerships with individual retailers to create exclusivity and drive demand
 - i. According to the Sports Business Journal, a sports performance beverage brand aiming to compete with Gatorade (called Glukos) elected to pursue a distribution strategy that focused on special retail stores in several specific categories: sporting goods, running, outdoors, cycling, golf and vitamin retailers¹⁸
 - ii. Retail chain Sports Authority provided an excellent distribution channel for Under Armour to sell its products
 - (a) San Francisco Gate reported that when Sports Authority filed for bankruptcy (and announced it would be closing all its stores), Under Armour executives were forced to cut the company’s sales forecasts by nearly $5 billion¹⁹
 - (i) Subsequently its stock quickly dropped by almost 4% the next day
 - (b) However, as consumer shopping habits continue to shift to online distribution channels, brands like Under Armour will likely continue to see robust sales
 - iii. To help expand distribution of its popular ‘Sims’ franchise, EA and Maxis created a new version of Sims game specifically for mobile devices
 - (a) The Sims Mobile game has many of the same features as the PC version, but EA/Maxis saw an opportunity to take advantage of a new distribution channel to increase both fan engagement and profits
2. Sometimes a retailer or brand will arrange for exclusive distribution of a particular product or brand to drive traffic to their store or website
 - a. To promote the release of the 4:44 album, Jay-Z inked an exclusive (and lucrative) partnership with Sprint to provide free copies of the album to current Sprint customers via Jay-Z’s streaming service, Tidal
 - i. Despite limiting consumer access through exclusive distribution channels, it took just one week for the album to go platinum

- b. Billboard reported that Lady Gaga and Elton John partnered with Macy's to create a new line of products focused on the theme 'Love Bravery' - products were sold exclusively at Macy's, with portions of the proceeds going to charity
- c. According to Forbes, Under Armour released sunglasses specially designed for golfers to help players better read greens, gauge distances and detect nuances in the terrain. The product was available exclusively at PGA Tour Superstore locations.
- d. In 2020, Kanye West teamed up with Gap to bring Yeezy brand to new audiences
 - i. Yeezy brand is best known for pricey sneakers that sell out online very quickly. However, according to USA Today, Yeezy will “develop a new line to deliver modern, elevated basics for men, women and kids at accessible price points” through an exclusive distribution deal with Gap
- e. Exclusive distribution doesn't always guarantee success however, illustrated by the disappointing sales of Sears' “Kardashian Kollektion” ²⁰

C. Promotion

- 1. Communicating information about products and services to consumers
- 2. Typically involves ongoing advertising and publicity and sales
 - a. One of the Cincinnati Reds' most popular season-long promotions involves a free pizza giveaway from local pizza chain LaRosa's every time Reds pitchers strike out at least 11 batters in a home game
 - i. According to bizjournals.com, LaRosa's gave away an average of $900,000 worth of pizza the last in three years as a result of the promotion but has only given away $62,000 in pies halfway through the 2016 baseball season (which isn't necessarily a good thing for the company) ²¹
 - (a) According to LaRosa's executive vice president of marketing: “(The chain) loves the giveaway and so do its franchisees. They bear the brunt of the cost, but the giveaway is great publicity for the local chain, and it generates a ton of customer traffic.” (via bizjournals.com)
 - ii. In 2020, LaRosa's shifted gears after COVID-19 kept fans from the ballpark
 - (a) According to the company's website: “Each season since 2012, our “Strikeouts for Slices” program has rewarded every fan in attendance for home games with a free small pizza whenever Reds pitchers struck-out 11 or more opposing batters – totaling nearly $5 million of dollars-worth of pizza since the program began. This season we are changing the “Strikeouts for Slices” program. Since there won't be fans at Great American Ball Park, LaRosa's will support The Cincinnati Reds Community Fund by contributing $1,000 to the Fund every time Reds pitchers strike-out 11 or more batters in each of the 60 games (home and away) that the Reds play this season. The Reds Community Fund was created in 2005 to fund underserved youth, with more than 800 youth baseball and softball teams in the Greater Cincinnati area benefiting from its support.”
- 3. Short-term promotions are often created in an effort to drive immediate sales
 - a. Monster Energy (a NASCAR sponsor) worked out an arrangement with Pocono Raceway to offer free admission to an event if fans brought an empty Monster can to recycle at the track ²²

D. Financing

- 1. Creating a budget and revenue projections for a company's marketing plan
 - a. Nike's long term revenue projections of $50 billion by 2023, up from $32 billion in 2019, are on track, according to market researcher Susquehanna Financial Group ²³
 - b. Budgets and projections/forecasts are never an exact science
 - i. The 2020 holiday release of the film ‘Cats’ was forecast to produce $14-20 million at the box office in its opening weekend, but it came up considerably short with just $6.5 million, leading some to speculate the film would be one of the biggest flops in box office history ²⁴

2. Analyzing the cost effectiveness of existing or previous marketing efforts
 - a. The US Army chose to end its NASCAR sponsorship after the Air National Guard spent $650,000 to sponsor a NASCAR Sprint Cup race that resulted in just 439 recruitment leads, none of which ended up joining the Army ²⁵
3. Providing customers with flexibility in purchasing company products or services
 - a. Like many professional sports franchises, MLB's Washington Nationals offer payment plans for customers purchasing ticket packages. According to the team's website, the Nats' "Grand Slam E-Z Payment Plan allows season ticket holders to pay a fraction of the total cost of their tickets in easy monthly payments. This is available for either Full, Half, or Partial Season Ticket Plans. ²⁶

E. Selling

1. Communicating with consumers to assess and fill their needs, as well as anticipating future needs
2. Involves the following activities, cultivating prospective buyers (or leads) in a market segment; conveying the features, advantages and benefits of a product or service to the lead; and closing the sale (or coming to agreement on pricing and services) ²⁷
3. Many professional sports teams utilize a call center to revenue generated by ticket sales
 - a. A call center is a physical location where calls are placed, or received, in high volume for the purpose of sales, marketing, customer service; typically using telemarketers
 - b. Call centers employ a staff to perform telemarketing activity with the goal of selling ticket packages over the telephone
 - c. Example
 - i. The University of Minnesota athletics department outsourced their ticket sales operation to a third-party organization (Aspire Group) to help boost ticket sales for Gopher athletic events. Aspire deployed a full-time sales staff to work in Minneapolis on the effort. Said Gophers' Associate Athletics Director Jason LaFrenz, "We need to put more butts in seats." ²⁸
 - ii. Even as the COVID-19 pandemic cast uncertainty surrounding the 2020 college football season, the Aspire Group helped programs like the Georgia Bulldogs to sell out all of its season tickets

F. Marketing information-management

1. Gathering and using information about customers to improve business decision making²⁷
 - a. Professional sports teams began offering smaller ticket packages (half-season, quarter-season, five-game packages) after determining through customer research that full season ticket plans were often too costly and/or time consuming for many fans to purchase.
 - b. As visitors pass through the turnstiles at Disneyland in California, guests are randomly selected to answer interview questions from friendly staff members equipped with handheld data recording devices. This provides Disney management with up to date information about park guests, such as where they are from, how many are in their group, and how many times they have visited the theme park in the past.
 - c. After conducting a series of tests utilizing virtual advertising technology in 2018, German soccer club Bundesliga announced plans to integrate augmented reality features to create more revenue opportunities

G. Product and service management

1. Designing, developing, maintaining, improving, and acquiring products or services so they meet customer needs ²⁹

- a. To strengthen their position in the U.S. market and attract top creative talent, Adidas opened a design studio in Brooklyn
 - i. BrooklynFarm houses elite designers and developers but also encourages collaboration with music, film and technology personnel ³⁰
- b. Executives from professional sports leagues and teams are always working to improve their product
 - i. Two years ago, NASCAR announced plans to break their three national series races into three stages with points awarded to top 10 finishers in each stage to increase both fan engagement and the level of competition
 - (a) Said Brian France, NASCAR Chairman & CEO: "Simply put, this will make our great racing even better. I'm proud of the unprecedented collaboration from our industry stakeholders, each of whom had a common goal -- strengthening the sport for our fans. This is an enhancement fully rooted in teamwork, and the result will be an even better product every single week." ³¹
- c. In an effort to appeal to more families, the Atlanta Falcons took the unconventional approach of lowering concessions prices at their new stadium by introducing $2 hot dogs and sodas (less than half what most stadiums charge) as well as a handful of other low-cost items for the 2016-17 NFL season
 - i. Despite significantly reducing the price of concessions, the team saw a 16% increase in food and beverage sales at Falcons' games the following season
 - (a) Spending less on concessions meant more money to spend on merchandise as the Falcons enjoyed a 90% increase in merchandise sales last season after lowering food and beverage prices
 - (b) In addition to the financial advantage, the decision was viewed as a score for the franchise in many ways. Click here for a Forbes story describing how the "Atlanta Falcons' 'Fan-First Pricing' Model Yields Numerous Unforeseen Benefits".
 - (c) The program was so successful that stadium operators announced another price reduction in 2020 just prior to the start of the Major League Soccer season, dropping prices on five of the venue's most popular items by 11% beginning with Atlanta United's first home match against FC Cincinnati
 - ii. The concept has taken off and become a trend that is being implemented by professional and collegiate sports teams around the country
 - (a) Last year, the Baltimore Ravens, Detroit Lions, Baltimore Orioles, Atlanta Hawks and the University of Texas and Mississippi State football teams all reduced concessions prices, with the Minnesota Twins and Kansas City Royals introducing cheaper prices for hotdogs, soft drinks, beer and nachos at games for the 2019 season
 - (b) Before COVID-19 put the brakes on most sports stadiums ability to host fans for home games, the San Francisco 49ers announced they would no longer charge season-ticket holders for most food or drinks at Levi's Stadium
 - (i) However, there was a small catch: a 13% increase in season-ticket prices. For example, if a game ticket cost $100 per game in one's season ticket package their ticket increased to $113 per game, but all-you-can-eat were included at no cost
 - (ii) Included items:
 1. Chicken tenders
 2. Hot dogs (beef and vegan)
 3. Sausages
 4. Nachos (regular and loaded)
 5. Fries (regular and garlic)

6. Pretzels, Popcorn and Peanuts
7. Candies
8. Pepsi Products
9. Aquafina water
10. Peet's Coffee and Hot Chocolate
 - a. Promotion did not include alcohol sales or burgers

Understanding the Sports & Entertainment Product

* DISCUSSION IDEA *

 Sports products can be represented in a wide variety of ways. What are some examples?*

Sports products could include anything from licensed merchandise, equipment and apparel, promotional items, sports venues and facilities, marketing research and management services to participation in sport.

Sports products could include anything from film/cinema, TV, music/concerts, radio, video games and theme parks to publications like magazines, newspapers, online content or books.

A. Sports products

1. Products

- a. Products are tangible, physical goods as well as services and ideas ³²
 - i. Tangible products are capable of being physically touched ³³
- b. Sports products are the goods and services designed to provide benefits to a sports spectator, participant or sponsor ³³
- c. Examples of sports products
 - i. Licensed merchandise - A Houston Rockets hat
 - ii. Participation - Tickets to a Gwinnett Braves baseball game
 - iii. Equipment and apparel - Louisville Slugger baseball bat
 - iv. Promotional items - A bobblehead giveaway/promotional item
 - v. Sports facilities - The Verizon Center arena in Washington, D.C.
 - vi. Marketing research – A report on participation levels of soccer in the United States provided by the American Sports Data research firm
 - vii. Marketing / Management services – Services provided by Octagon Consulting Group such as competitive analyses and sponsorship valuations

B. Entertainment products

1. Several segments of the entertainment industry rise to the top as predominant money makers
2. These segments include:
 - a. Film and cinema
 - b. Television / streaming
 - c. Music (includes recorded music and concerts/shows)
 - d. Radio
 - e. Gaming / eSports
 - f. Theme parks

- g. Publications (newspaper, magazine, book)
- C. The unique nature of sports and entertainment products
 - 1. Sports and entertainment products often share common characteristics of services
 - 2. Two primary characteristics of services
 - a. Services are perishable
 - b. Services are intangible
 - 3. Many sports and entertainment products are perishable
 - a. Perishability is the ability or need to store or inventory a product
 - b. Once a game or event has already taken place, they no longer carry a value and cannot be sold
 - i. According to Mullin, Sutton & Hardy in Sports Marketing: “No marketer can sell a seat to yesterday’s game, yesterday’s concert or yesterday’s ski-lift ticket”³⁴
 - (a) According to data from Ticketmaster, over 50 million tickets to sporting events went unsold last year, representing roughly $900 million in lost/uncaptured revenue³⁵
 - c. Perishability can also apply to playing careers which impacts product quality
 - i. Several years ago, Dallas Mavericks owner Mark Cuban said in an interview when discussing the possibility of a work stoppage in the NFL, “I wrote a blog post a few years back saying that NHL players lost more than 1 billion in wages for their missed season. It could be more than that if the NFL walks out. The players can’t ever get that money back. Their playing time is perishable.”

 INSTRUCTOR’S NOTE ***

To see an interesting graphic relating to the ticket sales and the concept of perishability, have students review the lesson 2.5 student handout marked “Lesson 2.5 student handout – perishability”. The file can be accessed from the lesson 2.5 folder.

- 4. They are also often intangible
 - a. Intangible product attributes are the unobservable characteristics which a physical good possesses, such as style, quality, strength, or beauty³⁶
 - i. Copyrights, logos, graphics and trademarks would also be considered intangibles
 - b. Even tangible items such as a soccer ball or music CDs have less significance than the feeling or emotion that the activity itself reveals
- 5. Examples of sports activities that would be considered intangible³⁷
 - a. The exhilaration we get from running our best marathon
 - b. The thrill of winning a competition
 - c. The satisfaction of scoring well on a challenging golf course
 - d. The pride we feel when teams we support win

- e. The emotional attachment fans invest in their affiliation with a favorite team
 - f. The connection fans feel with other fans (whether they know them or not) supporting the same players or teams
- D. Importance of a quality product
1. Even the best marketers and salespeople in the world can't promote or sell an undesirable product. No matter how much effort an organization puts into its marketing, promotion and sales efforts, they will face challenges generating and sustaining interest in the product if they don't offer consumers and fans a quality product.
 - a. Vince McMahon, founder of WWE, infamously launched a professional football league (the XFL) in 2001 with grandiose plans of competing with the NFL. In its initial stages, thanks to a very successful marketing campaign, the league enjoyed outstanding ticket sales, sponsorship sales and television ratings. Fans, however, quickly discovered the product on the field was severely lacking, and the league was forced to close its doors after just one very lackluster season.
 - i. "Those initial (TV) ratings tell you they had superior promotion," said Stephen Greyser, a Harvard Business School professor who co-authored a Harvard Business Review study on the XFL and still highlights the XFL as a case study in his Business of Sports course in an interview with the Sports Business Journal. "They just did not put as much emphasis on building the product as they did on building the hype." ³⁸
 - b. In 2018, Vince McMahon announced plans to revive the XFL, this time focusing on a football product without the gimmicks (and assurances that he would invest at least $500 million in the product)
 - i. Click here to read more about the XFL announcement
 - c. The league announced it would hire Oliver Luck, an industry veteran with a long track record of success, as its commissioner
 - i. The hire came at a steep price: A $20 million guaranteed, multi-year contract, and the Sports Business Journal reported the deal could be worth more than $30 million with incentives
 - ii. The pandemic forced the league to cease operations in March of 2020, the XFL suspended operations, laid off all its employees (including Oliver Luck) and announced no plans to return in 2021
 - (a) However, in August, it was reported that the XFL was purchased by an investment group led by Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson for $15 million
 - (i) In a statement, XFL president and chief operating officer Jeffrey Pollack called the pending sale "a Hollywood ending" and said Johnson's investors are "a dream team ownership group and the XFL is in the best possible hands going forward."
 - (b) Before the league was forced to shutdown because of COVID-19, it had averaged 1.9 million television viewers per game and generated nearly $20 million in gross revenues in 2020
 - (c) According to court filings, it had projected $46 million in gross revenues for the 10-game season, creating optimism that the XFL concept still offered potential as a viable sports and entertainment property

 VIDEO SUGGESTION ***

ESPN featured the demise of the original XFL in their popular '30 for 30' documentary series. Click here to view the trailer on espn.com. The entire film is also available for purchase on Amazon.com or the iTunes store. As a reminder, please review the film before sharing in class to make sure it is appropriate for your students.

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

As a class, discuss why the original XFL failed. As for the restart, COVID-19 created an unprecedented challenge for any upstart league, and there is no telling if the league would have thrived without a pandemic forcing the league to shut down. However, with future of the league now in the hands of "The Rock", it will be interesting to see what the third installment of XFL football will offer.

For this activity, assign students (or student groups) a city (or market) for which they would run an XFL franchise as part of the league's latest comeback attempt. Require each group to define "quality product" and create a plan for ensuring their XFL franchise will deliver on promises to provide fans with a quality product.

2. Sports and entertainment business professionals are always critiquing the product and looking for ways to improve
 - a. After a controversial call made by a replacement referee on Monday Night Football, Green Bay Packers shareholder David Goodfriend called on the Federal Trade Commission to investigate whether the National Football League's "deceptive" use of replacement referees has violated "consumer protection statutes." The NFL signed an agreement soon after for the regular officials to return to the sidelines.³⁹
 - i. Click here to read the entire letter
 - b. Feeling that "flopping" (when a player tries to deceive the referee into making an incorrect call) was detrimental to its product as a whole, the NBA implemented a system that would fine players for any play the league deemed to be a flop
 - c. A few years ago, the NCAA implemented new rule changes to help bring more excitement to the college men's basketball game by reducing the shot clock to 30 seconds and allowing just four timeouts instead of five
 - i. According to USA Today: "The measures are aimed at improving the on-court product after a regular season marked by low-scoring, slow-paced games."

- ii. In 2018, several sports leagues were considering “pace of play” rule changes to speed up the games and improve the overall product, including Major League Baseball, the USTA, ATP and WTA

 - ii. Click here for a list of rule changes that were discussed as possibilities for “testing” during a COVID-19 abbreviated season in 2020

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

By the 2019 All-Star game, Major League Baseball’s pace-of-play rule changes had not been successful in shortening the length of games. Meanwhile, the debate raged whether the league should cater to traditionalist fans or proactively work toward attracting a younger fan base by embracing (and marketing) on-field celebrations like bat flips. Ask students what they think the league could do to boost viewership, attendance and improve the overall product.

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Ratings hit a record low in 2019 for the MLB All-Star game. Viewership for the 2019 NHL All-Star game was down 10% from 2019 and ratings for the NFL Pro Bowl were low. In 2018, the MLS All-Star game suffered a massive ratings drop, declining 50% from the previous year. While the NBA's All-Star Weekend saw an increase last year, its ratings had been in decline for several years.

Divide your class into five teams and assign each group a U.S. professional sports league (NBA, MLB, NFL, NHL, MLS). Task each group with finding a solution for boosting viewership and the popularity of each respective league's all-star festivities. Consider providing cancellation as an option, recognizing that is an incredibly unlikely scenario because even with low ratings, these events still draw enough viewers to make the programming attractive to advertisers. All-Star games and festivities also provide significant opportunities to generate sponsorship revenue while providing the potential for a positive economic impact on the cities that host the events (more on that topic in lesson 3.5).

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

As a class, come up with at least one rule change that might improve the product for a variety of different sports leagues or events. Remind students that everyone from NASCAR to Minor League Baseball is always evaluating what changes they can make to improve the product. Then ask them how and why the rule change might help them to appease their fan base. For example, Major League Baseball, NASCAR and the NFL are all evaluating "pace of play" rule changes to speed up the game. Why? In part, to cater to a demographic (millennials) who have statistically shown shorter attention spans.

Alternatively, consider dividing your class up into pairs (or teams). Pick a professional sports league (could include MMA, NASCAR, MLB, NFL) or allow each group to select their own league and have them come up with a set of rule changes that would improve the overall product. Have each group present their ideas in class.

I think it’s evident by the talent that we’re putting on the pitch, but we’re also accountable. We know that at the end of last season, we took a step back. This is not an acceptable level of performance for the club. We believe you are a Whitecaps season ticket holder for a reason and we want you to reawaken that passion for the club.”

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

What is innovation? As part of their release of the new “Joyride” sneaker and the microbead technology used to create the “adaptive sole” of the sneaker, Nike’s website provides some detail behind the innovation. Consider sharing a “Sneaker Innovation” PPT with students and discussing the concept of innovation. The file is available in the Lesson 2.5 folder.

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

One industry expert created a list of the eleven most innovative sneakers in history. Click here to see the list at BusinessInsider.com. Review the list in class, then ask students if they can think of any other examples of sneaker innovations that could also be considered for the list. Ask them why innovation is important and what they think the next innovations might look like.

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Host a shoe design competition in your classroom. However, judge the student results based on the tech features integrated within the design. Does it improve functionality? Will it be well received by consumers? Encourage creativity, and have students present their designs in class along with a sales pitch explaining why consumers will buy the product.

1. Discretionary income is money left to spend after necessary expenses are paid ⁶⁹
 2. There is only so much discretionary income available in today's economy
 - a. The competition for entertainment dollar increases when the economy is in a recession
 - i. According to the U.S. Bureau of Economic Analysis, discretionary spending among U.S. consumers reached an all-time high in 2016 ⁷⁰
 - (a) It should be noted, however, that more discretionary income does not automatically mean more spending for U.S. consumers
 - (i) Click here to read a related story from usnews.com

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

While an individual Internet activity encouraging students to consider the idea of competition for the entertainment dollar is included with the unit 2 resources, some SCC members have suggested they prefer to tackle this as a class discussion. Using the outline format from lesson 2.6 as a template, put together a list of each segment that offers a form of entertainment in your area. Then have students compile a list in class of options in your area.

DISCUSSION STARTER IDEAS

 What is discretionary income? How do YOU spend YOUR discretionary income? How do you think marketing impacts your decision to spend your discretionary income?*

Lesson 2.7

Reaching Consumers

A. The Elusive Fan

1. A classic sports marketing book entitled “The Elusive Fan” was published to examine the volatility of the sports/entertainment marketplace and the challenges today’s sports business professionals face
 - a. Excerpt from the book: *“It’s an October Saturday in Chicago. On television are two MLB playoff games, two preseason NBA games, fourteen college football games, five golf tournaments, an AHL game, an international horse race, two NASCAR races, and eight soccer matches. The University of Illinois and Northern Illinois University football teams and the AHL’s Chicago Wolves have home games. Hawthorne Race Course has a full card and there’s harness racing at Balmoral Park. There are twenty-nine high school football games and the final round of the boys and girls Illinois high school state championship golf tournaments. Youth and recreational league games are also being played in every community of the Chicago area. What about the Chicago Bulls, Bears, Blackhawks and Northwestern Wildcats? The Bulls played at home last night, the Bears play at home tomorrow, the Blackhawks are away and the Wildcats had their midseason bye. Of course, this does not include the hundreds of satellite television channels broadcasting soccer, rugby or cricket games all over the world; the millions of sports Web sites with fantasy games, insider information and gamecasts; and a wide variety of increasingly realistic sports video games.”*⁷¹
 - b. The primary challenge for today’s sports/entertainment business professional is capturing consumer interest and building loyalty once that connection has been made
 - i. Why is loyalty important? Most marketers follow the widely accepted “20/80 rule”: 20% of customers account for 80% of company sales.
 - ii. An excerpt from a Forbes article on NHL fan loyalty suggests that “From a marketing perspective, loyalty – because it’s a leading-indicator of positive consumer behavior correlating, highly with viewership, licensed merchandise sales and, to a more-or-lesser, degree, attendance – represents the ultimate trophy a sports marketer can win.”
 - (a) Because NASCAR fans are among the most brand loyal in all of sports, more Fortune 500 companies invest in NASCAR marketing programs than any other major sports property⁷²
 - (i) According to Steve Phelps, chief marketing officer for NASCAR: “We have the most brand loyal fans in all of sports. More than three out of five avid NASCAR fans agree that even in tough economic times, they will continue to support NASCAR sponsors over other brands.”
 - iii. MLB at Home Helps Satisfy Fans’ Hunger for Baseball. The initiative encompasses the league’s robust slate of new online content, including live conversations between players and fans, classic games and original programming such as inside looks at training sessions, which have been shared across its various social platforms since the pandemic forced the suspension of live games.
 - iv. Because loyalty is so important, many sports and entertainment organizations implement “loyalty programs” to reward core customers

- (a) The NBA's Portland Trail Blazers offer their season ticket holders a percentage-savings based on tenure – the longer fans hold seats, the higher their discount, up to 20% off ⁷³
- (b) According to 500Friends, an agency specializing in loyalty programs, the practice of rewarding loyal fans is increasing in popularity among sports leagues
 - (i) In the English Premier League, 12 of its 20 teams offer an active loyalty program while 23 of the 32 MLB teams and 20 of the 26 NBA teams offer programs rewarding fans for their loyalty ⁷⁴
 - (ii) For example, the Jacksonville Jaguars offer a rewards program that provides loyal fans with cash back on purchases and exclusive discounts available only to loyalty program members and drawings to win prizes like a trip to the Super Bowl
 - 1. Click here to visit the Jags Rewards website
 - (iii) NHL teams like the Montreal Canadiens, Buffalo Sabres, Winnipeg Jets and Minnesota Wild have recently launched fan loyalty programs
 - 1. Click here for a recap of each team's program features from hockeywriters.com
- (c) Implementation of such programs is not an inexpensive endeavor; teams can expect an investment of anywhere from $250,000 to low seven figures to build a loyalty program (according to a sponsorship.com report)
- (d) However, in addition to building loyalty with a fanbase, these programs can provide value to the organization by creating new sponsorship opportunities along with the ever-important platform for collecting data relating to fan/consumer preferences and behavior
- c. New and emerging sports and entertainment offerings keep the marketplace in a constant state of competition and evolution
 - i. Dennis Deninger, a former ESPN production executive who now teaches sports communications at Syracuse University, perfectly summarizes this concept in an interview with the Los Angeles Times: "Every year, there are more entertainment options for people to fill their leisure time."
 - ii. The rapid growth of eSports has taken the entertainment industry by storm
 - (a) Global revenue for eSports rose 51.7% to $493 million in 2016, increased more than 200% in 2017 to $1.5 billion, and is expected to hit $5.7 billion by 2023 ⁷⁵
 - (b) The 16-year old winner of the Fortnite World Cup (who practices a reported 6 hours per day) earned a $3 million prize for winning the 2019 championship
 - (i) According to CNBC, Epic Games (the maker of 'Fortnite') handed out a total of $30 million in prizes during the Fortnite World Cup weekend event at New York City's legendary tennis venue, Arthur Ashe Stadium
 - 1. For comparison, winners of the Wimbledon tennis tournament bring in a little under $3 million while Tiger Woods took the top prize of $2 million at this year's Masters Golf Tournament (Wimbledon and the Masters are arguably the two most prestigious events in their respective sports)
 - (ii) Several other teenagers became instant millionaires in front of sold-out crowds of nearly 24,000 who came to watch the Fortnite World Cup in person, with another two million people streaming the action online
 - (iii) In 2020, Epic Games cancelled plans for the 2020 Fortnite World Cup in response to the COVID-19 global health crisis

* DISCUSSION IDEA *

To further illustrate the incredible growth of esports (and more facts and figures relating to the 2019 Fortnite World Cup), consider sharing the “Fortnite World Cup by the Numbers” PPT in class.

Use the discussion questions provided at the end of the PPT to help guide your discussion. The file is available in the Lesson 2.7 folder.

- iii. Many industry analysts are beginning to ponder the growth potential of cricket globally and in the U.S.
 - (a) Forbes reported The Big Bash League, which features eight cricket franchises in Australia, saw average attendance increase by 22% in 2016 – TV ratings were up 11% and merchandise sales were up 44% over last season ⁷⁷
 - (b) Joe Favorito, a long time and well-respected industry expert, put it this way in a blog post: “On April 2 it generated 45 percent of all page views on ESPN’s mobile platform, and over a million views in the United States alone. Its final was watched not by millions, but by billions around the world, and its professional league, which started just days after its international final, saw sellout crowds, waves of blonde-haired cheerleaders and loud music. It is also the subject of one of the most talked-about documentaries of the upcoming Tribeca Film festival. No, it’s not football or baseball, or NASCAR or even soccer or the X games. It is cricket, and while it is still not registering in mainstream America or with the media, it is becoming a bigger player on the global sports landscape than ever before. Should we care in North America? The numbers say yes we should.” ⁷⁸
 - (ii) Click here to read an interview posted on joefavorito.com the sports business impact cricket’s growth could have in the U.S.
 - (iii) Click here to read digiday.com’s story urging U.S. brands not to dismiss the growing popularity of cricket as a fad or trend
 - (e) Jay Pandya (chairman of Global Sports Ventures) announced his plans to invest $2.4 billion in the creation of eight cricket stadiums for a professional cricket league that will begin play in the United States in the next year or two
 - (i) Mr. Pandya set the plan in motion by signing a $70 million licensing agreement between the United States of America Cricket Association (USACA) and Global Sports Ventures, LLC
 - (ii) Mr. Pandya’s ambitious plans make this the biggest new-sport initiative in the U.S. since the launch of Major League Soccer
 - 1. Click here to read how the league is planning which U.S. cities will get new cricket stadiums as part of the league’s launch

- (f) According to sports business website JohnWallStreet.com, the Indian Premier League (IPL) generates more sponsorship revenue annually than Major League Baseball, despite its season being just 47 days long
 - (i) It took the IPL just eleven years to reach the $1 billion in sponsorship revenue mark for a season; 12% more ($892 million) than its baseball counterparts (founded in 1903)
 - (ii) It's not just sponsorship dollars that are ballooning in cricket though, newly signed broadcast deals, the rising value of title sponsorship rights and the increasing brand value of the individual teams has sent the league's valuation soaring +26% (to $5.3 billion) over the last year
- (g) According to the International Cricket Council, the 2019 Cricket World Cup smashed several viewership and online engagement records, racking up an unprecedented 2.6 billion video views before the championship match even took place

 - (d) In 2016, the most popular mixed martial arts league (Ultimate Fighting Championship) was sold for $4 billion, the richest sale of any franchise in the history of professional sports
 - (i) The sales figure becomes even more impressive when you consider that UFC was launched in 1993 and purchased for just $2 million in 2001 by casino operators Lorenzo and Frank Fertitta (turning $2 million into $4 billion is quite a profit) ⁸²
- vi. According to the Edmonton Journal, curling is capturing the attention of fans throughout Canada, particularly on television
 - (a) The sport has soared in popularity, generating ratings in Canada on par with the likes of the NFL's 'Monday Night Football' and NHL's 'Hockey Night in Canada' while attracting major sponsors and advertisers like Tim Hortons
 - (i) Last year, the Tim Hortons Brier Saturday night semifinal outdid Hockey Night in Canada, drawing an audience of 896,000 compared to the Toronto Maple Leafs vs St. Louis Blues telecast that drew 743,000

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

As we learned in unit 1 and unit 2, the sports of rugby and cricket are both very well positioned for explosive growth in the United States. However, in addition to established leagues like NFL, NHL, MLB, NBA, MLS and NASCAR, executives promoting these sports will face increased pressure from other sports and entertainment properties competing for entertainment dollars.

Ask students what they would do if they were responsible for marketing a startup rugby, darts, curling or cricket league in the U.S. to build enough fan support for the sport to flourish.

B. Examining the Elusive Fan

- 1. Many factors impact a consumer’s decision to participate in sports and entertainment
 - a. Primary influencers are money and time
 - b. Other factors can include personal issues like spending time with family, camaraderie among friends and relaxation

2. Innovation, enhancement of the overall fan (consumer) experience and careful market research become essential components of marketing plans and strategies
3. According to the book, an elusive fan is defined by seven major characteristics: ⁷¹
 - a. Pressurized competitive environment
 - i. The sports marketplace is extremely crowded
 - ii. Paintball, while not a direct competitor of the NHL, poses an indirect threat as the sport gains popularity and has the potential to attract new sports fans
 - b. Higher fan expectations
 - i. Fans demand a higher consumer experience than ever before with more concessions options, newer facilities and advances in broadcast technologies
 - ii. Fans also demand more access to athletes and entertainers as well as “behind-the-scenes” experiences
 - (a) A 2019 survey from Turnkey Intelligence asked fans what possible changes by the PGA Tour and LPGA would be most effective at growing their popularity. 67% of fans suggested putting microphones on players and caddies would be the most effective way to boost popularity.
 - (b) According to the Chicago Tribune, after 48 years as a season ticket holder, one frustrated Chicago Bulls fan was on the fence about renewing his season tickets in 2019...until he was invited to have lunch with the team's head coach and to watch a team practice (he ended up renewing his tickets)
 - iii. Click here for a story about some of the challenges facing broadcasters who want to provide as much behind-the-scenes access and content for viewers as possible from USA Today
 - c. Paradox of commercialism
 - i. A conflict between business and game exists as the business of sports grows while fans still crave the spirit of competition and integrity of the game
 - (a) In 2012, Indianapolis Motor Speedway featured signage on the racing surface for the Indy 500 for the first time in its history
 - (b) Said a spokesperson familiar with the event, “That's the tricky part of operating an iconic sports venue, such as the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, Fenway Park, Wrigley Field. That's the balancing act. How do you maintain the integrity of the facility but at the same time be able to compete in this new world of sponsorship sales where [marketing] revenue is important to help us [keep] down ticket prices and get brands involved that will activate to help us build the overall brand of the Indianapolis 500.” ⁸³
 - (c) Sports and entertainment brands must consider the paradox of commercialism when evaluating their marketing strategies
 - (i) When the Boston Red Sox created their loyalty/rewards program, they took a cautious approach to integrating sponsors, telling IEG Sponsorship Report in an interview, “When we launched the program, we were careful not to make it feel overly commercialized. We knew there were going to be sponsor opportunities down the road, but that was never the driving force.”
 - ii. Sports teams and leagues often face backlash and criticism from fans when a perception exists that the games or sport become too commercialized
 - (a) Click here to see a video criticizing Major League Baseball's decision to allow virtual advertising during broadcasts
 - (b) The fine line between commercialism and marketing is often on display when teams or leagues introduce new uniform designs or stadium naming rights partners

- (i) When the Milwaukee Brewers announced this season that the stadium would no longer be known as Miller Park after a new naming rights deal was struck with American Family Insurance, many fans voiced their outrage on social media
 - 1. A MillerCoors spokesman said in a statement to the Chicago Tribune that American Family Insurance's offer to the Brewers was "incredibly rich," and while the team will now have an influx of cash, many fans were furious
 - 2. Click here to see a recap of the reaction from USA Today
- iii. Many sports marketing executives wrestle with the decision as to whether they should sell the rights to advertise on the front of their jerseys
 - (a) The WNBA was at the forefront of the jersey advertising trend when they announced a partnership with Boost Mobile in 2015 that would place ads on the uniforms of 10 of the league's 12 teams, with the Boost corporate logo appearing on uniforms directly below the players' numbers ⁸⁴
 - (i) The WNBA announced a partnership with Verizon (replacing Boost Mobile) that included ad space on the uniforms of 10 of the league's 12 teams
 - 1. Verizon's corporate logo was placed on jersey fronts directly below the players' numbers
 - 2. The league also allows for teams to sell jersey space individually, meaning some WNBA teams would have three logos on jerseys (including adidas, another league sponsor), leaving some teams with just a small patch displaying the team's name and logo below the left shoulder
 - 3. According to USA Today, the WNBA announced plans in 2018 to sell on-court signage at the free-throw line and also allow another jersey patch on team uniforms
 - (b) Major League Soccer's Philadelphia Union announced the controversial decision to sell the jersey sponsorship rights to Bimbo (correctly pronounced Beem-bo), the world's largest bakery, in a four-year, $12 million deal ⁸⁵
 - (i) A 2016 report from International Business Times suggests Major League Soccer rakes in more than $6 million annually from league jersey sponsorship sales
 - (c) While the debate continues, sports teams who choose NOT to sell jersey advertising are passing up the potential for extremely lucrative sponsorship deals
 - (i) The NFL has suggested they have no immediate plans to explore jersey ad opportunities, despite a recent report from Sports Illustrated suggesting the league could be missing out on an estimated $224 million in revenue
 - (ii) Internationally, some jersey deals generate huge sums in sponsorship revenue
 - 1. According to the 18, here are five of the top uniform advertising deals with international soccer clubs and their jersey sponsors
 - a. Emirates / Real Madrid: $80 million per year
 - b. Chevy / Man U: $68 million per year
 - c. Rakuten / Barcelona: $60 million per year
 - d. Emirates / Arsenal: $56 million per year
 - e. Yokohama / Chelsea: $51 million per year

- (d) In 2019, Major League Baseball began experimenting with the idea of uniform advertising when a Ford logo appeared on the batting helmets of Cardinals and Reds players during their game in Mexico while Red Sox and Yankees jerseys featured a Biofreeze patch on the sleeves during the London series ⁸⁶
 - (i) One league executive suggested in a 2019 interview with Sports Business Journal that some type of advertising on MLB uniforms is “inevitable”
- (e) Beginning with the 2017-18 season, the NBA began allowing its teams to sell jersey sponsorships
 - (i) The Philadelphia 76ers became the first franchise to embrace the concept when they sold jersey sponsorship rights to StubHub in a deal worth $5 million per year, according to a USA Today report
 - (ii) The decision to allow jersey sponsorships resulted in the NBA’s first ever year with more than $1 billion in revenue (the league reportedly generated $1.12 billion in sponsorship sales last season, a sizeable 31% increase over the previous season)
 - 1. Click here for a graphic illustrating the NBA’s explosive revenue growth since 2013-14 through last season
 - 2. Click here for a graphic that looks at the NBA’s top sponsors, team rank by jersey patch and patch placement
 - 3. Click here for an inside look on Rakuten’s $60 million jersey sponsorship deal with the Golden State Warriors
 - 4. Click here to see why Wish spent more than $30 million to advertise on the Los Angeles Lakers’ jerseys
 - (iii) By the conclusion of the 2018-19 NBA season, all 30 teams had sold a corporate sponsorship on their uniforms, generating $150 million per year in revenue (up from the league’s original estimate of $100 million per year)

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Have students get online and create a list of all the WNBA and NBA jersey patch sponsorships. Then, review which companies are sponsoring which teams. Ask students if they knew any of the sponsoring brands, then ask why do they think those brands chose to partner with each team in particular? If they were a team currently seeking a jersey sponsor, what companies or brands might provide good a fit? You might also wait on this activity until lesson 8.3 when we explore sponsorship decisions.

- (f) In 2017, NHL commissioner Gary Bettman re-affirmed his position that the NHL would not be following the NBA’s decision to allow advertising on jerseys
 - a. At the 2017 All-Star game, Mr. Bettman explained: “The fact of the matter is we take great pride in our sweaters. We think they’re the best in all of sports, and (adding jersey ads) is not something we're running off to do. We think what we have is special. We talk about history and tradition and how special hockey jerseys are."

- (g) Despite its position as one of the most prestigious events in all of sports, Augusta National Golf Club (home to the PGA Tour's annual "Masters" golf tournament) turns down "hundreds of millions" of dollars every year in potential revenue
 - (i) By maintaining low concessions prices and broadcast rights fees, limiting the number of fans allowed in and not chasing sponsors, Golf Digest calls the Masters "perhaps the last major sporting event left where the emphasis is solely on the game"
 - 1. Compared to nearly any other major sporting event, Augusta has always maintained low prices on concessions (a Golf Digest report suggests they operate on a break-even or even net loss on food items at the Masters)
 - a. For example, they charge just $1.50 for an egg salad sandwich and $1.00 for chips, peanuts or popcorn
 - i. Compare that to concessions prices at Super Bowl 51 where peanuts cost $7 and popcorn was $15)
 - ii. In 2017, Callaway Golf sent a tweet from the tournament displaying concessions prices. Click here to view the tweet.
 - 2. Rather than open a bidding war for broadcast rights, Augusta National sells the rights every year to CBS on a one-year contract with a rights positioned that neither CBS nor Augusta makes money on the deal
 - 3. The popularity of the event drives up the cost for fans to attend on the secondary market, a practice the club deplores and has attempted to remedy over the years
 - a. Rather than inflating its own prices to capitalize on the strong demand, Augusta has even bought back some of the weekly passes to redistribute as more affordable daily passes in the past
 - 4. That's not to say the event isn't profitable; Golf Digest reports the event generates nearly $30 million in profits each year (which is then reinvested in the golf club for course maintenance, repair, upgrades etc.)
 - (ii) Click here to read more from Golf Digest
- iv. As it becomes more and more challenging to generate a profit in professional sports, many organizations look for new and creative ways to generate advertising dollars
 - (a) The Florida Panthers announced they would convert every seat in the BankAtlantic Center's lower bowl to the color red in conjunction with the team's "We See Red" marketing campaign and that the logo for one of their sponsor's (Zimmerman Advertising) would appear on the front of each seat (a deal that will reportedly generate revenue in the mid-six figures each year for the team) ⁸⁷
 - (b) The NFL recently relaxed its long-standing policy of not allowing teams to solicit advertising dollars from any gambling entity when they approved the Baltimore Ravens' effort to open conversations with casinos about signage, radio advertising and ads in game programs ⁸⁸
 - (i) Two years ago, Maryland Live! Casino expanded its partnership with Washington, D.C.'s Verizon Center by branding a section of the arena as the Maryland Live! Casino Players Club

1. According to sponsorship.com, the members-only space features an all-inclusive menu, pool tables, TVs and end-zone viewing of NBA Washington Wizards and NHL Washington Capitals games and other sports and entertainment events that occur in the building
- (ii) Nearly every major professional sports property has partnered in some capacity with daily fantasy websites which many would argue are already a form of legalized gambling
 1. In 2018, the United States Supreme Court's decision to open the door to legalized sports gambling created new revenue opportunities for sports leagues around the country
 2. According to bizjournals.com, the biggest opportunity could be with sports media and sponsorship
 - a. Just months after the announcement was made to legalize gambling, the NBA signed a deal with MGM Resorts to become the official gaming partner of the NBA and WNBA
 - i. ESPN reports the three-year deal was worth an estimated $25 million
 - ii. Click here for more details on the partnership between the NBA and MGM
- (c) According to a tweet from sports business reporter Eben Novy-Williams, Major League Soccer lifted its long-standing commercial restrictions on liquor and sports betting partnerships in 2019, opening the door to future jersey sponsorships, naming rights deals etc.
- (d) Several collegiate athletic programs around the country are relaxing their ban on alcohol sales at sporting events as a way to generate additional revenue
 - (i) In 2020, fans at schools like the University of Minnesota, Texas A&M and Middle Tennessee State will be able to purchase beer and wine at their favorite sporting events
 - (ii) Other programs like the University of North Carolina, North Carolina State and Missouri are weighing the option, with many others likely to follow suit soon
- (e) The practice of product placement is an oft-criticized component of the entertainment business as many consumers feel the strategy replaces the organic element of pure entertainment with an aspect of commercialism
- v. After COVID-19 kept fans at home and leagues shut down, sports teams will be forced to find ways to make up for massive amounts of lost revenue
 - (a) It was reported by Sports Business Journal that Major League Soccer will approve the somewhat controversial CBD as a new commercial opportunity (meaning they can sell a sponsorship to CBD brands) for teams by the end of 2020
 - (i) SBJ also reports that in recent years, MLS' San Jose Earthquakes had an agreement in principle with an unknown CBD brand for naming rights to the team's stadium. However, the league would not approve the deal, forcing the team to forego the sponsorship and rename the venue to "Earthquakes Stadium."
 - (b) "Tarp" advertising
 - (i) The NFL allowed teams to tarp off sections of their stadiums and sell ads on that space, providing added exposure for corporate partners on broadcasts once the season resumed (marketing the first time the league allowed teams to sell "camera-visible signage to local sponsors", according to SBJ)

- (c) The NFL also dropped its ban on energy drink advertising, creating a new sponsorship category that would allow the league and its teams to recoup more revenue lost from the pandemic fallout
- (d) When NASCAR returned in 2020 after a two-month shutdown, they required all staff and racing teams to wear face masks at events but allowed teams to sell sponsorships where brand logos could appear on the masks
- (e) Cardboard cutouts
 - (i) A popular trend when play resumed for some teams included the sale of cardboard cutouts of fans to be placed in the arena that would be visible during game broadcasts
 - 1. In Germany, Bundesliga's Borussia Mönchengladbach sold 23,000 cutouts, according to Be At the Game, a company who produced and sold the cutouts. At an average price of $26, the team generated an estimated $600,000 in revenue.
 - 2. Several Major League Baseball teams also featured fan cutouts at stadiums during the pandemic-shortened season
 - a. The Chicago White Sox "Fantastic Faces" promotion sold out in two days where the team placed 1,500 fan cutouts on the field for just three games
 - i. At a price of $49 per cutout, (fans submitted their own pictures), the team generated $55,000 (the team donated the money to charity)
 - b. The Oakland A's enjoyed similar success with their "Coliseum Cutouts" program, selling 1,000 cutouts in just 24-hours according to CNBC
 - i. The A's charged between $49 and $129, depending on the location in the stands, where the cutout would be for every game in the 2020 season
 - ii. For added fun in the promotion, the team would send the fan an authenticated ball if the cutout was hit by a foul ball during a game, and fans had the option to take home their cutout as a souvenir when the season ends

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Take a moment here to engage students in a discussion about the paradox of commercialism. Be sure they understand WHY sports and entertainment companies engage in practices that have a commercial feel (perhaps reminding them that the name of this e-book is The "BUSINESS" of Sports and Entertainment). Also ask students to share their opinions about things like product placement, the introduction of new uniforms, naming rights to stadiums and advertising on jerseys.

- d. New technology
 - i. Never before have consumers had so much information or access to sports and entertainment products at their fingertips with the proliferation of media channels
 - ii. The fan experience is being consistently upgraded as a direct result of new technologies and advances in social media as consumers can absorb the sport experience from almost anywhere
 - (a) Approximately 73 percent of sports fans engage with brand content online during the pre-game excitement, while 77 percent do so after the game, according to a recent Catalyst study (via a fan engagement report from the Los Angeles Times)
 - (i) Whether they're using smartphones, laptops or tablets, sports fans are active sharers who use game time for both watching and connecting
 - (ii) Fans use mobile devices to supplement their televised content
 - (iii) According to Catalyst, on average, sports fans use Facebook 5.8 times, Twitter 5.6 times and Instagram 4.4 times on game day ⁸⁹
- e. Individualism
 - i. Society as a whole has become less focused on group interaction and developed more specialized interests
 - ii. Individualism has slowly resulted in the deterioration of the popularity of team sports
 - (a) The fastest growing sports in America and internationally are individual sports
 - (b) Pickleball, a sport that could be described as a tennis-badminton-ping-pong hybrid that was invented more than fifty years ago, is the fastest growing sport in North America and has been for the last four years ⁹⁰
 - (i) According to the USA Pickleball Association, pickleball is the fastest-growing sport in the U.S., seeing a 650% increase in participation numbers over the last six years, with the majority of new participants coming from a younger demographic
 - (ii) According to the USA Pickleball Association (USAPA), there were 3.3 million pickleball players in the U.S. last year and, despite its stereotype of appealing mostly to older athletes, 44% of the core and casual pickleball players aged 34 or younger
 - (c) Cornhole, the beloved backyard game and tailgating activity, has grown into a professional sport with live telecast
 - (i) The American Cornhole League (ACL) partnered with ESPN to include nine events and 30 hours of original programming featuring matches between amateur, collegiate and professionally ranked players across ESPN's platforms
 - (d) According to the Outdoor Foundation, slightly over 1 million Americans participated in stand-up paddling, also called SUP. By last year, however, the number of SUP participants in the U.S. tripled to nearly 3 million. ⁹¹
 - iii. With the COVID-19 health crisis preventing people from participating in team sports, we will likely see an uptick in participation numbers for individual sports
- f. Change in family structure/behavior
 - i. Today, more than half of all U.S. families are divorced, single parent or diverse groups of unrelated people ⁹²
 - ii. As a result, the decision-making process for sports and entertainment participation becomes more complicated
- g. Time pressure

- i. The time demands Americans face today offer fewer hours for the consumption of sport in any capacity, be it as a spectator or participant
 - ii. It is not simply the activity itself that poses challenges for consumers
 - (a) Consider the plight of a sports fan that purchased tickets to see a Dallas Mavericks game. Tip-off is at 7:00 p.m. and the fan leaves work at 4:30 or 5:00 on a weeknight to meet a friend at a local restaurant for a pre-game dinner. Given traffic and parking issues, that fan may not get home until 11:30 p.m. That two or three-hour game has now eaten up nearly six hours of the consumer's day.
 - (i) As a result, some teams are shifting the start time for home to accommodate fans to help relieve the characteristic of time pressure
 - 1. According to the News & Observer, the Carolina Hurricanes pushed Friday night home games last season to 7:30 instead of 7:00 in an effort to cater to the needs of fans with busy schedules
- C. Connecting with the Elusive Fan
- 1. Fan engagement
 - a. Fan engagement is a long-term relationship management strategy focused on interactions between fan (consumer) and sports property which helps strengthen the connection between the two parties and bolster levels of brand loyalty
 - b. To elevate levels of fandom, it is important for sports and entertainment business professionals to develop strategies that keep fans engaged
 - 2. Sports teams develop fan engagement strategies to encourage fans to interact with the franchise
 - 3. Fan engagement strategies
 - a. Content marketing (unique and original branded programming)
 - b. Social media marketing
 - c. Digital marketing
 - i. Apps, podcasts, augmented and virtual reality etc.
 - d. Interactive experiences
 - e. Live streams, events etc.
 - f. Behind-the-scenes access
 - 4. The COVID-19 pandemic upped the ante for the sports and entertainment industry, creating more urgency for engaging with fan bases to maintain relevance, interest, and enthusiasm for organizations

Lesson 2.8

Introduction to Event Marketing & Management

- A. Event marketing
1. Event marketing
 - a. Event marketing refers to the actual marketing and management of an event by its organizers
 - i. According to Bizzabo's Event Marketing Report: Benchmarks and Trends report, the majority (80%) of marketers believe live events are critical to their company's success ⁹³
(a) Visit bizzabo.com for more statistics and data relating to the future of event marketing
 - b. Event examples
 - i. Tour de France
 - ii. Competitive Eating Events
 - iii. Cannes International Film Festival
 - iv. US Air Guitar Championships
 - v. America's Cup
 - vi. ESPY Awards
 - c. While event marketing can provide a profitable segment for the sports/entertainment industry while creating a positive economic impact for the areas that host events, the costs associated can be significant
 - i. A report by Event Farm suggests event marketing can consume 25% of a company's marketing budget ⁹⁴
 - ii. According to some reports, Russia spent more than any other country in history to host both the Winter Olympics (Sochi Games in 2014 with a $50 million price tag) and the FIFA World Cup (2018 with a \$15 billion price tag) ⁹⁵
(a) Click here for a slide show with details with the costs associated with each of the venues hosting matches at the 2018 World Cup
 - iii. By comparison, the projected cost for hosting the 2028 Olympic Games in Los Angeles is nearly $7 billion (a $700 million increase over previous estimates) while a final estimate suggested Japan would spend $26 billion (three times the original estimate) on the 2020 Tokyo Games
(a) In a report published before the International Olympic Committee (IOC) postponed the Games until 2021, it was suggested that a postponement of the Summer Olympics would cost the Japanese economy between $5.42 billion and $6.32 billion
(b) The cost of construction or renovation of the 12 venues being used for the 2020 FIFA Men's World Cup in Qatar is estimated to be between $3 and $4 billion – and that's just the stadium costs
(i) Several estimates published last year suggest Qatar will spend more than $200 billion overall to host the event
 - iv. WrestleMania 32 was not only the highest grossing WWE event ever at $17.3 million (compared to $12.6 million at WrestleMania 31), but also set a new attendance record at 101,763 at AT&T Stadium in Arlington, Texas ⁹⁶
 - v. The organizers of Montreal's International Jazz Festival operate on a hefty $30 million budget ⁹⁷
 - vi. Since opening in downtown Anaheim 26 years ago, the Honda Center arena has hosted nearly 4,000 different events and attracted over 39 million fans ⁹⁸

- d. For sports and entertainment events, event marketing can involve many different marketing activities
 - i. Marketing the event to athletes or entertainers/celebrities to recruit and secure their participation to elevate the attractiveness of the event as a whole
 - ii. Creating a publicity strategy incorporating a plan to utilize the media to increase coverage of the event
 - iii. Promoting the event to the general public to increase attendance or follow the event through the media
 - iv. Marketing the event to corporations to urge sponsorship and general event support
 - v. Working with government officials to provide public support
 - vi. Marketing to private vendors that can provide services for the event
- 2. Corporate support of events
 - a. The role of corporate support in event marketing has increased dramatically in the past few decades. Without sponsorships and corporate support, many events would not only fail to generate a profit, some would cease to exist.
 - i. The ADT Championship, once one of the LPGA's most prestigious events, was eventually canceled because the event sponsor, Stanford Financial, had financial trouble and the event was unable to secure a new sponsor in their place.⁹⁹
 - ii. In 2019, one of the biggest events on the British Darts tour was cancelled after the primary sponsor decided not to renew the partnership, ending an event that had attracted the biggest names in the sport for nearly 25 years
 - b. However, when the corporate support is there for an event, the revenue results can be substantial
 - i. The 2014 Winter Games in Sochi had already inked over \$1 billion in sponsorship revenue by 2010, four years before the games would even take place¹⁰⁰
 - ii. The 2016 Summer Games in Rio sold more than $1.5 billion in sponsorship revenue despite all the negative publicity surrounding the event and the implementation of "Rule 40" which gave athletes more rights to monetize their participation in the games by partnering with corporations on an individual basis
 - (a) Over the past two decades, the International Olympic Committee has more than tripled the amount of money it generates from global sponsorship, according to ibtimes.com
 - iii. According to a study, brands were lined up to invest a record $5.94 in sponsorships of the Tokyo Games before they were postponed, nearly double the amount generated by the 2016 Olympics in Rio. Official partners of the IOC (Procter & Gamble, Coca-Cola, Visa etc.) were projected to spend $1.95 billion on the event with Japanese sponsors like Canon and Fujitsu spending $3.33 billion, a record for domestic partnerships for any Games (the London Games in 2012 generated $1.1 billion in domestic sponsorship, setting the previous sales record).
 - iv. Many college football bowl games rely almost entirely on corporate support
 - (a) The International Bowl in Toronto failed to secure a title sponsor and had to go out of business
 - (b) The Poinsetta Bowl in San Diego was only able to launch after the San Diego County Credit Union decided to support the event as the presenting sponsor
 - c. To entice corporate support, event marketers must integrate the "5 P's of Event Marketing" to their strategy to help sponsors achieve the results they are looking for as an event sponsor or partner

3. The 5 P's of event marketing ¹⁰¹
 - a. Participation
 - i. Involves getting consumers to attend the event and interact with the company, whether visually, verbally or interactively
 - b. Product/brand experience
 - i. Refers to the activity of distributing samples or having the consumer try on or try out your product at the event
 - c. Promotion
 - i. Focuses on the generation of media exposure by creating stories within the event and further increasing corporate awareness through promotions that might include event-related coupons and sweepstakes
 - d. Probe
 - i. Conduct research before, during and after the event to make sure that you are effectively reaching and penetrating your target audience
 - e. Prospect
 - i. Implies that companies should approach event marketing as a long-term commitment
 - ii. Involvement with an event can require several years to establish before a company will reap the reward on their investment
- B. The event triangle ¹⁰²
 1. The event triangle is the model for studying the exchanges developed in sports marketing
 - a. It places emphasis on the relationships between producers and consumers
 2. Three key components of the triangle
 - a. Event
 - i. A function that will draw participants, spectators and sponsors
 - ii. Could be amateur or professional
 - iii. Typically offers entertainment for spectators
 - iv. Provides exposure for sponsors
 - v. More event examples
 - (a) Super Bowl
 - (b) FIFA World Cup
 - (c) High school state tournaments
 - (d) Local charity golf tournament

Case Study

Cross Promotion and the X-Games:

A Unit 2 SEM Case Study

With the ultra popular, annual X-Games event, the ESPN network was able to successfully exploit an effective platform for cross promotion. For the 2003 event, ESPN began generating buzz by circulating free X-Game-branded sampler CDs at movie theaters and concert venues and running a retail promotion with the Coalition of Independent Music Stores (CIMS). The free CD offered music from a broad sampling of genres, including artists Linkin Park, Deftones, Motley Crue, Trapt and Inspectah Deck from the Wu-Tang Clan. The CD was distributed by ESPN street teams at such summer concerts as Ozzfest, Lollapalooza and the Vans Warped tour and included bonus video footage of X-Games athletes.

In addition, the network created commercials featuring Snoop Dogg, featuring the tag line: "X Games comes to L.A. It's off the hizzle fo' shizzle, dizzle." In past X-Games events, ESPN has featured live musical performances, ranging from bands comprised of competing athletes to major record label acts like Eminem and No Doubt.

X-Games IX (2003) on ESPN drew 55 million viewers and the event was later released in a DVD format that featured highlights from the L.A. games, including the inaugural X Games surfing contest and the first-ever 360-degree spin on a motocross bike. A CD soundtrack of the film was included with each DVD.

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Prior to beginning lessons 3.2 and 3.3, engage students in an active discussion surrounding the ever-important concept of revenue.

DISCUSSION

 How do you think sports teams generate revenue? Do you think most professional sports teams are profitable? Why or why not?*

Professional team sports (particularly major league franchises) are finding it increasingly difficult to achieve financial success and turn a profit, due in large part to inflated athlete salaries.

Sports teams rely on the following revenue streams in an effort to turn a profit:

- Ticket sales
- Sponsorship
- Licensing & Merchandise
- Concessions
- Parking
- Fan clubs / Kid's clubs / Special events
- Luxury suites
- Premium / club seating
- TV contracts
- Other media contracts (satellite, radio, internet)
- Fundraising (amateur and collegiate athletics)

 Can you think of an instance where a pro sports team has threatened to move the franchise if it didn't receive funding for a new stadium or arena? Why would a franchise do that?*

Even if students cannot think of a specific example, they should consider WHY a team might have an interest in securing funding for a new venue. New stadiums and arenas typically provide new, added revenue streams (such as club seating and luxury suites among other amenities) that help a team maintain its financial viability. These strategies cater to the corporate consumer who plays a major role in helping a sports organization to maximize profits.

The Financial Structure of Sports Business

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

To listen to a Freakonomics podcast discussing the topic of the business of March Madness, click here. The podcast discusses a number of concepts that tie in with unit 3's core objectives.

A. Team Sports

1. It can be difficult for some professional sports teams to achieve financial success and turn a profit
 - a. In 2012, Forbes reported that more than 50% of NHL franchises suffered financial losses the previous year (18 of the 30 franchises operated at a loss) ¹
 - i. Because so many franchises were reportedly losing money, the owners chose to lockout the players to create a new financial plan that would create a healthier economic situation for each NHL franchise, ultimately resulting in the league cancelling half of the 2012-13 season ²
 - ii. Lockouts aren't always the decision of the owners. When players don't feel they are getting a fair deal, they may choose to strike. This is the position the NFL players are currently in as they prepare to negotiate a new agreement in 2021 with hopes to secure more financial stability via "guaranteed" contracts (where the player would still get paid even in the event of injuries etc).
 - (a) According to USA Today, several Major League Baseball players suggested the need for economic reform during the 2019 All-Star weekend, suggesting they were 'united' and prepared to go on strike if changes aren't made before the next collective bargaining agreement expires in 2021
 - iii. Negotiations can take a long time and are often contentious between a sports league and its player union when it comes to agreeing to terms relating to fair compensation for players, often resulting in negative publicity
 - (a) In 2020, MLB and MLBPA negotiations to play a shortened season due to the covid-19 pandemic took nearly 3 months, leading to a lot of unrest among fans
 - b. Though soccer's popularity is growing in the U.S., Major League Soccer players' average salary is just $326,129. Average player salaries for NBA, MLB, NHL and NFL are about $8 million, $4.4 million, $2.9 million and $2.5 million, respectively. Yet, some reports indicate just half the MLS clubs are currently profitable.³
 - c. Despite selling out every home game and winning the NBA championship (including 13 home sellout playoff games), the Cleveland Cavaliers lost a reported $40 million in 2016 ⁴

- i. After the 2014-15 season, NBA commissioner Adam Silver was quoted as saying a “significant” number of teams were losing money, leading many to speculate the league could have been headed for another lockout when the existing collective bargaining agreement expired in 2017
 - (a) It was reported that 14 NBA teams lost money during the 2016-17 NBA season
 - (b) According to Mr. Silver: "I don't know the precise number and don't want to get into it, but a significant number of teams are continuing to lose money and they continue to lose money because their expenses exceed their revenue. Teams are spending enormous amounts of money on payroll. Some of the contracts we talked about. They still have enormous expenses in terms of arena costs. Teams are building new practice facilities. The cost of their infrastructure in terms of their sales people, marketing people, the infrastructure of the teams have gone up, and in some cases their local television is much smaller than in other markets."
 - (c) According to a Yahoo! report, the NBA salary cap is expected to jump to $118 million for the 2020-21 season which will push average player salaries close to $9 million
 - (d) Thanks in large part to the renewal of massive broadcast deals with ABC, ESPN and TNT that will provide owners and players with substantial revenue increases, the NBA and the National Basketball Players Association extended their collective bargaining agreement through the 2023-24 season
 - (i) Click here to read more about the terms of the extension
- d. According to data from Forbes, MLB's Miami Marlins are projected to lose $22 million in 2019 after losing over $50 million in 2018 (and likely much more in 2020 after all the revenue losses as a result of the pandemic)
- e. Columbus Business First reported that three NHL teams lost money last year, including the Blue Jackets who suffered $1.7 million in negative income
- f. The ECHL's South Carolina Stingrays have reportedly been losing between $400,000 and $700,000 annually since the team first took the ice in 1993 ⁵
 - i. The team's owners eventually asked for assistance from the city of North Charleston to help cover half of their operating losses ⁵
 - ii. Two years ago, the franchise changed ownership, with the new team owner taking an optimistic approach, telling the Post and Courier: "I think there is an opportunity to grow the fan base and improve and enhance the corporate partnerships, particularly in this community because it's growing tremendously. There are only so many sports venues that give companies the opportunity to broadcast their brands, their services and their names. I think the future is very promising, and with a little more focus, some refinement of strategy, and a little more investing in resources and people, this is a very sustainable economic model."
- g. Some speculation exists that some claims made by the owners of professional sports teams of low levels of profitability (or even losses) could be a negotiation tactic or a public relations ploy
 - i. For example, Forbes' has reported that Major League Baseball has been exceptionally profitable for many years. However, as MLB was negotiating with the players union on plans for play for a pandemic-shortened season, the owner of the St. Louis Cardinals said in an interview with a local radio station that "the industry isn't very profitable, to be quite honest."
 - ii. The Chicago Cubs owner, Tom Ricketts, told ESPN that profit margins for a MLB baseball team were low because said most MLB teams' yearly revenue goes right back into the team and that "the league itself does not make a lot of cash."

- h. However, even teams that are profitable (aside from NFL franchises) typically enjoy significantly lower profit margins than other for-profit entities such as banks or publicly traded companies
 - i. Click here to view a chart comparing the profitability of pro sports leagues compared to broadcast/cable companies, banks and publicly traded companies
 - ii. Click here to read an in-depth comparison of professional sports and other entities
- 2. Revenue Streams
 - a. Revenue streams are the means for an organization's cash inflow, typically as a result of the sale of company products or services
 - b. Sports organizations historically relied on several specific streams to generate the majority of their revenue
 - i. Ticket sales
 - ii. Sponsorship
 - iii. Licensing and merchandise
 - iv. Concessions
 - v. Parking
 - c. Sports organizations operating today have several additional, often very lucrative, revenue streams
 - i. Television contracts (local and national)
 - (a) TV contracts provide big money for franchises in the game of sports business, now accounting for a major portion of a team's overall annual revenue
 - (i) The head of digital media at Tennis Channel summed it up in an interview with the LA Times: "Live sports is the most valuable content on the planet."
 - (b) For most major league professional sports teams and big-time collegiate athletics programs, television money is now a primary source of revenue, now even more lucrative than ticket sales which had always been the financial backbone for most franchises
 - (i) According to PWC's annual sports outlook report, last year media rights officially surpassed gate revenue (ticket sales) as the industry's largest revenue generator for the first time in industry history
 - (ii) In 1973, the NBA signed a contract with CBS, yielding $27 million in revenue over 3 years ¹⁰
 - 1. In the last two years, the league has signed extensions with ABC/ESPN and TNT through 2024-25 for a reported $2.66 billion annually ¹⁰
 - (iii) According to Forbes, the biggest collegiate athletic conferences (known as the "power five") make the bulk of their revenue from three primary sources: conference specific TV deals, college bowl games and the NCAA Tournament ¹¹
 - 1. Thanks to massive TV deals with ESPN and Fox Sports, the Big Ten conference generated nearly $760 million in revenue last year, distributing $54 million to each of its member schools while the SEC generated $627 million in revenue, distributing an average of $43.1 million per school (via NBC Sports)

- (c) It isn't just the national television deals that are generating an influx of revenue for some teams; local television deals can be extremely lucrative as well
 - (i) Local Major League Baseball deals reportedly average more than $60 million in annual revenue per team
 - (ii) Three years ago, the Dallas Mavericks signed a contract extension with Fox Sports Southwest in a deal that the Dallas Business Journal estimated to be worth $50 million per year¹²
 - (d) As competition for rights deals for live sports increases (NBC, CBS and Fox have all created sports networks to challenge ESPN), rights deals will likely continue to increase
 - (i) In 2016, ESPN signed a six-year deal with the Big Ten conference worth an estimated $2.64 billion, three times the value of the previous deal
 - (ii) According to businessinsider.com, ESPN paid $15.2 billion over 10 years for the rights to Monday Night football, a 73% annual increase over the previous deal
 - (e) Major television networks aren't the only ones investing in live sports programming, as streaming platforms like Twitter, Facebook and Amazon compete for the attention of sports fans
 - (f) However, some industry professionals wonder if the broadcast rights values will decline post COVID-19, with uncertainty as to whether games will even be played potentially impacting negotiations
 - (i) Click here for one perspective on the future of sports rights deals from Sports Pro Media
- ii. Luxury suite sales
- (a) Luxury suite revenue is one of the most robust business lines for sports teams
 - (i) According to CNBC, in the NBA, NHL and MLB, luxury suites represent up to 20% of a team's overall revenue
 - 1. Yankees Stadium has 68 suites while AT&T stadium, home to the Dallas Cowboys, has 300 suites
 - a. These suites sell for anywhere between $224,000 and $900,000 per year and are typically sold out every season
 - (ii) One of the primary reasons the Milwaukee Bucks had lobbied for a new stadium was the opportunity to increase revenue through luxury suite and premium seating sales
 - 1. According to the Milwaukee Journal-Sentinel, the franchise sold out of their luxury suite inventory (32 suites) before the arena was open to the public
 - (iii) According to data from USA Today, the move from San Diego to LA will help the NFL's Chargers generate significantly more revenue through suite sales and other premium inventory
 - 1. In San Diego, the team had 113 luxury suites, but in their new Inglewood stadium there are more than 275 (where each suite generates $2,700 in food and beverage sales every game)
 - a. That's $742,500 in total for each game if the suites are full
 - b. Over the course of a year, suite sales for the Chargers are expected to generate more than $56 million
 - (iv) According to a Newsday report, the NY Mets generated $148.7 million in premium ticket sales, luxury suites, concessions, advertising and parking sales last year

1. The team has averaged annual ballpark-related revenue earnings of $143.8 million since Citi Field opened in 2009, and this figure does not include revenue from non-premium seats and national/local TV and radio contracts
 2. Similarly, the New York Yankees generated $336.2 million in ticket and suite sales last season, averaging $323.4 million since Yankee Stadium opened in 2009. The Yankees' filings do not include revenue from the sale of concessions, advertising and national and local TV and radio contracts.
- iii. Premium and club seating sales
- (a) Sometimes, the lack of suites or premium seating options within a venue or facility will prompt a sports franchise to lobby for a new stadium (or facility expansion and renovations)
 - (i) Since 1990, 125 of the 140 MLB, MLS, NBA, NFL and NHL teams have built or rebuilt arenas, at a cost of $33.8 billion -- and the public has picked up 54 percent of that tab, according to research by Robert Baade and Victor Matheson, economists at Holy Cross ⁶
 - (ii) Tom Chuckas, president of the Maryland Jockey Club, said in an interview with The Associated Press: "I believe there's an opportunity for the Preakness to generate additional income, which in turn would flow through the rest of the year and improve the condition of the Maryland Jockey Club. To do that, there has to be additional amenities at Pimlico. Churchill Downs has 65 skyboxes that they sell to corporate partners and corporate sponsors. At Pimlico, I don't have any amenity like that." ⁷
 - (iii) In 2017, Anthony Precourt, owner of Major League Soccer's Columbus Crew, threatened to move the franchise to a new city if a new, state-of-the-art facility wasn't built in the area
 1. The Crew's current home, Mapfre Stadium, was built in 1999 and was MLS's first soccer-specific stadium
 2. In 2018, Precourt released renderings of a new stadium in Austin, Texas after months of publicly communicating his intentions to move the franchise after his pleas for a new stadium in Columbus were ignored
 - a. According to a story in the Columbus Dispatch, area lawmakers filed suit against Precourt in an attempt to keep the franchise in Columbus
 - b. Click here to read details relating to the proposed Austin stadium site
 - (iv) In 2019, Phoenix Suns' ownership allegedly threatened to move the team to Seattle or Las Vegas without a new arena deal
 1. The city agreed to an arrangement that would pump $150 million in renovations into Talking Stick Arena (with several million dollars earmarked specifically for improvements to VIP and premium spaces and club seating upgrades)
 - (v) 247sports reported that the Chicago Bears were rumored to be considering a move to suburban Arlington Heights to a new stadium where they could maximize revenue from luxury suites and premium seating, despite the fact the team still had 13-years left on their lease at Soldier Field

1. A move is highly unlikely, especially with a long-term lease arrangement that would be difficult to get out of, but the opportunity to generate more revenue is always appealing to an ownership group
- (b) Major League Soccer's FC Cincinnati, who had been sold out of their premium seating at the team's stadium since their inaugural season, announced plans two years ago to build a new soccer-specific stadium that would hold fewer fans but offer more premium seating options
 - (i) Despite the uncertainty surrounding the landscape of sporting events in the United States due to the pandemic, and an economic downturn, more than 2,000 fans plunked down deposits to reserve seats in the premium seating areas
- (c) Teams today strive to create value wherever possible and the addition of premium seating options provides a lucrative revenue stream
 - (i) In 2015, the Staples Center in Los Angeles (host to the Lakers, Clippers, Kings and a variety of concerts and events) generated over $100 million in premium seating revenue alone, the first time in the building's 15-year history
 1. The Staples Center's premium seating options include 150 private suites, 2,400 Premier Seats, 18 Premier Lounges, 25 Premier Tables and the San Manuel Club for additional dining selections ⁸
 - a. Click here for a detailed breakdown from hollywoodreporter.com.
 - (ii) When the Atlanta Braves moved to SunTrust Park in 2017, their premium seating inventory increased from 340 to over 4,000
 1. Dennette Thornton, Senior Manager, Groups and Premium Membership for the Braves tells SEAT Magazine: "Moving from Turner Field to SunTrust Park, we definitely put an emphasis on premium."
 - a. Various levels of premium seating included:
 - i. Champions Level: 12 suites at $500,000 per year
 - ii. SunTrust Club: 160 seats at $450/ticket
 - iii. Delta Sky360 Club: 1,500 seats at $225/ticket
 - iv. Infiniti Club: 24 suites at $250,000 per year and 1,200 seats at $92/ticket
 - (iii) Many teams are now taking seating areas that had been less desirable in the past and converting them to premium seating areas
 1. Last year, the New England Patriots and Pittsburgh Steelers turned end-zone seating sections into luxurious new "club" seating areas
 - a. According to the Boston Globe, the new indoor space behind the south end zone at Gillette Stadium (home of the Patriots) will be a "members-only" club with annual fees of $1,500 and a requirement to purchase a minimum of two memberships (fees are in addition to the cost of buying season tickets every year)
 2. High levels of fandom help to create revenue streams for some sports and entertainment properties by offering event opportunities on non-game days
 - a. For example, the Pittsburgh Steelers renovation of Heinz Field will include an expansion of a "pub" area that will be open on non-game days to help the team
 - i. According to the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, the team hopes to create an opportunity to serve fans (and generate revenue) even when the team is not playing a home game

3. Minor League Baseball's Reading Fightin Phils invested $200,000 in the construction of their "Savage61 Dugout Suite", creating the most upscale seating area in the stadium
 - a. Click here for a video from the Fightin' Phils introducing the new dugout suite seating option
 4. The Sacramento Kings introduced a unique premium seating option with ten new 'balcony boxes' positioned above the stadium's main entrance
 - a. The balcony boxes offer fans a 360-degree view of the court and the city
 - b. Each box accommodates four people, comes with all-inclusive food and beverage, premium parking spaces and access to the arena's suite level clubs
 5. Missouri athletics decided to renovate the south end zone area of their football stadium to add more premium seating and club seating areas
 - a. By 2019, when the new structure is completed, the Tigers' new structure (complete with multi-purpose event decks in the stadium's southeast and southwest corners; a brand-new rooftop video board; capacity for 4,000 fans in general seats, club seats and suites; and a "Bunker Club" inspired by AT&T Stadium in Arlington, Texas) is expected to bring in $6 million in additional revenue per season, more than four times what the current configuration delivers each year ⁹
 6. In 2019, the Miami Open was moved to Hard Rock Stadium (home to the Miami Dolphins), where $72 million was invested in converting the venue into a state-of-the-art tennis facility
 - a. According to a NY Times story, the court featured 4,738 premium seats, many that resemble Barcaloungers, with individual television screens and range in price from $50,000 to $70,000 for the two-week tournament
 - b. Most premium-seat packages were reportedly sold out two months before the start of the tournament, include private dining rooms
 - i. Some suites have seats made out of Ferrari leather and there is a dedicated entrance from a private parking lot for ticket buyers at the highest price point, in which spectators pass through a tent lined with art, including works by Pablo Picasso and Andy Warhol that can be purchased for upward of $1 million
- iv. Additional media contracts and rights fees (satellite, terrestrial radio, streaming, etc.
- (a) Sports Business Daily reported that SiriusXM extended its media-rights deal with the NHL to broadcast games across through the 2021-22 season (exact terms of the deal were not disclosed) ¹³
 - (b) In 2018, Amazon inked a 2-year, $130 million deal with the NFL for the rights to stream Thursday Night Football games on its Prime Video service, about 30% more than they paid on their original deal with the league ¹⁴
 - (c) Also, in 2018, Twitch secured exclusive rights to stream the Overwatch League's first two seasons for a reported $90 million

- (i) In a press release, Overwatch League described the deal as "historic", saying that it ensured "that every match of the world's first major global city-based esports league will be readily available to fans across the globe." ¹⁵
- v. Fundraising and Donations
 - (a) Collegiate and amateur athletic programs rely heavily on fundraising and donations, primarily through boosters and alumni, for budget support
 - (i) In 2016, Rutgers University announced a $100 million fundraising initiative called "R Big Ten Build"
 - 1. According to nj.com, it took the university just a few months to raise over $50 million, an amount that included 10 donations of $1 million or more and three of the largest donations the school had ever received
 - (ii) People that donate to university sports programs will typically receive preferential treatment from the athletic department – perks can include better seats for games and higher priority to attend in-demand events
 - (b) Fundraising and donations (referred to as "contributions") have helped Clemson to build one of the most successful football programs in the country
 - (i) The each of the past four years, Clemson has generated at least $20.5 in its annual fund, which according to a USA Today report, supplies cash directly to the athletic department
 - (ii) Last year, $38.2 million was raised in its annual fund, $15.1 million in major gifts, including cash, real estate and securities, $5.1 million in planned gifts and endowments and $6.6 million in premium seating and suite sales in the football, basketball and baseball venues
- vi. Pay-per-view
 - (a) Pay-per-view refers to a satellite or cable television service by which customers can order access to a specific broadcast for a set, one-time fee
 - (b) Some sports and entertainment properties rely on pay-per-view sales as a significant revenue stream
 - (i) WWE, UFC and boxing generate millions each year by broadcasting some of their biggest events on a pay-per-view basis
 - 1. Over one million boxing fans bought the 2017 fight between Canelo Alvarez vs. Julio Cesar Chavez Jr., making it the biggest PPV boxing event since Mayweather vs. Pacquiao
 - 2. WWE managed to recoup some of the millions lost due to the COVID-19 pandemic by offering SummerSlam 2020 via pay-per-view in 2020, along with scheduling even more PPV events for the remainder of the calendar year
 - (ii) Many speculated in 2018 that a rumored one-on-one match between two of the most iconic golfers of all-time (Phil Mickelson and Tiger Woods) would generate millions in pay-per-view revenue
 - (iii) Last year, several broadcasters streamed "The Match" via PPV, a one-on-one match between two of the most iconic golfers of all-time (Phil Mickelson and Tiger Woods), an event that attracted more than one million viewers
 - 1. Unfortunately for the broadcast companies like AT&T and Turner Sports, technical difficulties forced the broadcast company to drop (and/or refund) the $19.95 PPV fee and stream the event for free on B/R Live

2. However, AT&T was more than satisfied with the result, with one executive telling the Wall Street Journal in an interview, “This was a huge success. This worked extremely well as a pay-per-view event.”
 - a. In 2020, The Match II featuring Tiger Woods, Phil Mickelson, Peyton Manning and Tom Brady delivered record-setting cable TV ratings, averaging 5.8 million viewers across Turner networks and became the most-watched golf event in cable history.
 - b. While the event broadcast shifted to cable television rather than a pay-per-view format, the exhibition still managed to raised $20 million for COVID-19 relief.

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

Fundraising efforts are critical to the financial success of collegiate and amateur athletic programs. Click here to see several examples of fundraising and donation solicitation efforts from various collegiate athletic programs around the country on Pinterest.

- vi. Additional revenues
 - (a) When the Green Bay Packers renovated Lambeau Field, the goal was to open up new revenue streams by building an atrium that could host events (from corporate outings to weddings) year-round. Thanks in large part to the number of events hosted in the atrium, the franchise is enjoying record profits.¹⁶
 - (i) Thanks in large part to those record profits, the team was able to invest \$140 million in atrium expansion and renovations without turning to taxpayers to help with funding the project
 - (ii) The franchise also committed $65 million to another expansion project that will result in further development of “Titledown District”, a 10-acre plaza that will host year-round community events
 1. The Titledown District area features a Green Bay Packers' snow-tubing hill and ice-skating pond that opened to the public in 2018

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Split students into groups or pairs and challenge them to develop a concept for an entertainment district in your community. You could also introduce this activity later in this unit, after you have reviewed lesson 3.5 on economic development. Encourage them to consider how the area will generate revenue and how it could have a positive impact on the local economy.

- (b) The Boston Red Sox created Fenway Sports Group, a marketing firm that creates businesses that are built on the team's community, firm and business relationships. They use their connections with media, charity, retail and entertainment firms to develop publicity campaigns for such organizations as Boston College, create online ads, manage events and much more. The company also owns equity in other properties like Red Sox Destinations and Roush Fenway Racing. They were profitable in their first year and brought in more than $200 million.¹⁷
 - (i) Click here for an interesting, in-depth analysis of Roush Fenway Racing's business model and financial structure as it relates to the Red Sox organization
- (c) In 2018, the Indianapolis Motor Speedway found a creative way to generate more revenue by offering opportunities for fans to live in "tiny houses" at the track in the days leading up to the Indy 500
 - (i) According to a USA Today story, 15 different "houses" were available, each with slightly different floor plans, but all included air conditioning, electricity, kitchens and indoor plumbing with showers, a big step up in amenities from the traditional "glamping" that traditionally happens at the track
 - (ii) For $3,000, fans got to "live" on the track, with as many as four people in a house that included tickets to the race, parking and other amenities
- (d) Many teams host viewing parties at their home arenas for fans during away games (or other venues when home games are sold out) to drive additional concession, merchandise and parking revenues
 - (i) The Nashville Predators' popularity surged during their Stanley Cup run during the 2017 NHL playoffs with the team selling out watch parties at Bridgestone Arena for away games
 - 1. Merchandise sales during the team's Game 5 watch party were "at least double what they were during a regular-season game", according to a story published on tennessean.com.
 - (ii) To generate even more revenue through viewing parties, some teams are looking at selling sponsorships and/or additional advertising opportunities
 - (iii) Click here for some perspective on how NHL teams could potentially monetize viewing parties (via forbes.com)
 - (iv) In some cases, viewing parties create opportunities for the organization to generate goodwill by donating portions of the proceeds to local charities
 - 1. The Cleveland Cavaliers hosted a watch party for game 7 of the 2016 NBA Finals with proceeds from the ticket sales benefitting local charities
 - a. According to foxsports.com, face value of the tickets was $5 but after they sold out in two minutes, people ended up paying much more on the secondary market
 - (v) According to the National Hockey League, the St. Louis Blues (NHL) sold out their arena for a watch party for Game 7 of the 2019 Stanley Cup Final...so the St. Louis Cardinals (MLB) opened up their home (Busch

- Stadium), selling watch party seats for $20 each, with proceeds benefitting the team's charitable foundation
- (e) The Seattle Seahawks allow fans to use the suites at CenturyLink Field as draft central for fantasy football leagues, charging $85 per "ticket" with a minimum of 8 people
 - (f) In 2019, Mississippi State opened residential apartment lofts with views overlooking the Bulldogs' baseball field
 - (i) Click here for a video clip with a virtual rendering of the "Left Field Lofts" at Mississippi State
 - (ii) Click here to read a story from sportsdaynow.com discussing the potential opportunity that exists by creating residential space at stadiums
 - (g) Because the Jacksonville Jaguars play in one of the smallest NFL markets and lack the corporate support many other teams enjoy, they must get creative to find new ways to generate revenue to maximize franchise profits
 - (i) For example, in partnership with the city of Jacksonville, the team is building a "flex field" and amphitheater as a new home for its practice facility which will double as an entertainment hub (one that hopes to eventually attract events like the NFL draft)
 - 1. Click here to read more about the development from Jacksonville.com.
 - (h) To make up for revenue lost during the pandemic, Minor League Baseball's Pensacola Blue Wahoos listed their stadium on Airbnb for $1500 per night for groups of up to 10 people
 - (i) Additional "experiences" were also available for purchase to add to the stay, including a fireworks show and a catered dinner from the Blue Wahoos' team's chef
 - (ii) According to MiLB's website, all 33 dates available were booked within 24 hours of the posting
3. Costs/expenses could include:
- a. Facility rental/leasing arrangements
 - b. Staff and player salaries (payroll)
 - vi. Also includes retirement and health care benefits
 - vii. In professional sports, player salaries are most often the biggest expense to a franchise
 - (a) The driving issue for NHL owners as it related to the last lockout wasn't revenues but expenses as many small market teams were unable to achieve profitability thanks in large part to high player salaries
 - (b) According to a Forbes report, player costs represent 57% of the Major League Baseball's operating expenses
 - c. Marketing
 - d. Investment in the customer
 - e. General operating expense
 - f. Stadium/venue/facility financing
 - g. Information management/research
 - h. Team expenses (travel etc.)
 - i. Maintenance and security
- B. A sports franchise's basic financial model
- 1. To gain a better understanding of the financial structure of sports business, let's review the NFL's Green Bay Packers' financials for their 2019-20 season and how they compare to the team's previous season
 - 2. Packers' revenue ¹⁹

- a. Packers' total revenue in the 2019-20 season: a record $506.9 million (6.1 percent)
 - b. Primary revenue streams
 - vi. National revenue from the NFL: $296 million (7.9 percent increase)
 - vii. Local revenue: $210.6 million (3.6 percent increase)
 - (a) Includes ticket sales, suite and premium sales, sponsorships, broadcast fees, merchandise sales from the Packers Pro Shop, concessions, atrium-business revenue etc.
- 3. Packers' expenses
 - a. Green Bay Packers total expenses: $436.6 million (down $40.6 million from the previous year)
 - b. Primary expense (cost)
 - vi. Player payroll cost (includes team expenses): $226.5 million ($16.6 million less than the previous year)
- 4. Net income and profit
 - a. The overall net income: $34.9 million (up 315% percent from the previous year)
 - vi. Expenses decreased in 2019 in part because of a decrease in player salaries and costs related to the franchise's year-long celebration of its 100th season in 2018
 - vii. The team was also impacted by a strong performance on the field as the team went 13-3 in the regular season and appeared in the NFC Championship Game
- 5. Because of the economic toll the pandemic will take on the team's finances, next year's report obviously will not be as impressive
 - a. Lambeau Field was closed from mid-March to the end of May, and revenue typically generated from activities such as stadium tours, events and conventions will suffer, while a decrease in fans in the stadium on game days (along with a potential decrease in sponsorship revenue) will have a major impact on the bottom line
- C. Franchise Valuation
 - 1. Unlike industrial or financial business, which is generally valued on cash flow and assets, sport franchises are valued on their revenues for two reasons:
 - a. For the long term, the operating expenses within each league are about the same for every team
 - b. Franchise revenues most closely measure the quality of a team's venue and track athletic performance, ultimately the two most critical elements in the evaluation of team's overall value ²⁰
 - 2. Professional sport team values have risen over the past decade and are expected to rise to unpredictable levels for the next few years
 - a. In 2012, the Los Angeles Dodgers were sold to an ownership group that included former LA Lakers star Magic Johnson for a whopping $2 billion. The team last traded hands in 2004 when maligned owner Frank McCourt purchased the club for $430 million. ²¹
 - b. In 2013, the San Diego Padres were sold for $800 million in a deal that ranked as the third largest in the history of Major League Baseball despite having appeared in the post-season just twice since 1999 ²²
 - c. In 1981, former LA Clippers owner Donald Sterling paid $12.5 million for the team. After his involvement in a very public racism scandal, the NBA forced him to sell the team. At the time, it was valued by Forbes at $575 million, yet the sale price for the franchise fetched a whopping $2 billion (former Microsoft executive Steve Ballmer purchased the team).
 - d. In 2015, Bruce Levenson sold the Atlanta Hawks for $850 million; ten years ago he acquired the franchise for $189 million

- vi. From 2014 to 2015, the average value of a NBA franchise (according to Forbes) skyrocketed from $634 million to $1.1 billion, a 74% increase in just one year. It is the biggest one-year gain since Forbes began valuing teams in the four major U.S. sports leagues in 1998.
 - e. In 2018, two sports teams were sold for record prices when the NFL's Carolina Panthers were sold for $2.3 billion and NBA's Houston Rockets were sold for $2.2 billion
 - vi. In 2019, a new record was set when the billionaire co-founder of e-commerce giant Alibaba purchased the NBA's Brooklyn Nets for a reported $2.35 billion
 - f. The Kansas City Royals were purchased by Kansas City businessman John Sherman for $1 billion from David Glass. Glass purchased the Royals for $96 million in 2000, giving the outgoing owner an annualized price appreciation of 13%. Forbes had recently valued the MLB franchise at $1.03 billion.
 - g. The Minnesota Timberwolves, Glen Taylor is looking into the potential sale of the NBA franchise. NBA sales have been robust recently, with big-market teams such as the Brooklyn Nets ($2.35 billion), Houston Rockets ($2.2 billion) and LA Clippers ($2 billion) pushing the average NBA franchise value to more than $2 billion, according to Forbes. However, it is Taylor's wish that the franchise remains in Minnesota and the most comparable recent sales occurred last year when the Grizzlies were sold for $1.25 billion.
- D. Why would sports team owners invest in teams if generating a profit is not a sure thing?
- 1. As reported by the Charlotte Observer, since 2000, the overall value of an average sports franchise has increased 250%. Annual growth is around 9%, which is significantly better than the stock market's 3.2%.
 - a. Sports teams are also seen as recession proof as they gain value even when the rest of the economy is struggling
 - b. Sports teams also continue to appreciate in value even when the team fails to perform
 - vi. For example, a 2019 story from Forbes reported the average value of an NBA franchise at $1.9 billion, an increase of 15% over the previous season
 - (a) Despite losing a collective 80% of their games last season, the New York Knicks remain the most valuable NBA team at $4 billion (up 11% from a year ago and more than double the league average)
 - (b) Click here to see the full list at forbes.com
 - vii. The Miami Marlins have not made the MLB playoffs in almost 15 years (and have only had two winning seasons in that period of time), but that hasn't stopped the franchise's value from increasing an incredible 1,165% since Jeff Loria bought the team in 2002 for $158.2 million
 - (a) In 2017, Mr. Loria sold the franchise for $1.2 billion, or $1 billion more than what he originally paid for the team
 - viii. It isn't just major league teams seeing record franchise values
 - (a) A USA Today story published in 2018 suggests that minor league baseball's 20 most valuable teams are worth an average of $37.5 million, up 35% from 2013.
 - (i) According to the story, the most valuable minor league baseball franchises are the Sacramento River Cats (valued at $49 million), the Charlotte Knights ($47.5 million) and El Paso Chihuahuas ($38.7 million)
 - 2. Most owners accumulated massive wealth before purchasing teams and see sports franchises as long term investments

- a. According to Forbes, in 2016, there were 63 billionaires who own teams around the world -- 20 NBA teams were owned by billionaires and the NFL had 19 billionaire owners
- 3. However, as the Sports Business Journal recently asked, could the pandemic finally reverse the trend of soaring franchise values?
 - a. Most industry experts agree that if the sports world returns to a semblance of normalcy, there's ultimately little risk to the long-term value of these assets. But that relies on the assumption that, at some point, things will return to a position of growth potential like it was prior to the pandemic.

The Financial Structure of the Entertainment Business

A. Entertainment business revenue streams

1. Similar to sports products in that both products can be developed into merchandise, used for promotion, and create profit through sales of ancillary products, licensing, and royalties ²³
 - a. Ancillary products are products related to or created from the core product ²¹
2. Because there are so many different types of entertainment products, the revenue generated by marketing can be very diverse
 - a. A single blockbuster Hollywood film can generate a number of ancillary products
 - i. Videos
 - ii. DVDs
 - iii. Video games
 - iv. Rights can be sold to cable television
 - v. Rights can be sold to pay-per-view television
 - vi. Film can be the basis for a video game, TV series, book, or clothing line
 - vii. Rights can be sold for licensed merchandise (toys, games, apparel, etc)
 - b. The sale of those ancillary products makes a profit for the film creators in the form of sales, royalties and licensing fees
 - i. Royalties are payments made to the owner of copyrighted work for use of their material ²⁴
 - (a) Songwriters like Bob Dylan and Paul McCartney receive compensation when other artists “cover” (record or perform their own version) of the original song or when parts of the song are used as “samples” in another artists’ music
 - (b) For example, a Billy Squier tune called “The Stroke”, originally released in 1981, was heavily sampled in Eminem’s “Berzerk”, featured on his hit album Marshall Mathers 2. Eminem’s success (the album debuted at number one on the US Billboard 200, had the second highest album sales in 2013, and the album has sold 2,155,247 as of July of 2014) will be shared long term with Billy Squier in the form of royalties.
 - (c) When artists don’t feel they are being fairly compensated for their work, or if they feel another artist is infringing on their intellectual property (stealing their work), lawsuits are soon to follow
 - (i) For example, a company that owns partial rights to Marvin Gaye’s 1973 hit song “Let’s Get it On” sued Ed Sheeran for $100 million, suggesting the singer-songwriter copied “Let’s Get It On” on his 2014 song “Thinking Out Loud”
 - (d) Click here to learn more about the different forms of royalties
 - ii. There is a lot of money at stake for artists in the form of royalty payments
 - (a) Rolling Stone magazine reported that the show Glee paid an average of $15,000 to $30,000 per song in licensing fees, with the biggest names getting more. ²⁵
 - (b) Also according to a New York Times report, Pandora and Sirius XM paid out nearly $656 million in performance royalties last year
 - (i) However, in 2018, Sirius XM agreed to a $150 million settlement over unpaid song royalties
 - (c) In 2017, Spotify claimed its biggest expense was royalty and distribution payments, which they say was equal to 85% of their revenue

- c. A typical Hollywood marketing strategy includes planning the merchandising and product tie-ins before planning the casting and film production schedule
 - i. Increasingly, studios plan the merchandising, products, DVD and electronic games and toys they will tie in with their proposed film before the actors and other technical staff are determined
 - (a) To a studio, movies seen as revenue generators, artistic statement is secondary
 - (b) As DVD sales decline and box office sales show signs of slow growth (while films become even more expensive to make), studios are looking to other avenues to boost revenue
 - (c) Tie-in toys are viewed as the future of movie marketing as they keep fans engaged between film releases
 - (i) This trend has studios focused on making movies that are “toy-ready”, of which there were 25 released last year, compared to the previous annual average of eight
 - (ii) Examples of “toy-ready” films include “Toy Story 4”, “Scooby Doo”, “Batwoman”, “Black Widow” and “Frozen 2”
 - (d) Despite the film release delays as the result of the pandemic, toy production and gaming companies tried to remain on schedule, offering a variety of products tied to major titles from “Black Widow” to “Minions: The Rise of Gru”
 - (i) To help maintain a revenue stream, most products were already distributed in retail stores and online, available for purchase months in advance of the film’s theatrical release date
 - 1. Click here to read more from wusa9.com
 - ii. Tie-ins aren’t limited to toys, marketing tie-ins also provide a studio with opportunities to generate additional revenue
 - iii. If a film can be developed into a franchise (a series of films which will tie together), it can be a huge money maker for the brand / studio
 - (a) Harry Potter, Rocky, Indiana Jones, Marvel, James Bond, Batman, Pirates of the Caribbean, Star Wars, Twilight, The Hunger Games
 - (i) The top five film franchises in movie history are Marvel Cinematic Universe, Star Wars, Wizarding World (Harry Potter), Spider-Man, James Bond ²⁶
 - (ii) Click here to see the entire list
2. Product placement
 - a. Product placement is an advertising approach in which commercial products and services are used within the context of certain media where the presence of a particular brand is the result of an economic exchange
 - i. Product placement can be present in a number of media formats
 - (a) Theatre, film, television, music, video games and books
 - ii. Product placement is one of the fastest growing advertising mediums in the entertainment industry
 - (a) According to PQMedia, the U.S. product placement market grew by 14.5% last year but revenues are expected to fall 0.4% in 2020, thanks to coronavirus-related economic chaos — snapping a growth streak that dates to the Great Recession in 2009 ²⁷
 - (i) While currently only 2% of U.S. ad budgets is spent on product placement, that is starting to change as dollars drift to digital entertainment from television (according to the LA Times)
 - (b) In-game product placements are quickly becoming one of the most lucrative forms of product placement for video game makers

- (i) In 2009, spending on in-game product placement was estimated at $699 million. It reached $1 billion by 2014 and according to Forbes, grew to $7.2 billion in 2017.
- (ii) Microsoft partnered with Chevrolet as the first ad partner attached to its Kinect Xbox 360 gaming interface when Chevy's Volt electric car appeared as a product placement in "Kinect Joy Ride," one of the first games designed for the popular console)²⁸
- (iii) With live sports on hold during the pandemic, Adidas turned to video games for brand exposure
 - 1. Adidas recreated the canceled European Championship in the FIFA 20 Playstation video game. Each match was filled with Adidas branding, from its logo on both the in-game ball and kits to the players themselves wearing its apparel when they were on the screen.
- (c) After the commercial success of his hit "Gangnam Style", PSY was reportedly paid $1 million for a three second spot in his follow up video for the song, "Gentleman", by a video game developer. Several other brands are also featured in the video.²⁹
- (d) "Man of Steel," the highly anticipated reboot of the Superman franchise, earned $160 million from product placements from more than 100 brands, shattering the record held by "James Bond Skyfall" which generated a then-record $45 million in endorsements in 2012.³⁰
- (e) The concept has become so prominent that one filmmaker (Morgan Spurlock from Super-Size Me) chose to create an entire film based on the idea of product placement in which the documentary (called The Greatest Movie Ever Sold) follows his efforts to fund the entire movie through corporate product placement deals
- iii. Product placement and brand integration is presenting itself in new, more aggressive forms
 - (a) According to Adam Kluger, CEO and founder of the Kluger Agency: "Brands are tripling their revenue (just) because of a mention in a Jay-Z song, so we go after the companies and partner them with the demographic. If you hear an artist talking about his new Fila sneakers, you're going to think about it when you go shopping."³¹
 - (b) The selfie Oscars host Ellen DeGeneres took during the show with a Samsung mobile device sparked a lot of conversation and it was later revealed that, as part of its sponsorship and ad pact for the Oscars with ABC, Samsung previously negotiated to have its Galaxy smartphone integrated into the show
 - (c) When Seth Rogen presented an award at the 2017 Oscars wearing a pair of "Back to the Future" themed sneakers, Nike received an estimated $583,000 in promotional value without spending a dime on advertising (all they had to do was provide Rogen with the shoes)
 - (i) Click here for the full story on how Nike was the "unexpected winner at the Oscars" from qz.com.
 - (d) In celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Discovery Channel's wildly successful "Shark Week" program, Volkswagen created a "Volkswagen Beetle Shark Observation Cage" to replace the standard shark cage used in prior airings of the show³²
 - (e) More and more record labels are looking for ways to recoup lost revenue through declining CD sales and product placement provides a new avenue for generating revenue (and padding the pocket books of the entertainers themselves)

- (i) According to a report published in Rolling Stone, Britney Spears made a half million dollars from the product placement in her music video for "Hold It Against Me," which featured products such as a Sony television, Make Up Forever eye shadow and dating website Plenty of Fish ³³
- (ii) The 9.5-minute music video for Lady Gaga's hit song "telephone" featured product placement for 10 different brands, including Virgin Mobile, Miracle Whip, Diet Coke, HP and Wonderbread (among others) and has been viewed nearly 110 million times on YouTube
- (iii) The video for Ariana Grande's 2018 song "The Light is Coming" prominently featured the singer wearing Reeboks, while her Instagram post alerted fans to the fact the video would drop exclusively on Reebok's website (the brand reportedly paid for the music video)
- (iv) Chris Brown's top-10 hit, "Forever", was originally financed by Wrigley's gum as a jingle for Doublemint chewing gum
- (v) Pepsi basically financed an entire feature film when they took the theme from an advertisement that went viral (Pepsi Max's "Uncle Drew") and turned it into a box office success story
 - 1. According to CNN, Pepsi declined to share production costs for the film, but several other brands (including Nike and Wheaties, who, like Pepsi have natural promotional interests in the "Uncle Drew" character) reportedly helped support the movie financially ³⁴
 - a. Click here to read more from CNN why Pepsi decided to make "Uncle Drew" into a movie
 - b. Click here to see the original Pepsi Max Uncle Drew commercial (viewed nearly 53 million times on YouTube)
- (vi) Soon after performing at the Super Bowl in 2019, Vogue revealed that Travis Scott's video for "Can't Say" in which he was dressed exclusively in Saint Laurent was financed entirely by the brand, leading the magazine to suggest it represented "an unusually close relationship between brand and artist."
 - 1. When Travis Scott dropped his "JackBoys" album in 2020, a music video for one of the songs, "Gang Gang" prominently featured numerous products from Elon Musk-founded companies: Tesla's newly announced Cybertruck and Cyberquad ATV, as well as a Boring Company flamethrower
- (f) Electronic Arts' popular video game franchise 'Madden NFL' and Pizza Hut partnered last year for the first-ever virtual stadium naming rights deal in esports
 - (i) In the deal, the virtual in-game stadium experience was referred to as "Pizza Hut Stadium"
- (g) The next step in product placement? Even more aggressive strategies like retroactively placing ads in music videos that have already been created.
 - (i) Via Rolling Stone: "As first reported in Financial Times, the deal will integrate brands in music videos in ways unheard of even five years ago. Unlike a traditional product placement deal — in which a brand would work with the record label and artist and insert their product into the video during its production — retroactive product placement (a.k.a. native in-video advertising) functions more like traditional advertising. The ads inserted into each video have a finite lifespan and can be removed or replaced instantly. Companies may also localize ads, meaning a person in New York may see a Pepsi billboard at the same time someone in London sees an ad for McDonald's."

- (ii) Similar technology is also used to retroactively insert products and brands into re-run episodes of popular television shows like "Friends" or DVD releases of films
 - 1. When Marvel released "The Avengers" on DVD, several deleted scenes from the original film and the new format's inclusion of an "extended ending" featured prominent placement of Acura vehicles (according to brandchannel.com)
- (h) Even authors and publishing companies engage in product placement. For example, auto brands make heavy appearances in the Twilight books (Volvo is mentioned 16 times in the original book and six times in Eclipse).³⁵
 - (i) Gordon Hodge, who follows the comic books business for Thomas Weisel Partners, told the Wall Street Journal that the product placement in comic books "market is worth about $400 million to $450 million, with Marvel controlling about 37% and DC capturing around 33%."³⁶
 - (ii) Marvel Entertainment has placed the Nike swoosh onto a character's T-shirt and on a car door in several of its popular comic books (including "New X-Men")
 - (iii) DC Comics, home to characters such as Batman and Aquaman, is launched "Rush City," boasting visible promotional support from General Motors Corp.'s Pontiac. As part of the series, a new hero known as "The Rush" will be prominently featured driving a Pontiac Solstice in the comic book. "The car will be as essential to the character as the Aston Martin was to James Bond," says David McKillips, vice president of advertising and custom publishing for DC Comics.³⁷
 - 1. Click here to read about Lexus' recent sponsorship of an entire issue of a Marvel comic called "The Chase"
 - (iv) A custom "special edition" digital "Guardians of the Galaxy" comic book highlighted several features of Ford's EcoSport vehicles as part of the brand's integration with the May 5th box office release of 'Guardians 2'
 - 1. Click here to see some of the other ways Ford connected its brand with the 'Guardians 2' film with a Marvel microsite, marvel.com/ecosport.
- b. A product tie-in refers to any marketing or promotional activity that connects one brand or product with another (usually more well-known or publicized) product or event
 - i. A tie-in is not the same thing as product placement
 - (a) For example, through a series of promotional deals, Marvel aligned the blockbuster 'Avengers: Endgame' film with dozens of brands (but those brands were not necessarily featured on-screen during the film)
 - (i) Notable promotional tie-ins included:
 - 1. Adidas launched a "Heroes Among Us" limited-edition sneaker collection inspired by six iconic Marvel characters: Iron Man, Black Panther, Captain Marvel, Captain America, Thor, and Nick Fury
 - 2. Google created a "secret" game that could be unlocked through their popular search engine and also created a tie-in with the Pixel 3 phone, featuring augmented reality "Playmoji" stickers of the heroes

3. Coca-Cola created a commercial that featured a teenage girl receiving super powers by drinking a Coke, helping her get to the theater in time for the film's premiere
- (b) In 2020, Build-a-Bear revealed a "Black Widow" themed bear ahead of film's release, demonstrating the many different ways brands and studios can collaborate on product tie-ins
- (c) In 2019, the "Spider-Man: Far From Home" promotional media campaign set an industry record with $288 million in media value, thanks to tie-ins with brands like Doritos, Dr. Pepper, United Airlines and Audi
 - (i) According to Deadline, the media value of the campaign shattered the previous record, set just months earlier by "Avengers: Endgame" which was estimated to be around $200 million ³⁸
- (d) With movie theaters still closed because of the pandemic, Warner Bros. released the animated feature film Scoob! directly to home viewers. The film — the first full-length animated Scooby-Doo adventure intended for the big screen — included promotional tie-ins like a Playmobil Mystery Machine, Scooby-Doo themed Converse sneakers, and free digital copies of comic books to help promote the movie's DVD release.

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

In class, create a short list of recently released and/or soon to be released movies that are likely to have some box office success. Then, come up with three to five potential tie-ins with each film. Ask students why those tie-ins might benefit the brand as well as how they could benefit the success of the film.

- c. When the featured product does not pay for the exposure, it is referred to as a product plug
 - i. Not all product appearances are paid
 - (a) World Wrestling Entertainment (WWE) World Heavyweight Champion, Phillip Jack Brooks (a.k.a. CM Punk) has a Pepsi logo tattooed on his left shoulder despite reportedly not being a paid endorser of Pepsi products
 - (b) Netflix revealed they had partnered with around 100 companies to produce tie-in products or promotions to promote the third season
 - (i) However, according to the American Marketing Association, none of the brands featured in the eight episodes paid for product placement
 - (ii) Instead, Netflix allowed the brands to generate their own marketing buzz for their products while helping to promote the third season of one of its most popular shows ³⁹
 1. According to one report, the brand placement in the third season of the show was estimated to be valued at $15 million (Coca-Cola gained approximately $1.5 million in ad value from their product placement of "New Coke" and another $1.2 billion in value from the media impressions (conversation between consumers through social media platforms etc.) generated by its alignment with season three of “Stranger Things”

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Netflix eschewed traditional marketing for season three of its incredibly popular 'Stranger Things' series, partnering with 100 different brands and turning its promotional strategy "upside down". The volume of brand partners did not go unnoticed by fans, some complaining the show had become too commercialized and that the product placements were distracting. However, a Netflix spokesperson said the company did not receive payment for any of the product placement or promotional tie-ins. Either way, season three became one of the most-watched shows in Netflix history, and brand partners reaped the benefits of association with a pop culture phenomenon.

We created a PPT featuring several notable examples of product placement from the show, along with highlights of several creative promotional tie-ins from brands like Coke, Nike and H&M. Use the PPT to revisit (and reinforce) the concept of the paradox of commercialism (lesson 2.7), and introduce product placement and promotional tie-ins.

Additionally, discussing Netflix and their subscription-based business model would also be a worthwhile conversation. The company has publicly stated they have no immediate intention of shifting to an advertising-based model or plans to seek paid product placement with their original programming. Ask students why Netflix might be opposed to advertising or paid product placement, and if they think Netflix will stick to their strategy and keep their original programming ad-free in the long-term. The file is accessible from the Lesson 3.3 folder on your thumb drive.

- (c) FX's comedy 'Baskets' integrated several brands (Costco and Arby's) into the show's actual storyline but, despite trying to find partners for product placement within the show, did not gain any financial support from either brand
 - (i) Click here for an interesting read about the show 'Baskets' and its product placements from adweek.com.
- (d) In 2018, iconic slow-cooker brand Crock-Pot tried to distance themselves from the television show, This Is Us, after an episode revealed that a popular character was killed when a Crock-Pot started a fire in the character's home
 - (i) The company said in a statement: "The safety and design of our product renders this type of event nearly impossible. Our Crock-Pot slow cookers are low-current, low-wattage (typically no more than 200 or 300 watts) appliances with self-regulating, heating elements."
 - (ii) The company even posted on Facebook: ""We're heartbroken over last night's episode, too! We're innocent until proven guilty."

- (iii) Even show creator felt compelled to jump in and defend the Crock-Pot brand after the backlash, tweeting "Taking a moment to remind everyone that it was a 20-year-old fictional crockpot with an already funky switch? Let's not just lump all those lovely hardworking crockpots together."
 - (e) In the final season of HBO's hit show 'Game of Thrones', observant fans noticed a Starbucks cup that was erroneously left on set during one of the scenes, leading to millions of mentions and engagements through social media
 - (i) HBO digitally removed the coffee cup from the scene, but not before Starbucks generated billions in free advertising (one brand marketing company put the estimated value of the free publicity at $2.3 billion)
- a. Is product placement effective?
 - i. According to CNBC, product integrations on Hulu deliver an 89 percent higher purchase intent and 74 percent higher brand awareness over traditional 30-second commercials
 - ii. The decision to feature Reese's Pieces in ET catapulted the product-placement craft into the Hollywood mainstream. Sales of the candy subsequently increased 80%.⁴⁰
 - iii. Etch A Sketch, Mr. Potato Head and Slinky were toys in the blockbuster Disney movie Toy Story. Subsequently, Etch A Sketch sales increased 4,500 percent; Mr. Potato Head sales increased 800 percent; Slinky, out of business for 10 years, made a furious comeback after getting over 20,000 orders.⁴⁰
 - iv. A Billabong brand jacket featured in the second Twilight film ignited a buying frenzy. The brand quickly sold out of the jacket and it could later be found on eBay going for many times its retail price.⁴¹
 - v. Thanks to a product placement ad in the popular social network game "Farmville", Microsoft gained over 400,000 Facebook fans on their Bing fan page in just one day.⁴²
 - vi. USA Today reported that, when Jaguar automobiles figured prominently in the story line of a 2012 episode of "Mad Men", the brand experienced a 96.27% lift in "content consumption" (how often people were talking about the brand on digital devices), despite the fact that the brand wasn't portrayed in a positive light.
 - vii. That's not to say product placement isn't a risky endeavor for both the brand and the film producer.
 - (a) Gitesh Pandya, editor of BoxOfficeGuru.com, told Investors Business Daily that product placement activity "has been going on for so long that most consumers are used to it. The big concern is if they overdo it with too many brand partners." In the case of "Iron Man 3," the product placement for Verizon FiOS is so obvious that it comes off as crass, he says. "Their plug in the film is just shameless," Pandya said. "It's just blatant promotion for the brand and it really has nothing to do with the story."
 - (b) U.S. consumers who saw the fourth installment of the Transformers franchise, Age of Extinction complained the product placements were awkward, summed up when a viewer wrote on one movie review site after seeing the film, "It's disgusting to see so many ads in one movie."
 - (i) Chinese companies who paid hundreds of thousands of dollars to have their brands featured in the film complained about the limited exposure their brands received as a result of their placement agreement (at the time this text was released, at least one was taking Paramount Pictures, the studio behind the film, to court)

- (c) Baskin-Robbins' engaged in a reverse product placement strategy as part of their partnership with Netflix and season three of "Stranger Things" when they re-branded several stores as "Scoops Ahoy" (the name of the ice cream shop featured in the show's storyline)
 - (i) Over the two-week period in which a Burbank, California location was transformed into a "Scoops Ahoy", the store enjoyed an increase in sales of 150% (according to CBS News)
- b. Reverse product placement
 - i. Reverse product placement occurs when real life products are developed that match products featured in a fictional context
 - (a) In 2012, Staples (an office supply chain store) began selling "Dunder Mifflin" branded copy paper products after entering a licensing agreement with NBC for the rights to use the name and images from the popular sitcom
 - (b) Later in 2012, Staples began to carry more Dunder Mifflin branded products while a statement from the company suggested revenue generated by sales of the original Dunder Mifflin copy paper was "two times what we expected."
 - ii. Brandchannel.com named Willy Wonka the "greatest example of reverse product placement of all time" in commemoration of the film's 40th anniversary (today, under the Nestlé umbrella, the Wonka candy company still produces a range of candy, from Sweet Tarts to Nerds, Gobstoppers to Laffy Taffy and still makes extensive use of the "golden ticket" for marketing opportunities) ⁴³
 - iii. To build hype for the premiere of the third season of TNT's "Dallas", the Ewing family unveiled its first "Ewing Energies" gas station, offering gas at deeply discounted rates in a reverse product placement that lasted just one day ⁴⁴
 - iv. A deal was announced between Frito-Lay and Wal-Mart in which 1.5 million packages of "Cheesy Poofs", the snack made famous in Comedy Central's cartoon show South Park, would be available exclusively at Wal-Mart stores to celebrate the show's 15th season ⁴⁵
 - v. Deadline.com explains how Heinz decided to run a series of print advertisements in 2017 showing close-up photos of chips, steak and burgers with a slogan, "Pass the Heinz", that was originally created (and filmed) for an episode of the popular television series, 'Mad Men'
 - (a) The ads were displayed on billboards across New York City, in the pages of the New York Post and in Variety magazine
 - vi. On August 8th, 2017 (8/8/17), ESPN became "ESPN 8: The Ocho" for one day, drawing inspiration from the hit movie "Dodgeball: A True Underdog Story"
 - (a) For one day only, the faux network featured a line-up of unconventional, niche sporting events ranging from Disc Golf to Ultimate Trampoline Dodgeball and Firefighters World Challenge playing off the mantra highlighted in the movie: "Bringing you the Finest in Seldom Seen Sports"
 - (b) According to MVP Index, last year's switch to ESPN8 resulted in 207K engagements and a social value of $247.6K in just 24 hours
 - (c) In 2019, ESPN's "The Ocho" broadcasts included coverage of events like the 46th Annual Cherry Pit Spitting Championship, a stone skipping competition, "stupid robot fighting", the Acrobatic Pizza trials, a sign spinning competition and lawn mower racing
 - (i) Click here to read a story from variety.com on how the "ESPN 8" strategy is more than just a crazy publicity stunt
 - (ii) Click here to see the entire lineup of events scheduled in 2019
 - (d) With all major sports on hold because of the COVID-19 health crisis, ESPN again brought back 'The Ocho' in 2020

- (i) A live world record deadlift attempt by Hafthor Bjornsson averaged a 0.22 rating and 302,000 viewers on ESPN 'The Ocho', making it ESPN's most-watched program of the day according to sportsmediawatch.com.

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Challenge students to come up with a reverse product placement marketing campaign using one of their favorite sports or entertainment mediums as the source. Have them create a real product based on something from a book, TV show or movie, then create a brief plan for promoting the product. Encourage students to present their product idea in class.

Lesson 3.4

Tracking Industry Trends

* INSTRUCTOR'S NOTES *

The state of the sports and entertainment industry is in flux as teams, leagues, events and brands scramble to find ways to navigate the pandemic. As a result, new trends are sure to emerge, from fan engagement strategies to venues and facilities placing an added emphasis on fan and personnel safety. Ask students what trends they think might take shape when things begin to go back to “normal”, meaning fans are allowed back in stadiums etc. How might the pandemic impact the industry in a way that we might see new trends take shape in the world of sports and entertainment?

A. What is an industry trend?

1. Industry trends are patterns that occur within a specific industry. These patterns could relate to pricing, costs, consumer behavior, manufacturing, promotions/sales strategies, distribution channels or any function of marketing.
2. Trends are constantly shifting within the sports and entertainment industry, making it critical for marketers to effectively track them
 - a. Shifts in industry trends
 - i. Customer buying patterns
 - ii. Consumer preferences / distastes
 - iii. Effective marketing techniques (product placement for example)
 - iv. Product and/or service modifications
 - v. New technology
 - vi. Efficient communication tools
 - b. How do sports and entertainment marketers adjust accordingly?
 - i. Before any adjustment can be made, marketers must first be aware of changes or shifts in trends
 - ii. How do sports and entertainment marketers effectively track industry trends?
 - (a) Monitor sports and entertainment news online
 - (b) Read trade or business magazines, journals, websites or newsletters
 - (c) Consider the marketing efforts involved when attending competitor events
 - (d) Attend sports/entertainment business conventions, exhibitions and events
 - (e) Obtain research from sports/entertainment marketing firms
 - (f) Observe activity of competitors
 - (g) Communicate with others within the industry
 - iii. Marketers evaluate trends that fit their respective marketing plans and implement changes accordingly

- (a) In the sports and entertainment industry, the trend toward consuming online content has industry executives focusing on engagement strategies to capture (and keep) fan interest
 - (i) Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC) launched a branded YouTube channel, marking the first and only official partnership between YouTube and a major collegiate sports conference ⁴⁶
 - (ii) Fans crave more than just news updates and live streams, they want to engage with their favorite sports and entertainment properties in other ways
 - 1. Roughly 68 percent of sports fans use mobile devices to share blooper videos and photos, while 65 percent enjoy watching nostalgic moments in sports history ⁴⁷
 - (iii) As more and more consumers shift focus to tablets and mobile devices, marketers will respond by creating content available for digital distribution
 - 1. Young males spend more time-consuming media on XBOX than playing video games, according to Sean Bratches, ESPN Executive Vice President of Sales & Marketing, creating another platform for connecting with fans of the ESPN brand ⁴⁸
 - 2. As a result, WatchESPN is now available in over 83 million homes, more than double its distribution from a year ago ⁴⁹
 - (iv) In 2019, ESPN announced that its streaming service (ESPN+) had surpassed one million subscribers in just five months and reached two million subscribers in less than a year
 - 1. By August of 2020, that number swelled to more than 8.5 million subscribers

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

One trend identified in lesson 3.4 is the movement toward sports and entertainment properties developing unique online content. At this point, most have already launched YouTube channels like the ACC conference to capture the interest of fans and bolster levels of fan engagement.

Challenge students to find at least five unique YouTube channels featuring sports and entertainment brands (could be anything from Under Armour to a professional volleyball league) and then list the type of content being provided on the YouTube site.

You could also ask students to search online and find five to ten unique examples of what sports and entertainment properties (i.e. - pro sports team or their favorite athletes or celebrities) are doing online to engage fans.

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Challenge your class to create your OWN original sports and entertainment content online. It could be a YouTube channel that features material developed in your classroom or unique online content featuring your school sports and entertainment hosted on your school website. There are a lot of interesting ways to get creative and have some fun with this project!

3. Sports and entertainment industry trends to watch
 - c. Continued growth of augmented/virtual reality offerings
 - d. Pop-up stores
 - i. A pop-up refers to the concept of opening a short-term sales space, often launched as a promotional tool to create awareness and build interest for new products
 - (a) Pop-ups are typically only open from a few days to several months and provide opportunities for consumers to physically interact with a product
 - (b) Pop-ups provide a less expensive alternative to retail because a business does not commit to a long-term lease
 - (c) According to the American Marketing Association, the pop-up concept is now estimated to be a $50 billion industry
 - (i) In 2020, Nintendo opened "Switch On The Go pop-up lounges" at several U.S. airports, including Dulles International, Tacoma International & O'Hare. They were open for about six weeks and offered travelers access to charging ports along with playable Switch demos
 1. Some of Nintendo's most popular games were available, including "The Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild," "Mario Kart 8 Deluxe" and "Super Mario Odyssey."
 2. Travelers who visited the lounge were given a free Switch-branded luggage handle wrap and a $10 coupon to use at Target on a Nintendo purchase of $75 or more. Visitors were also able to place orders for Switch, Switch Lite and a selection of games and merchandise.
 - (ii) Nike has launched pop-ups around the world, including a shipping container converted into a Nike "store" in Berlin, a SNKRS-branded (a Nike app) retail experience at the Super Bowl in Atlanta, and dropped an exclusive Air-Max sneaker at a pop-up in France.
 1. Nike sold exclusive SNKRS merchandise at its SNKRS pop-up. The pop-up also featured a vending machine that served SNKRS and city of Atlanta-themed swag for free, such as stickers, pins and smartphone cases. To get the freebies, consumers had to scan their "Nike+ Pass", a QR code in the profile section of the consumers' SNKRS app.

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

To have some fun teaching the concept of industry trends, along with the current “pop-up store” trend, consider accessing the “Industry Trends – Pop-Up Stores” lesson plan bundle, complete with a lesson plan guide, PPT and activity rubric.

- c. More theme parks that look like “blockbuster worlds” ⁵⁰
 - i. After the success of Harry Potter’s “Wizarding World” at Universal, expect more park operators to introduce attractions that feature themes from your favorite film franchises
 - (a) A “Frozen” themed world depicting Arendelle opened at Tokyo DisneySea, Pandora (“Avatar”) at Disney’s Animal Kingdom and Star Wars Land at Disneyland and Hollywood Studios
 - (b) In 2019, Disneyland opened its highly anticipated Star Wars: Galaxy’s Edge, selling out its reservations in just two hours
 - (i) It took the park just one month to announce that 1 million riders had already ridden the Millennium Falcon: Smugglers Run ride since Star Wars: Galaxy’s Edge debuted
 - (c) Also, in 2019, popular film franchises “Hunger Games” and “Twilight” were brought to life when the Lionsgate (the studio behind the films) opened a “vertical theme park” (the park is a futuristic building that is ten stories high) in China
 - (i) According to the New York Post, “Lionsgate Entertainment World” will offer several attractions based on popular film franchises, including:
 1. A virtual reality motorcycle ride with a pack of wolves, simulating an experience from “Twilight”
 2. A 3D experience called The Hunger Games: Mockingjay Flight Rebel Escape, starting on the streets before riders board a vehicle that gets picked up by a hovercraft that flies through a scene depicting “The Capitol” from the films
 3. A virtual reality roller coaster based on the “Gods of Egypt” film where riders don headsets and soar through ancient Egypt during an epic battle between good and evil
 4. The theme park will also include attractions based on films such as “Divergent” and “Now You See Me”
- c. Creative approaches to footwear and apparel
 - i. “Retro” shoes
 - (a) Forbes reported that sales of retro shoes, from all major brands, were up over 25% last year
 - (b) Complex.com declared in 2019 that “’70s Runners” were the best sneaker trend of the summer
 - (c) According to Matt Powell, a footwear industry analyst at the research firm NPD Group, brands like Fila and Champion have the retro trend to thank for their resurgence, telling CNBC “The 90’s retro trend is very hot right now and Fila and Champion are at the center of it.”

- (i) In the last two years, Fila's sales increased 205% while Champion increased sales last year by $360 million, according to CNBC
 - (ii) In the last three years, Champion's Instagram followers have climbed from 200,000 to about 6 million and a recent survey from Piper Jaffray suggests male teens consider it a top-15 brand, ranking alongside such names as Gucci and Tommy Hilfiger, according to Time Magazine
- ii. "Themed" designs and collaborations
 - (a) Last year, adidas released a special edition Dragon Ball Z collaboration
 - (b) Nike also once released shoes themed around "Chicken and Waffle", Krispy Kreme and Starbucks
 - (c) Vans' latest line of themed sneakers were literal works of art when the partnered with the Van Gogh Museum to feature some of the artists' work on shoes and apparel
 - (d) Nike, in tribute to NBA MVP Giannis Antetokounmpo's favorite movie, released the film-themed Zoom Freak 1 'Coming to America' sneaker in 2019
 - (e) Adidas skateboarding honored legendary artists the Beastie Boys with a collaboration in 2019 celebrating the 25th anniversary of one of the band's most popular albums, 'Paul's Boutique' (on one song from the album, the group raps "More adidas sneakers that a plumber got pliers" and on another, "Rock my adidas never rock Fila")
 - (f) Converse and its Chuck 70 Sneaker, the world's most symbolic sneakers, teamed up with Scooby-Doo's Mystery Machine and was released (sold-out) in July of 2020

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

If you have not already introduced a sneaker design activity or project, consider having students design a unique "themed" sneaker of their own. Have them choose whichever brand they would like, then customize the shoe with a theme they think will be popular with consumers. Each student should present their design in class (with some re-assurance that the goal of this exercise is to demonstrate creativity and an understanding of catering to consumer preferences, not an artistic design competition). As they present their design, students should explain why they decided on each respective theme, why consumers will like the shoe, and how they will get the product in the hands of the consumer. You may also want to refer back to lesson 2.5 and reinforce the concept of the importance of a quality product.

For additional guidance for this activity, consider accessing the "Industry Trends – Themed Sneakers" lesson plan bundle, complete with a lesson plan guide, PPT and activity rubric.

- d. Continued increase in targeting of the female demographic
 - i. Women comprise about 1/3 of ESPN's adult audience for sports programming, nearly 1/2 of the Super Bowl's viewership and purchase 46% of NFL merchandise

- ii. In 2018, Reebok enlisted the help of Ariana Grande, Gail Gadot, Gigi Hadot and many others to amplify the message of their “Be More Human” women’s marketing campaign
 - (a) As part of the campaign, Reebok created 10 different limited-edition inspirational shirts with 100 percent of proceeds benefitting The Movement Foundation and The Women’s Strength Coalition ⁵¹
 - (i) Click here to view the commercials on Reebok’s YouTube playlist
- iii. The WWE is placing more emphasis on reaching female fans
 - (a) According to USA Today: “WWE’s TV audience continues to increase in the percentage of females, nearing 38%, according to Nielsen figures, while merchandise sales depicting female performers continue to grow.”
 - (i) Click here to read more on the WWE’s strategy to focus on its women’s division from forbes.com.
- e. More and more tech in stadiums and arenas
 - i. According to contracostatimes.com, when Levi’s Stadium (home of the San Francisco 49ers) opened, it featured an unprecedented network that included about 680 Wi-Fi access points -- one for every 100 seats in the stadium, a superfast Internet connection (allegedly 10,000 times faster than what federal regulators classify as broadband), and about 1,700 high-tech “beacons” (technology that connects a fan’s phone to a wireless headset, used to pinpoint consumers’ locations inside the venue to provide them directions)
 - ii. According to wired.com, when NBA’s Sacramento Kings opened their new “Golden 1 Center”, they suggested the arena was the most technologically advanced arena ever built
 - (a) The building is powered strictly by solar energy, enables wi-fi usage in every nook-and-cranny while allowing fans to control the temperature in their seating section by voting through an app, and boasts a scoreboard that is higher-resolution than the famous Dallas Cowboy jumbotron (32 million pixels vs 25 million)
 - iii. The Golden State Warriors are also due to open their new technology-savvy arena, the Chase Center, in 2018
 - (a) According to cnet.com, the new facility will include floor tiles that generate electricity when people walk on them, streetlamps that transmit data to those nearby and several virtual reality possibilities
 - iv. MLS’s Columbus Crew teamed up with IBM to enhance the tech at their new stadium
 - (a) Sports teams will continue exploring alternative packaging strategies to battle declining attendance
 - (i) As the team prepared for season ticket renewals down the stretch of the last year’s MLB season, the Oakland A’s announced plans to re-imagine the traditional season ticket sales model
 1. According to the San Francisco Gate, the “A’s Access” program would provide “members” with general-admission access to every game, a reserved-seat plan and additional benefits including half-price concessions, 25 percent off merchandise and upgrade credits for games not included in a reserved-ticket plan
 2. USA Today reports one trend fans can expect to see in Major League Baseball is smaller stadiums as teams try to find ways to create more demand for tickets
 - a. For example, both the Atlanta Braves and Texas Rangers opted to downsize when moving to new stadiums

- i. The Braves are in their third season at SunTrust Park (capacity, 41,000, replacing Turner Field's 53,000)
 - ii. The Rangers will begin play next year at Globe Life Field, a retractable-roof facility that will seat 40,000 compared to its current stadium's 49,000-seat capacity
 3. The challenges of drawing fans to stadiums are not limited to Major League sports, a precipitous drop in attendance has impacted college football for several seasons
 - a. According to The Athletic, college football attendance last season dipped to its lowest mark in 22 years
 - b. In 2018, the SEC, a conference with fans as loyal as you'll find in sports, posted its lowest average attendance since 2004, a drop of 1.4 percent from the previous season
 - c. This has sports marketing professionals in collegiate athletics searching for answers. The Athletic reports that those who have studied attendance at college football games suggest there are a number of reasons for the general drop in attendance:
 - i. Costs associated with attending games
 - ii. Uncertainty over kickoff times
 - iii. Bleacher seats that are too uncomfortable
 - iv. Concession areas that are too claustrophobic
 - v. Lack of handrails that make it easier to get around
 - vi. Some fans prefer to watch at home, so they can watch more games
 - vii. Quality of opponent
- (b) Promotions celebrating franchise history and community
 - (i) A hot promotions trend the past few seasons features teams paying tribute to the community at large and/or the franchise's historic roots
 1. The Lancaster JetHawks offered fans "throwback" prices on tickets as well as t-shirt giveaways to celebrate their 20th season. To recognize their 30th season milestone, the Harrisburg Senators introduced life sized bobbleheads and brought back former players to help the team celebrate.
 2. The Chicago White Sox celebrated the 100th anniversary of their World Series winning season by wearing replica jerseys for a July home game
 - a. In addition to the team donning throwback uniforms, the game featured old-time music and entertainment
 - b. Replica jerseys were given out to the first 20,000 fans in attendance while "1917 discounts" were available on food and merchandise (popcorn and White Sox programs were sold for 25 cents)
 3. The Green Bay Packers launched a microsite dedicated to the team's celebration of their 100th season, featuring one moment highlighted each day for the 100 days leading up to the regular-season opener
 - a. The team ramped up merchandising efforts as part of the celebration, offering everything from bobbleheads and coffee mugs to hoodies and iPhone cases
 4. The Charlotte Hornets' organized numerous promotional activities surrounding the franchises' 30th anniversary, including a new court featuring the team's original logos and colors,

- a. The franchise connected the celebration with a sponsor, selling “title sponsorship” rights to Spectrum
 - b. Click here to read more about the promotions that will coincide with the Hornets celebration of 30 years as a NBA franchise
5. In 2019, nearly a dozen MiLB teams honored anniversaries with local communities, including the Pawtucket Red Sox 50-year tribute with “Celebrate Rhode Island” by thanking fans for “50 years together”
 - a. Promotions included (via the team’s website):
 - i. “Kids Free” Monday-Friday Nights in April & May
 - ii. “Swing into Summer” where all students in the state who successfully advance to the next grade level at the end of the school year receive a free ticket to a choice of summertime games
 - iii. “PawSox Rhode Shows” and 50 “Acts of Kindness” throughout the state
 - iv. “Commitment to the Community” long-term, including philanthropy and the PawSox Mentoring Program
 - v. Sharing of any 2019 profits (if any are generated) with the City of Pawtucket on an equal, 50/50 basis
 - (ii) Another popular trend where minor league teams celebrate community is the creation of promotions where the team undergoes a name change for one game
 1. While Minor League Baseball has a history of food-themed marketing stunts, the practice really took off in 2016 when teams like the Lehigh Valley IronPigs (Bacon), Toledo Mud Hens (Eggs) and Fresno Grizzlies (Tacos) took the promotions to another level, donning themed uniforms along with other promotional activities
 - a. Click here for a great recap of the history behind some of the best food-themed promos in Minor League Baseball
 2. To pay tribute to Maryland’s “most hallowed pastime of picking steamed crabs”, the Aberdeen IronBirds changed their team name to the “Steamed Crabs” for a game last season
 - a. The franchise promoted the event through social media, on its website and also launched a microsite at www.aberdeensteamedcrabs.com
 - b. For one game, MiLB’s Albuquerque Isotopes became the Green Chile Cheeseburgers. Taking the food theme even further, Albuquerque’s opponent of the evening was the Fresno Grizzlies, who became the Fresno Tacos for the game.
 - i. Green chiles are an iconic food in the Albuquerque (and New Mexico) area so the team wanted to pay tribute with a special promotion that the community could rally behind
 - ii. Green chiles were roasted around the concourse and the team’s ballpark (often referred to as “The Lab”) was renamed “The Grill” for the evening
 - iii. To further engage fans, the team launched a microsite at www.BringingTheHeatABQ.com encouraging fans to vote for their favorite style of green chile (hot or mild) by tagging posts on social media with the hashtags #HOTABQ or #MILTABQ
 - iv. Click here to view a promo for the game on YouTube

- v. Click here to see some examples of the merchandise the team offered in conjunction with the promotion
- c. MiLB's Charlotte Knights chose to pay homage to their home state's culinary claim to fame (barbeque) by becoming the Charlotte Pitmasters for one game
 - i. The team's General Manager explains why the franchise decided to jump on the name-change trend in an interview with Charlotte Magazine: "Seeing the success fellow teams had with rebranding their teams for a day around food items famous in their regions, we thought, Why not us? From there, our VP of entertainment, David Ruckman, thought that barbecue was the most fitting for Charlotte and the Carolinas and he developed a terrific brand and promotional theme night. The Charlotte Pitmasters are born."
- d. Among those who jumped on the trend in 2019:
 - i. The Maine Sea Dogs became the "Whoopie Pies", in partnership with Wicked Whoopies and the Maine Whoopie Pie Festival, in a nod to the state's official dessert with themed jerseys and hats
 - ii. The Syracuse Mets, in partnership with the New York State Fair, took the field as the "Butter Sculptures" for a game in July, which are (according to MiLB reporter Benjamin Hill) a nod to "the state fair's massive butter sculptures, which are meticulously crafted by dairy artisans and displayed publicly to the joy and amazement of all" (the promotion included themed-jerseys and a bobblehead giveaway of butter sculpture mascot, 'Scooch')
- e. It isn't just food themes; some teams will find other "quirks" to celebrate, like the Staten Island Yankees' name-change last season to become the "Pizza Rats" for five games, a nod to a viral video that captivated the country in which a New York City rat attempts to carry an entire slice of pizza down the subway stairs
 - i. Click here to see the "pizza rat" video (it has been viewed over 10 million times on YouTube)
 - ii. Click here to see the team's microsite celebrating the promo.
- f. Why is this a hot trend?
 - i. Because these promotions work!
 - ii. According to espn.com, when the Fresno Grizzlies announced a "Taco Throwdown" promotion where team would change its name to the Tacos for the game and wear taco-themed jerseys and hats
 - iii. In the first 50 hours after the announcement, the team's website sold nearly 900 hats bearing the taco logo. Compare that to the 16 Fresno Grizzlies hats the team sold in the first three weeks of July.
 - iv. Last year, when the San Antonio Missions of Minor League Baseball introduced a "Flying Chanclas" promotion as part of their tribute to Hispanic heritage event, it took just 22 games to surpass the in-park merchandise sales from the entire previous season

(a) Pop Culture Themed Promotions

- (i) One of the hottest trends in sports right now are promotions that tie-in with pop culture references
 - 1. Many teams now offer “Star Wars” theme nights (teams ranging from the Phoenix Suns, St. Louis Blues and Philadelphia Phillies to the Memphis Redbirds, Fort Wayne TinCaps and Buffalo Bisons have all hosted Star Wars theme nights)
 - a. The Buffalo Bisons donned “Jedi Robe” themed jerseys for their event
 - b. The Lehigh Valley IronPigs wore jerseys depicting Hans Solo frozen in carbonite
 - c. The Potomac Nationals put Lando Calrissian on their Star Wars jerseys
 - d. Star Wars theme nights were so popular with MLB teams last season that the Star Wars website featured a “MLB Feels the Force” page communicating the dates each MLB team would be hosting their “Star Wars Night” promotions
 - i. The website also featured a few of the unique Star Wars-themed giveaways at the ballpark, including storm trooper bobbleheads and jedi baseballs
 - ii. Click here for more from starwars.com.

 - i. The promotion even sparked a Twitter feud with a rival minor league team who claimed they had offered the promotion first
 - ii. Click here to read about the feud from bensbiz.mlblogs.com
 - b. Further evidence of the popularity of pop culture promotions, the Mud Hens’ tweets with the highest levels of engagement were also “uniform reveal” tweets
 - i. The Mud Hens’ offered a salute to the original ‘Dream Team’, with jerseys inspired by the 1992 USA Men’s Basketball team

- (the announcement was liked over 1,000 times and re-tweeted more than 400)
- ii. The team's announcement about a 'Harry Potter Night' promotion on Twitter gained over 900 likes and nearly 400 re-tweets
- (b) 3D Printed Sporting Equipment
- (i) As the technology improves, athletes will have the ability to customize their equipment
 - (ii) Sport Techie also reported that Nike and adidas are investing in 3D printing technology to produce footwear while Formula 1 racing already uses the technology to produce mechanical parts
 1. In 2017, adidas unveiled the "Futurecraft 4D", a huge improvement on their last 3D-printed running shoes which were more of a concept or prototype than a consumer product
 - a. According to techcrunch.com: "The new version is better suited for mass production – Adidas plans on selling 5,000 pairs this upcoming fall, which will scale up to more than 100,000 pairs by the end of 2018. While the company hasn't announced the price, expect the first run to still be priced as a limited-edition shoe. The first 3D runners retailed for $333 but sold secondhand for many times that."
 2. In 2018, the world's fastest marathoner (Kenya's Eliud Kipchoge) wore 3-D printed Nikes at the London Marathon, helping reduce the weight of the shoe

 - b. Click here to see the game on the team’s website
 4. Under Armour launched a gamification strategy in time for the 2018 NBA Playoffs when they introduced a game show app with real-time trivia features
 5. In 2019, Circle K Circle partnered with the San Antonio Stock Show & Rodeo to launch an interactive, in-arena game called “Guess the Score” where rodeo attendees could try to guess the rider’s score before the judges issued it for a chance to win prizes from Circle K Texas
- (e) How might the COVID-19 pandemic shape future industry trends?
- (i) The size and capacity of stadiums could begin to decline
 - (ii) Health and fan safety professionals could become important front office positions throughout team sports
 - (iii) Concerts and events will look for ways to capture revenue and go “virtual”
 - (iv) Solitary fitness could replace group fitness, meaning a decline in popularity of companies like Orange Theory, SoulCycle and CycleBar would see a declining customer base
 1. Fitness apps that encourage individual fitness, including “coaching” programs, would benefit from this type of shift in industry trends

Lesson 3.5

Economic Impact

* INSTRUCTOR'S NOTES *

To further investigate the concept of economic impact and economic impact studies, consider sharing the handouts marked “Unit 3 - Student Handout - Economic Impact Study”, “Unit 3 - Student Handout - Economic Impact Study 2” and “Unit 3 - Student Handout - Economic Impact Study 3” with your class. The handouts provide excellent examples of how an organization might analyze economic impact.

A. Impact of sports and entertainment on economy

1. Economic impact

- a. Sports, entertainment and events inevitably make an impact on the host city's economy
- b. Economic impact can be defined as the net change in an economy resulting from sport or entertainment event related activity
 - i. This change is caused by either the activities involved in the development of new facilities and/or the revenue generated from visitor and public spending, employment opportunities and taxes
 - ii. Direct effects are the purchases needed to meet the increased demand of visitors for goods and services
 - (a) Darren Rovell, a well-respected sports business reporter sent the following tweet while attending the Masters golf tournament “My hotel room in Augusta normally costs $73.32. Tonight, during Masters week, $401.02!” ⁵²
 - (b) Every year, more than 150,000 spectators descend upon Churchill Downs for the Kentucky Derby, temporarily transforming the population of that at the racetrack into the 3rd largest city in the state
 - iii. Indirect effects are the ripple effect of additional rounds of re-circulating the initial spectators' dollars ⁵³
- c. Examples
 - i. Nashville's economy experienced a boost of nearly $224 million from hosting the 2019 NFL Draft, a figure that exceeded expectations
 - (a) Titans Online reported a record crowd of over 600,000 people attended the three-day event with more than half the attendees coming from out of town
 - (b) According to the NFL and the Nashville Convention & Visitors Corp, the NFL Draft generated a record $133 million in direct spending, representing a 79% increase over the previous year when Dallas hosted the event
 - (c) Las Vegas was poised to become the grandest draft presentation in the history of the league, however, the event was canceled due to the

- coronavirus pandemic resulting in Nevada's economy losing out on potentially millions of dollars
- (d) The economic impact went beyond direct and indirect spending, as the draft would have essentially been a three-day television commercial for the city. Case Study

Tracking Industry Trends: A Unit 3 SEM Case Study

By 2002, George Lucas, the genius behind the digitized special effects in the Star Wars movies, had not yet made the leap into computer animated full-feature films. Then came the success of “Monsters, Inc.”, which sold 11 million copies in DVD and VHS formats in the first week, “Shrek”, which earned the honor of being the best-selling DVD of all time, raking in nearly $900 million in DVD and VHS sales in two months. Those figures proved to be enough to prompt Lucas to establish LucasFilm Animation in 2003 to compete with industry moguls DreamWorks Animation and Pixar Animation Studios. Ironically, Lucas founded Pixar but sold them in 1996 to raise capital for his other projects.

Lucas was not the only studio to see the lucrative potential of computer animation in film. Sony entered the market in 2002 with the launch of Sony Pictures Animation. Sony Pictures Animation is a collaborative project with the company’s digital effects unit, Imageworks. The Sony animation team developed a digital tool called “shapers” that allows animators to re-shape character models into stronger poses and silhouettes. It also can generate subtle distortions such as “squash,” “stretch,” and “smears,” typical of traditional, hand-drawn animation.

Sony’s first two major films were Open Season, released in September 2006 and Surf’s Up, which hit U.S. theaters in June 2007. Open Season earned $84.3 million at U. S. theaters and $104.8 million abroad, plus $95 million in DVD sales. Surf’s Up earned slightly less ($58.9 million U. S., $86.5 million in foreign theaters, with a little over $50 million in DVD sales).

Other studios have noted the financial potential of computerized animation and have developed their own projects. Fox Filmed Entertainment’s company Blue Sky Studios released the highly successful “Robots,” in March 2005. The film, with a production budget of $80 million, generated over $260 million in worldwide sales. Blue Sky’s 2006 release, Ice Age – the Meltdown, the follow up to Ice Age, was one of the most successful films in this genre, with U. S. theater receipts of $195 million, $452 million in international receipts, and almost $130 million in DVD sales in its first two months. Disney’s Buena Vista Studios’ Ratatouille, a story about a rat who wants to be a chef, debuted in June 2007. The film had a $150 million budget -- and grossed over $620 million in worldwide theater receipts alone, not counting the DVD sales.

The computer animation trend does not show any signs of slowing down. Sony has scheduled Hotel Transylvania for a September 2009 release. Disney, working with Pixar Animation, has six projects scheduled between 2008 and 2012, including 3-D reissues of its blockbusters, Toy Story and Toy Story 2.

Unit 3 Discussion Question Review

What are industry segments? What are some examples of sports and entertainment industry segments?

How do you think sports teams generate revenue? Do you think most professional sports teams are profitable?

- Ticket sales
- Sponsorship
- Licensing & Merchandise
- Concessions
- Parking
- Fan clubs / Kid's clubs / Special events
- Luxury suites

Lesson 4.1

Basic Marketing Concept

- A. Marketing concept
 - 1. The marketing concept is the view that an organization's ability to sell its products and services depends upon the effective identification of consumer needs and wants and a successful determination of how best to satisfy them
 - 2. Why are marketing activities so important to business? ¹
 - a. Financial success is a direct result of an organization's ability to effectively market its products and services
 - b. A business achieves profitability when they offer the goods and services that customers need and want at the right price
 - c. Marketers strive to identify and understand all factors that influence consumer buying decisions
- B. Needs vs. Wants
 - 1. A need is something a consumer must have and cannot live without
 - a. Without food, we cannot survive
 - 2. A want is something a consumer would like to have
 - a. You might want an Xbox One or tickets to an upcoming game or show, but you can survive without them
- C. Exchange process ²
 - 1. The exchange process is a marketing transaction in which the buyer provides something of value to the seller in return for goods and services that meet that buyer's needs or wants
 - 2. The exchange process has three requirements
 - a. There must be at least two parties involved
 - b. Some means of communication must be present between all parties, and typically a desire must be present to engage in a partnership with the other party or parties
 - c. Each party must be free to accept or decline
- D. Benefits of marketing ³
 - 1. The marketing process serves many purposes and provides numerous benefits for the consumer
 - a. The ability to add perceived value to goods and services
 - b. Making the buying process easy and convenient for consumers
 - c. Creating and maintaining reasonable prices
 - d. Offering a variety of goods and services
 - e. Increasing production

Lesson 4.2

The Marketing Mix

- A. The four P's of marketing (marketing mix) ⁴
1. The marketing mix consists of variables controlled by marketing professionals in an effort to satisfy the target market
 - a. Product
 - i. Goods, services, or ideas used to satisfy consumer needs
 - ii. Designed and produced on the basis of consumer needs and wants
 - b. Price
 - i. Determined by what customers are willing to pay and production costs
 - c. Place
 - i. The process of making the product available to the customer
 - ii. Marketers must identify where consumers shop to make these decisions
 - iii. Careful consideration is given to determining the distribution channels that will offer the best opportunity to maximize sales
 - d. Promotion
 - i. Information related to products or services are communicated to the consumer
 - ii. Marketers determine which promotional methods will be most effective
- B. Applying the marketing mix
1. Consider how Wilson Sporting Goods might implement the marketing mix in an effort to maximize sales of its tennis racquets
 - a. Product
 - i. Wilson manufactures racquets to meet the needs of tennis players with varying skill levels
 - ii. Beginner racquets are made with cheaper material, while racquets designed for advanced players feature higher quality construction
 - b. Price
 - i. Price levels for Wilson's racquets vary depending on quality and target consumer
 - ii. Beginner racquets sell for as little as $20 while some of Wilson's upper end racquets command a price of nearly $300
 - c. Place
 - i. Wilson has a number of distribution channels, making its tennis racquet product line widely available and easily accessible to consumers
 - (a) Sporting goods stores (Dick's Sporting Goods, Big 5 Sporting Goods etc.)
 - (b) Discount stores (Target, Wal-Mart, Fred Meyer etc.)
 - (c) Specialty stores & fitness clubs (West Hills Racquet Club etc.)
 - (d) Internet (amazon.com, etc.)
 - d. Promotion
 - i. Wilson's promotes its upper end racquets as a higher quality product than the racquets sold by competitors
 - ii. To promote their products, Wilson may choose to feature POP displays at sporting goods stores

Lesson 4.3

Target Markets

- A. Before we examine target markets, we must first understand what determines a market
 - 1. The group of potential consumers who share common needs and wants
 - 2. That consumer group must have the ability and willingness to buy the product
 - 3. Businesses strive to meet the needs and wants of those consumers
- B. A target market refers to people with a defining set of characteristics that set them apart as a group
 - 1. Target
 - a. The target is a specific group of consumers with a defining set of characteristics
 - b. This market shares one or more similar and identifiable needs or wants
 - 2. Considerations when evaluating a target market ⁵
 - a. Sizeable
 - i. The size of the market
 - ii. Market can have too many or too few consumers
 - b. Reachable
 - i. Ability for marketers to reach consumers
 - ii. Marketer must have a means for communicating with target group of consumers
 - c. Measurable and identifiable
 - i. Refers to the ability to measure size, accessibility and overall purchasing power of the target market
 - d. Behavioral variation
 - i. Marketers seek to find similar behaviors within each respective target market
 - ii. For example, motivation of buying for the corporate season ticket holder is different than for the individual season ticket holder
 - 3. Target market strategies are influenced by several factors
 - a. Diversity of consumer needs and wants
 - b. Organization size
 - c. Attributes of company products and/or services
 - d. Size and strength of competitors
 - e. Sales volume required for profitability
 - 4. Sports and entertainment organizations must have an understanding of their target market to create an effective marketing strategy that caters to their audience
 - a. Red Bull believes that action sports fans provide an accurate representation of their target market. As such, they sponsor events like the X Games and use athletes like popular ski jumper Sarah Hendrickson and Olympic star Lindsey Vonn to drive marketing campaigns ⁶
 - i. Click here to see a Red Bull commercial featuring popular surfer Carissa Moore and other action sports stars
 - ii. Red Bull has also successfully built its brand through content marketing strategies, like this video starring Ryan Sheckler
 - b. Part of P&G's marketing strategy is to target moms (P&G is the parent company for brands such as Gillette, Tide and Pampers). As such, the company rolled out a comprehensive marketing campaign tied to the 2016 Summer Games in Rio based on the knowledge that the Olympics traditionally attract more female viewers than almost any other sporting event. ⁷
 - i. Click here to read more about the launch of the "Thank You Mom" campaign for Rio 2016 from olympic.org

- ii. Click here to see the “Thank You Mom” commercial
- iii. P&G’s sponsorship of the 2018 Winter Games continued the theme of promoting family values when they provided a hospitality area in PyeongChang for athletes and their families
 - (a) Click here to read more about P&G’s shift in strategy on Olympics marketing plans after the 2020 Summer Games in Tokyo were postponed to 2021 because of the pandemic

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Now that the Summer Games have been postponed to 2021 because of the pandemic, P&G will have to rethink its strategy for an Olympics-themed campaign to reach moms. Refer to lesson 2.2 to revisit the concept of marketing through sports and entertainment, then start a discussion in class about how P&G might continue its effort to reach moms using sports and entertainment as a vehicle for reaching that demographic. Encourage them to give some thought to what they learned in lesson 2.8 relating to event marketing. Tie the concepts together by having students create a new P&G campaign surrounding the 2021 Olympic Games in Tokyo.

C. Niche marketing

1. Niche marketing is the process of carving out a relatively tiny part of a market that has a very special need not currently being filled ⁸
 - a. Cable television channels often seek niche audiences to appeal to specific target groups with a common set of interests, such as ESPN designing programming to appeal to sports fans
 - b. Niche marketing often offers a unique opportunity to consumers or one that has not been offered in the past
 - i. Lululemon Athletica is a Canadian retailer that distributes product in Canada and the U.S. The company targets its branded yoga and fitness apparel to a niche consumer of female athletes.
 - (a) Often times after a niche has proven to be a successful market opportunity, competitors soon follow
 - (i) Lululemon, positioned as a high-end brand, has enjoyed explosive growth in the past several years. On the heels of their success, Under Armour has introduced a new yoga line, Gap introduced its GapBodyFit line, Forever 21 began selling active wear and both Nordstrom and Target expanded their store branded women’s sportswear offerings (even lingerie company Victoria’s Secret now sells yoga pants).⁹
1. Under Armour was projected to generate nearly $4 billion in sales of “athleisure” gear
 - a. When Lululemon was forced to recall product in 2013 because they were see through when stretched, Under Armour (who has been targeting women as a key demographic for several years), responded by featuring the tag line “We’ve Got You Covered” on its Facebook page in an effort to drive customers to its site

2. As more brands try to capture a share of the athleisure market, sales are projected to continue to grow, with industry analysts predicting the industry will generate $546 billion in global sales by 2024
- (ii) However, it wasn't necessarily just brands like Under Armour Lululemon who managed to tap the athleisure niche market. According to a story from entrepreneur.com, the market for activewear has been around since the 1930's.
 1. Click here for a great visual timeline from entrepreneur.com.
- ii. As the running category became one of the hottest categories in the athletic shoe and apparel business, brands like Vibram and their "five finger shoes", Fila with skeletoes, and Adidas with adiPURE (among others) carved a niche with "minimalist" running shoes, designed to create a "barefoot" jogging experience while still providing protection for the feet ¹⁰
 - (a) While minimalist shoes made up just 4% of all running shoes sold (representing about $260 million in business), sales of minimalist shoes more than doubled in the first quarter of 2012, according to a report from industry analyst Matt Powell at SportsOneSource ¹¹
 - (b) However, not all niche markets last. For the first quarter of 2013, sales of the minimalist shoe were down 10% while motion control shoes were up 25% (another niche in the running category). Said Matt Powell in an interview on runnersworld.com, "It appears this fad is pretty much over."
 - (c) A new niche? The popularity of "Maximalist" running shoes has skyrocketed after Kenyan marathoner Eliud Kipchoge became the first person to run a marathon in less than two hours wearing Nike's new Vaporfly maximalist running shoe.
- iii. When consumers were forced to stay away from fitness centers and health clubs during the pandemic, the market for indoor cycling equipment and exercise video subscriptions exploded
 - (a) Peloton, the market leader in this niche category, saw sales surge 66% from the same time period last year
 - (b) Peloton isn't the only brand looking to capitalize on the growth potential of the indoor cycling market
 - (i) In 2020, Lululemon purchased Peloton competitor "Mirror" for $500 million and Apple announced plans to enter the fitness video subscription market
 - (c) Seeing an opportunity with an emerging market, Nike created its first ever indoor cycling shoe in 2020
- iv. As the NFL begins to invest in research to curb the dangers of playing football, many entrepreneurs are taking note. In a story posted on Yahoo! Sports' website, about half the vendors at a recent sports conference were in some way involved with concussions.
 - (a) In 2017, a high-tech football helmet startup prepared to equip some NFL and college football teams with safer helmets for the upcoming season
 - (i) The company, Vicis, raised more than $30 million over the past 4 years, with investors ranging from ex-NFL players to engineers
 - (ii) According to a 2019 report from Geekwire, the NFL named Vicis's updated model of its helmets as the safest product on the market, ahead of long-time helmet maker brands like Riddell and Schutts
 1. Click here to read more from GeekWire
 2. Click here to view a graphic illustrating the safest helmets on SCC's Pinterest page

- v. Under Armour, recognizing the importance of athlete safety during a pandemic, manufactured face masks specifically for athletes to wear while training and competing
 - (a) As described by the company, the product was a “reusable, water-resistant performance face mask designed for maximum breathability by Under Armour’s innovation team in record time. This first-of-its-kind mask functions to reduce the spread of respiratory droplets by the wearer.”
 - (b) According to the Sun, the product sold out in less than a hour in its original launch ¹²
- 2. Niche can also be a term applied to a particular sport that is not considered to be “mainstream”
 - a. Archery is a niche sport that experienced rapid growth, thanks in part to popularity of The Hunger Games book series
 - b. The CBS Sports Network fills its non-peak season programming with many niche sports, including off-road racing, bowling, surfing and more recently, Pickleball
 - c. Other-niche sport examples could include many Olympic sports, beach soccer, or arm-wrestling
 - i. For example, based on the game in J.K. Rowling's "Harry Potter" books, the sport of “Quidditch” was created on a small college campus in Vermont a in 2005. The sport now boasts 700 teams in 25 countries, has a governing body (International Quidditch Association), an official rule book and a World Cup (the 2011 event reportedly cost more than $100,000 to stage). ¹³
 - ii. A few years ago, ESPN introduced an “On The Road” program in which ESPN personalities traveled to the site of several niche sporting events (like the World Championships of Cornhole X in Knoxville, TN and The National Horseshoe Pitchers Association World Tournament in Topeka, KS) and incorporated coverage within their SportsCenter broadcasts
 - (a) Click here to see a local television station’s news coverage of ESPN’s appearance the Horseshoe tournament
 - (b) Click here for a short video from CNBC featuring an interview with Stacey Moore, American Cornhole League founder, discussing the recent explosion in the game’s popularity
 - iii. Trampoline Dodgeball is another niche sport that is growing in popularity
 - (a) In 2012 there were 40 parks to play across the U.S. By 2016, there were 500, representing a 92% growth rate in less than four years.
 - iv. Even archery dodgeball has become a thing, growing in popularity as a fitness trend, according to a 2020 story that appeared in the Wall Street Journal
 - v. WhirlyBall is another fast-paced niche sport gaining traction across the U.S.
 - (a) Click here to read more about WhirlyBall
 - vi. A new flag football startup league has ambitious plans for carving out its own niche as it looks to capitalize on concussion concerns among athletes and parents
 - (a) Click here to learn more about the American Flag Football League, which already includes several high profile former NFL players like Michael Vick, Terrell Owens and Chad Ochocinco
 - vii. Many fringe sports that are still hoping to be included in future Olympic Games would also qualify as niche sports
 - (a) In 2015, The International Olympic Committee officially recognized the World Flying Disc Federation (WFDF), the governing body of disc sports including

- Ultimate Frisbee, which means sometime in the near future we could see the 30-year-old sport become an official competitive event in the Olympic Games
- (b) A number of niche sports have been admitted for participation in 2020 Olympics, including skateboarding, surfing, climbing and 3-on-3 basketball
 - (i) Click here to learn more about the meteoric rise of 3-on-3 basketball and a look at how the USA might compete in the sport at the 2020 Summer Games in Tokyo
 - (c) Breakdancing is reportedly being considered for inclusion at the 2024 Summer Games in Paris
- d. As the popularity of niche sports continues to grow, advertisers and sponsors have taken notice
- i. Aligning a marketing campaign with non-traditional sports can help brands to reach new audiences
 - ii. Click here for an interesting perspective from medium.com that explains how niche sports provide a unique advertising opportunity for prospective sponsors
 - (a) For example, Margaritaville is the sponsor of USA Pickleball's National Championship (the 2020 championships were canceled due to COVID-19 but preparations were already underway for 2021 by June)
 - (b) Landshark Lager, closely connected to the Margaritaville brand, is also an official sponsor of Spikeball

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

Now would be a great time to introduce the “New Olympic Sport” project, located in the lesson 4.3 folder.

You may also want to review one of the examples from lesson 3.3 relating to reverse product placement with ESPN’s “The Ocho” promotion. The one-day transformation from ESPN 2 to “ESPN 8” features coverage of a wide variety of niche sports, from cherry seed spitting to rock skipping. Have students create a broadcast of their own niche sport or have them create a programming lineup for next year’s “The Ocho” promotion on ESPN.

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

As part of our 2018 case study competition, we featured a scenario that required students to create a promotional plan for growing the “Spikeball” brand. Consider using the case study in class. If you prefer, you can replace Spikeball with a different niche sport. You can access last year’s scenario in the Lesson 4.3 folder.

Lesson 4.4

Market Segmentation

- A. Market segmentation
 - 1. Market segmentation is the process of identifying groups of consumers based on their common needs ¹⁴
 - 2. Segmentation is the first step toward understanding consumer groups as it assists in determining target markets, the marketing mix and developing positioning strategies ¹⁵
 - 3. Segmentation is important because it allows businesses to customize their marketing mix and strategies to meet the needs of the target market ¹⁶
- B. Bases for segmentation
 - 1. Demographic
 - a. Demographic information provides descriptive classifications of consumers
 - b. Focuses on information that can be measured ¹⁷
 - i. Age
 - (a) Fans of the PGA and LPGA tours tend to be among the “baby boomer” age demographic (45-64), according to data from Scarborough Sports Marketing¹⁸
 - (b) According to knowledgebase.com, the biggest demographic for the artist Shakira is 20-year old women
 - (c) The World Surf League’s fan base has an average age of 32, much younger than most other professional sports leagues
 - (i) Understanding their fan demographics gives the WSL direction in creating marketing strategies
 - 1. Because the WSL has such a young fan base, the league focuses on digital marketing initiatives as a primary means for connecting with their consumers
 - (d) According to a recent Magna Global study, Major League Soccer has the youngest fan base among the major U.S. sports leagues at an average age of 40 while the PGA Tour has the oldest fans with an average of 64 years of age
 - ii. Income
 - (a) The number of NASCAR fans earning $100,000 or more has doubled in the last twenty years from 7% to 16% of its fan base, and those with incomes of $50,000 or more has risen from 35% to 48% ¹⁹
 - (b) According to league data, the average household income for NHL fans is $104,000, highest of the four major sports with Major League Baseball ($96,200), the NBA ($96,000), and the NFL ($94,500) ²⁰

 - (b) A survey by CNBC has found that half of all American households own at least one Apple device, and the average Apple-buying household has a total of three ²²
 - iv. Occupation
 - (a) Scarborough Research released demographic figures relating to fans of the IndyCar, suggesting 29% of the fan base were “blue collar”, while 37% were “white collar” ²³

- (b) According to Newzoo's global eSports report, 50% of the eSports online population held full-time jobs, 58% of occasional viewers held full-time jobs and 62% of eSports enthusiasts were employed full-time
 - v. Gender
 - (a) According to a report by the Entertainment Software Association (ESA), 45% of the entire gamer (video game playing) community are women and they comprise 46% of the most frequent video game purchasers ²⁴
 - (i) Click here to view a graphic reporting on gamer demographics from USA Today

 - vi. Education
 - (a) 68% of NHL fans have attended college ²⁶

 - (a) Click here to see how IMG supports this claim with demographic information on their website
- 2. Product usage ²⁸
 - a. Reflects what products consumers use, how often they use them, and why
 - i. Sports individual game ticket buyers vs. season ticket buyers
- 3. Psychographic
 - a. Grouping consumers based on personality traits and lifestyle ²⁹
 - i. Sports fans, music lovers, individuals who enjoy attending live events
- 4. Benefits ³⁰
 - a. Refers to a perceived value that consumers receive from the product or service ³¹
 - i. Season ticket holders typically enjoy additional "perks" such as exclusive invitations to pre-game chats with the team coaches and/or staff
- 5. Geographic
 - a. Dividing of markets into physical locations
 - i. North, South, East and West regions of the United States
 - (a) For example, according to data from Facebook, nearly one out of every three people in the U.S. that watch baseball on television live in Southern states (the South has the highest MLB viewership percentage at 32.8%, 7% more than Midwest which represents the next highest region based on viewership)
 - (i) Click here to view the entire geographical map breaking down MLB fandom through Facebook data

 - (c) Click here to see what genre of music is most popular in each state (and here to see which musicians are the most popular in each state)
 - ii. Urban and rural areas of a particular state
 - b. Sports consumers are characteristically loyal to particular regions
 - i. Most sports teams enjoy higher levels of fandom in the immediate geographic area for which their team calls “home”
 - ii. However, a variety of factors can influence the overall popularity (and subsequent fandom) of sports teams on a national and global scale
 - (a) For example, the Dallas Cowboys have historically been referred to as “America’s Team”
 - (i) Click here for a video from the NFL’s website explaining how the Cowboys became “America’s Team” (and insight as to why many fans might disagree)
 - (ii) However, a 2016 poll suggests just 27% of fans today actually consider the Cowboys to be deserving of the moniker while 64% said they did not deserve that designation
 - (iii) According to the same poll, the most popular NFL team nationally is actually the Green Bay Packers
 - 1. Click here to download a PDF with more results from the survey
 - (b) Click here for a map illustrating college football fandom in the U.S. (published on Reddit)
 - (c) Click here for a map illustrating Major League Soccer fandom in the U.S. (published on Reddit)
 - iii. Because of the unique characteristics of a sports consumer, geographic limitations are often imposed by professional sports leagues
 - (i) According to the Indianapolis Business Journal, the NBA will double the size of the geographic area teams are allowed to deploy marketing efforts to 150 miles, a rule change that could result in a significant boost in revenue or a team like the Indiana Pacers
 - (ii) One NBA executive told SportsBusiness Journal the new rules will allow its 30 teams overall to reach 100 million more fans with their marketing efforts
 - 1. Click here to see a map of how the new rule will impact the geographic area for which the Charlotte Hornets can reach
 - c. In 2019, Nike announced they had claimed the top rank in market share for bras in North America — the first time in the brand’s history — and planned to release “geography specific women’s apparel for the Asian market.” (via wwd.com)
- C. Selecting multiple segments and lifestyle segmentation
 - 1. Because many segments may be valid in helping marketers make decisions, marketers often choose to use several segments
 - 2. Lifestyle segmentation is a strategy where marketers divide and categorize customer information into subgroups
 - a. This helps to paint a better picture relating to specific consumer behavior, particularly when studying and evaluating brand preferences and levels of consumer loyalty
 - b. It is an ongoing process because over time, demographics change, consumer preferences shift while trends and technology influence purchase decisions

- i. For example, Huffington Post recently reported some interesting lifestyle data relating to sports fans:
 - (a) NFL fans are 10% more likely than NCAA football, Major League Baseball (MLB) and Major League Soccer (MLS) fans to drive a Chevrolet and 19% more likely to be classified as frequent purchasers of pizza
 - (b) NCAA fans are much more likely to be interested in certain outdoor activities than their NFL counterparts, with a 47% higher likelihood to show interest in Camping and Hiking
 - (c) MLB fans are the most family-oriented group, with 46% more likelihood to shop for family event tickets, with interest in Disney parks
 - (d) Consistent with Major League Soccer's younger demographic, MLS fans are the most likely to be interested in streaming services, peer-to-peer services (Lyft and Airbnb amongst others), and to travel abroad (Central and South America are amongst their favorite destinations, with high likelihoods to visit Honduras, Costa Rica, or Chile)
- 3. Ultimately, a decision is made based on what best fits the organization's target market
 - a. For example, young women played a major factor in the revival of the Toronto Blue Jays franchise, where the 57% of fans age 18 to 24 are female, representing "one of the fastest-growing segments of (the team's) entire demographic slice," according to Toronto's vice-president of marketing and merchandising

Lesson 4.5

Positioning

A. Positioning

1. Positioning is the fixing of a sports or entertainment entity in the minds of consumers in the target market ³²
2. Positioning is important to all sports and entertainment products
 - a. Sports leagues (NBA vs. G-League)
 - b. Sports teams (The Los Angeles Lakers in the 1980's as "Showtime")
 - c. Sporting goods (Under Armour as comfortable performance apparel)
 - d. Sports drinks (Gatorade as a performance beverage)
 - e. Movie studios (Pixar as a leader in animated films)
 - f. Entertainers (Will Ferrell as a comedic actor)
 - g. Entertainment products (Fortnite "Battle Royale" as a multi-player video game vs. "Save the World" as a single-player experience)
 - h. Facilities and venues (Premium seating vs. general seating)
3. Positioning is about perception
 - a. Puma's "Calling All Troublemakers" spot encouraged fans to be more daring and push boundaries to achieve "danger, risk and potential fugitive status" in an effort to differentiate itself from Nike, Adidas and Under Armour as it continues its efforts to gain credibility and position itself as a legitimate performance apparel brand
 - i. To drive the campaign and assist in their positioning effort, Puma partnered with athletes with "bad boy" reputations like Olympic champion Usain Bolt and soccer player Mario Balotelli ³³
 - b. Wheaties cereal has positioned itself as a brand affiliated with athletic performance and its slogan, "the breakfast of champions", has remained since the brand's introduction in 1924
 - i. With declining sales, General Mills (parent company of the Wheaties brand) eventually introduced a new spin off product aimed to take advantage of consumer perceptions of the Wheaties brand. General Mills developed three formulations of the cereal (dubbed Wheaties Fuel) with the help of a sports nutritionist and five world class athletes: the NFL's Peyton Manning, the NBA's Kevin Garnett, gold medal-winning decathlete Bryan Clay, the MLB's Albert Pujols, and triathlete Hunter Kemper. ³⁴
 - c. With other professional teams leaving the city (the Warriors to San Francisco and the Raiders to Las Vegas), and hoping to gain financial support for a new stadium, the A's made an aggressive push to position themselves as THE local team to support in Oakland
 - i. Their marketing campaign was titled "Rooted in Oakland" and featured famous local landmarks and personalities
 - (a) To declare themselves as the team to support in Oakland, the A's raised a team flag above Oakland's city hall only minutes after news of the Raiders move to Las Vegas was finalized
 - (b) The team also unveiled a local mural, decorated local muni stops and decreased concession prices
 - d. In a pivot from previous DC Universe films that created a perception that its movies were grim and dark, Warner Bros. created a campaign for the 2019 release of 'Shazam' that positioned the film as hopeful and playful, much like the movie's main character

- i. According to Hollywood Reporter, the first teaser poster for the film showed the main character transforming into Shazam, “both incarnations smiling like a kid having a great time on an adventure” while the rest of the campaign featured imagery consistent with the film’s storyline (a kid in a grown up’s super hero body)
 4. Positioning also refers to the place the product occupies in consumers’ minds relative to competing products ³⁵
 5. Described by marketing experts Jack Trout and Al Ries, “positioning is what you do to get into the mind of the (consumer)” ³⁶
- B. Positioning strategy
 1. Products or services are grouped together on a positioning map
 - a. Products or services are compared and contrasted in relation to one another
 - b. Marketers must determine a position that distinguishes their own products and services from competitor products and services
 - i. Reebok has engaged in a unique marketing initiative by positioning itself as a leader in “The Sport of Fitness”, a phrase it has incorporated into its cross-promotional efforts with the CrossFit brand
 - (a) CrossFit training participation has increased 700 percent in just the last four years, creating an even bigger opportunity for Reebok to enjoy continued growth
 - ii. In 2019, adidas launched a new hiking boot (Terrex) with a strategic positioning plan designed to eliminate the stigma of the sport’s ‘stale’ image
 - (a) In an interview with Marketing Week, adidas’s global VP of marketing and digital commerce suggests the consumer perception of hiking gear leans more toward function than fashion, a perception the brand hopes to change with their hiking campaign ³⁷
 - (i) Click here to see one of the Terrex commercials on adidas’ YouTube channel
 2. Selecting a positioning strategy ³⁸
 - a. Identify all possible competitive advantages
 - i. Products, services, channels, price points, people or image can be sources of differentiation
 - ii. Organizations often position their products relative to perceived competitor weaknesses
 - (a) BodyArmor debuted a new marketing campaign in 2020 with a TV ad that aired during “The Match 2”, a made for tv event between Phil Mickelson and Tom Brady vs. Tiger Woods and Peyton Manning
 - (b) According to Fox Business, the campaign continues BodyArmor’s strategy to position the product as a healthier, modernized alternative to Gatorade
 - (i) Through its packaging and advertising, the brand suggests it is a healthier alternative to competing products like Gatorade because they do not contain caffeine, have no added preservatives, and are gluten-free and nut-free
 - b. Choose the right competitive advantage
 - i. How many differences to promote?
 - ii. Unique selling proposition
 - (a) Recruiting student athletes is an extremely competitive process for collegiate athletic programs throughout the U.S. One way the University of North Florida helps pitch the school as an ideal destination for recruits is a “lazy river” water feature on campus, creating a laid-back feel for students to relax

- (i) In a tweet, ESPN Sports Center anchor (and former UNF athlete) Sara Walsh said when asked how often the Ospreys athletic program leverages the amenity as a recruiting tool, “Tons!”
 - (ii) The concept is not lost on other schools as colleges like Texas Tech and Missouri have either already implemented similar amenities or have announced plans to do so in the future (like LSU’s planned $85 million lazy river pool and collegiate recreation facility)
- (b) In 2019, recognizing the exploding popularity of eSports, sneaker brand K-Swiss designed a pair of shoes specifically for “The Immortals”, one of North America’s best-known eSports groups
 - (i) The brand’s new “One-Tap” shoe is being positioned as a product that enhances the performance of esports players
 - 1. According to USA Today: “The slip-on sneaker features lightweight, flexible material with an elasticated closure for a “snug fit,” as well as a venting unit to make it breathable in warmer climates, and a wool-lined insole that can be inserted to make the shoes feel warmer. Gamers can also fold down the sneakers’ heels for a “slipper-like feel for the long hours during a match or practice.”
- c. Positioning errors to avoid
 - i. Which differences to promote?
 - ii. Are the differences legitimate?
 - (a) When Kanye West’s The Life of Pablo album was released, the hip-hop star tweeted that it would “never never never be on Apple. And it will never be for sale ... You can only get it on Tidal.”
 - (i) Kanye was clearly positioning Tidal as the exclusive streaming service for his music, and subscriptions quickly tripled as a result. Yet just weeks later, the album was available on his own website, Pandora, Spotify...and even Apple.
 - (ii) As a result, Kanye and Tidal are facing a lawsuit alleging false advertising
 - 1. Click here to read more about the potential plausibility of the class-action suit
- 3. Product differentiation
 - a. Product differentiation refers to a positioning strategy that can be used to distinguish a company’s products from those of competitors³⁹
 - i. For example, when the XFL developed its marketing strategy, the league made a concerted effort to focus on affordability, making sure to create ticket plans that would be available to a family of four for under $100 to differentiate its product from the NFL
 - (a) In addition to lower ticket prices as a differentiator, the XFL also offered more access to its players and coaches while implementing simpler rules, making it easier for the average fan to understand the game⁴⁰
 - ii. When the BIG3 basketball league launched in 2017, it differentiated itself from existing basketball leagues by establishing unique rules and game play, including its unique “3-on’3” format, a 4-point shot, no “foul outs” and a smaller court size
 - (a) Click here to read the league’s rules and philosophy from the BIG3 website
 - iii. Minor League Baseball teams often position their brand as family-friendly and a form of entertainment that is all about fans and the fan experience and less about luxury suites and corporate sponsors

- (a) In 2020, the Savanna Bananas introduced an aggressive strategy to position the team that way when they announced that they would discontinue any advertising at the team's games for the season, including ballpark signage, game day programs and P.A. announcements
- 4. Re-positioning
 - a. Re-positioning is a marketer's plan for changing consumers' perceptions of a brand in comparison to competing brands
 - i. A private golf course may be suffering slumping membership sales. As a result, the course management may choose to open up the course to the public, which will ultimately require a well-planned re-positioning strategy.
 - (a) Re-positioning involves identifying who the new target market is and a strategy for creating awareness and demand within that market
 - (b) Part of the re-positioning effort in this case would require sending a message to the target market that the club is affordable by public standards
 - (c) Slogan might be "Enjoy the benefits of a private club at public course rates!"
 - ii. According to the Sports Business Journal, as part of their deal with CBS, the Pro Bull Riders Association will be grouped among other major properties online, like the NFL and the NCAA men's basketball tournament to re-position it as a more legitimate sports property (in the past, PBR was grouped under the "CBS Sports Spectacular" banner alongside some niche sports)
 - iii. The Milk Processor Education Program wanted to re-position chocolate milk as a beverage athletes could use as a "recovery drink" to replenish after grueling workouts
 - (a) To help with their positioning efforts, the brand enlisted pro athletes like Sloane Stephens and Al Horford to star in a campaign to communicate the "Built with Chocolate Milk" message to consumers
 - (i) Click here to see other athletes that are part of the campaign
 - (b) The builtwithchocolatemilk.com website even features a page that explains the science behind the product's ability to help athletes recover
 - iv. Converse began re-positioning the iconic Chuck Taylor sneaker as a fashion shoe through a three-video series, "Forever Chuck", focusing on the characteristics that make the shoe unique: film, L.A. hip-hop and fashion
 - v. Bleacher Report underwent widespread layoffs as part of a strategy to distance itself from its roots as a brand previously positioned as a sports medium providing user-generated content
 - (a) According to digiday.com, BR's plan moving forward is to invest more in higher-quality and creative content (like its NBA vs. NFL jersey mashups), including original video like its popular "Game of Zones" series
 - vi. According to Forbes, "Frozen 2" was re-positioned from a kid-friendly comedy to an epic adventure and drama when Disney began its marketing push leading up to the film's release in theaters

Lesson 4.6

Understanding the Sports & Entertainment Consumer

- A. Customer vs. Consumer
 - 1. The customer is the individual who buys the product or service
 - 2. The consumer is the individual who uses the product or service
 - a. Let's say Frito Lay invests in four club seats at Jacobs Field in Cleveland for their customer service and sales staff to entertain clients and prospective clients at Major League Baseball games. Frito Lay is the customer while their staff members and their clients are the consumers.
 - 3. The customer can also be the consumer
 - a. John Smith buys four tickets to take his family to see the Yankees play the Red Sox. Because he bought the tickets, he is considered a customer. Because he used the tickets with his family, he is also the consumer.
- B. Who is the sports and entertainment business consumer?
 - 1. Marketers sell sports and entertainment participation
 - a. It could be participation by event attendance or physical participation in the event itself
 - 2. Marketers target those consumers with free time, discretionary income, and a desire to be entertained
- C. Who are the sports consumers?
 - 1. Sports consumers are people who may play, officiate, watch, or listen to sports, or read, use, purchase, and/or collect items related to sports ⁴¹
 - 2. Could also include: ⁴²
 - a. Manufacturers
 - b. Resellers
 - c. Sports governing bodies
 - d. Institutions
 - e. Media sports enterprises
- D. Sports consumers participate in the exchange process in two ways ⁴³
 - 1. Spectators as consumers
 - a. Benefit by watching the event or game
 - b. Exchange for tickets and entertainment
 - 2. Participants as consumers
 - a. Benefit by playing, competing, or participating in the event
 - b. Exchange for equipment and/or participation

Lesson 4.7

Market Research

A. Market research

1. Market research is the process of systematically collecting, recording, analyzing, and presenting data related to marketing goods and services ⁴⁴
 - a. Market research provides an opportunity for companies to get to know their customers ⁴⁵
 - b. Marketing research gathers information pertaining to: ⁴⁶
 - i. Consumers
 - ii. Competition
 - iii. Company
 - iv. Culture/climate
2. The information gathered through marketing research is used to: ⁴⁷
 - a. Form links between consumers and companies
 - b. Identify and define marketing opportunities and potential challenges
 - i. Before determining whether to sell jersey sponsorships, the NBA first collected and analyzed data from a social media measurement firm to make sure the visibility on uniforms would drive adequate value for their partners (via sportsbusinessdaily.com)
 - c. Generate, refine, evaluate and monitor marketing activities
 - d. Analyze and understand the company, its industry and its competition

B. Steps in the research process

1. Identify the problem, concern or additional desired information to be gathered
2. Select and design research
 - a. Primary research is the original research conducted for a specific marketing situation
 - i. Surveys
 - ii. Direct mail
 - iii. Telephone
 - iv. Interviews
 - v. Focus groups
 - (a) Despite an already solid attendance track record in which the team has led the league in attendance in all 11 years of its existence (drawing nearly 5 million fans to date), Minor League Baseball's Lakewood BlueClaws decided to cap attendance at 8,000 fans per game, based on feedback from fans during focus groups that large crowds were negatively impacting the game-day experience ⁴⁸
 - b. Conduct secondary research
 - i. Secondary research is published data that has been collected for some other purpose (collect data)
 - (a) Census reports
 - (b) Demographic analyses
 - (c) Trade associations
 - (d) State agencies
 - (e) Commercial research firms
 - c. Collecting data
 - i. A census is a method used for obtaining statistical information that counts every member of a population
 - (a) The latest U.S. Census results showed an increase in the nation's Hispanic population of 43 percent since 2000, (four times the nation's overall 9.7

percent growth rate), as such the sports and entertainment industry has seen a boom in the number of marketing initiatives targeting the Hispanic audience⁴⁹

- (b) Also, according to census data, more than 10 percent of the overall population in the Phoenix area is Hispanic age 18-34, one of the largest such ratios in the country. Based on this information, Major League Baseball's Arizona Diamondbacks adjusted how they market to those prospective ticket buyers, after an offseason study indicated the team's Hispanic fans' preferences in terms of ticket sections or package options were significantly different than the general market.⁵⁰

- ii. A sample is a method for accumulating statistical information that is only obtained from a subset of a population

3. Report and analyze

a. Qualitative research data ⁵¹

- i. Typically involves large numbers of respondents, typically 100 or more, and yields results that are representative of the total population

b. Quantitative research data ⁵¹

- i. Generally gathered in the form of focus groups (groups of six to ten respondents who carry on a group discussion which is led by a trained moderator)

- (a) Another common form of qualitative research is in-depth one-on-one, or two-on-one interviews

4. Use that data to aid in the decision-making process

- a. Relying on data from a market study and a survey of its football ticketholders, the University of Wisconsin announced plans to remodel a section of Camp Randall Stadium to expand the premium seating options available to fans

- i. The data from the report and from the ticketholder survey suggested fans would be willing to pay more for premium amenities, such as access to indoor hospitality and outdoor terraces; climate-controlled areas; more comfortable seating; and expanded premium food and beverage offerings

- ii. However, because of the pandemic, the $77 million project was pushed back and likely to begin in 2021 and be ready for the 2022 season

C. Examples of market research applications

- a. Consider the following figures from a fan avidity report released by Scarborough Sports Marketing (a research firm) ⁵²

- i. Based on the study results, U.S. consumers have typically shown unwavering support for the NFL, MLB, NBA, NHL, College Football and Basketball, NASCAR and the Olympics (53 percent of American adults are "Avid Fans" at least one of these sports). However, after these traditionally supported fan favorites, the list includes sports like Figure Skating, Gymnastics, Men's Golf, High School Sports and Pro Boxing.

- ii. Why does this matter?

- (a) According to Scarborough: "American sports fans have been opening their minds and wallets to a host of diverse sports. Avid Fans of these sports are often characterized by distinct audience demographics. For instance, 73% of Avid Gymnastics Fans are female and 81% of Avid Figure Skating Fans are female. This is a unique demographic makeup since Avid Fans of sports like the Olympics, Women's Tennis and the WNBA – classically "female friendly" sports – are only about 50% female. This notable demographic base helps explain findings such as: Gymnastics Fans are 53% more likely than all American adults to schedule a spa day, 30% more likely to visit a jewelry store and 33% more likely to visit a bridal store. Similarly, Figure Skating Fans are 28% more likely to visit a florist and 27% more likely to visit a dry cleaner.”⁵²

- (b) Another demographically interesting sport is Pro Boxing. Though European Soccer, Major League Soccer and Mexican Soccer are all leagues with large Hispanic fan bases, Pro Boxing is the non-soccer sports league with the highest percentage of Hispanics among its Avid Fans – 35%. Avid Pro Boxing Fans are also 58% more likely than all American adults to use their smartphones to: listen to or download music, 67% more likely to check sports scores and updates, and a staggering 110% more likely to watch free TV programs.⁵³
- b. According to the Sports Business Journal, the NFL relied on market research to help determine the appropriate price of admission to its “NFL Times Square Experience” before opening the attraction in 2018
- 2. Additional market research applications explore many additional topics in sports and entertainment
 - a. Sport participation
 - b. Violence in sports
 - c. Advertising
 - d. Media outlets
 - e. Viewer and listener ratings
 - f. Financing
 - g. Effectiveness of marketing efforts
 - i. According to marketing-interactive.com, in 2018, Adidas decided to discontinue its investment in Facebook video ads after determining consumers were not regularly viewing the ads, making it difficult to verify the effectiveness of its marketing efforts

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

A market research firm (Enigma Research) conducted several studies during last year's Vans Open of Surfing event in Huntington Beach, California. After analyzing data, the firm released their findings in a report. Click here to download a sample of the report from the company's website.

Review the data provided in the report and ask students why it is important to communicate the findings with clients. Who benefits from the data? How will the data be used? What other data might be included in the full report? Use the sample report to demonstrate the importance of market research.

Lesson 4.8

Advertising

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

The Super Bowl provides an excellent means for helping students gain a fundamental understanding of advertising and a fun way to introduce the concept in class. Check out USA Today's Ad Meter by clicking here to view all the Super Bowl commercials from 2020.

 - a. The 2019 NCAA Men’s Basketball Tournament (“March Madness”) generated over $1 billion in advertising revenue (click here to see a breakdown from Kantar Media)
 - i. Also, according to Kantar Media, March Madness television advertising has generated nearly $9 billion in revenue since 2007 and the college basketball tournament trails only the NFL in post-season ad revenue
 - b. Last year, movie marketers spent $2.45 billion on U.S. television advertisements, up a 44% increase from 2014 when studios spent $1.7 billion ⁵⁵
4. Why do companies advertise? ⁵⁶
 - a. Assist in the increase in sales
 - b. Brand building
 - i. Create or change image
 - ii. Associate a brand with feelings and emotion
 - iii. Establish and maintain positive public perceptions

 - 2. Outdoor / OOH (Out of home) advertising
 - a. Traditionally includes any outdoor signs, walls, buildings and billboards etc.
 - b. Offers a high level of visibility but has geographic limitations
 - c. Has ability to potentially provide 24-hour advertising
 - i. In celebration of Maya Moore winning her fourth championship ring, the Jordan Brand installed billboards in cities around the U.S., including Los Angeles and New York, and announced plans with the city of Minneapolis (Moore played for the Minnesota Lynx) to find a permanent billboard space for the advertisement ⁵⁸
 - ii. As part of their social media heavy, AR “Summergram” campaign in 2019 featuring Chrissy Tiegen and DJ Khaled, Pepsi customized more than 2,300 billboards around the U.S.
 - iii. In 2020, Puma projected 3D holograms of its new Sky Dreamer sneaker along with Puma-branded basketballs onto the roof of parked cars near famous Chicago landmarks at NBA All-Star weekend
 - d. Includes mass transit / public transportation advertising
 - i. Uses public transportation, such as buses, bus stands, taxicabs, and subways to post advertising messages
 - (a) The Hillsboro Hops, a minor league team in the Portland, OR area, wanted to encourage fans to utilize mass transit to come to games. To do so, they chose to brand the local light rail train with the team’s logo to help generate more awareness.
 - (b) Adidas and the Portland Timbers wrapped several light rail trains in branded content to promote the MLS All-Star Game when they hosted to the event ⁵⁹
 - (i) The Timbers also advertised INSIDE the train to encourage riders to use mass transit for travel to the stadium
 - (c) According to USA Today, the Professional Bull Riders (PBR) boldly announced the arrival of a 2019 event in Washington D.C. by blanketing the city in advertising, placing more than 250 ads on city subway metro cars and buses
 - e. Also includes mobile advertising
 - i. The NBA's Jam Van tour is an interactive basketball program that travels from the United States to China. The Jam Van is a 67-foot 18-wheeler that transforms into 8,000 square feet of basketball and interactive “off-court” activities. ⁹⁰
 - ii. The Green Bay Packers’ annual “Tailgate Tour” visits five Wisconsin communities in five days during the summer while raising money for local non-profit organizations via tailgate parties at each stop. Along the way, the “Tour” also makes unannounced stops, often at schools. ⁹¹

It traveled to over 30 Hard Rock cafes around the USA in an 80-foot-long double-wide truck specially constructed to exhibit 64 memorable artifacts once owned by popular

musicians, such as a Jimi Hendrix custom Gibson Flying V guitar that he played at the Isle of Wight Festival in 1970, Janis Joplin's handwritten love letter to a boyfriend, Buddy Holly's glasses, Katy Perry's famous "birthday" dress and Justin Bieber's skateboard, among other things.⁹²

- (a) In another example of "interactive" marketing, the Hard Rock folks asked fans to vote for which items should be included in the tour via their Facebook page (they also allow fans to follow the tour through their blog and/or Facebook page while allowing visitors to check in on foursquare)⁹³
- iv. The Chicago Cubs deploy a Cubs "trolley", equipped with 8 flat-screen TVs and Cubs memorabilia, that would make appearances throughout the city at parades, street festivals and sponsor locations⁹⁴

 - (b) Click here to see photos of the truck
- vi. According to the Sports Business Journal, the NHL celebrated the anniversary of their 100th season with a traveling tour that visited each NHL market, offering fans opportunities to play hockey in an NHL style "ball hockey" rink, experience a virtual reality exhibit and a visit a museum with memorabilia, photos and interactive displays
- vii. At the Super Bowl in 2019, Yahoo! Sports visited popular locations around the host city of Atlanta in a pop-up truck, called the "Fan Cave", where fans could play trivia and other games to win prizes to encourage fans to watch the Big Game on the Yahoo! Sports app

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Digital marketing has proven to be an incredibly effective tool for sports and entertainment business professionals. However, it does present some challenges, including the identification of which mediums are reaching the most fans and which platforms provide the highest levels of engagement.

For example, Google+ never really gained much traction as a threat to Facebook, yet nearly every sports or entertainment property launched G+ pages. In fact, some teams still have a Google+ page. Vine was one the most popular social media apps, yet was shut down after just a few years and re-branded as “Vine Camera.” With so many social platforms available and new applications being introduced frequently, sports and entertainment business professionals must determine where to focus their digital marketing efforts.

Ask students which social media platforms they use to follow their favorite teams, athletes or celebrities. Ask if they think those should be the platforms utilized by all sports and entertainment organizations and what their social media strategy would be if they were responsible for social media marketing for a sports or entertainment company.

2. Location-based marketing

- a. Location-based marketing describes the practice of using technology to send messages or alerts to consumers through their mobile devices once they enter a pre-determined geographic location or area, otherwise known as a geofence
 - i. The geofenced region could be anything from a specific department in a store, to an area where an event is being held, to a specific neighborhood or an entire city
- b. Using iBeacons (Apple's Bluetooth, location-based technology), sports teams are better equipped to provide customized notifications (ranging from special offers to trivia) to fans using mobile devices at stadiums around the country¹²²
 - i. According to a story from cnet.com, last season the Golden State Warriors became the first NBA team to use iBeacons (over 20 Major League Baseball stadiums are already outfitted with the technology), using them to send four specific types of notifications -- a welcome message; offers to upgrade to better seats; special concession deals; and promotions for the team store
 - ii. The Miami Dolphins use iBeacon technology and location-based triggers to advertise food and merchandise specials to fans
 - (a) According to Venuetize, the Dolphins were able to generate $184,933 in incremental revenue from the offers last season and reported that Beacon-only advertised items had an average transaction that was 87% higher than non-advertised merchandise
 - iii. Beacon technology is now utilized in 93% of MLB parks, 75% of NFL stadiums and 47% of NHL arenas
 - (a) MLB is experiencing triple digit increases in numbers of fans checking-in through the league's mobile app where targeted messages, offers and special promotions are communicated to fans at ideal times, increasing the likelihood of spontaneous concession and merchandise purchases
 - iv. According to the Sports Business Journal, the Utah Jazz's new mobile app uses beacon technology to track fans and send notifications to them on deals and promotions while venues like Citi Field and Oracle Park also use beacon technology to communicate specialized concessions, merchandise and ticket offers to fans
- c. According to Engadget, at the 2019 Super Bowl in Atlanta, Nike used geofencing to send push notifications relating to limited-edition sneaker releases to anyone within a 25-mile radius of downtown. The brand also used similar location-based tools to allow anyone in the Nike 'SNKRS' pop-up store to unlock access to different products.

Case Study

Establishing the Marketing Mix: A Unit 4 SEM Case Study

Consider the marketing machine that is international soccer's dream franchise, Manchester United. The franchise's success in establishing a solid marketing mix has effectively helped to brand the organization as one of the most recognizable professional sports teams in the world.

Manchester United has consistently offered an excellent product in an extremely successful soccer team, but the success on and off field has helped the organization maintain its marketability. The continued exposure of a quality product has resulted in high volumes of merchandise sales, furthering the development of the brand with fans gobbling up everything from replica jerseys and apparel to key chains and coffee mugs.

The key to continued fan support for Manchester United has been the effective development of price points. The organization has positioned itself as a premium product, one which commands a higher ticket price. The simple foundation of the economic principle of supply and demand has no doubt weighed heavily into the pricing strategies as with the club selling out the majority of its home games. Access to seats is limited to the organization's "membership".

Adding to Manchester United's appeal is the venue in which they perform. With a historic tradition rivaled by very few sports stadiums, Old Trafford Stadium plays host to over 200,000 visitors from all over the world every year for tours alone. The team's website features information on the stadium, but also highlights an online video lounge, player interviews, team news and a host of other attractions that drive traffic. With thousands of visitors to the site each day, the organization has an excellent opportunity to make its products, such as tickets and merchandise, available to consumers. Fans also have an opportunity to see games live on television on MUTV, a television channel dedicated to Manchester United. MUTV is owned by the franchise, allowing for the team to maintain control of the broadcasting rights. In addition, fans can listen live on the radio and Internet.

Manchester United also engages in multiple promotional opportunities, including a host of sponsor partnerships. The mass world-wide appeal of the franchise provides exceptional marketing opportunities for sponsors, and the club has effectively turned those sponsorships into unique promotions for fans, including offers for a Manchester United credit card (MasterCard) and insurance discounts (complete with an online quote from Man U's website). Manchester United also has valuable sponsors in Nike, Vodafone (mobile phone company), PepsiCo, and Anheuser-Busch. In 2005, a company called Serious USA will launch a line of DVD trading card collectibles featuring Manchester United. Also in 2005, the team website featured a promotion providing fans the extraordinary chance to “Fly To Milan With The United Team”, donated by United’s official car supplier Audi UK.

 CASE STUDY DISCUSSION QUESTIONS *****

- 1.) How as Manchester United implemented each element of the marketing mix?
- 2.) Do you think Manchester United has been successful in integrating those components? Why or why not?
- 3.) How has the marketing mix helped Manchester United in branding their franchise?

Unit 4 Discussion Question Review

Do you think sports and entertainment organizations implement the same general marketing strategies and practices as companies in other industries? Why or why not?

Sports and entertainment organizations do utilize the same fundamental marketing concepts that drive businesses in other industries, in large part because those strategies have proven to be effective time and time again.

Which concepts are important to sports and entertainment marketers?

- The marketing mix
- Target markets
- Market segmentation
- Positioning
- Understanding consumers
- Market research
- Advertising

Why is marketing a necessary and beneficial function to businesses?

The marketing function is necessary for any business. Some of the benefits derived from marketing sports and entertainment products and services could include:

- The ability to add perceived value to goods and services
- Making the buying process easy and convenient for consumers
- Creating and maintaining reasonable prices
- Providing a variety of goods and services
- Increasing production

Who do you think the sports and entertainment business consumer is?

Why is it important to know who the consumer is?

Having a firm grasp on exactly who its consumers are allows sports and entertainment marketing professionals to develop the most effective strategies for reaching them to sell company products and services.

Marketers sell sports and entertainment participation. It could be participation by event attendance or physical participation in the event itself. Marketers target those consumers with free time, discretionary income, and a desire to be entertained.

Sports consumers are people who may play, officiate, watch, or listen to sports, or read, use, purchase, and/or collect items related to sports.

Lesson 5.1

What is the Marketing Plan?

- A. Marketing plan
 - 1. The marketing plan is a written document that provides direction for the marketing activities for a specific period of time ¹
 - a. The plan is a critical planning tool for any business, regardless of industry, as it provides direction for the organization by defining goals and strategies
- B. Why is a marketing plan important?
 - 1. It communicates the goals, objectives, and strategies of a company to its employees
 - 2. Some marketing plans are prepared to be included as part of a complete business plan
 - a. with the goal of obtaining financing from outside investors or bank for a new venture
- C. Marketing plans can vary in complexity and time frame
 - 1. The complexity of the marketing plan is determined by the size and type of the organization
 - a. The plan is also influenced by the organization's goals and objectives
 - 2. The time period covered by the plan also varies with organization size and type
 - a. A new minor league baseball franchise may only plan for two years given the risk for minor league organizations to be short-lived
 - b. A major league baseball team may create a five to ten year plan to implement complex and long-term marketing strategies
- D. Understanding the market
 - 1. Before completing the marketing plan, organizations must understand their market
 - 2. An organization must research and evaluate many factors within a market
 - a. The product
 - b. The consumer
 - c. The economy
 - d. Target markets
 - e. Existing market distribution channels
 - f. Buying trends
 - g. Competitor performance
- E. Understanding competition
 - 1. Competition refers to a rivalry between two or more businesses selling products or services to the same customers or markets
 - 2. When two or more businesses sell the same goods or service, they are competing for the same consumers. Competition impacts price points, product features and marketing strategies because businesses are fighting for an edge that will persuade consumers to choose their products or services over those of competitors.
 - a. PS4 (Playstation), Xbox One (Microsoft) and Wii U (Nintendo) compete for consumer dollars in the video game market
 - b. The Dallas Stars, Dallas Cowboys, Dallas Mavericks, Texas Rangers and FC Dallas compete for consumer dollars in the Dallas-Fort Worth area
 - c. Netflix, Amazon, Hulu and YouTube compete for consumer dollars in the streaming video business
 - i. Last year, there were nearly 500 scripted television shows available in the United States, with Netflix spending at least $12 billion on new content (a number that analysts expect will swell to $15 billion this year, according to Variety)
 - ii. Apple announced plans to enter the competition to capture the attention of streaming consumers with original "Apple TV Plus" programming in 2019

- (a) Recognizing the challenges they will face entering a crowded marketplace, Apple investing heavily to attract consumer attention
 - (i) The company is investing $15 million per episode in the production of 'See', a sci-fi series the company is banking on to help them make a splash when the service launches
 - (ii) To put that in perspective, the Verge reported that Game of Thrones — likely the most expensive TV show made — took eight seasons to work its way up to a $15 million-per-episode budget
 - iii. Similarly, Disney is reportedly investing $10-15 million per episode producing 'The Mandalorian' in the build-up for the launch of its new streaming service
 - d. Market share is a key indicator of how well one company is performing against competitors within the marketplace
 - i. For example, Gatorade dominates market share among brands competing for consumer attention in the sports drink market ²
 - (a) Gatorade (72%)
 - (b) Powerade (16.1%)
 - (c) BodyArmor (10.3%)
 - (i) In 2016, BodyArmor held just 1% of market share, 2% in 2017, 8.6% in 2018 and up to 10.3% last year
 - (ii) In 2019, BodyArmor launched a March Madness campaign to help capture more market share as it took over as the official sports drink of the NCAA Tournament (replacing Powerade)
 - 1. Click here to see a recent commercial from the brand featuring NBA stars Donovan Mitchell and James Harden filling out their NCAA brackets
 - (iii) According to a story from CNBC, the brand has bold and ambitious plans to overtake Gatorade as the number one sports drink by 2025
 - 1. Click here to read the full story from cnbc.com
 - 2. A monopoly occurs when there is no competition in the marketplace
 - a. The Federal Trade Commission blocked the merger between daily fantasy contest companies FanDuel and DraftKings with concerns about the effect the merger would have on consumers. The merger would have given DraftKings and FanDuel over 90% of the market. ³
 - b. In 1984, the U.S. Supreme Court ushered in the modern era of escalating media rights fees when it declared the NCAA's control of football television rights to be an illegal monopoly. Today, schools that 30 years ago received less than $1 million a year from television can generate $20 million or more a year in revenue from the sale of television rights. ⁴
 - c. A lawsuit alleged that EA Sports had "engaged in unlawful and anti-competitive agreements that nearly doubled the price of its popular game, Madden NFL, drove competition out of the market and prevented new competitors from entering." The company settled for $27 million but only with respect to their NCAA and Arena football licensing agreements, not its Madden franchise. ⁵
 - d. In 2018, the Department of Justice approved Disney's purchase of Fox on the condition that it did not include its regional sports networks
 - i. Disney owns ESPN so there were monopolistic concerns if they were to gain Fox's sports network assets as well
 - ii. For the agreement to be finalized, the DOJ required Disney to sell off Fox's 22 regional networks to a "reasonable" buyer (i.e. - a buyer that wouldn't give them control of the networks)

- e. The U.S. Supreme Court will soon decide whether it will hear a case that alleges the NFL's Sunday Ticket package violates federal antitrust statutes. As it stands right now, if you're a Cleveland Browns fan living in Seattle, for example, you'll have to buy NFL SUNDAY TICKET through DirecTV at a cost of nearly $300 to see your favorite team play every week.
- 3. Types of competition
 - a. Direct competition occurs between sellers of similar products and services
 - i. Li Ning, an upstart Chinese footwear and apparel brand is a direct competitor of Nike, Adidas, Puma and Under Armour, had displaced Adidas as the number two brand in China based on sales of footwear, apparel and accessories by 2012. Today, the company is still trying to positioning itself to surpass Nike as the top footwear and apparel brand in China. Li Ning's goal was to be number one by 2013. ⁶
 - (a) Unfortunately for the brand, it has struggled to reach its goal. As of last year, Nike still was still the largest sportswear company in China with a 17.5 percent market share, Adidas a close second with 16 percent share, while Anta Sports Products Ltd. (another Chinese brand) controlled nearly 10.5 percent and Li Ning just 5.5 percent.
 - (b) However, Li-Ning showed signs of life last year, with sales up 39% over the previous year
 - (i) Click here to read a story from Bloomberg on the growth potential of both Li Ning and Anta in the Chinese market
 - ii. Puma is trying to reconnect with its basketball roots
 - (a) In 2019, the brand entered a marketing agreement with the NBA, months after signing endorsement deal with a number of high-profile rookies after the draft with high hopes of re-claiming market share in a crowded basketball sneaker market
 - (b) Click here to read "The forgotten history of Puma basketball" from the Undefeated.
 - iii. New Balance is also investing in marketing efforts to compete for consumers in the basketball market
 - (a) Last year, the brand landed one of the biggest names in the basketball by signing Kawhi Leonard as a brand ambassador and also signed a multi-year deal as an official marketing partner of the NBA
 - b. Indirect competition occurs between sellers that compete for the same share of consumers' discretionary income (competition for the entertainment dollar)
 - c. It is possible for some products and services to compete directly at times and indirectly at others
 - i. Georgia Tech, Atlanta Falcons and NASCAR in the Atlanta market
 - d. Substitute products are products (or services) that consumers may choose to use rather than a particular company's product
 - i. Watching games in HD on television rather than attending the game in person

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

As part of SCC's annual SportsBiz Madness Case Study Tournament, last year we featured a case study asking students to develop an advertising campaign for New Balance as part of their push to gain market share in the basketball category. Consider using that case study as an assignment or class/group activity, making sure students can distinguish between direct competition and indirect competition. The case study is available in the Unit 5 folder online.

Visit SCC's blog for a recap of last year's case study tournament to see the feedback from our industry judges for the New Balance ad campaign case study.

Components of an Effective Marketing Plan

 - b. Problem identification statement
 - i. Provides direction for the analysis as a whole if an organization hopes to overcome a specific challenge
 - c. Communication and/or publicity plan

Lesson 5.3

The Mission Statement

- A. Mission statement
1. Many organizational marketing strategies are founded on the basis of the mission statement content
 - a. A mission statement should address the following questions¹⁰
 - i. What business are we currently in?
 - ii. Who are our current customers?
 - iii. What is the scope of our market?
 - iv. How do we currently meet the needs of our customers?
 2. To be effective
 - a. Mission statement should be shared and supported by employees
 - b. Should explain why your organization exists and what it hopes to achieve
- B. Mission statement examples
1. Mission statement for the International Olympic Committee's marketing commission ¹¹
 - a. "Olympic marketing helps perpetuate the work of the Olympic Movement, by providing resources, programmes and financial support. All programmes and actions of a partner should be designed to enhance and protect the Olympic image and Olympic values."
 2. Mission statement of the International Skateboarding Federation ¹²
 - a. "The International Skateboarding Federation (ISF) is formally organized and incorporated as Skateboarding's International Federation and World Governing Body. The ISF has been established to provide direction and governance for the sport of skateboarding worldwide; The ISF's goals include but are not limited to:
 - (a) "To make skateboarding available to everyone in the world who wishes to participate,
 - (b) To guarantee skateboarding continues to provide the freedom of self-expression and creativity,
 - (c) To promote and support the sport of skateboarding in order to guarantee its future,
 - (d) To continue to maintain the integrity and authenticity of skateboarding as a sport, a passion and a lifestyle,

 - (c) By helping our sponsors build their brands and grow their business.
 - (d) By treating our respective constituencies with respect, appreciation, and as we ourselves would want to be treated and serviced. In other words, by putting our fans and sponsors first every single day—and meaning it.
 - (e) By making our community a better place to live through our support of worthy social causes.

- (f) By involving our guests in the game as active participants—not merely spectators.
- (g) By knowing who and where our fans are, and reaching out to them.
- (h) By working hard to make NBA basketball the most popular sport in our community and by selling and humanizing our players to everyone we meet.
- (i) By being proactive and accountable in carrying out our mission.

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

For more examples of mission statements, refer to the student handout marked “Unit 5 - Student Handout - Mission Statements” provided on the thumb drive containing your membership resources. The handout (in both .pdf and PowerPoint format) can be found in the folder marked “Lesson 5.3 - Mission Statement” within the unit 5 resources folder. Ask students to discuss whether they feel each mission statement effectively conveys the company message. After students have reviewed the sample mission statements, ask them to create one on their own.

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

As a class, develop your OWN mission statement, whether it is for a fictitious sports marketing company, your class, or your school athletics or entertainment. Work with a student involved with art or graphic design to put the mission statement down on paper and then place it prominently somewhere in the classroom for students to see throughout the school year.

Lesson 5.4

The Situation Analysis (SWOT)

- A. Components of the situation or SWOT analysis ¹⁴
1. Strengths
 - a. Resources and capabilities that can be used as a basis for developing a competitive advantage
 - i. Patents
 - ii. Strong brand names
 - b. Positive reputation among customers
 2. Weaknesses
 - a. Qualities that give a business a competitive disadvantage
 - b. The absence of certain strengths may be viewed as a weakness
 - i. Lack of patent protection
 - ii. Weak, unrecognized or ineffective brand name
 - iii. Poor reputation among customers
 - iv. Lack of resources
 - v. Inadequate distribution channels
 3. Opportunities
 - a. Events that could facilitate company profit and growth
 - i. An unfulfilled customer need
 - ii. Arrival of new technologies
 - iii. A particular market niche that has not yet been exploited
 - iv. Mergers
 - v. Entry into new markets
 4. Threats
 - a. Events that could have a negative impact on the company
 - b. Could be internal, such as falling productivity, or external, such as lower priced products offered by competitors
 - i. Shifts in consumer tastes away from company products
 - ii. Emergence of new substitute products
 - iii. Government regulation
- B. Hypothetically, let's say you were conducting a SWOT analysis for an apparel and footwear company competing with companies like Nike, Adidas and Under Armour for market share
1. Strengths
 - a. Strengths might include:
 - i. Steady and consistent growth in profits
 - ii. Innovative new technology (lightweight, stretchable fabric) that increases consumer performance
 - iii. Products tied to effective endorsement campaign (Serena Williams wears your new technology during matches)
 2. Weaknesses
 - a. Weaknesses might include:
 - i. Too much reliance on sales of products online and not enough in retail environments (your products are not available at Dick's or Foot Locker)
 - ii. Low brand awareness (not enough consumers are familiar with your brand)
 - iii. Dependency on sales of apparel products with a track record of limited growth in footwear (75% of total sales come from the apparel category)
 3. Opportunities
 - a. Opportunities might include:

- i. Well defined objectives with company-wide support (everyone in the company understands and supports the goal of increasing footwear sales in the next fiscal year)
 - ii. Positive industry outlook (forecasts call for substantial growth in the footwear and apparel markets for the next three to five years)
 - iii. Positive association with endorsers (Serena Williams' popularity is extremely high and she uses your product and will be featured in an upcoming campaign promoting the brand)
4. Threats
- a. Threats might include:
 - i. Competitors launching new, similar product (Puma is launching a similar lightweight, stretchable fabric apparel line in the upcoming year)
 - ii. Rising raw material prices (the cost of producing products will rise)
 - iii. Poor economic conditions (consumers are spending less)

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Divide the class into groups. Assign each group different fictitious sports/entertainment products and ask them to develop a situation analysis as if they were developing a business plan to compete for market share. A few ideas for product categories could include shoe and apparel business, sports equipment (Wilson tennis racquets for example), sports nutrition products (CLIF bar), sports/entertainment events (such as an obstacle race like Spartan Race or a "fun" run event) or sports drinks.

Lesson 5.5

Financing

- A. A critical element to an effective marketing plan focuses on finances
1. Forecast
 - a. The forecast predicts the costs and expenses as well as anticipated revenue
 - b. A forecast simply provides a target figure and is not expected to be 100% accurate
 - i. For example, University of New Mexico's football program fell short on its ticket revenue projections for the 2018-19 season ¹⁵
 - (a) In anticipation of a continued decline in attendance, the program lowered its projections for its revenue generating sports for the 2019-20 season ¹⁵
 - (i) Unfortunately, attendance dropped even more than expected, resulting in another significant revenue shortfall (25% less than projected)
 - ii. Sometimes, organizations can exceed projected revenues
 - (a) In the Seattle Sounders' original business plan, the goal was to sell 12,000 tickets per game in its inaugural MLS season. However, the team averaged nearly 30,000 in its first year and has maintained that pace every year throughout their existence. ¹⁶
 - iii. When establishing a forecast, sports and entertainment marketers will evaluate many factors that will influence revenue and cost projections
 - (a) For example, several factors influenced the University of Michigan athletics department decision to raise its revenue forecast for the 2020 fiscal year ¹⁷
 - (i) The program raised ticket prices and the football schedule features several popular opponents, leading the department to project a $3.1 million increase in sales
 - (ii) The program also projects a conference revenue distribution increase to $2.8 million
 - iv. With the uncertainty surrounding the 2020 college football season, creating a revenue forecast for most collegiate athletic programs presented significant challenges
 - B. Budget
 1. A budget details the financial impact of each part of the marketing plan
 - a. The budget also requires careful review of other financial statements, including the income statement and projected expenses
 - iv. The University of South Carolina athletics budget increased to nearly $125 million for 2019-20 (up from 122 million from last fiscal year) ¹⁸
 - (a) The Gamecocks' budget includes projected revenues from the following for 2019-20 ¹⁸
 - (i) SEC revenue share: $44.1 million
 - (ii) Ticket revenue: $20.9
 - (iii) Gamecock Club: $13.2 million
 - (iv) Sponsorships and royalties: $17.5 million
 - (v) Gifts and donations: $9.5 million
 - (b) The Gamecocks' will budget for the following projected expenses of $113 million for 2019-20 ¹⁸
 - (i) Personnel: $52.3 million
 - (ii) Scholarships: $13.6 million
 - (iii) Facilities: $8.8 million
 - (iv) Uniforms, equipment, supplies: $8.3 million
 - (v) Event/game services: $7.5 million

- (vi) Team travel: $7.3 million
 - b. When an organization is either losing money or hoping to generate larger profits, they re-evaluate budgets in an effort to save money
 - iv. The University of South Carolina took an optimistic approach to a 2020-21 budget, but the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic created challenges in forecasting requiring several caveats. Tentative projections for the upcoming year were announced in June, with expectations that figures would need to be adjusted:
 - (i) Revenue projections:
 - 1. SEC/NCAA distribution - $47.415 million
 - 2. Tickets - $19.528 million
 - 3. Sponsorships and royalties - $17.555 million
 - 4. Gamecock Club - $12.970 million
 - (ii) Expense projections:
 - 1. Personnel - $54.545 million (will likely decrease thanks to voluntary pay cuts during the pandemic)
 - 2. Facilities - $8.811 million
 - 3. Event/game services - $7.696 million
- C. Balance sheet
- 1. The balance sheet indicates the current value of the company
 - a. Shows current assets (cash, property, equipment, receivables) and current liabilities (debts owed and loans)
- D. Income statement
- 1. An income statement is a record of profit and loss
 - a. Identifies all revenues received and expenses paid
- E. Financing example
- 1. Let's say your favorite college football team is evaluating their operating budget for the upcoming season
 - a. One of the key challenges they will face from a financial perspective is the significant cost of travel for "away" games
 - b. The program's primary budgeted football revenues could include:
 - iv. Corporate sponsorship
 - v. NCAA revenue distribution
 - vi. Ticket sales
 - vii. "Guarantee games"
 - (a) A guarantee game is a game where a larger program's team (typically football or men's basketball) will pay a smaller school opponent to come to its campus for a game. Because the larger school believes it should be favored to win, it becomes worthwhile to guarantee money to the smaller school for participating in the game and traveling.
 - (i) Click here for a story from the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette on how these guarantee games benefit smaller schools
 - (ii) For example, in 2019, the Idaho State football program will earn $550,000 to travel to Utah for an away game ($550,000) and $475,000, generating $1,025,000 in guarantees ¹⁹
 - (iii) According to a USA Today report, more than $150 million was paid out in "guarantees" two years ago in college football and basketball
 - (b) Unfortunately, after the Big 10 football season was postponed because of the pandemic, many non-conference opponents lost out on millions of dollars in revenue from guarantee games. Schools in the Mid-American Conference (MAC) alone were reportedly set to lose more than $10.5 million.

- c. Factors influencing the athletic program's budget decisions relating to football travel could include:
 - iv. The team's travel to an away game might cost the program $16,000
 - v. Costs are lower when the team plays opponents in a closer proximity because overnight stay wouldn't be required
 - vi. Travel also becomes much more expensive when the team is required to fly rather than drive, so playing a team further away might require a $65,000 travel expense
 - (a) Airfare = $48,000
 - (b) Food = $7,000
 - (c) Lodging = $6,000
 - (d) Bus transportation = $4,600
- d. Budget evaluation
 - iv. Ideally, the program will minimize costs in relation to budgeted revenues to avoid losing money or even resulting in a budget surplus
 - v. To cut costs, the athletics program might look for ways to minimize travel expenses
 - (a) Programs may have some control over the schedule, so each road trip is evaluated on whether it fits the budget, ease of reaching the destination, game times and availability of commercial flights
 - (b) The program might also look to partners such as Nike and different hotel chains as a means for minimizing expenses through discounts to try to remain within the budget

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

Use the lesson on financing to quickly introduce the concept of “stocks” with your students. You may also choose to take advantage of the “stock exchange project” in your projects folder and/or distribute the activity on stocks in the lesson 5.5 folder.

Lesson 5.6

Case Study

SEM Marketing Plans in Action:

A Unit 5 SEM Case Study

In an effort to increase revenue generated by University of Portland athletics, the marketing team revamped marketing strategies by re-writing an outdated marketing plan for the 2004-2005 athletic season. The plan helped to expand the breadth of sales opportunities available to the athletic department marketing team. Tricia Miller, Director of Marketing for Pilot Athletics summarized the effort by saying "The marketing plan elucidates our goals and provides the framework to reach these goals. It often becomes a fluid marketing plan as we make adjustments throughout the season relative to market conditions."

The plan outlined the key factors that would help them to brand and promote University athletics. The goal was to increase the number of tickets sold to University sporting events, particularly men's basketball and women's soccer, which they identified in the S.W.O.T. analysis as the most popular spectator sports at the University among both the student population, alumni and fans throughout the Portland area. Also included in the plan were identification of a target market, positioning and branding strategies, promotion/events planning, communication goals and a defined approach to advertising.

Another important consideration in the Pilots strategic planning was careful analysis of competition. In addition to several other division one collegiate athletic programs within a two hour drive of Portland (including Portland State, Oregon State and the University of Oregon), the Pilots must also contend with the growing popularity of high school sports and the professional teams within the market.

Upon completion of the S.W.O.T. analysis, they opted to shift the focus of their marketing efforts to students, creating programs to encourage student attendance at athletic events. The rationale was simple, as Tricia explained, "These are our future alumni, future season ticket holders, and future donors. Perhaps the most important factor contributing to our evolution in strategy is the electric atmosphere our fans can create – a real home court advantage if you will – enhancing the experience for everyone involved."

Was the plan effective? The Pilot Athletic Department reached all of their goals for the season in both men's basketball and women's soccer, with women's soccer ticket sales seeing an overall increase of 59.7% (including a 134.2% increase in student attendance) and men's basketball witnessing a 26.9% boost in overall ticket sales (including a 36.7% increase in student attendance).

After the successful implementation of the 2004-05 marketing plan, the Pilots have already begun adjusting the plan to further improve ticket sales efforts for the 2005-06 season.

 CASE STUDY QUESTIONS *****

- 1.) What was the University of Portland athletic department working to achieve with the marketing plan? What was the goal?
- 2.) What role did the S.W.O.T. analysis play in the creation of an effective marketing plan for Pilot athletics?
- 3.) Why do you think the University of Portland has decided to spend the time developing another marketing plan for the next season?

Unit 5 Discussion Question Review

Why is a marketing plan important? Would the practice of developing marketing plans be relevant in the sports and entertainment industry?

Why or why not?

- The marketing plan is a critical planning tool for any business, regardless of industry
- Provides direction for the organization by defining goals and strategies

Examples could include:

- An LPGA event creating a marketing plan for boosting sponsorship revenues
- The NHL developing a plan for managing the negative publicity surrounding the league as a by-product of the season long labor dispute/lockout
- A chain of movie theaters implementing a strategy to increase matinee ticket sales
- A record company determining the best way to communicate information about an artist's upcoming album release

Licensing has become a critical revenue producer for all properties in the sports and entertainment industry and continues to grow at an astounding pace. Unit six explores the factors contributing to that growth.

Branding

A. Branding

1. Branding is the use of a name, design, symbol, or a combination of those elements that a sports or entertainment organization uses to help differentiate its products from the competition ¹
 - a. Describes a company's or event's efforts to develop a personality and make its products or services different from the competition ²
 - b. Branding mechanisms
 - i. Brand mark
 - ii. Logo
 - iii. Trademark
 - iv. Graphics
 - v. Slogans and taglines
 - (a) Slogans are short, memorable catch phrases used in advertising campaigns designed to create product affiliations among consumers
 - (b) For example, Dick's Sporting Goods advertising often features the slogan "Every season starts at Dick's"
 - (c) NBA teams often feature slogans as part of their season-long marketing campaigns
 - (i) Examples of new slogans introduced by NBA teams for the 2019-20 season:
 1. Atlanta Hawks – "True to Atlanta"
 2. Brooklyn Nets – "Bet on Brooklyn"
 3. Charlotte Hornets – "All Fly"
 4. Indiana Pacers – "We Grow Basketball Here"
 5. New Orleans Pelicans – "Won't Bow Down"
 6. Orlando Magic – "Magic Above All"
 7. Philadelphia 76ers – "We The People"
 8. Washington Wizards – "Rep The District"

* ACTIVITY IDEA *

Encourage your students to get online and see if they identify a range of taglines or slogans for sports and entertainment properties. Ask them to find examples from different industry segments. For example, have them find something from the apparel industry, something from an upcoming film release, the tagline for a concert or music tour, the WNBA slogan and something from a niche or fringe sport.

Sports Business Program and combo members consider adapting a new slogan for your high school sports programs for this season, either collectively as an athletic program or individually for different sports.*

- c. When a brand name or trade name is registered, it also becomes a trademark ³
- i. A trademark is a device that legally identifies ownership of a registered brand or trade name ³

 - (iii) Because Texas A&M University trademarked the phrase "The Twelfth Man" in 1990, the school sued two NFL teams for using the popular phrase in their marketing, saying the lawsuit was "mean to protect its 12th Man trademark from infringement"
 1. In 2016, the Aggies reached an agreement with the Indianapolis Colts that requires the Colts to remove the "12th Man" phrase from the stadium's "Ring of Honor" and to stop all other uses of the trademarked phrase
 2. According to the lawsuit, the Colts used the trademarked phrase to help sell tickets (one campaign urged fans to "Join the 12th Man") and merchandise
 3. Click here for more on the story from the Indy Star
 - (iv) According to an ESPN report, Texas A&M also reached an agreement with the Seattle Seahawks in 2016 which gives the NFL franchise limited rights to use the trademark in exchange for an annual licensing fee ⁵
 1. The Seahawks will pay $18,000 per year to use the phrase and $10,000 to help Texas A&M continue fighting to protect the trademark

 - (ii) The trademark request includes merchandising opportunities like bed linens, glassware, children's books, jewelry, non-alcoholic beverages, key chains toys, clothing and athletic wear, bags and luggage, computer games, mobile applications, and various other items according to nola.com.
- d. Protecting the brand
 - i. Organizations will go to great lengths to protect their brand from a legal perspective

 - (c) Since 1967, Chapman High School in Kansas had been referring to its sports teams as the "Fighting Irish" and featuring a mascot bearing a similar resemblance to the fighting leprechaun logo used by the University of Notre Dame. In 2012, the school received a cease and desist letter from Notre Dame, ordering them to discontinue using the logo. Unwilling to spend the money necessary to challenge the University in court, the school held an art contest to design a new logo for school athletics. ⁹
 - (d) In 2019, Kawhi Leonard (formerly a Jordan Brand athlete, currently with New Balance) filed a lawsuit against Nike over the brand's trademark of a claw logo, accusing the company of copyright infringement and fraud

the NBA, I think the league has really become a personality league now. We're seeing athletes moving from team to team. It's really critical that the athlete does not let their name, their logo, their nickname get co-opted by somebody else."

- (f) Hollywood Weekly Magazine sued Netflix, CBS Studios, Paramount and Imagine Television in 2020 for a host of claims including trademark and copyright infringement (among other claims), stating they owned the rights to a "Tiger King" trademark and the unwanted association with the series is injured the publication's reputation.

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

The NFL's efforts to protect its intellectual property are highlighted every February, when companies all over the world attempt to leverage the popularity of the Super Bowl in promotions to help them sell their products and services. It seems every year we hear stories of NFL threatening lawsuits over the use of terms like "Super Bowl Savings" as excitement for the game builds. Here is a link to an article that discusses what you can and cannot say in Super Bowl advertising. See if students can guess which phrases are allowable and which would prompt the scorn of the NFL league office.

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Now is a good time to prompt a class discussion to see if students can identify any additional examples of brand extension. You might also want to access the "brand extension" assignment in lesson 6.1 and alternatively use it as a classroom discussion topic or class activity. Try to target a list of 10-20 different examples.

Student answers will vary...it could be anything from a new product release from a Kardashian to a Han Solo spinoff film from the Star Wars film being released by Disney or anything in between.

7. Importance of developing a strong brand ²⁶
 - a. There are many benefits associated with the development of a strong brand

 - iii. Strong brands reduce business risk and attract and retain talented staff
 - iv. Strength of a brand can carry the brand in a tough economy

 - iii. Re-establishing brand position and strengthening the brand is a critical component for maintaining a strong brand
 - (a) One strategy for re-establishing or strengthening a brand is the process of rebranding, which can be described as the updating or creation of a new name, term, symbol, design, or a combination thereof for an established brand with the intention of developing a differentiated (new) position in the mind of stakeholders and competitors
 - (i) Gatorade determined it needed to see more growth within the teenage segment of its customer base

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Have students rebrand their favorite teams in a class activity. Encourage them to consider what you reviewed from this lesson and give them the flexibility to rebrand the franchise in any way they’d like. For example, will the rebrand be subtle and they’ll just introduce an alternative uniform for a few games? Or will they give the franchise a complete overhaul, changing the team nickname, logo and/or color scheme? When they present their rebrand ideas, be sure they explain why they made the decisions they did and how they think the brand updates will change the way fans view and/or perceive the franchise. For some inspiration, click here to see how one NHL fan re-imagined the brands for every team in the league.

If you would prefer to wait, a similar project opportunity is available in Unit 7 where students will be encouraged to come up with a unique food-branded promotion for a Minor League Baseball franchise. That project includes a student packet, teacher lesson planning guide, PPT and rubric and can be accessed in the Lesson 7.6 folder.

This would be a good time to introduce the “School Athletics Rebranding Project” located in the “Projects and Activities” folder. The project casts each group of students as a “branding agency” and encourages students to create a hypothetical rebranding strategy for your school by applying a number of the concepts covered in lesson 6.1.

Sports Business Program and combo members should take this a step further by developing an entire project on identifying the existing brand, then rebranding your school athletic program, complete with the introduction of a secondary mark.*

- (b) Often times a re-branding effort includes the development a new logo or the alteration of an existing logo
 - (i) Because re-branding can be such a valuable marketing tool, many sports properties have recently included a logo update or, in some cases, a complete re-design
 - 1. Often, a re-brand will include new color schemes, logos and uniforms
 - a. Last season, the Los Angeles Rams announced that the team’s “throwback” color scheme would become the primary colors for the 2018 NFL season
 - i. The team also hinted that it began discussions with Nike for a complete rebrand that would be introduced when the franchise moves to its new stadium in 2020
 - b. In 2019, the New York Jets introduced the team’s first uniform change in 20 years along with an altered logo with a “Gotham Green” color scheme
 - i. Jet’s team president explained to the Associated Press in an interview: “We wanted to create something that we think today’s fans and traditional fans will like, and something that the players will like. And we also kind of were looking for that gritty, resilient New York City-area look. So, you’re trying to accomplish a lot of different things.”
 - c. In June of 2020, the Charlotte 49ers (UNC-Charlotte) unveiled their new logos around campus, in athletic facilities, on uniforms and merchandise.
 - i. However, the 49ers athletic director wants the rebranding to go much deeper than logo design and uniform change as told to the Charlotte Observer: “The whole concept, the whole design is to evoke an image of strength and boldness. “That we’re embracing momentum. We really feel that the competitive rise we’re experiencing coincides with the launching of this brand.”
 - 2. In some cases, the logo refresh can be ever-so-slight

- a. Such is the case with Auburn University, who introduced a slight tweak to the team's "shield" logo just prior to the 2019 football season
 - b. Walt Disney World introduced a subtle rebrand to Epcot in 2020 when they announced "Epcot" would become "EPCOT," spelled in all capital letters

 - i. The re-branding effort paid off. According to bizjournals.com, the Minnesota Timberwolves saw a 69% increase in merchandise sales over the previous year.
- (c) Because rebranding entails some major overhauling for organizations, it can be time consuming and expensive for sports and entertainment properties
 - (i) The NBA's Charlotte franchise changing their name from the Bobcats to the Hornets (the franchise's original nickname) and the New Orleans Hornets changing their name to the Pelicans
 1. According to the Charlotte Observer, Charlotte's rebranding effort cost the franchise nearly $3 million but has resulted in an immediate uptick in sales, with an increase of 59% in new ticket sales and a significant boost in sponsorship and merchandise sales³⁰
 - (ii) After a two year rebranding process that set The Big 12 Conference back roughly $415,000 on logo design and implementation alone, it was reported by Sports Business Journal that, for the first time in league history, the logo would be required to appear on football uniforms
 - (iii) The rebranding of the Washington Football Team could cost, according to some estimates on the low end, $10 to $20 million, and potentially much more when you consider everything that will go in to changing the franchise name, a process the team's head coach suggested could take up to 18 months
 - (iv) It took nearly four years for the Los Angeles Rams to finalize the team's new look, including logos, colors and uniforms, so it could be unveiled in time for the franchise's move into SoFi Stadium, its $5 billion new home, in 2020
 1. According to ESPN, the Rams' rebranding effort began in 2016, when the team relocated from St. Louis to Los Angeles

- (d) Sometimes a sports or entertainment property will introduce a “secondary” or ‘alternative’ mark as an extension of their brand
 - (i) Last season, nearly all NHL teams featured at least one secondary logo as part of their franchise marketing and branding strategy
 - 1. Click here to see all of them from puckmarks.net.
- (e) However, with some iconic franchises, a more traditional look without bold or flashy logo updates and jersey/uniform designs helps the team remain true to their brand
 - (i) Click here for a historic look at the evolution of the Green Bay Packers’ jerseys (including a nifty infographic) from fanatics.com
- iv. Opportunities may exist for two strong brands to collaborate on a marketing initiative
 - (a) Co-branding is the practice of using multiple brand names to jointly promote or market a single product or service
 - (i) Texas Tech University’s licensed retail store, Red Raider Outfitter, partnered with the Texas Rangers and Houston Astros in 2016 through a cross-licensing agreement to create co-branded apparel ³¹

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Recognizing the widespread popularity of sports memorabilia, most leagues and teams now offer collectibles through their own websites, a practice that is poised for explosive growth.

As a class, see if you can identify five different examples of collectibles being sold through league or governing body operated websites (i.e. - nfl.com, mlb.com, NCAA affiliations etc.). What items are most commonly offered? Which items are the most unique? Which command the highest prices? How else can leagues, teams and individual players monetize the collectible market?

 - a. Both brick and mortar and online retailers have gone “ominichannel”, meaning customers can shop online from a desktop or mobile device, via phone, or in a brick-and-mortar store, and the experience would be seamless. Brands recognize that consumer habits have changed, and the way brands approach the shopping experience has evolved as a result.

 - (ii) Nearly 76% of all Trash Pandas merchandise was sold at the team’s brick and mortar store

 INSTRUCTOR’S NOTE ***

As a fun way to wrap up unit six, ask your students if they have ever wondered how teams that have just clinched a championship win can be wearing championship hats and t-shirts just minutes after the victory. Obviously that merchandise has been printed in advance, but what happens to all the gear that was printed for the other team? For an interesting look behind-the-scenes, read this story.

Case Study

Harry Potter - Brand Wizard:

A Unit 6 SEM Case Study

How do you know when you've hit it big? Well, if selling millions of copies of books, grossing millions at the box office and selling millions more in licensed merchandise didn't provide your first, second and third clue, the announcement of a planned theme park might be a pretty good indication. We're not talking a special ride at a theme park...we're talking a complete theme park...20 acres worth.

Universal unveiled plans in late May of 2007 that a Harry Potter theme park will open inside Orlando's Islands of Adventure theme park (already home to 'Marvel Super Heroes' and 'Dr Seuss islands'). The "Wizards World of Harry Potter" is slated to open doors to the general public at the Universal Orlando Resort sometime in 2009.

The timing of the news couldn't have been better in helping maximize the Potter hype. The summer of 2007 featured the release of the newest Potter film (Order of the Phoenix) and the last in the series of Potter books (Deathly Hallows), both virtual locks to score big at the box office and best sellers list respectively. Pottermania, it would seem, was at an all-time high. Of the park, Harry Potter author JK Rowling said: "The plans I've seen look incredibly exciting, and I don't think fans of the books or films will be disappointed." If the marketing success the Potter brand thus far are any indication, there will be little margin for disappointment.

Let's take a moment to examine the Potter brand by its extravagant numbers:

- * Six Potter books have been published, collectively selling over 325 million copies worldwide
- * Only two books have sold more copies than Potter; The Bible (2.5 billion copies sold) and The Thoughts of Chairman Mao (800 million)
- * The Potter series of books have been translated into 61 different languages
- * The first film in the Potter franchise grossed $976.5 million at the global box office alone, not counting DVD sales or rescreening rights for television
- * Each subsequent film has made it to the list of the top 20 highest grossing films in history
- * The films have spawned six Harry Potter video games and, ultimately, led to the licensing of over 400 additional Harry Potter products (including an Harry Potter branded iPod)

- * In the U.S., advertising expenditures for Harry Potter branded merchandise (including books, movies, DVDs and other promotional products) totals $269.1 million from 1998 to date. Outside of the U.S. from 2000 to date, $119.3 million was spent on total advertising for all Harry Potter branded merchandise in Canada, Germany, Italy, Netherlands, Norway, South Africa, Switzerland, and the U.K. (nielsen.com)
- * More than $11.8 million has been spent by U.S. consumers on Harry Potter-licensed trademark cookies, candy and gum products since June 2002 (nielsen.com)
- * Since 2002, the Harry Potter movies have aired on U.S. television a total of 366 times (nielsen.com)

What does all this mean from a business and marketing perspective? Quite simply, the boy wizard Harry Potter has spent the last decade growing into a household name, as recognizable as Elvis, The Beatles, Tiger Woods or Michael Jordan, providing marketers with a plethora of promotional opportunities. What other brand properties spark a national trend of “themed” book release parties?

Take for instance this excerpt from a recent posting in the Seattle Times: “Bring wands, lightning bolts and maybe a few tears to celebrate the release of the seventh and final book in the Harry Potter series.” The paper featured two pages of library and book store listings, all celebrating Potter release parties. Some will feature movie marathons and trivia contests. Others will host costume contests, “wizard rock songwriting workshops” and “sorting hat” activities. One even boasted of a rock band, The Parselmouths, performing live on-site.

To get an even more intriguing sense of how powerful the Potter brand has become, let’s go beyond the numbers. Consider the following reports as they relate to the Potter phenomenon:

- * Applications to boarding schools have boomed in the wake of Potter’s success
- * Many parents of children with learning difficulties claim that the books themselves offer a perfect workbook for those wishing to improve their grasp of language
- * Owls are reportedly increasingly in popularity as household pets (much to the dismay of Animal Rights activists)
- * The locations used in the movies have become extremely popular tourist destinations (though some sites have been chastised by Warner Brothers’ legal department for advertising the connection)
- * The fictitious Potter vocabulary of “Quidditch,” “Muggles,” “Gryffindor,” “Slytherin,” “Hogwarts,” et al, has now become part of household vernacular

It is certainly no wonder how the Potter sensation has attracted such widespread corporate appeal, morphing over the years into a multi-billion dollar marketing machine. There is no question that the young wizard’s impact crosses cultural and economic boundaries, appealing to both youth and adult consumers. That pervasive allure affords Potter marketers an exceptional platform for cross-promotional efforts, continuing to move the needle on the Potter brand.

The Harry Potter brand has partnered with products as diverse as bubble bath to electronic games. Notably, EA Games introduced several Harry Potter video games, Mead offered Harry Potter School Supplies, Mattel released a Harry Potter Edible Polyjuice Potion Maker and Lego produced, well, Harry Potter lego kits. This broad-based cross-promotional strategy is the driving force behind the wildly popular wizard's merchandising success.

In terms of brand recognition, Potter enjoys a tremendous level of awareness among consumers. According to Nielsen, 59% of U.S. consumers age 12 and older were aware that the 5th Potter film was scheduled to hit theaters in 2007. 57% of those interviewed (ages 12+) conceded that they had seen one or more of the previous Potter films.

That leads us to the obvious question...what is the Potter brand worth? Some estimate the Potter brand - encompassing books, films, DVDs, video games and other merchandising products - is valued at nearly $6 billion (www.news.com). The Potter series author, JK Rowling, is a billionaire, and several British reports have reported that she has a higher net worth than Queen Elizabeth. That's when you know you've hit it big.

Unit 6 Discussion Question Review

Has anyone seen a Farrelly Brothers or Quentin Tarantino film in the past? Why did you choose to see that particular movie? Did you have an idea of what the movie film would be like?

Branding is extremely important to sports and entertainment organizations. Directors of popular Hollywood films often have a unique brand of movies (such as the Farrelly's or Tarantino's) which provides consumers with a very good idea as to whether or not a particular film will appeal to their tastes.

Branding, by definition, is the use of a name, design, symbol, or a combination of those elements that a sports or entertainment organization uses to help differentiate its products from the competition. Brand examples could include:

- New York Yankees
- National Hockey League (NHL)
- Walt Disney
- MGM Studios
- LeBron James

With the rise in popularity of “retro” or “throwback” sports jerseys and apparel, overall sales of merchandise are booming. What might deter anyone in our class from opening up a shop and selling these vintage clothes themselves?

Aside from the general issues of having enough start up capital to finance the venture, we need to be cognizant of the licensing process. We should develop a fundamental understanding of how licensing works, and who benefits from the licensing process.

- Licensing refers to an agreement which gives a company the right to use another's brand name, patent, or other intellectual property for a royalty or fee
- You would be required to pay a licensing fee (typically millions of dollars) just for the right to use team names, colors, logos and player names
- Once you have purchased that right through a licensing fee, you now have the opportunity to manufacture and sell licensed products

When you see a favorite celebrity (entertainer or athlete) in an advertisement for a particular product, do you remember the product name (brand)? Why do you think that is? Discuss as a class.

Regardless of student response, this question will prompt a discussion that can be an effective introduction to the material presented in Unit 6.

Lesson 7.1

Understanding Sales

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Often consumers have a negative perception of “sales” as a profession. The reality is, in almost any industry, sales are a part of almost everyone’s job, particularly in the world of sports and entertainment business. To help illustrate this concept, engage students in a quick classroom discussion. Begin by asking for a show of hands:

- How many students have had a negative experience with a salesperson?
- How many students enjoy having sales people approach them in a store?
- How many students think they could be a successful salesperson?
- How many students think they would want to be a successful salesperson?

Now, try re-positioning the idea of sales in a more familiar context using sports and entertainment as your platform:

- What does a head football coach need to do when recruiting a top prospect?
- Why does Emma Stone go on Jimmy Kimmel to promote a movie?
- Why does your favorite band do interviews with a local radio station?
- What do ESPN Radio hosts do just before a commercial break (tease an upcoming segment...)?
- Why do sports teams, music venues and movie theaters have a box office? What do you think those staff members are expected to do?
- Why do celebrities engage in sales efforts to sell their latest brand of perfume?

The bottom line is that sales is an important component to nearly any profession in the sports and entertainment industry. Everyone from a sponsorship sales representative for a NHL franchise to a front desk worker in a minor league baseball team’s office must have the ability to sell...and here’s a little secret: often times the best way to break into the industry is an entry level sales position!

- A. Sales
1. Sales can be defined as the process of determining customer needs and wants through planned, personalized communication intended to influence purchase decisions and ensure satisfaction
 2. Sales activities in the sports and entertainment field could include
 - a. Selling group tickets to a play
 - b. Negotiating an event contract with a facility or venue
 - c. Soliciting donations from alumni to fund scholarship opportunities
 - d. Selling an event sponsorship package
- B. Why is selling important?
1. Selling is the revenue-producing element of the marketing process
 2. Sales is the only true revenue-producing function for an organization
 3. Selling helps customers make informed buying decisions
 - a. Results in customer satisfaction and repeat business
- C. Personal selling
1. Personal selling entails any person-to-person communication in which the seller has an opportunity to influence the consumer's buying decisions
 - a. The process is a two-way communication between a representative of the company and the customer ¹
 - b. Personal selling is the only form of sales that involves direct contact between the sales professional and potential customer
 - i. In a non-traditional example of personal selling, members of the Western Kentucky University football team went door-to-door selling football tickets. That season, players sold 300 season tickets and the Hilltoppers enjoyed the second-highest average attendance figures in school history. Since the introduction of the door-to-door selling effort, student attendance increased more than 80 percent. ²
 2. Benefits to personal selling ³
 - a. The salesperson can immediately tailor the message he or she is communicating based on the prospective customer's response, feedback and buying signals
 - b. It allows for the communication of more information specifically relating the customer needs than any other form of promotion
 - c. Potentially confusing or complex information can be explained and the salesperson can be assured that the prospective customer has a complete understanding of the information being conveyed
 - d. The likelihood of the customer paying attention to the information being shared is greatly increased because the communication is face-to-face
 - e. Personal selling provides the best opportunity to establish solid working relationships, enhancing the probability of developing long term relationships with consumers
 3. Personal selling categories
 - a. Inside sales
 - i. Sales professionals that sell company products and services over the phone, Internet, or other means of communication from inside the company's office
 - ii. They either make outgoing calls to prospective customers or receive incoming orders or phone calls pertaining to company products or services
 - (a) According to a report from two Illinois State University researchers, the most successful collegiate athletic departments make as many as 3,500 outgoing phone calls each week to try to sell more tickets, an effort that their research

- suggests can generate $1 million or more in additional revenue for the school's athletics program
 - iii. Often utilized for products and services that require minimal investment levels, such as smaller ticket packages
 - iv. In most instances, an inside sales staff consists primarily of telemarketers
 - (a) Telemarketers are sales professionals that make outbound telephone calls to prospective customers in order to sell company products and services
 - b. Outside sales
 - i. Sales professionals that primarily communicate with customers in person
 - ii. Could include a ticket sales or sponsorship sales position
 - iii. Also referred to as "field sales" or "external sales"
 - c. Box office sales
 - i. Sales professionals located on site at a venue or facility who sell to customers in person at the event or to future events
 - ii. Movie theaters sell most of their tickets through box office sales, although more and more consumers are buying movie tickets in advance online through services like Fandango
 - d. A general rule of thumb among sports and entertainment companies is that everyone employed by the organization represents a salesperson on some level
 - i. If someone who works in accounting knows a friend interested in purchasing tickets, they would be expected to refer that friend to someone on the sales staff who can help them with their purchase
- D. Sales methods
1. Feature-benefit selling ⁴
 - a. Product attributes (or features) are the basic, physical, and extended characteristics of an item
 - i. For example, many professional sports teams sell tickets in club seating levels where the seats often have distinct product attributes that set them apart from general seating, such as wider seats, taller seat backs or video screens on the seats in front of them
 - b. Customer benefits are the advantages or personal satisfaction a customer will get from a good or service
 - i. Comfort, convenience, and space are benefits of club seating
 - c. The feature-benefit selling process involves matching specific product attributes to a customer's needs and wants
 - i. A company may have purchased club seats to entertain clients and would want to reward them for their business by allowing them to sit in the most comfortable seats possible at the game or event
 2. Full menu marketing
 - a. The selling of a variety of products or services that meet virtually any customer needs and/or wants
 - i. A sales professional working for a minor league sports team may meet with a company and have the ability to offer a small sponsorship, a major sponsorship featuring exclusivity benefits, season tickets, group tickets, VIP tickets, parking or a combination of those options
 3. E-Commerce
 - a. The buying and selling of goods and services on the Internet
 - i. Any consumer who is a fan of Disney may go online and purchase DVDs, plush toys, action figures, watches, ornaments or many other products
 - c. Sports teams, arena management companies and touring bands sell everything from merchandise to tickets online

- i. To encourage fans to purchase season tickets, the Portland Trail Blazers website outlined the benefits to being a season ticket holder and also featured a short video featuring exciting game highlights throughout the team's history as they prepared to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the franchise in 2019-20
- 4. Direct mail
 - a. Direct mail is a sales effort conducted exclusively by mail
 - b. Characteristically sent to large numbers of prospective customers soliciting orders for company products and services
 - c. To be effective, the direct mail approach must be:
 - i. Targeted
 - ii. Personal
 - iii. Measurable
 - iv. Testable
 - v. Flexible
 - d. Direct mail examples
 - i. Ticket brochures
 - ii. Pocket schedules and team posters
 - iii. Solicitation (sales) letters
 - iv. Fliers, postcards and additional print media
 - (a) In an effort to leverage the team's accomplishment of earning a playoff berth, the NHL's Tampa Bay Lightning utilized a direct mail strategy to boost ticket sales by sending 30,000 specially designed postcards to area businesses (the postcards featured each recipient's company name on the name plate above a player's locker in the Lightning locker room)
 - (i) As a result, the team generated over $500,000 in new ticket revenue through their direct mailing campaigns. Said Lynn Wittenburg, VP of Marketing for the Lightning in an interview with the National Sports Forum, "The direct mail campaign was a quick and effective way for us to make the phones ring." ⁵
 - (b) To communicate the team's decision to drop concessions prices at their new stadium, the Atlanta Falcons sent direct mail pieces to potential ticket buyers that included a $2 bill (many of the new concessions items will be offered at a $2 price point, including stadium staples like hot dogs) ⁶
 - v. A creative spin on traditional direct mail
 - (a) Under the guidance of sports marketing guru Jon Spoelstra, the New Jersey Nets basketball team sent rubber chickens wearing tank tops featuring a special message to season ticket holders who had not yet renewed for the upcoming season. The tank tops read: "You're about to fowl out! However, you can avoid the bench and keep on playing. Just read the attached." Included in the package was a renewal letter. The result of the campaign was a 93 percent renewal rate, up from an average of around 80% in the years before Spoelstra took over as team president. ⁷
- 5. Digital/electronic sales and marketing
 - a. E-mail marketing and other digital strategies can be incredibly productive for a sports or entertainment property
 - b. Social media platforms are increasingly providing value for sports and entertainment properties as an additional avenue for generating sales
 - i. Last season, the Atlanta Hawks made a limited number of playoff tickets available exclusively on Twitter
 - ii. A number of collegiate athletic programs, such as Ohio University, have a Twitter handle dedicated specifically to ticketing (@OhioTicketSales)

- (a) The University of North Carolina actually has a Twitter handle devoted to service and another dedicated to sales (@UNCTix and @UNCTicketSales)
- iii. Said Phil Horn, Vice President of ticket sales and service for the Sacramento Kings in an interview with dmnews.com when asked how the sales team interacts with consumers: "Certainly via a variety of different social and electronic methods. We've tried to respond in every way that they wanted to interact with us, whether that was via video chat to email to text message to Twitter to LinkedIn. We looked at all the variety of methods that were convenient for the customer...to get them the information they needed in a timely manner."

Lesson 7.2

The Sales Process

A. Sales process

1. Steps to effective implementation and management of the sales process
 - a. Understand the product or service
 - i. What inventory (seat locations etc.) is available to be sold?
 - ii. How much does the product or service cost?
 - iii. What are the features and benefits to your product or service?
 - b. Identify prospective customers and develop leads
 - i. Leads are the names of individuals and companies who could become future customers
 - ii. This step is often referred to as prospecting
 - c. Qualify and gather information about a prospective customer
 - i. Do they have experience with your team, venue, or event?
 - ii. What influence do they have over the purchasing decision?
 - d. Contact prospective customers (the sales call)
 - i. The sales call is the initial form of communication in which the salesperson makes contact with the prospective customer
 - ii. Sales calls can take place via telephone, e-mail or in person
 - iii. Utilized by both inside sales and outside sales representatives
 - iv. Often times salespeople will use a pre-written script to help guide them with a telephone sales call
 - e. Establish credibility, rapport and a reason to communicate with the customer
 - i. Secure a sale or, more likely, schedule a face-to-face appointment
 - ii. The face-to-face appointment provides a valuable opportunity for the sales professional to build rapport and establish a relationship with the customer
 - f. Identify and confirm a customer's needs
 - i. Sales people often conduct a "needs analysis" to determine where company products and services may be able to assist a prospective customer in meeting their organization's goals and objectives
 - g. Presentation and proposal
 - i. Increase customer awareness and interest in company products and services
 - ii. This communication takes place in some form of a presentation
 - iii. This information can be presented in the form of a proposal
 - iv. A proposal is a written recommendation of products or services his or her organization may offer to meet those customer needs uncovered in the needs analysis
 - v. Each proposal is customized to meet specific customer needs
 - h. Ask prospective customers to act on an interest in company products or services
 - i. Asking for acceptance of the proposal or for a purchase decision
 - i. Handle objections
 - i. Objections are a prospective customer's concerns or hesitations in making a purchase decision
 - (a) Occur when there is lingering doubt or unanswered questions in the mind of the prospect ⁸
 - (b) The prospective customer may be favorably inclined to make a purchase but needs clarification, more concessions, or approval by another party ⁸
 - ii. It is the responsibility of the sales professional to uncover and overcome each objection to the customer's satisfaction

- iii. Objection examples
 - (a) "I'm not a sports fan"
 - (b) "I don't have time to attend games"
 - (c) "We don't have a budget for a sponsorship..."
 - (d) "I need to discuss this with my boss..."
 - (e) "I can get the same results for less money by doing something else..."
 - (f) "Tickets are too expensive..." (19.1% of respondents to ESPN's "State of Sports" survey indicated that ticket prices were the "biggest rip-off" in sports)⁹
- j. Close
 - i. The close is the stage of the sales cycle where the prospective customer and the sale professional come to an agreement on pricing and services, in which the customer typically commits to a purchase of some kind
 - ii. The close is when the prospective customer becomes an official client
 - iii. Sales professionals often make the mistake of thinking this is the last step of the sales process
- k. Follow up
 - i. The follow up stage is critical to ensure a satisfied and happy customer
 - ii. The organization is responsible for ensuring all services agreed upon throughout the sales process are fulfilled
 - iii. Much new business for any organization comes from existing business
- l. Fulfillment and service
 - i. Fulfillment is the process of following through and delivering on all promised services to the customer
 - ii. Meeting and exceeding customer expectations is integral to retaining their business in the future
 - (a) In a Wall Street Journal story, Jay Fishman, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Travelers explained why Travelers decided to extend its sponsorship of a PGA Tour event through 2024: "The tournament has grown tremendously in the last seven years and has exceeded our expectations. With this agreement, we will continue to build on this world-class event for the fans, the players, our employees and our community."
 - iii. Renewal is the agreement between the organization and customer to continue the business relationship for a pre-determined, often contractual, period of time
 - (a) In addition to sponsorship and media rights, renewals also occur between ticket holders and an organization
 - (i) As season tickets are a key revenue driver for many sports teams, renewing these customers is often a top priority
 - 1. Teams offer incentives to entice season ticket holders to renew seats
 - a. Incentives typically include benefits available exclusive to season ticket packages
 - i. Could include such incentives as private autograph sessions, early entry into games, additional ticket discounts, flexible payment plans, concession and merchandise credits, better seating locations, access to team practices and private events, etc.
 - ii. Columbia University rolled out a unique season ticket benefit with the announcement of "Zip Pass", a private concessions line accessible only to season ticket holders (a trend that has caught on with many sports teams and venues)

- iii. The NHL's Dallas Stars and Washington Capitals treat season ticket holders to a day at the local six flags amusement park, while the NBA's LA Clippers spent a day with season ticket holders at Universal Studios
 - (ii) Many organizations are turning to more creative and unique benefit offers to help retain customers
 - 1. After another season in which the Phoenix Suns struggled on the court, the franchise turned to virtual reality for a creative twist on their 2017 season ticket renewal campaign
 - a. Current season ticket holders were sent a cardboard box with VR goggles they could activate with their cell phones to watch the team's three-minute renewal pitch
 - i. According to Sports Business Journal, the VR video featured game and practice footage, and a message from the team's star Devin Booker, urging fans to renew their season-ticket packages
 - 2. In 2019, the Minnesota Timberwolves offered season ticketholders a once-in-a-lifetime experience by inviting them to Paisley Park, a private concert, and the chance to interact with the team's players as the franchise unveiled their Prince-inspired "city edition" Nike uniforms
 - 3. Last season, the LA Galaxy enlisted the help of their international star player, Zlatan Ibrahimovic, to help encourage season ticketholders to renew
 - a. The team emailed season ticketholders with a pre-recorded message from the famously brash soccer star that simply stated "Dear (Season Ticketholder), You will renew now. – Zlatan"
 - b. Click here to see a video of Zlatan in action on the phone on the Galaxy's YouTube page
 - (iii) Click here for a story emphasizing the importance of season ticket renewals for Florida State University in the leadup to the Seminoles' 2019 football season from tallahassee.com.
- m. Evaluation
 - i. Measuring the results of a promotional investment (season tickets, luxury suites, sponsorships, endorsement agreements) help an organization determine its effectiveness
 - ii. Evaluations are typically objective (sales fluctuations) but can also be subjective (increased media attention or public awareness)
 - iii. It is important for the sales professional to be involved in this step of the process to gain a better understanding of whether or not they are meeting client needs
 - iv. Many sports and entertainment organizations set ticket, merchandise and concessions sales objectives with daily, weekly, and monthly targets. The sales data is then compared with information from the same date for the previous year.
 - (a) Disneyland might set a daily guest target of 50,000 visitors during the winter months based on sales results during that period in previous years, then establish similar goals for weekly merchandise sales and monthly concessions sales
 - (b) For example, the addition of "Rule 40" (a new rule that allows individual athletes to partner with non-Olympic sponsors) could potentially hinder the value of McDonald's current deal with the International Olympics Committee

- (i) John Lewicki, who oversees McDonald's global Olympic sponsorship program, says the company will use these games to evaluate whether to continue future Olympic deals
- (ii) Said Lewicki in a recent Reuters story: "If we find rule 40 impacts the value of our sponsorship, we could always go back and renegotiate for the future."¹⁰

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Have students split up in pairs. One person will begin by making a mock phone call to the other in which they are playing the role of sports marketer while the other is playing the role of the fan (consumer). Using the steps provided in this lesson, the goal is to sell the other student season tickets to their favorite sports team. After one student has gone through the sales process, have them switch roles.

Lesson 7.3

Sales Strategies, Skills and Techniques

- A. Personal sales strategies
 - 1. Collaborative selling
 - a. The salesperson and client take time to understand one another and develop a relationship according to the sales person's offer and the client's needs
 - 2. Transactional selling
 - a. The salesperson and client have limited interaction and the sale is based mostly on price or a specific element
 - 3. Team selling
 - a. A variation of collaborative selling that includes multiple people from the selling or buying organization, or both
- B. Sales skills and techniques
 - 1. Prospecting is the process of consistently researching for and seeking out new customers for an organization's products and services
 - a. Prospecting is a very detail-oriented process requiring careful research and analysis
 - b. A sales professional might research local businesses online that fit the demographics of a qualified potential customer
 - c. Sales professionals may explore several avenues when prospecting to develop quality sales leads
 - i. Trade Shows
 - ii. Industry Events
 - iii. Networking Events
 - iv. Consumer Lists
 - v. Directories
 - vi. Industry Publications
 - 2. Referrals occur when an existing customer recommends another organization or individual to a sales professional as a potential customer
 - a. Referrals are traditionally an extremely effective means for generating new sales
 - i. Between 60% and 70% of all fitness industry sales are the direct result of referrals ¹¹
 - ii. According to a 2019 Bleacher Report study, 36% of U.S. soccer fans aged 26-39 became soccer fans due to influence from their friends
 - iii. To encourage referrals, the Vancouver Whitecaps offered a 12% discount on season ticket packages and a 6% "commission" (credited to their account) for fans who refer friends to purchase season tickets
 - (a) Click here for an in-depth look at the Whitecaps' referral program from the National Sports Forum
 - iv. According to the Nashville Post, Tennessee State launched a 'Drive for Five' campaign with the goal to increase season ticket sales to 5,000 by the start of the 2019 football season, leaning heavily on referral business to help them reach that goal
 - (a) To incentivize referrals, the program offered 50 percent off TSU merchandise at a home game to anyone who referred someone to purchase a season ticket package
 - 3. Networking occurs when a group of like-minded business people gather to help each other to cultivate sales

- a. Business-to-business (also known as B2B) marketing involves activities one business makes in effort to sell their products and services to another business, rather than to the individual consumer
 - b. Sales people often involve themselves in local organizations and functions in an effort to connect with as many new people as possible
 - c. Chamber of Commerce meetings provide an exceptional means for meeting other business professionals who could become future customers or offer referrals
 - d. For example, ticket sales staff for the Portland Trail Blazers are likely to network at events with business people involved with organizations like Portland Executives Association, Portland Business Alliance, Oregon Executives Association, Portland Area Networking Group, and Women Entrepreneurs of Oregon (to name a few)
4. Cold calling refers to a sales professional's effort to generate new business through outgoing telephone calls without any previous communication with the prospective customer
- a. The cold calling technique is generally a less productive means for generating sales than other techniques (networking and referrals) because the personal relationship element is non-existent

Lesson 7.4

Importance of Customer Service

* DISCUSSION IDEA *

Think about the last experience you had with a customer service representative. What was the interaction like? Were they accommodating? Was it a positive experience or negative experience? Did the customer service representative's assistance resolve your issue? Do you think that company's customer service should be improved? Why or why not?

- A. Customer service
 1. Customer service is the action taken by the seller to make the relationship between the organization and its customers satisfactory
 - a. Many organizations strive to meet and exceed customer expectations, often times integrating service goals with company mission statements
 2. Customer service represents a critical step in the sales process and is ultimately about gaining and retaining the customer base ¹²
 3. Customer service's role is to help customers enjoy their relationship with the sports or entertainment organization ¹³
 4. The customer service experience begins when the customer arrives at the event and does not conclude until they have left their parking space after the event
 5. Minor league baseball has seen an increase of 50% in its total attendance in the last ten years, thanks in large part to its focus on providing the best customer service possible ¹⁴
- B. Who are the customers?
 1. In past team business planning sessions, the National Basketball Association (NBA) has identified customers as "full season ticket purchasers, partial plan holders, individual game purchasers (walk-ups), group purchasers, sponsors, community relations program participants, people who read our publications, people who watch our games on TV, listen on the radio or log onto our site – in short, anyone with an interest" ¹⁵
- C. The benefits of customer service
 1. There are a number of benefits to an organization that have a direct correlation with providing excellent customer service
 - a. Increased levels of customer retention and cost reduction
 - b. Decline in negative associations with organization via word-of-mouth advertising
 - c. An opportunity to provide a source of differentiation
 - d. Amplified levels of profitability
 - e. Creation of brand loyalty
 - f. New sales opportunities through positive word-of-mouth associations
- D. Why is customer service important?
 1. According to Customer Service Institute, it can cost up to as 5 times as much to acquire a new customer than it does to service an existing one
 2. According to the same institution, customers tell twice as many people about a bad experience over a good one

3. 68% of all customers will eventually switch service providers (entertainment options, advertising outlets etc.) ¹⁶
 4. It takes twelve positive service incidents to make up for one negative incident ¹⁷
 5. Retention (renewal) is crucial to any sports team as season ticket and sponsorship revenue is a vital piece of the organizations' financial viability
 - a. After several years of declining sponsorship revenue, NASCAR has hinted that it will be moving to a new model for attracting, and retaining, corporate partners. Plans reportedly call for a new model to be in place for the 2020 racing season. ¹⁸
 - b. According to a story published in the National Sports Forum's electronic newsletter, the Milwaukee Brewers believe that the key to retaining new customers and attracting new ones is to provide "over the top" customer service ²¹
 - i. Said Jim Bathey, Vice President of Consumer Marketing for the team, "We have been successful at selling tickets over the last couple of years because our focus is to provide over the top customer service and because our (sales staff) develops personal relationships with our (customers)." ¹⁹
 - c. One of the first tasks for the new NHL franchise in Las Vegas was to hire a customer service staff
 - i. Team executive Todd Pollock, told the Las Vegas Review-Journal: "We want to be fair to everybody. We're adding a dozen salespeople to the staff and make sure we have the best customer service." ²²
- E. Turning service into sales
1. For most segments of the sports industry, 70% of consumers are referred by word of mouth from existing customers ²⁰

team performance, an approach that has helped cultivate one of the most loyal fan bases in American sports

 - ii. In 2019, a Taco Bell promised fans a free Doritos Locos tacos as part of their “Steal a Game, Steal a Taco” and “Steal a Base, Steal a Taco” promotions that coincided with the NBA Finals and MLB World Series
 - (a) According to QSR Magazine, the World Series promotion helped provide a 12% increase to its restaurants
 - iii. Last college basketball season, the upstart burger chain “Burgers Grilled Right” launched a “Bricks for Burgers” full season promotion with a unique spin. Rather than celebrating a highlight or milestone for the home team, they wanted to create a disadvantage for the opponent. Thus, “Bricks for Burgers” was born, where every fan in attendance would win a free burger if a player on the visiting team missed two free throws in a row at any point in the last eight minutes of the game.
6. Media promotions
 - a. Promotional activities that involve a media sponsor or tie-in
 - i. The presence of media promotion allows an organization to maximize attendance and event support throughout the community, ultimately helping the organization meet its goals and objectives
 - (a) Portland, Oregon’s annual Blues Festival is sponsored by the local newspaper (Oregonian), local radio stations (Kink FM and KBOO), local television station (KOIN 6) and a local online news provider (OregonLive.com)
 - (b) Every year, Blues Festival attendees donate thousands of pounds of food (translating to more than 2 million meals) while typically raising $1 million or more to benefit the homeless ⁵⁹

Case Study

Sales in Sports & Entertainment:

A Unit 7 SEM Case Study

When Nextel inked a 10-year agreement to participate as a NASCAR sponsor. The partnership, believed to be the largest sponsorship deal in the history of sports marketing, provides Nextel with numerous opportunities to market and promote the NASCAR Nextel Cup Series. The total investment for Nextel was a whopping $750 million over the 10-year life of the contract.

Perhaps the most intriguing element to the story pertains to how the deal was ultimately brokered. NASCAR's chief executive officer, George Pyne, called the deal "the sales story of the century".

What makes this so interesting? The dialogue for discussions regarding the sponsorship opportunities was opened with a simple cold call, followed by a brief email to Nextel's director of sports and event marketing, Michael Robichaud that read:

"Michael,

I hope all is well. I thought I would check in.

The entitlement is heating up big time to replace Winston. I have not been able to keep my feet on the ground with all the travel.

I will be down in DC the week of March 24th. Perhaps we can get together?

Would it be worth the time to present the entitlement and/or NASCAR to you and perhaps Mark?

Regards, BC" ¹

That simple exchange would provide the spark that would ignite the sales cycle in NASCAR's effort to replace Winston as the title sponsor for their cup series of events. Within four months, the cycle would come to a close when Brian Corcoran, director of corporate marketing for NASCAR, received an e-mail stating "the papers are signed". The deal would be announced shortly thereafter.

Ultimately, it was NASCAR's superior television ratings and creative inventory that made the partnership a reality. Nextel officials also saw a unique platform for effectively marketing their products and services. Without the cold call that started it all, however, the deal would never have come to fruition.

 CASE STUDY QUESTIONS *****

- 1.) Is the NASCAR / Nextel partnership example a testament to the effectiveness of personal selling? Why or why not?
- 2.) Do you think the title sponsorship for the NASCAR cup would have been sold without a sales process in place? Why or why not?
- 3.) Do you think Nextel is still a sponsor? Go online and see if you can find out, then discuss why or why not they made the decision they did and how it may have impacted NASCAR.

Unit 7 Discussion Question Review

Think about the last experience you had with a salesperson. What was the interaction like? Was the salesperson helpful? Was it a positive experience or negative experience? Did the salesperson's assistance impact your purchase decision?

Regardless of student response, this question will prompt a discussion that can be an effective introduction to the material presented in Unit 7.

Think about the last experience you had with a customer service representative. What was the interaction like? Were they accommodating? Was it a positive experience or negative experience? Did the customer service representative's assistance resolve your issue? Do you think that company's customer service should be improved? Why or why not?

More than likely your students will have some interesting stories to share regarding experiences with sales people or customer service. Use this discussion to validate the importance of effective sales and service strategies in the sports and entertainment business.

What role do you think promotions play in sports and entertainment organization's marketing strategies? Can you give an example of a promotion for a sports or entertainment event you have recently attended (movie, game, play etc)?

For those students who have had a recent experience with a minor league sports team, this question will prompt the sharing of some exceptional promotional ideas. Encourage students to think about promotions they might have seen for movies, sporting events, book or music releases. As an example, the highly anticipated release of the most recent Harry Potter book in June of 2007 led to many creative promotions at book stores.

Record all the promotional examples provided by students on the board or projector as they share them.

Lesson 8.1

Sponsorship

A. Sponsorship

1. Sponsorship is a form of marketing in which companies attach their name, brand, or logo to an event for the purpose of achieving future profits ¹
 - a. Sponsorship is not the same as advertising
 - i. Advertising is more direct and aims to stimulate a purchase in the short term
 - ii. Sponsorship aims to generate a bond between company and customer
 - b. Sponsorships provide a partnership between two parties
 - i. Sports and entertainment properties need sponsors to provide financial support, products and services
 - ii. Sponsors need sports and entertainment properties to provide an effective marketing tool
 - iii. For sponsorship to be effective, it must make sense for each party involved
2. Sponsorship examples
 - a. Kaiser Permanente investing in naming rights to rebrand the 11-acre plaza surrounding the Golden State Warriors' new Chase Center arena as "Thrive City" — after Kaiser's "Thrive" health and wellness slogan
 - b. Major corporations sponsoring NCAA college football bowl games
 - c. Mountain Dew sponsoring the Action Sports Tour
 - d. Visa spending millions to sponsor the 2021 Summer Olympic Games in Tokyo

B. Sponsorship packages often include: ²

1. Sponsorship packages typically include some combination of "assets" for the partnering brand
 - a. Right to use team or event marks, logos, names, or trademarks
 - b. Potential for exclusive association
 - i. Exclusivity provides a sponsor the unique opportunity to be the only company sponsoring in a particular product category
 - ii. If Bank of America holds exclusivity rights as part of its package to sponsor a golf event, no other bank will have an opportunity to participate in the event as a sponsor
 - c. Opportunity for title or presenting sponsorships
 - d. Right to use various designations or phrases
 - i. Campbell's Soup and their long-time sponsorship of the National Football League designates the brand as the "Official Soup Sponsor of the NFL"
 - (a) Additional examples:
 - (i) "Official broadcaster of..."
 - (ii) "Official product of..."
 - (iii) "Official sponsor of..."
 - (iv) "Presented by..."
 1. For example, the 2019 NBA Finals were presented by YouTube
 - (v) "Brought to you by..."
 - ii. Right to conduct promotional activities

- (a) As part of their NFL sponsorship, Campbell's traditionally rolled out a "Mama's Boy" marketing campaign for the football season featuring NFL players and their mothers
 - (i) After a five-year hiatus from the campaign, Campbell's brought the ads back last year, featuring Dallas Cowboy's star QB Dak Prescott with his brothers, and New York Giants running back Saquon Barkley with his mother
 - (ii) The 2020 campaign will feature Philadelphia Eagles tight end Zach Ertz, along with his mother, along with a sweepstakes promotion where fans are automatically entered to win an invitation to a Campbell's Chunky-themed cooking experience at the Eagles training facility with Mr. Ertz and his mom
- e. Additional forms of company exposure and media time (billboards, commercials)
- f. Product and merchandise (game tickets, licensed merchandise)
- C. Sponsorship package example
 - 1. Moda Health paid $40 million, as part of a 10-year deal, for the naming rights to the Portland Trail Blazer arena as part of its rebranding process to raise levels of brand awareness
 - a. According to the Sports Business Journal, the package includes naming rights at a venue that hosts over 200 sports and entertainment events per year, TV, radio and digital advertising, and the company also becomes a sponsor of the Seattle Seahawks and Seattle Sounders

Consider visiting (or encouraging your students to visit) http://www.nascar.com/en_us/sponsors.html for a link to a comprehensive listing of NASCAR sponsors. The list provides a great example of partnership possibilities available to corporations via sponsorships.

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Encourage students to go online and find ten different examples of sponsors using the designated phrases listed above. If possible, try to find a different property (NFL, Oscars, Grammys, World Cup etc.) or different designation (“official sponsor of x” or “presented by”) for each partnership example. For some examples, click here to visit our “official sponsors” board on Pinterest.

- D. What makes sponsorship an effective promotional opportunity for a company?
 1. Allows companies to reach consumers by appealing to their lifestyle
 - a. The marketer’s message is communicated more effectively when consumers are participating in something they enjoy, such as attending a sporting event or a movie
 - i. Can be particularly effective in sports because of the high levels of brand loyalty
 2. Sponsorships often allow companies to reach segments they normally would not
 - a. Audi signed sponsorship agreements with equestrian events, ski races and sailing because research showed that participants and followers of those sports fit the profile of typical Audi buyers ³
 - i. When Lothar Korn, Head of Marketing Communications for Audi was asked how an affiliation with sailing adds to Audi’s image, he responded by saying: “Sailing has a lot in parallel with the image of Audi. It can strengthen some aspects of our brand: if you look at the dynamism, at the elegance and the design of the boats, if you look at the technology... Audi is ‘Vorsprung durch Technik’ -‘Lead through Technology’-, and technology is also very important for the MedCup too, it is a high-tech sports environment. Light weight plays an important role for the boats, they make good use of carbon, and so light weight is also one of Audi’s main strengths, so there are a lot of parallel elements.” ⁴
 3. In today’s digital marketing era, traditional marketing efforts have proven to be less effective while more creative approaches, such as sponsorship, offer a more creative and successful means for connecting with consumers
- E. Five common ways businesses implement sponsorship programs ⁵
 1. Retail promotions ⁶
 - a. Includes point of sale promotions
 - b. Generally, the goal of a retail promotion is to drive traffic to a sponsor’s place of business
 - i. Walmart created a “Race Time” platform at stores that provides NASCAR fans the ability to purchase NASCAR tickets, merchandise, snacks and beverages to take to the race, making Walmart a one stop destination to purchase everything they need to enjoy NASCAR events ⁷
 2. Media awareness ⁸

- a. Refers to the number of people you reach within an audience of a specific segment
 - b. Typically, the focus is on impressions
 - i. Impressions refer to the number of people exposed to the promotion
 - ii. Hankook Tire America Corporation immerses itself in a number of sports marketing programs. The company's rationale is provided on its Website: *"Hankook enjoyed more than four billion impressions through its Sports Marketing Programs in baseball, hockey, basketball and football. This level of impressions has brought the Hankook name to millions of households, both reinforcing the Hankook brand while introducing the Hankook name to countless households nationwide."*⁹
 - iii. According to Apex Marketing Group, Jeff Ruby Steak House gained over $1.1 million in brand value at the 2019 Kentucky Derby, in large part because of the large number of impressions, by sponsoring jockey Mike Smith (who was Justify's jockey in 2018 when they won the Triple Crown)
 - iv. When Muscle Milk signed a deal with one of the top picks in the NFL Draft, Miami's Tua Tagovailoa, the company suggested the marketing campaign around the star quarterback would generate over 1.8 billion impressions, according to a story from Marketing Daily
 - c. While impressions are still important, no longer are they an exclusive motivation for a sponsor to engage in a relationship with a sports or entertainment property with activation playing a more significant role in a successful sponsorship strategy
 - i. In an interview published in the Sports Business Journal, Michael Kelly, Executive VP of marketing for Phillips-Van Heusen said: *"The days of slapping your logo on a sport and counting the impressions are over... Our partnership with the Izod IndyCar Series is a good example of how to simultaneously activate our brand at Macy's and re-energize a sport — we are so intertwined that what benefits one will ultimately be good for all three."*¹⁰
3. Venue/event on-site promotion
- a. Allows a company to connect with the audience of a particular event¹¹
 - i. Companies are buying fan enthusiasm, access to spectators (crowds), and media benefits associated with the event
 - b. Provides opportunities for a company to network with other sponsors
 - i. The Portland Trail Blazers teamed up with sponsor Green Sports Alliance to host an Eco Summit event where over 20 of the team's sponsors were invited (as well as all company employees) to participate¹²
 - (a) Educational and interactive booths along with panel discussions generated networking opportunities for all in attendance
4. Internal sales and marketing tool
- a. Helps companies to:
 - i. Maintain an existing customer base
 - ii. Attract new customers
 - iii. Enhance employee relations and motivate/reward staff
 - (a) According to a Sponsorship Decision-Makers study by IEG, Inc. and Performance Research, 64% consider measuring "employee/internal response” as a valuable metric when evaluating the effectiveness of a sponsorship ¹³

5. Product introduction ¹⁴

- a. Sports sponsorships are a great marketing tool for companies to introduce new products because, generally, sports promotions can provide a quantifiable demographic
 - i. Ford may sponsor a test drive promotion at a NASCAR event, offering an opportunity for fans to drive a new car model. The promotion enables Ford to capture the information of an identifiable number of the program’s participants.
 - (a) Click here to read a story on how sponsors of the 2014 Winter Games in Sochi used their Olympic sponsorship as a platform to introduce new products to athletes and fans
 - ii. Chobani Greek Yogurt sponsored Team USA and used the Rio Olympic Games to launch three limited edition Rio-inspired flavors: Limited Batch Guava, Limited Batch Watermelon and Chobani "Flip" Greek Yogurt Limited Batch Mango Passion Power ¹⁵
 - (a) As part of their sponsorship of the 2019 Boston Marathon, Almond Breeze offered race participants and spectators samples of the brand’s new yogurt product, before the product even hit the market ¹⁶

Lesson 8.2

Sponsorship Growth

- A. Sponsorship spending in North America shows consistent growth over the past 20 years
1. According to IEG's annual report, sponsorship spending is expected to outpace traditional marketing/promotion and advertising spending

 - d. 2001 - $ 9.3 billion
 - e. 2007 - $ 14.91 billion

 - iii. Causes - $2.14 billion
 - iv. Arts - $1.03 million
 - v. Festivals, fairs and annual events - $936 million
 - vi. Associations and membership organizations - $635 million
 3. Global sponsorship growth
 - a. A report from sports data agency, Two Circles, suggests global spending on sports sponsorships will increase by 6% on average every year between 2020 and 2024 ¹⁷
 - i. Pre-pandemic, one study predicted the spend on sports sponsorship to increase five percent in 2020, reaching more than $48 billion globally, the strongest growth in a decade
 - (a) According to the study, brands were lined up to invest a record $5.94 in sponsorships of the Tokyo Games before they were postponed, nearly double the amount generated by the 2016 Olympics in Rio. Official partners of the IOC (Procter & Gamble, Coca-Cola, Visa etc.) were projected to spend $1.95 billion on the event with Japanese sponsors like Canon and Fujitsu spending $3.33 billion.
 4. However, with the sports and entertainment industry coming to a screeching halt in 2020 due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the outlook for sponsorship growth has significantly slowed
 - a. IEG estimates 38% of the annual U.S. sponsorship value ($10 Billion) will need to be made up following the health crisis. As of July, there were already 120,000 active sponsorship agreements in limbo and more than 5,000 brands were faced with decisions on how to recoup lost value
 - i. Click here to view an infographic from IEG with its forecast for the future of the sponsorship industry from SCC's Pinterest page

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

Every year, IEG publishes a report breaking down annual sponsorship spending along with projections for future spending and sponsorship trends (also providing a great way to reinforce concepts from lesson 3.4 on industry trends). The results are interesting and might be worth sharing and/or discussing in class with your students. Click here to download the latest IEG Sponsorship Spending Report.

5. Sponsorship investment levels
 - a. Sponsorship is a primary source of promotion for many major corporations
 - b. According to a report from IEG, companies with the highest levels of investment in U.S. sports sponsorship programs include: ¹⁸
 - i. PepsiCo: $370-375 million
 - ii. Anheuser-Busch: $360-365 million
 - iii. Coca-Cola: $275-280 million
 - iv. Nike: $260-265 million
 - v. AT&T: $200-205 million
- B. Factors influencing growth of sponsorship
 1. Unique promotional opportunity ("outside the box" mentality), providing some separation from traditional media
 2. Technology and increased media interest in sports and entertainment programming ¹⁹
 - a. Bolstered by the increased commercialization of radio and television through commercials
 - b. Introduction of new media outlets (vs. traditional media like television and radio)
 - i. Pay per view
 - ii. Satellite television and radio
 - iii. On Demand programming
 - iv. Streaming audio and video-
 - v. Social media
 3. Growing frustration with traditional media
 - a. Companies began feeling that it was too challenging to distinguish themselves from the large number of additional companies advertising
 - b. The average individual sees 5,000 sales messages daily, making it hard for companies to get consumers to remember their products ²⁰
 4. Increased levels of consumer acceptance
 - a. Studies have indicated that public perception of sponsorship is far more positive than traditional forms of advertising
 5. Global nature of sports and entertainment ²¹
 - a. Sponsorship provides a means for crossing the language barrier

- b. The Olympics Games consistently receive multi-national support via sponsorships from an industry-diverse clientele
- C. Cause marketing
 - 1. Cause marketing refers to marketing efforts that tie an organization with a charitable cause
 - a. 79% of respondents to a recent study said they would switch brands (provided price and quality were equal) to one supporting a “good cause” ²²
 - i. The Boomer Esiason Foundation Website explains that with cause marketing programs, a corporation receives tangible benefits – such as a marked increase in sales – from tying its marketing strategy to the fundraising needs of a charitable cause ²³
 - b. Cause marketing has proven to be extremely effective, and sponsorship provides a valuable platform for cause marketing programs ²²
 - 2. Cause marketing has become one of the most popular trends in sports and entertainment marketing
 - a. In 1990, cause marketing sponsorship spending in the U.S. totaled only $120 million, according to the IEG Sponsorship Report. By 2019, spending on cause marketing is projected to reach $2.23 billion (up nearly 5% from 2018).
 - b. According to a report from Performance Research, 41% of U.S. consumers believe companies can best improve brand perceptions by increasing their cause sponsorships ²⁴
 - 3. Cause marketing is not: ²⁵
 - a. Pure philanthropy or sponsoring an event without expecting a return on the investment
 - 4. How can you tell if it is cause related marketing? ²⁵
 - a. There is a marketing objective associated with the activity
 - b. The marketing activity is measured
 - c. The program is promoted

After watching footage of children playing soccer with a ball of trash in Darfur, Tim Jahnigen launched the “One World Futbol” program which distributes specially made soccer balls that will never go flat. The program received a giant boost when Chevrolet, as part of their sponsorship of Manchester United, agreed to sponsor the distribution of 1.5 million of the balls. ²⁶
 - b. Associated Bank teamed up with the Milwaukee Brewers Community Foundation to launch a program called “Hits for Homes” in which the bank donates $250 for every recorded hit by Brewers players during home games (up to a total of $100,000) with the goal of encouraging fans to open checking accounts and apply for debit cards through the bank at Miller Park
 - c. Colgate introduced a “Save Water” commercial during Super Bowl 50, encouraging viewers to turn off the faucet while brushing their teeth while spreading the message through social media with the hashtag #EveryDropCounts
 - i. The campaign positioned Colgate to win brand loyalty by encouraging football fans (and all Super Bowl viewers) to choose a brand aligned with a cause-related initiative
 - ii. Click here to view the 30 second ad spot
 - iii. According to eventmarketer.com, the “Save Water” campaign has been a multi-year effort, but for 2018, the brand announced its sponsorship of #RunningDry, an initiative developed by environmentalist and “ultra-runner” Mina Guli, who ran 100 marathons in 100 days across six continents to help shine a spotlight on water struggles around the world. Colgate also teamed up with former Olympic swimmer Michael Phelps, who encouraged his millions of social media followers to turn off their faucets because #EveryDropCounts (consumers can make pledges at EveryDropCounts.Colgate.com).

- (a) Click here to learn more about the campaign
- d. Shawn Mendes partnered with SmileDirectClub just prior to the 2019 Grammy Awards in a campaign with the goal of helping people to build, saying in a statement that he wanted to collaborate with a company “that aims to build confidence and spread positivity in an authentic way”
 - i. A portion of the campaign proceeds were donated to organizations dedicated to the improvement of children’s physical and mental health
- e. According to Sports Business Journal, former NASCAR driver Justin Marks is starting a new Cup Series team called Trackhouse that is planning to start as soon as 2021 and will have a unique cause-marketing focus around promoting STEM education

Cause marketing can be one of the most effective marketing strategies in the sports, events and entertainment industry and is expected to have a significant impact on the way companies approach sponsorship in the future. To further engage your students as it relates to the topic of cause marketing, consider distributing the Internet activity marked “Unit 8 - Internet Activity- Cause Marketing” and/or the project marked “Cause Marketing Project”.

Sports Business Program members could consider taking things one step further by developing (or contributing to) an actual cause related campaign in your community by teaming up with a local business.*

- D. Sponsorship as a unique medium ²⁷
 - 1. What differentiates it from traditional media?
 - a. Allows a company to tap emotional and intimate appeals of customers
 - b. Integrates the positive feelings of sports and entertainment events with company products, services and staff
 - c. Sponsorships help reach segmented targets that mass media typically proves ineffective
 - i. Spotify offers companies an opportunity to sponsor their most popular playlists to align marketers with a specific target audience
 - (a) Adweek reported Kia was one of the first companies to sponsor a playlist (New Music Friday), which lead to an ad click through rate for the Kia Sportage that was twice the original expectation
 - d. Showcases a company’s products and services in an environment representative of a consumer’s particular lifestyle

Lesson 8.3

Sponsorship Decisions

- A. Why do companies make the decision to engage in sponsorship programs?
1. Companies make the decision to sponsor based on the desire to achieve a desired result
 2. Companies typically use sponsorship as a vehicle to:
 - a. Increase brand loyalty
 - b. Create awareness and visibility
 - c. Change or reinforce image
 - d. Drive retail traffic
 - e. Drive sales
 - f. Showcase community responsibility
 - g. Display brand attributes
 - h. Entertain clients and hospitality
 - i. Recruit and retain employees
 - j. Create merchandising opportunities
 - k. Build company awareness
 - l. Differentiate products
 - m. Associate with particular lifestyles
 - n. Business-to-Business marketing
 - o. Distinguish from the competition
 - p. Introduce a new product or service to a large audience
 - q. Enter new markets
- B. Deciding what to sponsor
1. As sponsorship continues to grow, companies continue to be inundated with sponsorship requests
 2. Companies must filter through proposals to find which sponsorship opportunities will present the best opportunities to effectively promote their brands
 - a. Software is now available to help filter those requests to determine which proposals meet the needs of a company
 - i. Versaic software manages sponsorship proposals for an impressive client list including Kraft Foods, Nintendo, Snapple Beverage Co, Balance Bar, Lexus, US Bank and Verizon Wireless
 - b. Vans successfully reaches their target audience (young action sports fans) through a sponsorship with the U.S. Open of Surfing in California. Conversely, it would not make sense for Vans to partner with the PGA for a seniors golf tournament. ²⁸
 - c. Columbia Sportswear makes products for outdoor enthusiasts. As such, promoting those products through endorsements with NBA athletes wouldn't make sense. Instead, Columbia sponsors anglers and golfers.
 - d. Coke has successfully branded their products on an international scale. Implementing sponsorships of international events has been a natural fit in helping them achieve their global goals.

- i. Coke's worldwide sponsorship expenditure on the Atlanta games in 1996 nearly reached $650 million ²⁹
 - ii. Coke's sponsorship of the 1998 soccer World Cup in France approached $250 million ³⁰
 - iii. Coke's sponsorship of the Athens games in 2004 came in at $145 million
 - iv. Coke's sponsorship of the Beijing games in 2008 was reportedly in the $400 million range
 - v. IEG estimated that Coke spent roughly $600 million on their sponsorship of the 2010 FIFA World Cup in South Africa ³¹
 - vi. While Coca-Cola did not disclose their overall investment in the London games in 2012, they did roll out Olympics-themed marketing campaigns in 110 different countries
 - vii. Coca-Cola continued their investment with the Olympics with a sponsorship of the PyeongChang Games in 2018 (key sponsors reportedly pay in excess of $100 million each for rights and spend more than double their rights fees on activation) and hold Olympic rights through the 2021 Summer Games in Tokyo
 - viii. Because of their investment in global event sponsorship, Coke's corporate logo is recognized by 94% of the world. Comparatively, the Olympic rings are recognized by only 92%.
- e. Many companies invest in naming rights deals to maximize the amount of exposure gained through the sponsorship
- i. Examples
 - (a) In 2019, the San Francisco Giants announced Oracle would take over the naming rights to their ballpark in 2020 (the team's deal with AT&T expired at the end of the 2018-19 season)
 - (i) Sports Business Journal estimates the 20-year "Oracle Park" deal could be worth nearly $300 million to the club at a price of roughly $15 million per season ³²
 - (b) In 2018, the Tampa Bay Rays were evaluating the potential of a naming rights deal as they continued to push for a new stadium, with analysts estimating a deal could generate between $3 and $10 million per year for the franchise ³³
 - (c) Also in 2018, the Milwaukee Bucks managed to find a naming rights partner prior to opening their new $524 million arena
 - (i) The team announced a 25-year deal with Fiserv Co. (a financial tech firm) for the recently completed Wisconsin Entertainment and Sports Center in downtown Milwaukee, a month before it opens. The arena will be known as Fiserv Forum and will be home to the Bucks, Marquette University basketball, and host big name performers like Justin Timberlake, Pink, Elton John, Fleetwood Mac and the Foo Fighters in its inaugural year, according to an ESPN story. Financial terms were not disclosed.
 - (d) According to Forbes, SoFi is investing a reported $30 million per year over a period of 20 years for the naming rights to the Los Angeles Rams new stadium while Allegiant Airlines is spending an estimated $25 million per year for naming rights to the Raiders new stadium in Las Vegas

- (e) Financial services company UBS has partnered with the New York Islanders for naming rights to the team's new stadium, scheduled to open in time for the 2021-22, for a reported $275 million over at least 20 years

In 2020, just a handful of NFL stadiums didn't have a naming rights partner:

- Soldier Field, Chicago Bears
- Lambeau Field, Green Bay Packers
- Arrowhead Stadium, Kansas City Chiefs
- Paul Brown Stadium, Cincinnati Bengals

Use this information to revisit the concepts of commercialization in sports (Lesson 2.7) and the sales process (Lesson 7.2) and have students discuss whether any of these stadiums should even consider selling naming rights, and, if so, what types of companies might represent a good prospect as a potential partner. For more background on each stadium, click here.

3. Criteria companies consider when deciding what to sponsor ³⁴
 - a. Property and company image compatibility ³⁵
 - i. Does the property offer the imagery the company wants to establish?
 - (a) WWE reported that a decision to create on air content suitable for a younger audience (the rating for "Raw" was changed from TV-14 to PG) generated a significant spike in interest from more new sponsors ³⁶
 - (b) In 2018, Yum! Brands was reportedly reconsidering whether to renew the naming rights deal for KFC Yum! Center, because of negative publicity surrounding the arena's main tenant, the University of Louisville men's basketball program
 - (c) In 2020, several brands pressured the NFL's Washington Football Team to drop the 'Redskins' nickname because they did not want any association with the negative publicity surrounding the franchise
 - (i) The first brand to demand the team change its name was FedEx (who is the team's naming rights partner), and others like Pepsi and Bank of America quickly followed suit, while brands like Nike, Walmart and Target all stopped selling the team's licensed merchandise

- ii. Is it a lifestyle with which the company wants to be associated?
 - (a) Brands like Quicksilver, Billabong, O'Neill, Volcom and Hurley sponsor World Surf League events each year because the surfing lifestyle is one for which they strive to be associated with ³⁷
- iii. Are the co-sponsors companies with which the company would want to be associated
- b. Audience the sponsorship reaches
 - i. As one of the most popular sports teams in the world (the team has over 150 million followers on social media), Barcelona FC is one of the most desirable franchises among sponsors
 - (a) In 2016, Nike extended their sponsorship agreement with the club through 2026 for a reported $173 million per year, making it the most lucrative deal of its kind in the world ³⁸
 - (b) As of last year, Barcelona make more in a year through sponsorship deals than any other sports franchise in the world, according to a Forbes report (the La Liga champions are currently making $247 million per season through sponsorship)
- c. Working with retailers
 - i. Does the sponsorship include a retail component that can directly impact sales?
- d. Media impact
- e. Social media presence
 - i. For example, a San Francisco 49ers Instagram post following Super Bowl LIV in 2020 included an image of Hard Rock's logo (the game was played at Hard Rock Stadium in Miami), generating $632,000 worth of social media exposure for the brand (according to MVP Index)
- f. Exclusivity
 - i. Sponsors must consider whether they are the only brand within a specific category (soft drink, bank, insurance provider etc.) sponsoring the event or property
 - (a) Categories can be very specific
 - (i) For example, the Stance brand announced a partnership with the NBA to become "official on-court sock provider" (note the right to use an "official" designation phrase)
 - 1. Click here to see Stance's "NBA Collection" of socks online
 - (b) To capitalize on the fierce in-state rivalry between the schools, the University of Oregon and Oregon State University offers sponsorship exclusivity in five specific categories for its games – automotive, casino/resort, financial, health care and grocery
 - (i) According to Sports Business Journal, last year's sponsors – PacificSource Health Plans, Toyota, Safeway/Albertson's, Spirit Mountain Casino and First Interstate Bank – all enjoy a strong presence in the state of Oregon

- ii. According to a study from SponsorHub, category exclusivity is the number one benefit sponsors hope to receive from a sponsorship
 - (a) Click here to see an infographic with more results from the poll offering insight as to what sponsors look for in a partnership
- iii. Without exclusivity, it rarely makes sense for a company to sponsor if a competing brand is sponsoring the same event
 - (a) Exclusivity is a sponsorship component that sports teams/properties take very seriously, so much so that Manchester United (sponsored by Pepsi) refused to take the field for a match because the scoreboard was flashing advertisements for Coca-Cola (a stadium sponsor). Eventually game officials were able to strike an agreement that both parties agreed so the game could be played.
 - (b) In 2019, esports star Richard Tyler Blevins (better known as “Ninja”) ditched the popular streaming platform Twitch and signed an exclusive deal with Microsoft to stream on their relatively new platform, Mixer
- g. Potential increase in consumer sales
 - i. No sponsorship can guarantee an increase in sales
 - ii. However, an effective sponsorship can help to increase sales
 - (a) According to a Tweet from Alicia Jessop (@RulingSports), Visa said travelers spent $182 million on their cards in Brazil from June 12-26 during the World Cup, a 152% increase over the year
 - (b) Marketing Dive reported that sales of adidas-branded products jumped 12%, with soccer-themed merchandise being particularly popular, thanks in part to their sponsorship of the 2018 FIFA World Cup
- C. To be effective, sponsorship programs must meet the needs of the sponsoring party. The following criteria are consistent with effective sponsorships:
 - 1. Frequent impressions
 - a. Gross impression refers to the frequency in which a company product or service is associated with the event or entertainer ³⁹
 - i. Each time a consumer sees a company logo or hears the name of a brand throughout the course of a sporting event, movie, television broadcast or other event, the brain records that image
 - (a) Apex Marketing reported that World Cup sponsors (Hyundai, Qatar Airways, Visa, Adidas, Coca-Cola, WANDA) collectively received $27 million in media exposure thanks to the LED signage placed on the field for the 2019 FIFA Women’s World Cup Final
 - (b) Research from Joyce Julius & Associates shows corporations with naming rights in MLB averaged $12.3 million in exposure in just the first six weeks of the season in 2019 as a result of frequent impressions
 - (i) According to Forbes, the average naming rights deal is costing those corporations $5.2 million annually, positioning naming rights as an effective marketing strategy for generating brand awareness
 - ii. The goal of a sponsorship is for consumers to remember that image the next time they make a purchase

- (a) In 2018, MVP Index (a sports media analytics company) suggested the Boston Red Sox generated more than $2.5 million in value for Coca Cola by featuring Coke's logo in a post-game sponsorship activation
 - iii. While impressions are an important ingredient to a successful sponsorship, other criteria must also be met
- 2. Activating the sponsorship
 - a. The action taken to escalate its impact and to increase the overall value of the sponsorship
 - b. The most effective campaigns combine the sponsorship and events that activate them with additional advertising, direct marketing, PR and merchandising ⁴⁰
 - c. Most companies spend $1-3 per dollar spent on the sponsorship fee itself in activation ⁴¹
 - d. Companies must engage in promotion of the event prior to the actual event date
 - i. AT&T, one of Team USA's largest sponsors for the past 30 years, activated their sponsorship nearly three months prior to the 2016 Olympic games in Rio
 - (a) Fans could sign up to be included in the #ATTfanmate experience where they would connect with and receive special messages from various AT&T athletes as they prepared for the games
 - ii. In 2019, Visa began activating their Women's World Cup sponsorship six months before the tournament began when they offered pre-sale tickets for the tournament exclusively to Visa cardholders
 - e. Effective sponsorships require careful strategic planning
 - f. In a recent poll conducted by Turnkey Sports & Entertainment in conjunction with the Sports Business Journal, 24% of the 1,100 senior-level sports industry executives surveyed indicated that the most attractive element for sponsors when negotiating new deals was "more activation options" (making it an even more popular response than "lower fees") ⁴²
 - g. Companies can activate a sponsorship in many ways
 - i. To activate its sponsorship of the 2016 Summer Games, Samsung built several pop-up areas across Brazil that allowed guests to play with the brand's latest tech and try out various Olympic sports through virtual reality experiences
 - (a) Click here for a breakdown from sponsorship.com of the various ways key Olympic sponsors activated the Rio Games
 - (b) Click here for an excellent infographic offering some numbers behind sponsorship spending at the 2016 Summer Games in Rio
 - ii. According to the LA Times, one of the best attractions at Comic Con in San Diego in 2018 wasn't an exhibit or autograph signing; it was a Taco Bell sponsorship activation
 - (a) The brand created a futuristic Taco Bell pop-up that featured a neon-lit futuristic replica of the restaurant seen in the 1993 Sylvester Stallone sci-fi pic "Demolition Man," recreated in lavish detail for the film's 25th anniversary, complete with bright blue cocktails, robot waiters and Crunchwraps from the "future" ⁴³

- iii. Click here for a story describing some creative activations at the 2018 Super Bowl in Minneapolis, including a zipline over the Mississippi river in freezing weather
- iv. According to IEG (a sponsorship firm) and Performance Research, 88% of companies worldwide used social media as a channel for activating sponsorships⁴⁴
- v. In some cases, part of the activation strategy may include the use of a spokesperson (or spokespersons)
 - (a) For example, Goldman Sachs made golfer Patrick Cantlay is the first brand spokesperson for the company leading up to the 2020 Memorial Golf Tournament (Cantlay was the returning champion)
 - (i) Click here to see the ad from Goldman Sachs YouTube channel
 - (b) After Papa John's abruptly ended their sponsorship with the NFL last season, Pizza Hut quickly stepped in to replace the brand as the league's official pizza provider and activated the partnership at the NFL Draft by teaming up with Pittsburgh Steelers' wide receiver Juju Smith-Schuster as ambassador of Pizza Hut's "Doorbell Dance" campaign
 - (i) Click here to see the inaugural "Doorbell Dance" commercial
 - (ii) Click here for more on how Pizza Hut has continued to activate their NFL sponsorship and the positive results they have seen as an official league partner
- vi. As part of their activation strategy, Alaska Airlines introduced "Timbers Jet", a Boeing 737 featuring a paint theme featuring the Portland Timbers' name and logo in the team's trademark colors (to celebrate the new airplane and their relationship with the team, Alaska Airlines grants early boarding to Portland International Airport passengers wearing an official Timbers jersey)
 - (a) In a similar activation strategy, JetBlue (the official airline of the Boston Bruins) unveiled "Bear Force One" in 2020, an AirbusA320 aircraft, the first airplane to feature NHL branding

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

When brands invest so much in partnerships with sports, entertainment and event properties, it is crucial that they develop an effective activation strategy. Major events like the NBA All-Star Weekend provide great opportunities for the league's partners to showcase their brands while creating valuable touchpoints to engage fans.

To help illustrate the concept of activation, we created a PPT featuring several notable sponsor activations from the 2019 NBA All-Star Weekend in Charlotte along with some suggestions for class discussion questions to help guide the conversation. The file is accessible from the Lesson 8.3 folder. For more examples, check out this recap of activations from the 2018 NBA All-Star Weekend in Los Angeles from bizbash.com by clicking here.

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Either as a class or individually, either attend or watch a sports or entertainment event. Pay close attention to which brands are sponsoring the event, then make a list of how each brand is activating the sponsorship. Alternatively, consider asking students to identify and discuss the sponsorship activation examples in the stories below (please note, both articles have references to alcohol-related sponsors).

2. Company commitment
 - a. Sponsorships are typically ineffective without long-term commitment
 - i. Successfully creating a link between the sponsor and the event takes time, several years in some cases
 - ii. Companies sometimes make the mistake of pulling the sponsorship if they do not see an immediate return on the investment
 - b. The sponsorship should be a company-wide effort
 - c. Support is essential from the entire organization, including staff
3. Commitment for the right reasons

- a. Organizations cannot afford to make the mistake of committing sponsorship dollars to a property simply because the company president or CEO is a fan of a particular sport, entertainer or event
- 4. Communication
 - a. Communication between the sponsor and sponsee (event provider, entertainer or property) is essential for success
 - b. A clear understanding must be in place of what is included and what is not included in any sponsorship agreement to eliminate false expectations
- 5. Fan (consumer) connection
 - a. A connection should take place between the fans (consumers) and the sponsor, without the feeling of products or services being advertised, so the fans feel the sponsors are adding value to the event
 - i. Successful sponsorships can effectively communicate the message that the event would not be possible without the sponsor's support
 - (a) This is why we frequently hear statements like the one posted on the website for Toronto's Scream Literary Festival that reads: "The Literary Festival would not be possible without the kind and generous support of our private and public sponsors, and we thank them all immensely"
 - (b) Similarly, an advertisement appearing in an issue of the Sports Business Journal stated: "Vail Resorts thanks our partners for a tremendously successful ski season."
 - (c) Executives of the Kentucky Speedway dedicated a billboard to thank NASCAR's eight-year title sponsor, Sprint
 - (i) Jon Cox, VP of Corporate Sales and Marketing for the Kentucky Speedway said, "It's just been a great partnership overall for us. It only makes sense to thank Sprint. We did it just because it's the right thing to do." ⁴⁵
- D. Sponsorship does present certain risks
 - 1. Difficult in measuring your return on investment (ROI)
 - 2. Potential as an impulse purchase internally by an executive as a result of fandom influencing the decision
 - 3. Ineffective results despite forecasting that might suggest otherwise
 - 4. Clutter in the sponsorship space
 - 5. Emergence of social media overshadowing sponsor awareness and fan connection
 - a. According to Sarah Wood in an interview with bloomberg.com, co-founder of Unruly, which tracks videos online and helps companies get their content watched and shared, producing an ad that goes viral can be worth more than a sponsorship
 - i. Of the top 11 most-shared soccer ads online during the 2014 World Cup, only six were FIFA sponsors
 - 6. Potential of being "ambushed" by non-sponsoring companies

Lesson 8.4

Ambush Marketing

A. What is ambush marketing?

1. Ambush marketing occurs when one brand pays to become an official sponsor of an event and other competing brands attempt to connect with the same event, without paying direct sponsorship fees ⁴⁶
 - a. Ambush marketing is a legal tactic
 - b. It is often referred to as “guerilla” marketing
 - c. It is a strategy that has proven to be very successful
 - d. The technique presents many challenges for those hosting the event
 - e. Ambush marketing results in the perception that companies are affiliated with an event when they actually are not
 - f. Allows for penetration into events in which a competitor may have exclusivity rights
2. When does ambush marketing occur?
 - a. It is a strategy used frequently when the event is on a grand stage
 - i. Super Bowl
 - ii. Olympic Games
 - iii. FIFA World Cup
 - iv. Boston Marathon
 - v. Tour de France
3. Notable events in the history of ambush marketing tactics:
 - a. 1992 Olympics
 - i. Michael Jordan (sponsored by Nike), covered the Reebok logo on his apparel with the American flag during the gold medal ceremonies
 - b. 2000 Olympics
 - i. Adidas 'thorpedoed' Nike at the 2000 Sydney Olympics. Nike was the official clothing supplier while Adidas sponsored the swimming super-hero, Ian Thorpe. At the medal presentation, Thorpe “accidentally” draped his Adidas towel over the Nike logo on his official team tracksuit. Thus Nike was nowhere in the famous photograph that was seen by millions of people in Australia and all over the world. ⁴⁷
 - c. 2002 Boston Marathon
 - i. As Adidas-sponsored runners crossed the finish line under full coverage of cameras, they were treated to spray painted Nike 'swooshes' honoring the day of the event without mentioning the race itself ⁴⁸
 - ii. More than 300 college students sporting Reebok-branded tattoos on their foreheads were seeded into the crowd along the Marathon route. Reebok-endorsed “office” linebacker Terry Tate (featured in prominent Reebok television spots) led the charge along the running route. The ambush was effective, with Reebok forming a sea of red (via more than 2,500 consumers turned into walking billboards) along the route and creating its own “unofficial” sponsorship of the Marathon, much to the chagrin of Adidas. ⁴⁹
 - d. 2006 FIFA World Cup ⁵⁰

- i. Hundreds of Dutch fans had to watch their team's 2-1 win over the Ivory Coast in their underwear at the 2006 World Cup in Germany after security at entry points to the stadium caught wind of an ambush marketing ploy
 - ii. The fans arrived at the game wearing orange lederhosen displaying the name of Dutch brewery Bavaria and were ordered to remove them by stewards before being allowed to stadium.
 - iii. Anheuser Busch's Budweiser was the official beer for the tournament and FIFA has a reputation for fiercely protecting its sponsors from brands which are not event or organization partners
 - e. 2008 Olympics
 - i. Chinese sportswear maker Li Ning signed an agreement with Olympic Sports Channel, affiliated with State-owned China Central Television (CCTV). Under the deal, journalists, presenters and guests appearing in the studio would wear Ling Ning's clothes with visible logo throughout the Olympic coverage, despite adidas' presence as official sponsor of the Games.
 - f. 2016 Olympics
 - i. Despite not being an official sponsor of the Summer Games in Rio, Under Armour partnered with several athletes to create the "Rule Yourself" campaign that went viral during the games
 - (a) The campaign generated a lot of publicity and stole the spotlight from Nike, an actual sponsor of the 2016 Olympics
 - (i) The spot with the US Women's Gymnastics team generated over 3 million views in the first week it was released
 - 1. Click here to view the commercial on YouTube
 - (ii) The UA "Rule Yourself" spot starring Michael Phelps generated nearly 6 million views in the first week it was released (nearly 12.5 overall)
 - 1. Click here to view the commercial on YouTube
- B. Ambush marketing tactics
- 1. Sponsorship of sub-categories in an event
 - a. Some companies, such as Nike, will strategically sponsor individual teams and individual athletes without sponsoring the event
 - i. This strategy allows the company to gain exposure at the event without the major investment
 - b. The results of this form of sponsorship are often equally as effective as sponsoring the event itself
 - c. Must be aggressively marketed to be successful
 - 2. Purchasing advertisements at a competitor's event
 - a. For the 1996 Atlanta Olympics, Nike went to the extreme of purchasing all the outdoor poster sites in Atlanta to ambush Adidas, the official sponsor of the 1996 Games ⁵¹
 - b. During broadcasts of the 2014 FIFA World Cup matches, Volkswagen aired commercials showing fans dressed in their country colors singing the traditional soccer chant "Olé, Olé, Olé" on their way to a soccer stadium while Hyundai spent millions as the official partner of FIFA World Cup Brazil ⁵²

- c. While Adidas was the official sponsor of the 2015 Boston Marathon, New Balance launched a major ambush campaign (dubbed “Nobody Runs Like Boston”), canvassing the area around the event at bus shelters and mass transit areas with advertising while buying ad space at the Prudential Center, outside of Fenway Park, and initiating a social media campaign that encouraged fans to post their own #OnlyinBoston references.
 - i. Click here to read more about New Balance’s “guerilla marketing” strategies from nysportsjournalism.com.
 3. Engage in non-sponsorship promotions that coincide with the event
 - a. Competitors use mainstream media advertising and additional promotions to gain exposure for their company during the event
 - i. According to adage.com, Coca-Cola stole Pepsi's thunder during the 2014 Oscars when Coke's logos appeared on three pizza boxes delivered to host Ellen DeGeneres during a skit during the broadcast, despite the fact the Pepsi had just taken over the sponsorship rights as the exclusive soft-drink sponsor of the Academy Awards on ABC ⁵³
 - ii. Last year, PepsiCo Inc. pulled an ad featuring former NCAA and NBA star (and CBS announcer) Grant Hill after it reportedly rankled executives at CBS, Turner, and longtime NCAA sponsor Coca-Cola
 - (a) The Mountain Dew ad showed Hill, one of the lead March Madness analysts on CBS/Turner, taking shots at the NCAA's trademarks around March Madness and sponsoring a product with no ties to the NCAA Tournament
 4. Create visibility without “official” affiliation with an event in non-traditional ways
 - a. At the 2018 Super Bowl in Minneapolis, Cargo, a startup that sells snacks and toiletries in ride-share cars, offered free samples of Red Bull to customers as part of its expansion into Minneapolis. The company also said rideshare drivers could earn an additional $500 a month from commissions, referrals and performance bonuses for selling products to riders, drawing attention away from the companies and brands that were actual NFL sponsors for the event.
 - i. According to Mobile Marketer: “The Cargo promotion shows how brands are exploring creative tactics for getting in front of Super Bowl fans outside of investing the significant bucks required to snag a Super Bowl sponsorship or commercial”
 - b. Geico once paid several lower-ranked men's and women's tennis players up to $5,000 to wear “ambush advertising patches during high-visibility matches” at Wimbledon. Because lower ranked players earn only minimal wages, many were willing to slap the Geico logo on their uniform, in part to help pay travel expenses. ⁵⁴
 - c. Social media now affords guerilla marketers with another channel for which to deploy ambush tactics, like Hormel’s “Sir Can A Lot” video posted on YouTube, tying the Spam brand to the “madness of March” despite the fact that Hormel was in no way financially supporting or sponsoring the event ⁵⁵
 5. Align with an event through social media

- a. In 2019, Chipotle ambushed the NBA Finals, giving away $1,000,000 in free burritos during a game broadcast through social, despite Taco Bell's position as an official partner of the NBA
 - b. Tums ambushed the 2020 Super Bowl by launching a sweepstakes promotion on Twitter, encouraging fans to use an emoji to rate the moments during the game that gave them the most heartburn
 - i. According to Mobile Marketer, the brand was offering a grand prize of $54,000 to one winner, while six others would receive free trips. According to contest rules, Twitter users had up to five chances to enter — each quarter of the game and the halftime show.
- C. Impact of ambush marketing
- 1. Is ambush marketing an effective strategy?
 - a. When properly executed, ambush marketing can be extremely effective for a company
 - b. Despite Coca-Cola's presence as an official sponsor at the 2018 FIFA World Cup, Pepsi's #LoveItLivelt campaign was ranked No. 1 in terms of likeability and attention for brand campaigns, according to one analysis. Coca-Cola brand Powerade's "Unstoppable" and Coca-Cola's "Get Ready for the #FIFA World Cup" ranked second and third.⁵⁶
 - c. At the NFL Scouting Combine (sponsored by Under Armour), adidas announced that they would give a private island (up to $1 million in value) to any draft prospect who broke the 40-yard dash record, provided they were wearing the brand's "adizero 5-Star 40" cleats
 - i. This isn't the first time adidas ambushed the NFL combine. The brand has offered incentives for anyone who broke the 40-yard dash record for years.
 - (a) Jeremy Darlow, a branding expert and former PR specialist for adidas, said in an interview with WARC: "We've been the most talked-about brand at the NFL Combine for three years in a row – four years in a row, if you count the first year on the shoe deal."
 - d. The question of whether ambush marketing is an ethical practice is an on-going debate among industry professionals

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Based on what you just learned about ambush marketing, do YOU think it is an ethical practice? Do you think event organizers should have more legal protection to fight ambush marketing tactics? Why or why not?

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Begin by having students look online to identify who the official apparel provider is for the NBA, NFL, MLB, NHL and MLS. Then have them use the Internet to find five to ten different examples of professional athletes wearing a particular sneaker brand (encourage them to find athletes representing each of the major professional U.S. sports leagues). Then, compare and contrast to see which athletes are wearing shoes and apparel that coincide with the league's official apparel sponsor.

2. How does ambush marketing affect the organization responsible for hosting the event?
 - a. Ambush marketing threatens the ability to sell event sponsorships for event owners and cuts into the event profitability
 - b. The Sydney Organizing Committee for the Olympic Games (SOCOG) had a staff of 60 individuals with legal backgrounds to protect themselves against ambush marketing⁵⁷
3. How do companies and/or governing bodies combat ambush marketing?
 - a. Ambush marketing is a very difficult marketing strategy to combat but event organizers do all they can to implement measures that protect sponsors
 - i. FIFA fined the Swedish National Soccer team over $70,000 when players wore non-approved socks at the 2018 World Cup and Croatia was fined when a player took a non-sponsor's drink onto the field⁵⁸
 - ii. The city of Columbus created a "clean zone" in the city's downtown area for the 2018 NCAA Women's Final Four to help prevent ambush marketing by requiring a special permit to sell licensed or special event-related goods and services during the event⁵⁹
 - b. Wimbledon prohibits fans from bringing in certain items that could conflict with the event's sponsors – fans are denied entry or ejected if they do not follow the rules
 - i. Click here to see the list of items that are banned from Wimbledon
 - c. ESPN imposed a strict new rule at the 2019 NFL Draft to help protect its official sponsors and advertisers, banning the popular practice of draftees wearing non-sponsored products or adorning their home draft parties in brands not affiliated with ESPN
 - i. According to sports business reporter Darren Rovell, ESPN told player agents that they wouldn't do any live shots of a player receiving a call from the team that was drafting them if brands were visible anywhere
 - ii. In 2020, with the entire draft going virtual because of the pandemic, the NFL cracked down on ambush attempts even harder, threatening fines of up to a reported $50,000 if a non-league sponsor logo appeared on-screen during the event

- (a) Draft prospects reportedly received a welcome kit of products from NFL partners to provide added visibility for those sponsors, including Pepsi, Mountain Dew, Bubly, Gatorade, Frito Lay snacks, Skittles, Snickers and M&M's

Split your class into at least three groups. One group will play the role of the league or governing body of a major sports organization like the International Olympic Committee. Another group will play the role of an official sponsor of the league or major event (like the Olympic Games). The third group will play the role of a non-sponsor, but a competing brand with the group representing the official sponsor. If you have enough students, create two more groups as a sponsoring brand and a competing brand. Have the "official sponsor" group create a marketing campaign tied to the event, the non-sponsor group create an ambush campaign, and the league or governing body develop a strategy for combatting ambush attempts. Then have each group present their ideas to the rest of the class.

Lesson 8.5

Pricing Sponsorships

A. What is inventory?

1. The first step to the sponsorship sales process is defining inventory
 - a. Inventory defines exactly what assets an event or property has available to sell
 - b. An inventory sheet outlines each specific piece of inventory available for sale
 - i. Inventory could include many sponsorship elements, such as advertisements in game programs, on-site signage or broadcast opportunities
2. A valuable piece of sponsorship inventory is signage
 - a. In some cases, sponsors seek ways to make signage stand out at venues to maximize exposure for their brand, forcing sports and entertainment organizations to become a little more creative in ways to expand their inventory
 - i. TaylorMade Golf Co. designed an 80-foot replica of its new driver (golf club) and attached it to the foul pole at Petco Park to increase visibility at San Diego Padres games. The nine-story tall structure was part of a three-year marketing agreement between the golf gear maker and the ball club where the goal is to drive home the message that the launch of its R11 driver was "larger than life," TaylorMade chief executive Mark King said in a statement.⁶⁰
 - ii. Rutgers secured a lucrative stadium naming rights deal in 2019, reportedly a 7-year agreement starting at $1.25 million in the first year and increasing by $100,000 annually to $1.85 million in 2025-26 (according to nj.com) to rename the teams' football/lacrosse venue SHI Stadium
 - (a) As part of the deal, the University said SHI International Corporation would "enjoy significant brand exposure through signage in and around the stadium, including exterior stadium signage, scoreboard signage, campus directional signage and logo placement on the field"
 - b. However, without fans in stadiums, the value of on-site signage drops significantly, creating a challenge for sports properties and their sponsors
 - i. While Major League Baseball charted a path to starting their 2020 season amidst the pandemic, the league considered several new opportunities to introduce virtual signage inventory that would provide visibility for sponsors during broadcasts
 - (a) According to Sports Business Journal, those potential positions for virtual signage inventory included behind the pitching mound; the foul territory between the first- and third-base coaching boxes and home plate; behind home plate above the traditional rotational signage; on the "batter's eye"; and another outfield position
 - ii. After COVID-19 forced the league into an abbreviated spring training, Major League Baseball found a presenting rights sponsor, announcing "Spring Training" would become "2020 Summer Camp presented by Camping World"
 - iii. As the Columbus Crew finalized approvals for their move to a new home, the franchise released renderings of the venue that included a new piece of inventory in the form of large signage on the stadium roof

B. Pricing sponsorships

1. Pricing

- a. Pricing is complex because of the variety of elements included in a property or event's inventory
- b. After determining what inventory is available, values are then assigned to each piece of inventory
 - i. Click here for a brief video discussing which piece of inventory might be most valuable to NBA sponsors
- c. A rate card is a printed list of sponsorship fees charged by a sports or entertainment property for association rights ⁶¹
 - i. The rate card is essentially an inventory sheet with associated values
- d. Assigning value can be challenging because sponsorship as a medium is generally considered to be intangible
 - i. Sponsorship pricing can be dependent upon event attendance and other similar factors (the sponsee's public image etc.), contributing the challenge of determining and maintaining effective price points
- e. The overall sponsorship package can be described as the sum of all benefits attributed to a particular sponsorship, including tickets, hospitality, signage, merchandise, program ads etc.

2. Considerations when pricing sponsorships

- a. Price should be based on value, not on budgets or needs
- b. Rights and benefits included in the package
- c. Value should be placed only on those elements that can be successfully fulfilled
- d. Cost/benefit ratios

Lesson 8.6

Endorsements

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

For a fun way to introduce the concept of endorsements, try playing the PPT game marked “Buy This! Celebrity Endorsement Game” in the unit 8 folder.

A. What is an endorsement?

1. An endorsement is a partnership between an athlete or entertainer and a company in which the athlete or entertainer receives compensation in return for their support and approval of a company product or service
2. The celebrity agrees to allow the company to use his or her likeness to promote company goods and services
3. While very similar conceptually, an athlete or celebrity endorsement is not the same thing as influencer marketing
 - a. With endorsement, a brand aligns with an athlete or celebrity for the positive association, prestige and status while an influencer campaign is generally more of a word-of-mouth strategy for reaching consumers
 - b. With an endorsement, the athlete or celebrity does not need to be a “specialist” in that particular product category
 - i. For example, Serena Williams doesn’t need to be a science expert to recommend Gatorade as a performance beverage while Roger Federer doesn’t need to be a watch expert to convince fans to buy a Rolex
 - ii. However, when a brand sends chef bloggers their newest products to review and include in their recipes as part of an influencer campaign, the brand has a very specific targeted approach for reaching consumers in a very authentic way
4. Endorsement examples
 - a. Gatorade featuring current and retired athletes like Serena Williams, Usain Bolt, JJ Watt, Jimmie Johnson, Paul George, Mia Hamm, Bryce Harper, Derek Jeter and Lionel Messi in various promotional campaigns
 - i. Click here to see more “athletes and ambassadors” from Gatorade’s website

B. What celebrities appeal to marketers? ⁶²

1. Sports and entertainment marketers seek a defined set of characteristics among celebrities to determine which performer provides the best fit for their company. Typically, an organization will evaluate the following:
 - a. Success and high levels of performance
 - i. The breakout star of the 2018 FIFA World Cup was France’s Kylian Mbappe, who some experts suggested could be primed to earn in excess of $20 million annually in endorsements after his performance throughout the tournament

- ii. 15-year-old Cori “Coco” Gauff emerged as a potential face of American tennis in 2019 after she surprised fans by winning several matches at Wimbledon
 - (a) Companies who hope a partnership with the future star will be good for business (including New Balance, pasta brand Barilla, and racket maker Head) have reportedly contributed to Gauff’s $1 million in endorsement earnings in 2019, according to Forbes
- iii. Kansas City Chiefs’ star Patrick Mahomes has taken the league by storm and become the new face of the NFL, winning a regular season MVP award and a Super Bowl MVP in just two years as the team’s starting quarterback
 - (a) After the Super Bowl victory and subsequent MVP award, Mahomes’ endorsement opportunities skyrocketed, reportedly positioning him to earn an estimated $7 million in additional earnings
- iv. The University of Oregon’s Sabrina Ionescu became the first player in NCAA history to reach 2,000 points, 1,000 assists and 1,000 rebounds and notched her record 26th career triple-double just hours after speaking at Kobe Bryant’s memorial service in 2020. As one of the most decorated collegiate players in women’s basketball history, a story in the Athletic suggested brands were lining up for the opportunity to partner with the former Ducks star for endorsement deals as she prepared to enter the WNBA.
 - (a) Soon after Ionescu was selected by the New York Liberty as the first pick in the 2020 WNBA draft, Nike signed her to a multi-year endorsement deal
- b. Media following (awareness)
 - i. Is this individual in the “limelight”?
 - (a) A hot topic at the 2018 Major League Baseball All-Star Game surrounded the popularity of the league’s best player, Mike Trout
 - (i) Critics blame the league for inadequate marketing of its stars, with the Washington Post proclaiming in a headline “Baseball’s dilemma: Mike Trout is MLB’s ultimate all-star, and yet he is not a star”
 - (ii) According to the Washington Post story, Trout scored a 22 in Q Scores’ awareness category (Q Scores measure the marketability of athletes and celebrities), which means just one in five Americans know who he is. By comparison, per Q Scores’ research, a comparable NBA player was Brooklyn Nets forward Kenneth Faried, who played only 14 minutes per game last season and is no longer even in the NBA (the comparison, however, was highly debated among those in the media)
 - (b) Sports fans tuned in to ESPN’s docu-series ‘The Last Dance’ featuring Michael Jordan’s last season with the Chicago Bulls in record numbers, drawing a huge audience for each of the six episodes
 - (i) According to GumGum Sports, an analytics company that measures the value of brand sponsorships in sports, Jordan’s brand partners received an estimated $1.1 million bump from the logos shown in the fifth episode alone. That episode looked at the creation of the Jordan brand and also featured commercials for Gatorade and McDonald’s.

1. As reported by Adweek, Nike received the most value, receiving an estimated $487,000 worth of brand exposure from the swooshes shown in that episode
 2. Jordan Brand received an estimated $283,000 in value
 3. Gatorade's exposure resulted in around $245,000 in estimated value
- c. Social media following
- i. How active is the individual with social media? How many followers do they have?
 - (a) According to a tweet from MVP Index (a company that measures and evaluates the value of social media), UFC star Daniel Cormier generated over $550,000 in social media value for his sponsor, Monster Energy, in the last year (Cormier has almost 650,000 followers on Twitter alone)
 - (b) Last year, Puma was one of the most-mentioned brands on Instagram, in large part because its products were often featured in posts by celebrities with huge followings on social
 - (i) Selena Gomez, who last year was the most popular woman on Instagram with 144 million followers, helped Puma with a single post that spurred 7.5 million interactions (via Mobile Marketer)
 - (c) International soccer star Cristiano Ronaldo has nearly 90 million followers on Twitter
 - (i) According to sports business branding agency Opendorse, a Ronaldo tweet generates an equivalent advertising value of $868,604 per post and his tweets are, on average, $200,000 more valuable than his nearest competitor
 1. Spanish soccer star Andres Iniesta ranked second with an estimated value per Twitter post of $590,825
 2. Brazilian soccer star Neymar ranked third at $478,138 per post
 3. LeBron James' posts are worth an estimated $470,356
 4. India-born cricketer Virat Kohli rounded out the top five most valuable brand ambassadors on Twitter with an estimated value per tweet of $350,101
 - (d) Also according to Opendorse, prospects in the 2020 NFL Draft were seeking up to six-figure compensation for social media posts during the draft
 - (i) The company evaluated the most valuable athletes, analyzing each NFL Draft prospect's social media presence and activity in the year leading up to the draft to determine social media value. The athletes offering the most value per post during the draft, according to Opendorse, included:
 1. Joe Burrow, QB, LSU
 - a. Twitter: $11,400 per post
 - b. Instagram: $38,000 per post
 2. Jalen Hurts, QB, Oklahoma
 - a. Twitter: $5,300 per post
 - b. Instagram: $19,600 per post
 3. Tua Tagovailoa, QB, Alabama

- a. Twitter: $4,800 per post
 - b. Instagram: $17,500 per post
 - 4. Jake Fromm, QB, Georgia
 - a. Twitter: $2,600 per post
 - b. Instagram: $12,900 per post
 - 5. Chase Young, Defense, Ohio State
 - a. Twitter: $1,700 per post
 - b. Instagram: $12,000 per post
- d. Work ethic and moral values
 - i. After featuring the iconic crocodile logo as its ambassador for nearly 85 years, Lacoste appointed tennis star Novak Djokovic as their official brand ambassador in 2017
 - (a) "When we choose an ambassador, we first choose values, and Novak has the simplicity, humility and family values we were looking for," said Lacoste Group CEO Thierry Guibert in an interview
 - ii. When Tua Tagovailoa was signed to an endorsement deal with Muscle Milk, the brand explained why they chose to partner with the former University of Alabama star QB in an interview with Marketing Daily: "The strength he's shown on and off the field really makes him perfect to tell the story of Muscle Milk and what an athlete can do," with the athlete "really embody[ing] the brand and its characteristics."
- e. Personality traits
 - i. How articulate is the celebrity?
 - ii. Does the performer have celebrity "status" (recognizable)?
 - iii. How popular is the celebrity?
 - (a) Every year, ESPN releases a report ranking the world's most famous athletes
 - (i) They begin by evaluating a list containing 600 of the biggest names in sports, drawn from 68 different countries. ESPN's Sports Analytics Group then ranks them based on a proprietary formula that considers three "fame factors": How frequently each athlete is searched online, how much they earn in endorsements, and how many followers they have on social media
 - 1. Here are the most famous athletes in the world, according to ESPN's latest study:
 - a. Cristiano Ronaldo
 - b. LeBron James
 - c. Lionel Messi
 - d. Neymar
 - e. Conor McGregor
 - i. To see ESPN's complete ranking of the "100 most famous athletes in the world", click here.

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Lists like these provide their publishers with almost instant attention, regardless of credibility. For example, while ESPN is obviously credible, their 2018 list of most famous athletes in the world ranks Tom Brady, arguably the most recognizable NFL athlete, at #38 (behind the Minnesota Timberwolves' Derrick Rose).

When companies release lists of this nature, the goal is to spark debate, criticism, and conversation. Consider using this list to open up conversation in your classroom. See if your students can guess the top 5 or 10 athletes. Ask what types of companies might be interested in a list like this. Who would they rank as their top 5 or 10 most famous athletes in the world. Is there a difference between "famous" and "popular" and why might that matter from an endorsement perspective? Also, consider referring back to Unit 1 and discussing how the international athletes like cricket players and soccer stars are ranked so high on this list.

- f. Does the celebrity have a positive image?
 - i. Some athletes are more polarizing than others, meaning some are equally loved and loathed by the public
 - (a) For example, in Brazil, Neymar is almost universally loved while many fans around the world dislike him for his trend of faking injuries during soccer matches
 - (i) During the 2018 World Cup, one of the most well-known athletes in the world was consistently scorned on social media for his antics, even prompting a #NeymarChallenge in which fans would post videos of themselves rolling around on the ground in mock agony
 1. KFC South Africa even posted a commercial poking fun at the practice of faking injuries during the World Cup (the post quickly went viral, racking up over 1 million views in less than a week)
 - a. Click here to see the commercial
 2. Click here to see a player at Wimbledon's take on the challenge during a 2018 doubles match
 - (ii) When an athlete or celebrity embodies a number of positive characteristics valued by advertisers, they are likely to find endorsement success
 - (a) Li Na, the first Chinese player to win a Grand Slam event when she won the French Open, became a quick target for corporations around the globe. Mercedes-Benz signed her to a deal worth reportedly $5.8 million over three years while her agent summarized his client's rise in popularity by telling the

Sports Business Journal, “She has captivated a country. We could do 25 deals.” ⁶³

- (b) Shaquille O’Neal has endorsed more than 50 different products AFTER his NBA career ended, ranging from Gold Bond to Oreos
 - (i) As of 2020, Shaq’s business empire includes 150 car washes, 40 24-hour fitness gyms, 17 Auntie Anne’s, a CityPlex12 movie theatre in his hometown of Newark, NJ, a Big Chicken restaurant in Las Vegas, a ‘Shaquille’s’ burger place in Los Angeles and one point, 155 Five Guys restaurants (which he has since sold)
 - (ii) In addition to his role as an investor in 9 Atlanta-area Papa John’s restaurants, the company will pay him $8.25 million over the next three years as a brand ambassador
 - 1. Click here to learn more about how Shaq amassed his business empire from money.com.
- (c) Peyton Manning topped the list as the highest earning NFL player from marketing and royalties last year...and he has not played a snap in four years but because he has a number of characteristics that brands look for in brand ambassadors, he continues to ink endorsement deals
- g. Market size and team performance
 - i. While most industry professionals agree that the size of the market in which an athlete plays has a much lower impact on endorsement potential than it did a decade ago, some brands still might be hesitant to partner with someone playing for a small market team
 - ii. If a team is winning, they appear in more “prime time” games on television and generate more exposure through social media conversations, boosting the appeal of a product pitchperson from that franchise
 - (a) For example, industry experts speculate the Baltimore Raven’s MVP-winning quarterback Lamar Jackson has the potential to become a breakthrough marketing star, but the Baltimore Sun suggests that “playing in Baltimore’s relatively small market has somewhat limited Jackson’s exposure, as have the Ravens’ rare prime-time appearances on NBC’s Sunday Night Football and ESPN’s Monday Night Football.”
 - (i) In August of 2020, Jackson landed his first major endorsement deal when he signed with Oakley, telling Yahoo Sports he’s been a fan of Oakley products for the majority of his life. “It is the ultimate sign of swagger,” Jackson said. “Oakley is the best in the shield and eyewear game and sets the standard – that is what I am all about. The best in the game.”
- h. Aligning the appropriate athlete or celebrity with the brand can be very challenging and doesn’t come without risks
 - i. According to Ad Week, marketers these days “have fewer stars in their eyes.” Only one in ten ads now features a celebrity, down from a peak of 19 percent in 2004, according to Millward Brown, which has tracked the trend, mostly by way of TV spots, for the last dozen years. ⁶⁴

- ii. More than 100 current NBA players have been signed to wear Nike shoes, but only three of them -- LeBron James, Kyrie Irving and Kevin Durant – figure prominently in the company's marketing efforts off the court ⁶⁵
 - iii. After it was reported in 2016 that Maria Sharapova had failed a drug test at the Australian Open, several sponsors quickly ended their endorsement deals with the tennis star (including Nike, Porsche and TAG Heuer) ⁶⁶
2. Effective endorsement campaigns
- a. The most successful campaigns will feature athletes or celebrities who actively promote the product or brand
 - i. Despite just having won an incredibly emotional match, Roger Federer (who has long endorsed Rolex) paused to put on his Rolex brand watch moments after clinching the Wimbledon crown (and before accepting the championship trophy)
 - ii. LeBron James showed his loyalty to Nike when he posted a video on Instagram calling out Lonzo Ball for wearing a pair of Nike sneakers instead of his own Big Baller Brand during a 2017 NBA Summer League game, captioning the post with the famous “Just Do It” slogan
 - (a) LeBron consistently mentions the brands he endorses through his various social media channels, one of the reasons he is a popular choice as a spokesperson for brands
 - (i) According to MVP Index, James was the top-performing NBA ambassador for an athletic apparel brand, mentioning Nike in 55 social media posts last year, generating $12.3 million in media exposure for the brand
 - b. Consumers must believe the athlete or celebrity uses the product or service otherwise the campaign’s credibility risks being undermined
 - i. Did consumers believe Tiger Woods drove a Buick (Buick dropped Tiger as a long-time pitchman a few years ago)
 - (a) Craig Bierley, Buick’s director of advertising and promotions, told Ad Week in an interview: “I’m not sure anyone really believed that Tiger Woods drove a Buick. I think you start to push the limits of credibility.” ⁶⁷
 - ii. Supermodel Gigi Hadid’s McDonald’s endorsement was not very well received among her fanbase, drawing criticism for promoting fast food and questioning whether she actually would eat McDonald’s french fries (Hadid famously follows an intense workout regime and strict diet)
 - iii. Many fans might wonder if LeBron James really does drive a Kia after seeing him promoting the brand in a number of television commercials-
 - (a) According to a news story from espn.com, it was James who initiated the conversation about driving a Kia, not the other way around as many might suspect (especially considering LeBron’s personal collection of cars includes Bentleys worth nearly $200,000). A Kia representative in the story is quoted as saying: “We were not actively seeking another endorser, but LeBron told us, after driving the car around this summer, that he liked it so much, that we decided to partner with him. He brought us instant credibility.”

- (i) However, the article also suggests that the deal requires James to show up at Cavaliers games in a Kia, similar to a deal Tiger Woods' had in place with Buick which required that he arrive at events driving the car brand.
 - (b) In 2016, James and Kia continued their partnership and launched a series of commercials that addressed the skepticism
 - (i) The brand's goal was to convince skeptical fans that James does indeed drive a Kia
 - (ii) Click here to see a sample of the commercials
 - iv. Alternatively, there is no question what brand of shoes Giannis Antetokounmpo, LeBron James or Kevin Durant would actually wear because it they wear Nike sneakers in games
 - v. In 2019, boxer Andy Ruiz Jr. shocked the world when he beat Anthony Joshua to become the world heavyweight champion, a victory he credited to his affinity for Snickers (his Twitter profile picture pre-fight was the candy bar logo) ⁶⁸
 - vi. Popular singer/songwriter Ed Sheeran — a self-declared lifelong Heinz Ketchup lover who has the Heinz logo tattooed on his arm — teamed with the brand in 2019 to create limited-edition "Edchup" bottles
 - (a) In addition to replacing "Ketchup" with "Edchup," the label of the bottles featured a Sheeran-inspired emoji, and the limited-edition bottles (available for purchase at HeinzEdchup.com) were announced on Instagram on National Ketchup Day
 - (b) The cause marketing campaign raised money for East Anglia's Children's Hospices as well as Rise Against Hunger, according to Page Six
- c. Companies invest a lot in celebrities to promote their products so aligning with the right athlete or entertainer is paramount
 - i. Before the 2019 NBA draft, Duke's Zion Williamson was touted as a "can't miss" prospect, resulting in a bidding war between brands like Nike, Jordan Brand, adidas and Puma for his services
 - (a) According to sports business reporter Darren Rovell, Zion signed with Jordan Brand for a reported $75 million over five years ⁶⁹
 - ii. However, according to Forbes, paydays for the world's top-earning athletes dropped in 2020 for the first time in four years as the COVID-19 pandemic resulted in the cancelation and postponement of major sporting events for the first time since World War II
 - (a) One example of how the health crisis impacted brands with endorsement deals, it was reported that Under Armour approached some of their athletes to delay endorsement deal payments as the company's sales began to slide
 - (b) According to the Forbes report, the 100 highest-paid athletes earned a combined $3.6 billion in 2020, which was 9% below 2019 and the first decline since 2016, when boxers Floyd Mayweather and Manny Pacquiao skewed the results with a $400 million payout from their May 2015 "Fight of the Century" pay-per-view bout

- (c) The athletes who earn the most from endorsement deals, according to the 2020 Forbes report: ⁷⁰
1. Roger Federer (tennis) - $100 million
 - a. Compare that to the $6.3 million he earned playing tennis
 - b. According to Forbes, sponsors pay between $3 and $30 million to align their brands with the global tennis icon
 2. (Tie) Tiger Woods (golf) - $60 million
 - a. Nearly 96% of Tiger's income last year came from endorsement deals
 3. (Tie) LeBron James (basketball) - $60 million
 4. Cristiano Ronaldo (soccer) - $45 million
 5. Stephen Curry (basketball) - $44 million
3. Finalizing the selection process
- a. Background checks
 - b. Discussion with celebrities to determine levels of commitment
 - c. Development of a contract and having each party carefully review the terms
 - d. Familiarizing the celebrity with the product or service in which they will endorse
 - e. Marketers can refer to a prospective endorsers' "q score" to determine the individual celebrity's marketing potential
 - i. According to the q scores Website, a Q Score "measures the familiarity and appeal of personalities in a variety of categories to determine targeted audience attraction" ⁷¹
 - ii. Similar to a Q Score, the Nielsen company also provides analytics relating to the popularity and attitudes toward certain athletes and celebrities by offering N Score ratings
 - (a) For example, despite winning the NFL MVP and appearing in a Super Bowl, the Atlanta Falcons' quarterback Matt Ryan is still relatively unknown to the general public, based on his N-Score ⁷²
 - (i) Ryan has an N-Score of 62 and awareness score of 32, right about the average for NFL football players
 - (b) The New England Patriots' quarterback, Tom Brady, on the other hand is the most well-known current football player with an awareness score of 73, compared with the football average of 30
 - (i) However, Brady's likability score is just 48, putting him in the bottom 5% of all celebrities for likability
 - (c) According to Billboard, Nielsen Music's N-Score for Rihanna is 78 — ranking her far higher than the average music celebrity
 - f. To see how it all comes together, click here for a great look at how Brooks Koepka, a rising star on the PGA Tour, has attracted endorsement deals
 - g. Failure to live up to expectations may result in a sponsor parting ways with the athlete or celebrity, particularly in the midst of any negative publicity surrounding the individual
 - i. After being banned for life from cycling for his part in a long running doping scandal that broke in 2013, Lance Armstrong lost nearly all of his endorsements

while industry experts suggest he will likely never sign another endorsement deal for the rest of his life ⁷³

- ii. Last season, Dannon and Gatorade, both brands are endorsed by Cam Newton, were forced to distance themselves from the Panthers' quarterback after he told a female reporter "It's funny to hear a female talk about routes. It's funny."
 - (a) According to an ESPN report, Dannon suggested they would "no longer work" with Newton following the disrespectful comment while Gatorade issued a statement that said, "Cam's comments were objectionable and disrespectful to all women and they do not reflect the values of our brand. Gatorade fully supports women who compete in, report on, coach for, or play any role in sport -- on or off the field." ⁷⁴
 - iii. Head, one of the world's largest tennis racket providers, parted ways with Bernard Tomic after his incredibly poor showing at the 2017 Wimbledon tournament
 - (a) Tomic was eliminated in straight sets and during his post-match press conference, claimed he was bored of the sport and even admitted to cheating during his match (he used a medical timeout for non-medical reasons)
 - iv. In 2020, NASCAR driver Kyle Larson was dropped by his sponsors, including McDonalds, Credit One Bank and Chevrolet, after using a racial slur during a live-streamed virtual race during the pandemic
- C. Endorsement effects on branding and sales
1. Studies have shown that celebrity endorsements can be extremely effective in helping a company drive sales of its products or services
 2. A study by the Harvard Business School revealed that celebrity endorsements generate a 4 percent increase in sales on average for brands while the book Contemporary Ideas and Research in Marketing found that 85 percent of consumers admitted that a celebrity endorsement upped their confidence in a brand, and 15 percent said endorsements affected their purchasing decisions.
 3. In a study released by NPD last year, it was revealed that fans of a given celebrity are 50 percent more likely to buy and use the products that celebrity does
 - a. In 1984, Puma sold only 15,000 tennis racquets a year. In 1985, following Becker's first victory in Wimbledon and his backing of Puma rackets, sales jumped to 150,000 rackets⁷⁵
 - b. In 2000, Nike Golf signed Tiger Woods to play its golf ball. By 2005, Nike Golf enjoyed revenue growth of an astounding 24 percent per year.⁷⁶
 - i. Orders doubled for Callaway Fusion drivers after Phil Mickelson won the 2006 Masters with one ⁷⁷

Case Study

Endorsements:

A Unit 8 SEM Case Study

What began as a sponsorship of a minor league baseball franchise in 1933 has become perhaps the most successful example of the power of celebrity endorsement in developing company image and building a brand.

The 1933 sponsorship with the Minneapolis Millers brought the Wheaties brand of breakfast cereal enough success that they would partner with over 100 additional minor league teams by the end of the decade. The sponsorships provided a platform for athlete testimonials, with many players attesting that the cereal was truly “breakfast of champions.” Popular athletes began to appear on the cover of the Wheaties cereal boxes in the 1930s. In addition to featuring athletes, Wheaties effectively built its brand identity by packaging the cereal in an orange box, a tradition that is still carried on today.

The campaign grew wildly in the 1940s, resulting in a boom of athlete testimonials ranging from baseball, football and automobile racing stars to broadcasters, jockeys and circus stars. In 1939, the Major League Baseball All-Star Game showcased 46 players who endorsed the Wheaties brand. The game had a total of 51 players. Shortly after the All-Star game, Wheaties sponsored a telecast of a baseball game between the Cincinnati Reds and the Brooklyn Dodgers, the first ever commercial sports broadcast on television.

Since 1939, when baseball legend Lou Gehrig became the first athlete to grace a Wheaties cereal box, hundreds of professional athletes, Olympic athletes, entire sports teams, and a few entertainers (The Lone Ranger and the Mickey Mouse Club) have been promoted.

Wheaties has also featured several prominent athletes as spokespersons over the years. Only seven individuals have achieved this honor, including Bob Richards, Mary Lou Retton, Walter Payton, Chris Evert, Michael Jordan, and Tiger Woods.

 CASE STUDY QUESTIONS *****

- 1.) Do you think the Wheaties sports marketing campaign has been a success? Why or why not?
- 2.) Why do you think Wheaties moved away from sponsorship and began focusing on athlete endorsements?
- 3.) Why do you think the brand has fewer athlete endorsements today than it did in the 1930s and 1940s?

- 1) Understand the importance of ticket sales to the sports and entertainment industry
- 2) Identify factors that influence a fan's decision to purchase tickets
- 3) List at least five ticket sales strategies

Lesson 9.1

Role of Ticket Sales in Sports and Entertainment Business

- A. How important is the ticket sales function to the sports and entertainment industry?
1. A fan's participation in a game or event can be as important as the athletes and performers as they create an exciting atmosphere that energizes the performers and enhances the consumer experience
 2. Ticket sales have traditionally served as the financial backbone for almost every sports team within the industry
 - a. According to an article published in the Sports Business Journal, "ticket sales are the lifeblood of most franchises."
 - i. Sales from tickets and club seats can account for more than half of a typical franchise's local revenue in all four major sports leagues, ranging as high as 80 percent for some teams ¹
 - ii. Even a modest attendance increase can have a significant impact on a team's bottom line
 - (a) Two years ago, the Atlanta Braves reported a 2% increase in attendance at Sun Trust Park, helping the franchise's revenue to jump from $4.3 million per game to $4.6 million per game
 - (i) The team's owner told the Atlanta Journal Constitution the revenue boost was the result of increased ticket sales and higher attendance (which helps boost revenue in other ways like concessions, parking and merchandise sales)
 - iii. In a nod to the importance of pricing as a function of marketing, Major League Baseball's revenue in 2019 was expected to increase by $19 million compared to the 2018 season, thanks to a 2.1% increase in average ticket price (according to a front office sports story)
 3. While ticket revenue still provides the primary revenue source for a many sports teams, media rights deals now provide the biggest revenue stream for teams in major leagues like the NFL and NBA
 - a. According to PWC's annual sports outlook report, in 2018, media rights officially overtook gate revenues (ticket sales) as the industry's largest revenue generator for the first time in industry history
 - b. According to Forbes, the U.S. Open generated $130 million ticket sales revenue and $120 million in broadcast revenue in 2018, evidence the gap between ticket revenue and broadcast revenue for major sporting events is closing
 4. That said, for many teams, leagues, ticket sales still remain the most important revenue stream and are critical to the success of any organization
- B. Ticket sales affect other functions of the sports and entertainment business
1. Sponsorships increase in value with the increase in ticket sales
 - a. For example, sold out games and events maximize exposure for a sponsoring company, thus enhancing the value of their sponsorship investment
 - b. COVID-19 has led sponsors to wonder whether they will get the return-on-investment (ROI) they had anticipated with a sponsorship if no fans are in attendance
- C. Ticket sales are affected by other functions of the sports and entertainment business
1. Ticket sales decline with the presence of negative publicity
 - a. For example, communities are less likely to support athletes and entertainers who have developed a negative image or have a poor public persona

- i. The Portland Trail Blazers battled team image problems in the early 2000's and earned the nickname "Jail Blazers" - the team went from selling out every game to last in the NBA in attendance in 2006
 - (a) Click here for an graphic highlighting the Blazers' attendance figures and the impact of the "Jail Blazers" negative publicity
- D. Many factors influencing ticket sales and attendance
 - 1. Team performance
 - a. Winning teams traditionally draw bigger crowds while losing teams typically see attendance decline
 - i. After selling out 530 consecutive games, spanning 6 ½ seasons, the San Francisco Giants sellout streak came to an end in 2017
 - (a) It was the second longest sellout streak in Major League Baseball history
 - (b) Not coincidentally, the team was in last place when the streak ended, after being consistently one of the best teams in baseball the last seven years (including three World Series wins)
 - (c) As the team continued to struggle on the field, the Giants saw attendance figures decline, posting a record low at the start of the 2019 season when the team announced an attendance of 28,625 at a home game in April – the first time the team recorded less than 30,000 tickets in nearly ten years
 - ii. Thanks to a successful season that ended with a Sweet 16 appearance in the 2018 NCAA Tournament, the Nevada University men's basketball team surpassed 8,000 season tickets for the first time in a decade (an increase of more than 2,000 season tickets from the previous season) ²
 - iii. As the San Diego Padres struggled through their eighth consecutive losing season in 2018, the team introduced a rather unorthodox ticket sales package in which the number of games fans would be able to attend was contingent upon how many games the team won ³
 - (a) Click here to learn more about the Padres' "Five Win Pass" promotion
 - 2. Fan loyalty and fan support
 - a. Some markets traditionally attract more fan support and larger crowds by nature
 - i. New England with the Red Sox, Bruins, Celtics and Patriots
 - ii. Hockey in Canadian markets
 - iii. High school basketball in Indiana
 - iv. High school football in Texas
 - v. College football in the south (Texas, Alabama, Georgia, Florida)
 - vi. Soccer in the Pacific Northwest
 - (a) Last season, the National Women's Soccer League's Portland Thorns averaged over 20,000 fans per home game (that's more fans per game than all but 3 NHL teams, 2 NBA teams, 4 MLS teams and 6 MLB teams)
 - b. Meanwhile other markets have a reputation for poor fan support
 - i. Because so many residents are transplants (not born and raised in the state), professional sports teams in the state of Florida have a difficult time attracting crowds
 - (a) According to a Facebook survey, the most popular MLB teams in Florida are the Atlanta Braves and New York Yankees, not the Miami Marlins or Tampa Bay Rays ⁴
 - (b) Out of the nine professional Florida teams that compete in the big four leagues (NBA, NFL, MLB, NHL), all but two rank in the bottom half of their league for attendance over the last decade

- (i) Last year, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers ranked 30th out of 32 teams in the NFL, the Miami Marlins were 30th out of 30 and Tampa Bay Rays 29th in MLB, and the Florida Panthers were 30th out of 30 NHL teams
- c. Rivalry games
 - i. Rivalry games are often an instant recipe for boosting attendance
 - ii. According to a study by comebackcity.us, MLB regional rivalry games (Washington Nationals vs. Baltimore Orioles, LA Dodgers vs. LA Angels etc.) performed 18 to 25 percent better than non-regional games
 - iii. The intensity of fan support varies from rivalry to rivalry and market to market
 - (a) Click here to see USA Today's ranking of the best NFL rivalries
 - (b) Click here to see Bleacher Report's ranking of the 100 best rivalries in the history of sports
 - iv. MiLB's Pawtucket Red Sox created a promotion to capitalize on the intense Red Sox / Yankees rivalry when they hosted "Evil Empire Night"
 - v. Tickets to see the University of North Carolina Tarheels play the Duke Blue Devils are nearly impossible to get, but tickets for that rivalry series were sent into the stratosphere with the arrival of Zion Williamson in 2019
 - (a) The cheapest ticket price at Cameron Indoor Stadium (home of the Blue Devils) on the secondary market started at nearly $3,200, and Zion would only end up playing 36 seconds before blowing out his shoe and leaving with an injury
 - vi. When the annual rivalry game between SUNY Cortland and Ithaca College was moved closer to New York City last year (played at MetLife Stadium rather than either of the school campuses), the event set an attendance record for a Division III football game, drawing over 45,000 fans (according to the NY Times)
 - vii. Click here for a mini-documentary on the Major League Soccer website showcasing the rivalry between the Montreal Impact and Toronto FC
- d. The law of supply and demand also applies to ticket sales
 - i. "Sellouts breed sellouts"
 - (a) For example, some sports teams have long waiting lists for season tickets
 - (i) Major League Soccer's Portland Timbers have a wait list for season tickets at Providence Park of more than 13,000 fans
 - (ii) The waiting list at Lambeau Field is notoriously long, with Packer fans reportedly having to wait more than 30 years for the chance to buy season tickets (there are nearly 135,000 names on the waiting list and the population of the entire city of Green Bay is 105,000)
 - ii. Supply and demand also influences ticket prices
 - (a) In 2019, tennis icons Roger Federer and Rafael Nadal squared off at Wimbledon, setting the stage for perhaps one of the last opportunities for fans to see the two legends compete against one another
 - (i) According to a Yahoo! Sports report, tickets on the secondary market for the match started at $9,000, more than double the price of the lowest tickets to the 2019 Super Bowl and 1,700% higher than the cost of the cheapest tickets to Game 6 of the 2019 NBA Finals in Oakland
- 3. Highly visible athletes and entertainers
 - i. David Beckham played his last Major League Soccer game in 2012, but his impact on the league was significant
 - (a) Since Beckham entered the MLS, the league has expanded from 12 to 22 teams and attendance for nearly every team has increased by 5,000 fans per game – attendance at MLS matches now often exceeds that in the NBA and NHL ⁵

- ii. When it was announced that LeBron James would be joining the Los Angeles Lakers, the lowest price of a Lakers season ticket for Staples Center games jumped to $5,750 from $3,499 on StubHub.com, while the high end reached nearly $100,000 ⁶
- iii. When former Heisman Trophy winner and NFL quarterback Tim Tebow switched sports to play baseball, Minor League Baseball fans came out in droves to see him ⁷
 - (a) While playing for the Columbia Fireflies, team attendance increased to 5,154 per game, up from 3,785 the previous season
 - (i) When the Fireflies played on the road, opposing teams experienced attendance increases of roughly 78%
 - (ii) Some executives estimated that Tebow's presence helped teams generate $50,000 in additional ticket, concession and merchandise revenue each game
- iv. After Dale Earnhardt Jr. won the 2014 Daytona 500, ISC quickly saw a double-digit bump in sales at many of their tracks immediately after the victory (ISC owns 12 tracks — Daytona, Talladega, Auto Club (California), Chicagoland, Darlington, Homestead-Miami, Kansas, Martinsville, Michigan, Phoenix, Richmond and Watkins Glen)
- v. The NBA faces a lot of criticism when teams rest star players for nationally televised games
 - (a) Those decisions anger fans who buy tickets with the expectation of seeing players like Steph Curry, Kevin Durant, LeBron James and James Harden
 - (b) NBA commissioner Adam Silver sent a personal memo to team owners stressing protocol about player availability and how important it was to maintain the quality of gameplay for the league
 - (c) In the 2017 NBA offseason, the league decided to stretch the regular season schedule by 10 days, allowing more days between games to curb the practice of resting players fans are paying to see play
 - (d) Click here for an interesting report that analyzed which NBA stars have the biggest impact on attendance
 - (i) Click here for a graphic that illustrates LeBron James' influence on attendance over the years
 - (ii) Click here for a graphic illustrating which players in league history had the biggest influence on attendance
- vi. Season ticket sales soared after the New Orleans Pelicans won the lottery and selected Zion Williamson with the first pick in the 2019 NBA Draft
 - (a) The franchise, which typically averages around 16,000 fans per game, sold 10,000 season tickets in the week after the draft and were projected to sell a total of around 14,000, putting them in position to sell out many games during the 2019-20 season
- vii. After signing free agent Kawhi Leonard and trading for another hometown basketball star in Paul George, demand for Los Angeles Clippers season tickets predictably surged
 - (a) According to one report, the team sent an email to fans before they officially signed Kawhi or traded for George with the subject line: "Secure Your 2019-20 Season Tickets Now."
 - (b) Less than 24 hours later, the link in the email took recipients to the following message: "There are currently no tickets available. Continue to check back as additional tickets may become available for purchase at a later time."

- viii. Last year, the Philadelphia Phillies signed one of the biggest names in baseball to a free agent contract worth $300 million. According to a mlb.com report, the team sold 180,000 tickets in the next two days following the team's announced signing of the former Nationals' star while ticket prices increased by 93% on the secondary market, according to StubHub
- ix. When Tom Brady left New England to sign with Tampa Bay as a free agent in 2020, Buccaneers' ticket prices skyrocketed, increasing by 135% on the secondary market while Patriots tickets dropped by 39%, according to data from TicketIQ
- 4. Facilities, venues and stadiums
 - a. Very few stadiums remain with rich traditions and history, but the lore of each adds to the appeal for fans to attend games
 - i. Storied facilities with tradition also have a unique appeal that draws tourists
 - ii. Examples
 - (a) Fenway Park (Boston Red Sox)
 - (b) Wrigley Field (Chicago Cubs)
 - (c) Lambeau Field (Green Bay Packers)
 - (d) Madison Square Garden (New York Knicks, New York Rangers New York Liberty, St. John's University etc.)
 - (e) Wimbledon

In 2020, the University of Utah provided a "virtual" flyover to provide a glimpse of the football stadium renovation project, which included the relocation of the iconic Olympic cauldron from the 2002 Winter Games hosted in Salt Lake City to make room for 5,000 additional available seats, including premium seating options
 - iii. New stadiums and venues rely on improved amenities to excite consumers
 - (a) The $1.3 billion Yankee Stadium has an in-house museum, party suites, a members-only restaurant and many other luxury amenities. "We tried to reflect a five-star hotel and put a ballfield in the middle," said Yankees COO Lonnie Trost.¹⁰

 - (e) Standing more than 110 feet tall, Charlotte Motor Speedway's 16,000 square foot HDTV (80-feet tall by 200-feet wide) features instant replays and live lap by lap action on its more than 650,000 pound videoboard during races (the board, for those keeping score, is 30 percent larger than the screen at Cowboys Stadium, which previously held the title of world's largest television screen)¹³

- (i) Click here for an infographic comparing the size of each NFL team's scoreboard
 - (ii) When the new NFL stadium in Los Angeles opens in 2020, it will feature an oval shaped, dual-sided Oculus video board with over 60,000 feet of digital display -- so there literally won't be a bad seat in the house
- (f) Many stadiums now feature retractable roofs to ensure the fan experience will not be hampered by inclement weather

 - (i) According to MLB.com, Marlins attendance was up a stunning 67 percent from the previous year at the 2012 Major League Baseball all-star break
 - (ii) By 2014, between a drop in the team's on-field productivity and the allure of a new stadium wearing off, Marlins attendance dropped so substantially that they ranked among the lowest in the league
 - 1. Click here to read a story from Sports Illustrated chronicling some of the factors influencing the Marlins' attendance problems
- (i) In early 2016, the Indianapolis Motor Speedway completed a $92 million renovation to upgrade their premium seats, suites, big-screen monitors, restrooms, concession stands, elevators and main entryway in hopes of attracting and retaining fans

- iv. Renderings released in 2018 for a proposed Major League Soccer stadium in Austin reveal plans for an on-site music performance space, parking garage, bicycle valet, up to 130 affordable housing units, walkways and trails around the soccer facility, and a possible station for light rail
- v. When the Los Angeles Dodgers complete their $100 million renovation project in 2020, elevators and escalators will be built in the right and left side of the stadium with bridges to connect new standing-room decks to the rest of the stadium, allowing fans to walk the entire ballpark's perimeter from any level inside Dodger Stadium
- vi. The excitement for the newly relocated team and new stadium in Las Vegas pushed Raiders tickets to the top of the list of most expensive tickets on the secondary market prior to the 2020 season, averaging a stunning $1,098 per seat
 - (a) However, the Raiders franchise made the decision to play the 2020 season without fans amid the pandemic, forcing fans to wait another year before seeing the team play live at Allegiant Stadium
 - (b) According to one estimate, the decision to forego ticket revenue in the team's inaugural season at its new $2 billion stadium would cost the franchise $571 million in ticket and game-day revenue, more than any other NFL team

- vii. According to John Oliver in a rant on his popular “Last Week Tonight with John Oliver” show on HBO, nearly 90% of U.S. stadiums have been replaced or received major construction upgrades in the last 20 years ¹⁴
 - (a) According to the Sports Business Journal, nearly $17 billion has been spent either building or renovating MLB ballparks – 296 projects in all – in the last 25 years, including a new stadium for the Texas Rangers opening in 2019
 - (i) Click here for a graphic illustrating the amount of money invested in stadium projects since 1994 (when Rangers Stadium was built)

 INSTRUCTOR’S NOTE ***

Now might be a good time to introduce the “stadium design” project located in the lesson 9.1 folder. Be sure to emphasize the importance of ticket sales when assigning the project and encourage your students to be creative with their designs. Consider requiring them to include one unique stadium amenity with their design concepts. Alternatively, distribute this project in lesson 10.1 after discussing fan experience and technology. You may also want to utilize the project to help differentiate between the fields of sport management and sport marketing.

- 5. Promotion and sales
 - a. Promotional efforts help drive sales
 - i. In 1952, the legendary Bill Veeck introduced “Bat Day” with the Cleveland Indians, a promotions tradition carried on today by many minor league baseball clubs, including the Indianapolis Indians ¹⁵
 - ii. Most sports and entertainment organizations offer special ticket promotions and customized “packages”
 - (a) Last season, the Detroit Tigers offered several “Special” ticket packages that fans could choose from, such as the “Outdoorsman” ticket package and “Golf lovers” package as well as special incentives to purchase tickets for “themed” promotions like Yoga Day at Comerica Park ¹⁶
 - (i) The Tigers’ special packages included exclusive premium items (like a Tigers branded fishing lure for the “Outdoorsman” package or a yoga mat for Yoga Day) in addition to game tickets
 - (ii) Many of the team’s packages included a charity component and/or offered a pre-game party or “experience”
 - (b) Concert promoters now offering VIP packages, offering fans opportunities to access the best seats for the show and often times exclusive access to the artist for a premium price. Packages might include a back-stage tour and pre-show dinners.
 - (i) Through the sale of premium packages, concert promoters and artists can make as much on 10% of their audience as they do on the other

- 90%. While an average concert ticket may cost $90, the VIP ticket can go for $1750. Broadway shows have also enjoyed a lot of success through the implementation of premium VIP packaging.¹⁷
- b. Most organizations employ a full-time staff to manage promotions and sales
 - i. LSU's athletics staff features an entire department devoted to promotions, including a director, two assistant directors and two coordinators¹⁸
 - ii. The NBA's Miami Heat employs a staff of 7-10 to focus specifically on group ticket sales¹⁹
 - c. The frequency of special promotions and size of sales staffs are dependent upon a team's available ticket inventory
 - i. The Green Bay Packers, whose home games have been sold out on a season ticket basis since 1960, do not have any ticket sales personnel on staff and, subsequently, do not typically host any ticket driven promotions at games²⁰
 - ii. By contrast, the NHL's Carolina Hurricanes beefed up their sales staff from 8 to 32 in 2016 to help battle declining attendance
 - (a) The increased staffing resulted in a 40% boost in season ticket sales, 60% increase in ticket revenue and an 18% jump in season ticket renewals²¹
 - iii. After the 2010 announcement of the signing of free agents LeBron James, Chris Bosh and Dwyane Wade, the Miami Heat quickly sold out of ticket inventory. Soon after, the team infamously let go a reported 30 ticket sales staff members. Explained team spokesperson Lorrie-Ann Diaz, "Now that the supply for (season tickets) has been exhausted we no longer require a season ticket sales team."²²
 - d. Successful promotion and sales strategies are dependent upon an organization's willingness to conscientiously invest company resources in market research
 - i. It is important to understand the behavior of ticket buyers
 - (a) How do fans feel about the ease of buying tickets?
 - (b) What motivates fans to buy tickets?
 - (c) What factors impact a fan's decision to attend a particular game?
 - ii. It is important for an organization to utilize market research data
 - (a) Does the organization review fan demographic information when creating ticket marketing strategies?
 - iii. Market research is important in the creation of an effective ticket advertising strategy
 - (a) Which newspapers and sections are fans most likely to read?
 - (b) Which radio stations best fit fan demographics?
 - (c) Which television stations are fan favorites?
 - iv. In the past, the Cleveland Indians have analyzed ticket sales data and discovered several interesting statistics regarding factors that influenced attendance at home games
 - (a) Fireworks after a game draw an additional 4,000 fans
 - (b) Every one-degree temperature drop below 70 Fahrenheit costs 300 seats
 - (c) When the New York Yankees come to town, attendance jumps 11,000
6. Ticketing Trends
- a. Like any other industry, business trends play an important role in how sports and entertainment properties market their products and services
 - i. With high demand for premium seating, many teams look for ways to maximize space within the venue by creating new premium seating areas to accommodate demand

- (a) The New England Patriots and Pittsburgh Steelers transformed the end-zone sections of their respective stadiums into club seating areas (the Minnesota Vikings' new stadium also offers ground level club seating options)²³
 - (i) The Patriots' club-style seating area provides "members-only" access and carries a hefty $1,500 annual fee (minimum purchase of two memberships). Those fees are in addition to the cost of season tickets every year.²⁴
 - 1. Click here to read more from sportingnews.com.
- (b) As part of the Baltimore Ravens' $120 million renovation project in 2019, new luxury suites and party areas were built into each open notch of the stadium to increase the team's premium seating inventory
- (c) In 2020, Sports Business Journal published a story discussing the booming trend of building or renovating college baseball and softball stadiums
 - (i) According to the report, overall ballpark construction costs were estimated to exceed more than $233 million in 2020 alone, highlighted by Florida's new 10,000-seat baseball venue in Gainesville, a $65 million project that is scheduled to open in 2021
 - (ii) Florida AD Scott Stricklin told SBJ that the expectation is ticket revenue will triple once the Gators are in the new ballpark, with sales bolstered by offering fans four different types of premium seating options
- ii. Another common trend in ticketing is the inclusion of food related promotions as a means for adding value to ticket packages
 - (a) The Houston Astros reserve 500 seats for each home game as $25 "all-you-can-eat" seats in three mezzanine sections where fans can, through the seventh inning, consume unlimited hot dogs, nachos, popcorn, peanuts, soda and water²⁵
 - (b) The Kansas City Royals partnered with Jack Stack Barbecue that makes the company the exclusive tailgate caterer of Kauffman Stadium, creating a unique opportunity for fans interested in having their tailgate parties catered who now have the ability to choose from a variety of buffet menus²⁶
 - (c) Thanks to the promotion's popularity at the beginning of the 2015-16 season, the Detroit Red Wings added six additional game dates offering the "Meijer Coke Zero Fan Pack" (also a great example of sponsorship) which included two tickets, two slices of pizza or hot dogs and two soft drinks for $67 for select home games
 - (d) Several teams are now partnering with local food trucks for special game-day promotions
 - (i) The Oklahoma City Dodgers teamed up with the Oklahoma Independent Food Truck Association to launch a "Food Truck Triple Play" promotion for a game leading up to 4th of July weekend
 - (ii) The Fresno Grizzlies unveiled a branded food truck dubbed "Wild Things" (a tribute to the team's original mascot) that would serve as a permanent fixture outside the team's stadium for home games
 - (e) Members of the 200-capacity "Concert Club" premium seating area at recently renovated State Farm Arena in Atlanta enjoy all-inclusive food and beverage (including in-seat delivery) for not just Atlanta Hawks games but also all concerts, according to the Sports Business Journal
 - (f) Rather than offering "all you can eat" options featuring traditional stadium fare like hot dogs and popcorn, MiLB's River City Rascals announced "All You Can Eat Theme" ticket packages for all their Thursday night games in 2019

- (i) Each game featured a “specialty item of the night” (like rib tips, a mac-n-cheese bar, tater tot bar etc.), and also included all-you-can-eat options on other traditional stadium foods like hot dogs, lemonade and iced tea
 - (ii) Not surprisingly, the “All You Can Eat Thursdays” ticket package is one of the team’s best sellers
- iii. “Social Selling” is a trend gaining momentum throughout the industry as a means for creating an additional sales channel and tool for reaching potential ticket buyers
 - (a) Many teams utilize Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn and other social media platforms to communicate various ticket sales promotions to fans
 - (i) Last season, the Miami Dolphins generated over $4 million in new season ticket sales through leads on Facebook

Lesson 9.2

Ticket Sales Strategies

A. Season tickets

1. Season tickets provide consumers with a ticket to every home game for a particular sport or event for one package price
2. Playoff (or post-season) tickets are not typically included with the package, however, teams have used the inclusion of playoff tickets as a powerful value-based incentive in the season ticket package
3. Season tickets typically provide the core revenue stream for most professional sports teams, colleges and universities
4. Most organizations include additional benefits for consumers purchasing season tickets to add value to their purchase
 - a. Texas Rangers full season ticket buyers receive a number of benefits, including:
 - i. 20% off concessions
 - ii. Bonus tickets for select months
 - iii. Complimentary coupons for upgrading seats on select dates
 - iv. Personalized season ticket holder name plate on seats
 - v. Private season ticket entrances
 - vi. Annual season ticket holder picnic with player autographs
 - vii. Season Ticket Holder End-of-Season Play Day on the field ²⁷
 - b. The Minor League Hockey Grand Rapids Griffins offer unique benefits for season ticket members, including invitations to exclusive events and discounts
 - i. A members-only entrance to the arena for early access to giveaways and concession promotions
 - ii. Guarantees to receive team promotional giveaways, regardless of when fans arrive to the game
 - iii. Opportunity to high-five the players as they come onto the ice during select games
 - iv. Invitations to members-only events, including a team autograph signing, post-game skate with select players and coach's chalk talk
 - v. Access to members-only concession stand lines
 - vi. Pre-sale opportunities to Detroit Red Wings games and discounts
 - c. The Brooklyn Cyclones make an effort to personalize season ticketholder benefits ²⁸
 - i. Membership to "Cyclones Nation", where ticketholders are issued a username and password providing access to an exclusive STH-only page on the Cyclones website, featuring an interactive blog, chats with the team's General Manager and additional discounts
 - ii. An opportunity to come take batting practice at the ballpark
 - iii. The chance to stand on the field, side-by-side with the Cyclones team for a group picture that ticketholders can download and print for free
 - iv. An exclusive invitation to see the team's first practice of the year
 - d. The Tijuana Toros of the Mexican League offer several unique benefits for their season ticket holders, including a seating section for the hearing impaired (complete with a sign language interpreter) and personalized seats with emblazoned names
 - e. Milwaukee Bucks season ticket holders were provided with the opportunity to get first look inside the team's new arena
5. Personal Seat Licenses ²⁹
 - a. A personal seat license (most often referred to as a PSL), gives the holder the right to buy season tickets for a specific seat within a stadium or venue

- b. Teams and venues typically offer PSLs as a means for generating additional revenue to help offset the debt incurred during the construction of the stadium or arena
 - i. The Golden State Warriors were the first team in the NBA to require a PSL for every single season ticket
 - (a) The strategy helped to finance their $1 billion new arena (slated to open in 2019) ³⁰
 - ii. A myfoxtatlanta.com story suggests prices for PSLs range from $1,700 up to $150,000 per seat - Dallas Cowboys fans pay up to $150,000 and on the low end of the scale, the Chicago Bears charge about $1,700 for some seats
 - (a) According to athleticbusiness.com, the Atlanta Falcons sold $7.5 million in down payments alone for PSLs for their new stadium less than three months after putting them on sale
 - (b) In 2016, still a year away from playing in their new stadium, the Falcons had already sold out their $45,000 Founders Club seats as well as their $10,000 Piedmont Club seats according to CNN.
 - iii. The LA Rams have suggested that when they move into their new stadium in 2019, all seats will be sold with a PSL
 - (a) Sports business analysts have suggested the franchise will be able to charge more than the Cowboys ($150,000/seat) for their premier inventory
 - (b) The Rams began taking $100 deposits on their website in 2016 to gauge fan interest and so many logged-on to sign up that the team's website crashed
 - iv. In 2018, the Las Vegas Review-Journal reported that seat licenses could cost Raiders fans between $20,000 and $75,000 each when the new stadium opened in Las Vegas in 2020
 - (a) In 2019, the team began the final phase of PSL sales (the least expensive offering) with a range of $500 to $4,000 per seat, with most locations in the upper levels of the stadium
 - (b) According to the Las Vegas Review-Journal, the Raiders initially anticipated generating $250 million in revenue through PSL sales, but with strong sales, the franchise expected to surpass the original revenue estimates
 - (c) When all was said and done, the team sold out of all of its available PSLs, doubling the original estimate with sales of nearly $400 million prior to kick off of the 2020 season (before to the team's decision to play the inaugural season without fans) and the team now has a wait list for fans hoping to purchase a personal seat license
- c. While PSLs have provided an excellent solution for generating revenue for many teams over the years, not all organizations have found the concept to be perfect. The Cleveland Browns recently announced that they would no longer require personal seat licenses for new season-ticket buyers while current season ticketholder/PSL owners would still maintain their original PSL benefits. ³¹
 - i. In 2016, after two disappointing seasons, the San Francisco 49ers saw a substantial decrease in demand for their PSLs
 - (a) According to Sports Business Daily, at one point there were over 1,800 licenses that were up for sale (representing 4,600 seats in Levi's Stadium), an increase of nearly 800 from the year prior
 - ii. Other than the Golden State Warriors, the Toronto Raptors are the only other NBA team that uses PSLs, and only for their premium seats
 - iii. The Milwaukee Bucks considered PSLs for their new arena, but decided it wasn't a workable business model
 - (a) Click here for a short video clip of Bucks' president Peter Feigin explaining the decision

- B. Ticket packages and mini-plans
1. A ticket package is a sales approach that involves grouping together a select number of games, often at a discounted price
 2. Teams generally offer a special rate and/or an additional benefit for committing to a greater number of games
 3. Packages offer flexibility for consumer purchases by requiring smaller financial and time commitments to purchase game or event tickets
 4. Examples
 - a. The Orlando Magic offer half season packages that include a number of customer benefits, including a free subscription to E-Magic Insider (e-mail newsletter) ³²
 - b. The Calgary Flames offer weekend packages that feature only weekend games, creating a special package to make it easier for fans to attend ³³
 - c. Because Monday night games are difficult days for teams to draw crowds, the Fort Myers Miracle created the “Monday Night Club” where, for $30, “members” would receive a ticket to every Monday night home game through the entire season, free parking and a Monday Night Club t-shirt ³⁴
 - d. With hopes of boosting lagging attendance, the Arizona Diamondbacks launched a “Ballpark Summer Pass” ticket package that included every home game in June and July for only $50
 - e. In an effort to drive attendance at early season games that typically are harder to sell, the Philadelphia Phillies released the “Phillies Spring Pass” ticket package for $50 that included all Monday through Friday games in April (the team quickly sold out of the packages)
 - f. According to the Indianapolis Star, the NFL’s Indianapolis Colts announced plans to offer a five-game ticket package for the first time in history after season-ticket renewals declined for a third straight season in 2018
 5. Another popular ticket sales packaging strategy is to offer “flex” ticket plans
 - b. The “Orlando Flex” ticket package offers buyers access to a number of different parks, including Universal Studios, Sea World, Wet N Wild and Busch Gardens
 - i. Flex package purchasers only have to pay for parking once and the package is good for 14 consecutive days
 - ii. Flex package buyers can “jump” between parks as many times as they wish during those 14 days
 - c. The New York Mets offer flex packages of 5, 11, or 17 games
 - i. Fans have the luxury of choosing any games they want
- C. Season Ticket Equivalents
1. Season ticket equivalents refer to the sum of all of the various ticket packages sold converted to one measurable number
 2. Also referred to as FSE (full season equivalent)
 3. Examples
 - a. If the Washington Capitals sold 400 new quarter season packages, 800 new half season packages and 2,000 new full season packages in the off season, they would have sold 2,500 season ticket equivalents (FSEs)
- D. Group tickets
1. Group tickets are a reserved block of tickets for a specific game or event
 2. Groups usually require a minimum of ten or more individuals to qualify for group rates
 - a. Examples
 - i. Broadway.com offers group discounts to many Broadway shows and musicals, including “Rent” and “Blue Man Group” for groups of 10 or more ³⁵

- ii. Colorado State University offers discounted ticket prices on all groups of twenty or more and features the group's name on the football video board while providing additional perks for the group leader, including complimentary tickets, merchandise and autographed photos based on the number of fans in the group³⁶
 - i. Sea World offers group discounts for groups of 20 or more and provides bigger discounts for bigger groups³⁷
 - (a) Groups of 20-49 receive 10% discount
 - (b) Groups of 50-99 receive 12.5% discount
 - (c) Groups of 100+ receive 15% discount
- 2. How important are group sales to an organization?
 - a. According to espn.com, when LeBron James announced his return to Cleveland, the team capped season ticket sales at slightly more than 12,000 tickets Friday, leaving roughly 8,000 tickets per game to be used for group sales and ticket plans, enabling them to introduce as many fans as possible to the product next season
 - i. That strategy will likely pay off, even as LeBron has moved on to Los Angeles, as group outings are typically easier to renew than season tickets
 - b. Click here for a great example of how building a dedicated group sales staff can boost an organization's bottom line from Front Office Sports: "Oakland A's Focus on Group Sales Paying Dividends"
- 3. In an effort to attract new fans and compete in a more competitive environment, many organizations have turned to unique "fan experience" packages to boost group ticket sales
 - a. Examples
 - i. With a minimum purchase of 75 group tickets, fans can sign up for the Boston Celtics "Halftime High Five Kids Tunnel" where up to 25 members of the participating group have (open to those 14 years and younger) the opportunity to actually get on the court and high-five the Celtics players as they come back onto the court after half-time³⁸
 - ii. The Los Angeles Sparks have offered a "traveling practice" program where, if a group purchases 1,000 or more tickets, the team will hold a full practice at the site of the ticket buying group's choice³⁹
 - iii. Through the team's "Court of Dreams" ticket package, Oklahoma City Thunder fans have the chance to play on the court before the game. The team has hosted students from more than 13 area high schools at the Ford Center who have participated in various basketball "competitions" with winners getting their game night seats upgraded.
 - (a) Thunder Vice President of Community Relations Dan Mahoney on the program: "A lot of people would love to play on an NBA court, and through our group sales effort, we are able to provide that to our fans."⁴⁰
 - iv. The Philadelphia Phillies have offered an "Out of Towner" weekend package created specifically for Phillies fans from around the country to visit Philadelphia while taking in a three-game series at Citizens Bank Park

* DISCUSSION IDEA *

The NBA's Milwaukee Bucks offer some creative group ticket options for fans, including unique "experience" packages. To provide some context for students, access the "Milwaukee Bucks Group Tickets" PowerPoint and share the examples with your students. The key take-away should be for students to understand how group tickets help teams like the Bucks to maximize ticket sales revenue. For more from the Bucks website, click here.

E. Theme nights

1. A specific ticket package designed exclusively for a particular group
2. The goal of a theme night is to attract large groups to attend a game or event by customizing the experience to meet the needs of the selected group/organization
3. Examples
 - a. The NBA's Charlotte Hornets host a Teacher Appreciation night, offering special promotional discounts on tickets for teachers ⁴¹
 - b. The WNBA's Chicago Sky promote an annual Girl Scout night, providing specially priced tickets for area Girl Scouts, a chance to meet a Sky player, a "fan tunnel" experience on game day and exclusive autograph sessions ⁴²
 - c. Some of the theme nights hosted by the Philadelphia Phillies have included Autism Awareness, Teacher Appreciation, Philadelphia Science Festival Day and Citizens Bank Weather Education Day
 - d. Last season, the Oakland A's shifted their organizational strategy by hiring a dedicated sales staff to focus on group sales, and hosting theme nights like "Science of Baseball Day" which led to the sale of over 6,000 tickets
 - i. Click here to read more about the A's group sales strategy in a story posted on frontofficesports.com.
 - e. Thirteen of the fifteen theme night events hosted by the New Jersey Devils during the 2017-18 NHL season reportedly resulted in sellouts
 - i. As a result, the team increased the number of theme night promotions to include nineteen events last season, including "WWE Night", "Military Appreciation Day", and "Hockey Fights Cancer Night"

F. Individual game and single game ticket sales (advanced sales)

1. Many organizations promote the sale of individual game tickets to fans prior to the start of the season, game or event
2. Advance sales encourage fans to purchase tickets to individual events in advance to eliminate the risk of people changing their minds on the day of the game
3. Examples
 - a. The University of Wisconsin athletics office implements a policy that all reserved single game tickets MUST be purchased in advance and do not offer day-of-game (walk-up) single game sales. All day-of-game sales are general admission tickets only ⁴³
 - b. The Detroit Red Wings encouraged fans to sign up for ticket updates through the team's "Red Wings eAlerts" program, offering "priority access" to single game tickets with no convenience charge before seats go on sale to the general public ⁴⁴

- c. The Houston Astros offered a "one day opportunity" to fans subscribed to the team's email service. An offer for special promotional discounted tickets for future weekday games and lasted just one day (from 9:00 to 5:00). The promotion helped the franchise sell nearly 1,000 tickets. ⁴⁵
 - d. In 2020, SoFi Stadium executives took a unique approach to single-game sales when they began offering individual game tickets in luxury suites for LA Rams and Chargers games
 - i. According to bizjournals.com, the team designed 36 suites specifically to be sold on a game-by-game basis, believing the L.A. market would be attract high-end corporate and individual buyers who want to attend Rams or Chargers games as one-off event without the long-term commitment typically associated with luxury suite sales
- G. Premium seat ticket packages
- 1. Premium seats are tickets to a game or event that feature additional benefits or values
 - 2. Premium seats could include anything from suites, courtside seats, or seats elsewhere that receive preferential or "VIP" treatment
 - 3. Examples
 - a. A company that leases a luxury suite at the Staples Center in Los Angeles receives tickets to each event throughout the year, including the Lakers (NBA), Clippers (NBA), Kings (NHL), Sparks (WNBA) concerts and family shows ⁴⁶
 - b. "Executive Club Seat Members" at the Georgia Dome in Atlanta receive VIP parking privileges, access to private "lounge" areas in the stadium (described online as "spacious, sun-filled atriums that feature living room style lounges with big screen televisions with specialty grills and buffets in both areas also offer food selections prepared to order") and access to exclusive concessions options ⁴⁷
 - c. The Saenger Theatre in New Orleans offers the following benefits for their premium seat buyers: The best seating locations available, priority upgrades during renewals, discount beverage coupons, exclusive Premium Seat Holder commemorative season poster and offers to other local events ⁴⁸
 - d. According to the Sporting News, the Miami Dolphins plan to install "Living Room Suites" at Sun Life Stadium, that will feature a transportation service that will pick up and drop fans off from home in a luxury vehicle and will enter and exit the stadium in their own private lane
 - i. Click here to read more about the Dolphins' plans for their new premium seating options for ticket buyers next season
 - e. According to charlotteagenda.com, the Carolina Panthers are considering adding a variety of premium seating options at Bank of America Stadium, including owner's club suites, field bunker suites, party decks, 4-person semi-private seating, field-level suites, pre-game dining membership, practice field tailgating and an exclusive members-only club named the Carolina Club that could feature a high-end restaurant and lounge
 - f. In some instances, a team might offer "multi-use" opportunities to use stadium premium seating spaces for non-game day events
 - i. For example, the LA Rams offered suites that included "365-day access to SoFi Stadium", meaning the suite-holder could host business meetings and private parties at the stadium
 - ii. According to a story published by Sportico, Phoenix Suns' sponsor PayPal has special access to its luxury suite at Talking Stick Resort Arena even when the building is empty, where it has created a so-called "innovation center." The program has been so successful that PayPal already extended their deal with the

Suns and agreed to create a similar site at the home stadium of Spanish soccer club RCD Mallorca, also owned by Suns managing partner Robert Sarver.

(a) The success of PayPal's use of their luxury suite has inspired the Suns' to redesign the entire suite level as part of the arena's upcoming renovations

H. Walk up ticket sales and promotional sales

1. "Walk up" tickets refer to those tickets purchased by fans when arriving at the game, event or show
2. For sports teams, this is also referred to as day of game sales
3. Organizations plan creative promotions and offer special discounts to drive walk up ticket sales
 - a. Examples
 - i. The Georgia Aquarium encourages walk-up sales by offering a 20% discount to consumers who purchase online and arrive within the first two hours of the aquarium's opening hours ⁴⁹
 - ii. San Diego Gulls of the ECHL host a Disco night offering fans a discount if they come to the game in their disco outfits ⁵⁰
4. Why are walk-up ticket sales important?
 - a. When sales leading up to game or event day don't meet expectations, sometimes walk-up sales can help an organization to meet targeted sales
 - i. For example, with smaller crowds than anticipated early on for the 2017 NBC World Series Baseball Tournament in Wichita, organizers relied on walk-up sales to help keep pace with overall projected ticket revenue

(a) Said NBC World Series Tournament Director Kevin Jenks in an interview with ksn.com: "Now what we are hoping to see is good weather, good match ups which I know we have in championship week and a lot more walk ups." ⁵¹

I. COVID-19 Impact on ticket sales

1. The loss of revenue from ticket sales during the pandemic as sports and entertainment organizations were forced to cancel events or play games without fans is crushing for the industry
 - a. College football
 - i. USA Today reports that last year, the 130 schools that make up the Division I Football Bowl Subdivision (FBS) generated nearly $1.1 billion in total football ticket sales, meaning hundreds of millions of ticket revenue would be lost when seasons were canceled or postponed
 - b. Broadway
 - i. According to NBC New York, Broadway took in a record $1.8 billion in ticket sales last year, but abruptly shut down in March and announced in the summer that the earliest they would return would be January of 2021
 - c. Concerts
 - i. Pollstar estimated the concert industry could lose as much as $9 billion in 2020 in ticket sales revenue
 - d. NBA
 - i. NBA commissioner Adam Silver said during an interview at an SBJ virtual event that the league will lose 40% of its revenue with no crowds
 - e. NFL
 - i. A Forbes report suggested that, if the NFL were to play the entire 2020 season without fans in stands, the league could lose $5.5 billion in stadium revenue (the sum of tickets, concessions, sponsors, parking and team stores)
 - f. MiLB
 - i. According to MiLB, its teams generated gross revenues last year of $864 million. The vast majority comes from game-day operations, with 60 percent from tickets and concessions sales, wiping out millions of dollars when MiLB was forced to cancel the 2020 season

- g. Cirque du Soleil
 - i. According to NBC News, Cirque du Soleil, the brand that successfully fused acrobatics with performance art, filed for bankruptcy Monday as the coronavirus continued to ravage the entertainment and theater industries
- 2. Pricing
 - a. With plans in place at some events to allow fans into stadiums at limited capacities, sports business professionals were forced to re-think pricing strategies
 - i. In one of first true tests of a sporting event taking place with fans, NASCAR's all-star race at Bristol Motor Speedway in Tennessee allowed just 25,000 fans into the track (less than 20 percent of its capacity), charging two general admission prices of $35 and $65 each rather than typical stadium seating that offers multiple price points, premium seating and hospitality areas (via Charlotte Observer)

Lesson 9.3

The Ticket Sales Cycle

- A. Goal of sports and entertainment marketers
1. The ultimate goal of sports and entertainment promotion according to Mullin, Hardy and Sutton is to “increase overall consumption of products or services through increased awareness and interest”⁵²
 - a. Essentially, the goal is to increase overall levels of ticket sales
 - i. Tickets sales and television broadcast strategies frequently align – if an event does not sell enough tickets, often times the TV provider will ‘blackout’ the game, meaning they do not televise the event on local TV
 - (a) The idea is to push more consumers to buy tickets to see the event live versus simply watching it at home
 - (b) Click here to read how the Indianapolis 500 sold enough tickets to avoid a blackout on local TV for the first time since 1950
 - b. Sports and entertainment marketers achieve that goal by progressively gaining consumer commitment
 - c. This strategy is called the frequency escalator
 - d. Important because research indicates the long-term financial implications of an organization are impacted most by existing customers, not by attracting new consumers
 - e. On average, U.S. companies lose 50% of their customers in five years⁵³
- B. Frequency escalator⁵⁴
1. The frequency escalator is a marketing tool that examines the attendance levels of fans⁵⁴
 - a. This concept is also referred to as the fan escalator
 - b. The basic concept of the escalator is that sports and entertainment marketers focus not on getting new fans to games, but rather encourage those fans already attending to attend with more frequency with an increased level of commitment
 2. Unaware consumer
 - a. The unaware consumer does not know a product or service exists and therefore does not attend games or events
 - b. The sports and entertainment marketer reaches this group of consumers through:
 - i. Advertising
 - ii. Publicity
 - iii. Promotional items such as pocket schedules, magnet schedules etc.
 3. Indirect user
 - a. The indirect user is aware of the product or service, but does not directly participate by attending events, but rather consumes via another source (television, radio etc.)
 - b. The sports and entertainment marketer goal with indirect users is to do something to get them to act. This group of consumers can be reached through:
 - i. Promotional tickets
 - ii. Individual and single game tickets
 - iii. Theme nights
 - iv. Group nights
 - c. The marketer’s goal with this group is to move them to the next level of the frequency escalator. In this case, marketers are encouraging consumers to become light users.

- i. For example, amid one of the biggest attendance declines in Major League Baseball this year, the Minnesota Twins launched a “flash sale” featuring $5 tickets
 - (a) According to Dan Hayes of The Athletic, the team sold 31,000 tickets through the promotion in just 48 hours
 - (b) More significantly, however, is the fact that of the 31,000 tickets sold, 65 percent of fans hadn’t purchased a ticket to a game in the past three seasons
- 4. Light user
 - a. Light users attend games and events for promotional giveaways, team performance and social interaction
 - b. Light users have no established attendance pattern
 - c. The sports and entertainment marketer reaches light users through:
 - i. More promotions, giveaways etc.
 - ii. Packaging strategies (offer the most popular opponents with a limited-edition bobble head doll etc.)
 - d. The marketer’s goal with this group is to encourage them to become medium users (purchase a mini plan ticket package)
- 5. Medium user
 - a. Medium users attend less than half the times possible
 - b. Keys to reaching this group include:
 - i. Good service; developing a relationship with the customer
 - ii. Appeal to their pride and feeling of prestige for the team affiliation
 - iii. Encourage them with additional benefits such as improved seat locations and special discounts
 - iv. Show them value of their participation and further reward of advancing to the next stage of the escalator
 - (a) For example, an NBA team may encourage advanced participation through an invitation to a pre-game chalk talk or a “meet the team” type of function
- 6. Heavy user
 - a. Heavy users participate or attend more than half the times possible
 - b. Heavy users are the most important group to an organization, and it is critical to an organization’s success that they make an effort to maintain them
 - c. Examples of heavy users
 - i. Season ticket holders
 - ii. Tom Cruise fans that see each of his films in the theater and purchase all of his DVDs
 - iii. Fans of the Dave Matthews Band who see the concerts each time they visit the fan’s city and purchase all of their CDs
- 7. Descending the escalator
 - a. Descending the escalator occurs when consumers downgrade or eliminate their participation
 - b. Caused by consumer over-commitment or over-purchase
 - c. Is often a byproduct of fan disconnect or discord with “their” team, event, or favorite performers

8. Frequency escalator example
 - a. The University of Colorado's experiment with Groupon to heavily discount game tickets as way to attract new fans to the stadium provides an example of how an organization approaches the frequency escalator concept (the Buffaloes managed to sell nearly 1,200 tickets in less than 24 hours)
 - i. CU's marketing director summed up the frequency escalator concept with the following statement in an interview posted on clickz.com: *"While we would have liked to have sold more, we are happy with the results. What it does for us is potentially bring new people that may not otherwise go to a Colorado football game. It's a way to introduce them to our product, get them to a game...and then, who knows? Maybe next year they buy a three-game pack. The idea is to see if they go beyond this year."*⁵⁵

Ticketing Technologies

A. Distribution

1. Technology has streamlined the ticket distribution process
 - a. The Internet provides many access points for fans wanting to purchase tickets online
 - i. TicketMaster.com
 - ii. Individual team, league or event websites
 - iii. Secondary market vendors (StubHub, Vivid Seats and SeatGeek)
 - (a) ESPN's website now shows available tickets and a price range on their NFL schedule page with links to a secondary ticket market website
 - iv. Fandango.com
 - v. Social media
 - b. AT&T Park, home to Major League Baseball's San Francisco Giants, was the first professional sports franchise in the U.S. to implement a barcode system for scanning tickets as fans enter the stadium through electronic turnstiles ⁵⁶
 - i. This enables the team to avoid common ticketing problems
 - ii. Giants officials can quickly deactivate lost or stolen tickets and reissue new ones and the technology virtually eliminates the possibility of erroneously selling the same seat more than once
 - iii. The technology, along with many other advances, is now very prevalent in all sports venues, from the professional ranks to college
 - c. 2015 marked a major shift in ticket distribution and fan experience for attendees of the NCAA Men's NCAA Basketball Tournament as 67% of the host venues offered paperless and phone entry
 - i. Click here to see an excellent breakdown from forbes.com of the various ways in which fans could utilize technology to enter 2015 March Madness host venues
 - (a) Click here for an infographic from TiqIQ on the "paperless" NCAA tournament
 - d. Several sports teams (MLB's New York Yankees, Colorado Rockies, NFL's Seattle Seahawks, MLS's LAFC and NBA's Miami Heat among them) offer biometric fingerprint readings in lieu of tickets at specific entry points for speed and security ⁵⁷
 - i. Click here for a story suggesting Major League Baseball could be exploring a future where facial recognition becomes the norm for fan entry at ballparks
 - e. This season, Little Caesars Arena announced plans to move to a paperless system for all Detroit Pistons and Red Wings season ticketholders, allowing for a better user experience for fans ⁵⁸
 - f. As of 2020, many organizations had already made the shift to paperless tickets, however, after the COVID-19 health crisis, nearly every sports and entertainment venue will migrate to paperless ticketing protocols

B. Database and analytic marketing

1. Database marketing is the process of gathering information about existing and prospective customers, entering that information into a centralized database, and using that database to drive marketing efforts
2. Database marketing has enjoyed continued growth as the new trend in direct marketing among most sports and entertainment organizations
3. It enables marketers to capture information directly relating to their fan bases and allows for a more effective direct marketing campaign
 - a. Examples

- i. Thanks to an effective database marketing strategy, Minor League Baseball's Indianapolis Indians managed to increase online ticket sales 64% in just one season. The club's focus on building and maintaining an extensive database resulted in access to the email addresses for 60,000 previous ticket purchasers and fans who had previously signed up to receive emails from the team.⁵⁹
 - ii. According to Forbes, the USTA has successfully used analytics to maximize revenue. For example, they analyze data around the primary and secondary market to determine how their tickets should be priced. Last year they repriced every seat in Arthur Ashe Stadium, and 54% of their seats had reduced prices for the 2018 U.S. Open.⁶⁰
 - (a) Despite dropping ticket prices, the event generated $10 million more in ticket sales revenue than the previous year's event⁶⁰
 - iii. The Golden State Warriors utilize data from Facebook to purchase and create more personalized ads to help promote last minute ticket sales
 - (a) According to adweek.com, each ad reached as many as 50,000 of the team's Facebook followers (potential buyers) and have helped the Warriors sell out 175+ straight games over the past few seasons⁶¹
 - iv. According to a report in the Sports Business Journal, the average NBA franchise has 500,000 names in its database, with some big-market teams having about 1 million names, allowing them to personalize the sales experience
 - v. Orlando City FC of MLS strategically designed its LionNation app to help the franchise build a database that would give insights to fan behaviors and preferences, along with creating opportunities to engage and interact with fans in ways that would lead to an increase in ticket sales
 - (a) Click here to learn more about the team's database marketing strategy
 - vi. According to chicagobusiness.com, the majority of major league franchises in Chicago are encouraging fans to use digital tickets instead of traditional paper tickets by offering incentives from food discounts and faster entry into venues to credits toward special in-stadium experiences and merchandise
 - (a) Click here to read the full story with the headline "Why Chicago sports teams want you to use your phone as a ticket"
 - vii. Click here for an excellent, in-depth look at how Major League Baseball teams utilize analytics as a powerful ticket sales tool (via wharton.upenn.edu)
 - viii. According to a Yahoo! Sports report, the NFL placed a priority on paperless tickets for the 2020 Super Bowl in Miami, in large part to maximize the personal data they could collect from fans who attended the game, which would help the league to develop a more targeted approach to its future marketing efforts
 - (a) A story published in the Athletic suggest that by the 2021 Super Bowl in Tampa, the number of fans using mobile ticketed entry could total nearly 100 percent (assuming fans would be allowed in stadiums as a result of the pandemic)
 - (i) The story also reports that, over the last two years, the NFL has added roughly 6 million new ticketing names to the league's database or individual teams' databases and now knows who 30 percent of the fans are sitting in the stands versus 15 percent the year before
4. By segmenting fans based on their buying habits and demographic information, an organization can effectively
 - a. Generate new business
 - b. Boost renewal and retention rates
 - c. Establish sales leads

- i. Most sports and entertainment organizations use database marketing to help qualify leads for their sales staff to make the cold calling process easier
 - d. Increase fan loyalty
 - e. Strengthen relationships with customers
 - i. Segmentation allows for an organization to gain a better understanding of who their customers are and how best to satisfy customer needs and wants
 - f. Improve communications with fans
 - i. Click here for an interesting case study from the National Sports Forum's eNewsletter illustrating how the University South Carolina utilized the advancement of technologies to help them segment their fan base and boost ticket sales
5. Data mining is a term used to describe the process of collecting and analyzing information within a database in an effort to discover information that can help increase an organization's sales
- a. The practice is also referred to as "big data" and advanced consumer profiling
 - b. Data mining has become a critical tool for many sports and entertainment organizations as it provides the sales staff with information that can help sellers to connect with consumers, particularly when cold calling
 - i. For example, thanks to data mining, an inside ticket sales representative for an MLS team might know that the fan they are cold calling has already attended two MLS games, searched ticket websites for other sporting events or concerts and typically only makes a purchase decision when tickets are discounted
 - ii. Spain's premier soccer league, LaLiga, partnered with Microsoft to utilize programs like Azure and Power BI to help LaLiga connect with their 1.7 billion fans around the world in a more personalized manner depending on fans' location and preferences
 - iii. The Chicago Cubs adopted Bypass, a point-of-sale system, to help them track how well certain merchandise and concessions sell in real time
 - (a) Said Justin Piper, general manager of spring training business operations for the Cubs in an interview with AdAge: "We can track categories—do you like little logos or big logos? What colors? Those are the types of things that we can start looking at."
 - iv. According to thedrum.com, Churchill Downs teamed with Emarsys, a marketing cloud company, to improve the level of insight they have on horse racing fans
 - (a) Data captured includes fans' favorite horses, jockeys, trainers as well as how much they bet on races
 - (i) This information is used to create more targeted and personalized marketing campaigns, resulting in higher profits
 - v. Click here for a fascinating look from the San Francisco Business Times on how the San Francisco 49ers (who employ an analytics staff of 11) and Oakland A's are mining data to help segment their fan base to help boost franchise revenues
- C. Service
- 1. Many organizations have implemented online account manager programs for their season ticket holders as a vehicle for improving customer relations
 - a. Memphis Grizzlies season ticket holders enjoy many benefits via the team's Website, which allows customers to: ⁶²
 - i. Forward tickets electronically, allowing customers to email tickets to friends, family or clients—even at the last minute
 - ii. Manage tickets by tracking ticket usage and managing guest lists online

- iii. Edit personal profiles to keep account info updated
 - iv. Make payments, view statements, and renew ticket packages
- 2. Technology makes communication easier and more effective between teams and consumers
- D. Pricing, payment and sales
 - 1. Dynamic ticket pricing ⁶³
 - a. Dynamic ticket pricing (also referred to as “variable” pricing) refers to the process of adjusting ticket prices on the basis of changing variables like weather, opponent, demand, availability or who is scheduled to pitch on a particular day
 - b. Many teams already charge different prices for seats based on the opponent or other factors, but the dynamic pricing allows an organization to manage ticket sales efforts by carefully measuring supply and demand and creating price points accordingly
 - i. For example, a Field Plaza level ticket at Petco Park in San Diego for a Saturday game against the rival Los Angeles Dodgers was priced at $59.00 on padres.com. That ticket drops to $35.00 for the same exact seat on the following Tuesday night for the game against the Arizona Diamondbacks. ⁶⁴
 - c. More than 50 percent of professional sports teams have now adopted some form of variable ticket pricing
 - i. Even NFL teams are getting into the action as the San Francisco 49ers announced in 2015 that tickets to ALL home games (for single game tickets) would be subject to a dynamic pricing structure
 - d. In 2018, Disneyland began testing dynamic pricing models with the opening of its Pixar Pier attraction, starting at $299 per ticket
 - i. Part of Disney’s strategy is to better manage the size of crowds at its parks, helping to create a better experience for park visitors
 - ii. Click here to learn more about Disney’s strategy from slashfilm.com.
 - 2. Digital Wallet
 - a. According to Wikipedia, the term “digital wallet” refers to an electronic device that allows an individual to make electronic commerce transactions. This can include purchasing items on-line with a computer or using a smartphone to purchase something at a store.
 - i. Apple Pay and MasterCard teamed up with Major League Baseball to make mobile payments available at Great American Ball Park and the Duke Energy Convention Center for All-Star Game activities Cincinnati ⁶⁵
 - 3. Blockchain
 - a. In 2018, the NBA’s Dallas Mavericks announced that they would accept Bitcoin and other forms of cryptocurrency as payment for tickets, beginning with the 2018-19 NBA season
 - b. In her “Ruling Sports” blog, sports industry expert Alicia Jessop asks “Can Blockchain Technology Change Ticket Sales In Sports?”
 - 4. Help fans visualize seating options
 - a. Last year, the Atlanta Hawks introduced “The Preview”, a high-tech virtual tour highlighting stadium renovation for potential suite and seat buyers
 - i. From the team’s website: “Full of interactive features and engaging, self-guided activities, the sales center offers a deep dive into how the new arena transcends the role of host for basketball games, concerts and events”
 - b. In an example of an industry trend, teams are turning to virtual reality “sales centers” to help boost season ticket sales
 - i. To help sell season tickets to the team’s new $200 million stadium in advance of their inaugural season in 2021, the Major League Soccer expansion Austin FC adopted virtual reality technology

- (a) The digital technology provides fans with a 360-degree view from any seat inside the new venue, allowing prospective ticket buyers to get a feel for the stadium and their sightlines prior to making decisions on a seat location ⁶⁵
 - (b) The VR “show” starts by putting fans at the center circle on the field, giving a 360-degree view of what stadium will look like from the vantage point of a player waiting for the opening whistle
 - (i) According to SportsPro Media, last year the expansion MLS Minnesota FC franchise utilized the same tech which helped to team to completely sell out of their season ticket inventory before the stadium was even completed
 - ii. As the Texas Rangers (MLB) and Raiders (NFL) prepared for moves to new stadiums, they also built sales centers that featured innovative technology to create immersive experiences for prospective ticket buyers
 - (a) Click here for a 3D view of the new Rangers ballpark
 - (b) Click here for a 3D view of the new Raiders stadium
- 5. Digital marketing and social media applications provide a great example of how technology has advanced the role of ticket sales in sports and entertainment
 - a. Technology has a major influence on the effectiveness of database marketing strategies
 - i. Social media platforms such as Twitter and Facebook proven to be as much as three times more effective in selling tickets than traditional marketing platforms, according to research from Ticketmaster ⁶⁶
- E. Drawbacks to advanced technology
 - 1. The selling of tickets by an unauthorized third party, called “ticket scalpers” or online brokers, has become commonplace online
 - a. This practice has a negative impact on an organization’s bottom line, and ultimately drives ticket prices up for consumers
 - b. The state of Florida recently toughened its ticket scalping laws to help consumers when Gov. Charlie Crist signed into law a new ticket resale bill that requires Internet brokers to offer better guarantees, outlaws the sale or use of “bot” software, and makes it illegal to scalp tickets to charity events ⁶⁷
 - c. In 2018, thousands of Chinese soccer fans fell victim to counterfeiting when they purchased fake World Cup tickets, which they didn’t realize until they had already landed in Russia for the tournament ⁶⁸
 - d. Because of a high risk of counterfeit tickets flooding the market during the NHL Playoffs, the St. Louis Blues took a proactive approach in alerting their fans via social media, tweeting: “Fans, please be cautious buying Playoff tickets via 3rd-party sellers outside @ScottradeCenter. There have been many fakes sold.”
 - 2. Sports and entertainment properties are now being challenged to adapt to the seismic growth and legalization of the secondary ticket market
 - a. Sports and entertainment properties are beginning to partner with secondary ticket sellers to share in the profits
 - i. StubHub boasts partnerships with St. John’s, USC, Wisconsin and Georgetown Athletics (among many others) as the “official ticket marketplace”
 - ii. RazorGator stakes its claim as the “official ticket package partner of the Ultimate Fighting Championship”
 - iii. Ticketmaster paid $265 million for ticket reseller TicketsNow to secure a larger piece of the secondary market ⁶⁹
 - iv. TicketLiquidator launched in 2002 and boasts an inventory that includes more than 4 million tickets for over 83,000 events worldwide ⁷⁰

- b. When they relocated back to Winnipeg, the Jets NHL hockey club (understanding the demand for tickets would be extremely high after quickly selling out of 13,000 season tickets) took a proactive approach to ticket resale. The team announced it would launch an extension of their website that would allow season ticket holders to post tickets they want to sell online and allow fans to buy them just like they would any concert or sporting event ticket.⁷¹
- c. In 2019, in hopes of improving profits for the franchise, the Los Angeles Dodgers launched a strategy to minimize sales on the secondary market by refusing to sell season tickets to brokers, allowing the team to regain (some) control of the market.⁷²

This would be a good time to introduce the “Ticket Sales Plan Project” located in activities and projects folder. Remember, you can tailor each project to fit your presentation in class by opening (and editing) the PowerPoint file rather than the PDF.

Case Study

Ticket Sales & Promotion:

A Unit 9 SEM Case Study

Sometimes the simplest ideas work the best. Attendance at the McAfee Coliseum has been lagging for some time for Oakland Athletics games for some time. The team regularly trades away its best young players, and, though it has made the American League playoffs several times in the past few years, people have not been as willing to buy tickets as they were in the team's heyday in the late 1980s and early 1990s.

However, people love a sale and sometimes nothing draws a crowd more than deep discounts on tickets and food. The franchise now offers either $2 tickets or $1 hot dogs (all you can eat!) at most of their Wednesday games. The only exceptions are high-demand games, such as those featuring popular opponents like the Yankees, Red Sox, and Giants.

The $2 tickets are outfield and second-deck outfield seats regularly priced at $9 and $16. It's either cheap seats or cheap food. Only one promotion is offered on any given night. These days it seems whichever promotion they choose, the fans will come. For a pair of Wednesday games in April 2008, attendance increased substantially. For the first $2 ticket night with Seattle, attendance was 21,126; it was 10,164 for the following Seattle game. The very next week, average attendance for the Tuesday and Thursday games with Minnesota (like Seattle, normally a weak draw) was 11,430. The Wednesday game with $2 tickets drew 15,242. Fans anticipate these special prices. Advance ticket sales run far ahead of normal rates. For the 2008 season, all $2 tickets for the season had already been purchased by early July.

The Athletics use the ticket and food promotions to promote the team's logo merchandise, sell full-price tickets to other games, and fulfill obligations for minimum attendance guarantees made to sponsors.

 CASE STUDY QUESTIONS *****

1. Keeping the message simple is one key to successful promotions. Does offering significant ticket discounts or cheap concessions send a message to fans? If so, what is it?
2. Assume that the Athletics run ten "$2 ticket" promotions per month during the six-month regular season and that they would normally sell 1,000 seats in these sections at an average price of $12. For these "$2 ticket" games, they sell an average of 4,000 additional seats at the sale price beyond the number they would normally sell. Based on these figures, what is the total revenue gained (or lost) from the ticket promotion for the season?
3. If you want to encourage casual fans to sample Major League Baseball games, what other promotions might be effective? Why?
4. Why would minimum attendance guarantees be important to sponsors?

Unit 9 Discussion Question Review

Have you ever been approached by a salesperson from a sports or entertainment organization? What were they selling? Did you decide to purchase?

There are no correct or incorrect answers.

What types of promotions have you seen implemented by a sports team? What did you think of the promotion? Did you or someone you know decide to attend as a result of the promotion or special offer?

Almost all sports teams fill their home schedule with special promotions with the goal of increasing attendance.

Some examples could include:

- A free premium item give away at the game
- A 2 for 1 ticket sales special offer
- A group discount on tickets to a future game
- Post game concerts or shows
- Pre-game autograph sessions or chalk-talks featuring players/coaches

What types of promotions have you seen implemented by an entertainment organization? What did you think of the promotion? Did you or someone you know decide to attend an event or make a purchase decision based on the promotion or special offer?

Many entertainment marketers offer special promotions as a means of increasing attendance or selling more products.

Some examples could include:

- A free movie ticket with the purchase of a new release DVD or BluRay
- A special discount on tickets to an upcoming show or concert
- A group discount on tickets to an upcoming show or concert
- Publisher's discounts on new release hardcover books

Unit 10: The Spectator (“Fan”) Experience

Overview

Unit ten discusses the importance of game operations and game entertainment. The fundamental concept of game operations and entertainment is the way “breaks” in an event or game (half-time, time-outs etc.) are perceived by sports marketer as “opportunities”. The game operations process begins before any of the games are played when sports marketers identify the additional entertainment that will be added to the event to keep the audience involved and entertained.

Objectives

- 1) Describe the concept of the fan/spectator experience
- 2) Define the term game operations
- 3) Identify five elements of game entertainment
- 4) Explain what is meant by “game attractiveness” and how it influences attendance
- 5) Explain why game operations are important to a sports organization
- 6) Describe the relationship between game operations and other functions of the organization

Lesson 10.1

The Spectator (Fan) Experience

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

Before introducing the concept of the spectator/fan experience, ask your students to think about the last time they attended a sporting event, concert or other form of entertainment. Encourage them to think about the experience as a whole, not simply the entertainment itself. All of those factors, ranging from parking to concessions, impact the overall fan experience. Also, ask students if they know when the fan experience begins and ends.

- A. The spectator or fan experience as it relates to live events refers to the overall impression made on the sports or entertainment consumer
 1. It can determine whether the spectator or fan has a positive or negative experience at the game or event
 2. Positive or negative associations with the game or event ultimately determine whether the spectator (fan) will become a repeat customer
 3. How important is the spectator/fan experience?
 - a. According to sporttechie.com, the Golden State Warriors were more focused on fan experience than dazzling new technologies when designing their new arena (the Golden 1 Center), despite being called the “most technologically advanced and sustainable arena in the world”,
 - i. Said team President and COO, Rick Welts, “We’re trying to focus 100 percent on the fan experience where technology enables that, great. The mission is to provide the best fan experience that’s ever been provided before. We want technology to be additive, but it’s not the be-all, end-all by any means.”
- B. When does the spectator or fan experience begin?
 1. The fan experience begins the moment when a consumer begins thinking about purchasing a ticket to a game or event while the game or event day experience begins as the consumer travels to and arrives at the event
 - a. If a fan has a difficult time navigating a website trying to purchase tickets to a game or event, the experience has already started on a sour note
 - b. A negative experience finding parking, paying for parking or dealing with an unfriendly parking lot attendant can sour the consumer on the entire experience, even before setting foot in the stadium or arena
 - i. Realizing this, MLB’s Atlanta Braves implemented several measures to help alleviate fan frustrations over simply getting to the stadium ¹
 - (a) Based on a comprehensive traffic study, the team pushed back the starting time of their 7pm games to 7:30pm, when most of the area traffic has cleared

- (b) The Braves also increased the number of stadium entry points to 14 (vs the previous 2), built 360-degree parking around the ballpark, added three pedestrian bridges and more overall parking spaces, a bike valet and new ridesharing pick-up and drop-off locations
 - (i) Braves President of Development Mike Plant told the Atlanta Business Chronicle: “We recognize that traffic in the Atlanta area is an issue, and certainly has been a key frustration before and after ball games. The combination of tremendous infrastructure improvements, 360-degree access to the ballpark, pre-and post-game activities, and our new start time will make travel to and from SunTrust Park a better experience for our fans.”
- c. High levels of traffic congestion arriving or leaving the venue could negate an otherwise entirely positive experience at the event, impacting whether the consumer would choose to attend again
 - i. At an inaugural NASCAR event in Kentucky, traffic began backing up on the only main road into the track nine hours before the start of the race, and by late afternoon there were reportedly backups of as many as 10 miles in either direction. After 100 laps, cars still were exiting the interstate when traffic patterns were reversed. It was estimated that at least 15,000 fans didn't reach the event.²
 - ii. To improve the game day experience for fans, the Atlanta Braves bumped back weekday start times to 7:30, dispersed parking options and encouraged more fans to buy tickets and parking in advance
 - (a) The team also received investments from the city of Atlanta to improve roads, pedestrian bridges and shuttle services³
 - iii. According to a survey published in the Sports Business Journal (conducted by Turnkey Sports), the top three biggest fan complaints about parking at sporting events included:⁴
 - (a) Time required to exit after the event (50%)
 - (b) Cost (31%)
 - (c) Lack of available parking near the stadium/venue (9%)
 - iv. To pro-actively manage their traffic situation, the Brooklyn Nets worked with a traffic engineering expert to identify potential solutions for minimizing congestion on days when the newly minted Barclays Center would be hosting events
 - (a) The solution was to discourage driving entirely, by cutting the number of parking spaces at the Barclays Center in half⁵
 - v. The Miami Dolphins partnered with Uber to help ease game day congestion by offering fans a dedicated drop off and pick up spot in the team's parking lot, a private tailgate section (complete with game day supplies), and the ability to book a ride from the team's app
 - vi. According to the Sports Business Journal, executives at Madison Square Garden prioritize the efficiency of getting fans in and out of the building. To help ease congestion, they opened additional entrances on the backside of the arena last season.
 - vii. In 2020, prior to the pandemic, the New England Patriots announced a solution for helping to ease some of the traffic pressure that has been a common complaint of Patriots fans leaving games at Gillette Stadium
 - (a) The team announced the stadium will now feature a “delayed exit lot” that allows fans to park for free. However, vehicles parked in that area will not be allowed to leave until 75 minutes after the game ends

- viii. According to Geek Wire, the expansion NHL Seattle Kraken will be investing up to a $7 million in the city's monorail system with a plan to offer free transit rides to ticket holders on game days
- ix. One of the biggest challenges facing sports and entertainment business professionals when fans are allowed back in stadiums, ballparks and arenas is how to safely keep fans moving and spaced apart given the health concerns associated with the pandemic, beginning with the parking and tailgating experience
- d. With so much competition for the entertainment dollar, much pressure is on a sports or entertainment organization to create positive spectator/fan experience

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

Now would be a great time to engage students in a quick discussion. To enhance the discussion in class, consider passing out the student handout marked "Lesson 10.1 - Student Handout - Fan Experience." The handout provides the complete results from the survey referenced above as it relates to traffic and parking and sporting events. Ask students if they agree with any of the complaints and whether they have any other gripes about the overall fan or game/event day experience from events they have attended in the past.

C. How do organizations manage, control and enhance the fan experience?

1. Technology

- a. When it comes to security related issues and combating unruly fans, many teams and organizations offer "text" lines in which fans could report obnoxious behavior by sending a text message to team security
 - i. At the average NFL game, about 3 people are arrested and 25 more are ejected⁶
 - (a) Every NFL team now offers some form of a text or cell phone hotline to report disruptive fan behavior
 - ii. At most major NCAA college football games, fans can use their mobile devices to send a text message to security with a description of their problem and their location. From there, officials can respond and use security cameras to zoom in on the section in question.⁷
 - iii. In 2018, Safeco Field and CenturyLink Field in Seattle introduced a biometric security system in which fans use their fingerprints to validate their age and purchase alcohol to help monitor purchases and (potentially) manage consumption
 - iv. Organizers of the Tokyo Olympic Games announced that facial recognition technology will be in place in time for the 2020 Summer Games to help with overall security and the safety of fans braving potentially hot and humid conditions at Olympic venues

- v. In 2018, entrepreneur Elon Musk proposed plans to build a high-speed, zero-emissions, underground public transportation system to take fans in Los Angeles to Dodgers stadium from East Hollywood to drastically reduce commute times
 - (a) Click here for more on the idea from USA Today
- vi. According to a report from The Athletic, Mercedes-Benz Stadium, home to the Atlanta Falcons and Atlanta United, Tropicana Field (home to the Tampa Bay Rays) and Tottenham FC's new London mega-stadium all went cashless in 2019
 - (a) The Super Bowl and Wimbledon are already reportedly making plans to go "cashless", a trend likely to gain traction with venues around the world
- b. Apps can help fans get the most out of the spectator experience
 - i. When Las Vegas Motor Speedway did research on the fan experience, parking came back as an area that needed improvement. As a result, LVMS worked with a technology company to create a "fan guide" app that takes consumers into the track and to their seats through information delivered to a smartphone.
 - (a) At a speedway as large as Las Vegas, which seats 140,000 fans, parking in the wrong lot or entering through the wrong gate can lead to long delays entering the stadium and finding seats so the app helps prevent confusion by providing the easiest route to a parking space and to the fan's seat. ⁸
 - ii. When it opened its doors to a brand-new football stadium, Baylor University introduced an In-Game App, making it the first college athletics application to provide instant replays from multiple views to fans, right at their seats, at McLane Stadium. ⁹
 - iii. In 2018, the New York Red Bulls integrated Lyft (one of the team's corporate partners) service into the team's new mobile app and integrated maps to help fans driving get to Red Bull Arena more efficiently
 - (a) The app has a regular mode and an "arena mode", each mode featuring exclusive content, based on where the fan is using their mobile device
 - iv. The Golden State Warriors will launch a new app in 2019-20 featuring technology that allows fans to purchase merchandise onsite and have it delivered to their seats, have it available at the team store for pickup after the game, or have it shipped
- c. Stadium amenities are designed to improve the overall spectator/fan experience
 - i. Many sports teams have installed High-Definition jumbo screens at stadiums for the best possible viewing of replays and to allow fans in the upper level seating areas to get closer to the action
 - (a) AT&T stadium, which plays host to the NFL's Dallas Cowboys and an array of other events, boasts one of the most impressive jumbotrons in the world. The two sideline displays measure 160 feet wide and 72 feet tall, measuring from one 20-yard to the other 20-yard line.
 - (i) It would take almost 5,000 52" flat panel TVs to equal the size, it contains 30 million light bulbs, weighs 1.2 million pounds and cost roughly $40 million.
 - 1. Click here for other fun stats on the world's largest 1080p video board
 - (b) Sports Business Journal reports that the Colorado Rockies, in celebration of the team's 25th season as a MLB franchise, installed a new scoreboard that was shaped like a mountain range, 258 percent larger than the previous board and paired with a new sound system

- ii. Venue upgrades and new construction often focus on viewing angles and improving sightlines to ensure fans can see the action no matter where they are sitting or standing
 - (a) Last year, TPC Sawgrass (a PGA Tour golf course in Florida) underwent a 6-month $50 million renovation with a goal of improving the fan experience – enhancements included:
 - (i) A shaded bleacher area with sight lines to multiple holes
 - (ii) Food and dining areas that feature local cuisine
 - (iii) An improved grand entrance-way, highlighting the grandiose main clubhouse
 - (iv) New mounding around a number of holes giving fans an elevated and less obstructed view of the action
 - 1. Click here for a brief video from the PGA Tour's website
- iii. Interactive technologies
 - (a) Mobile devices are not allowed at the PGA's U.S. Open, but fans onsite can still utilize social media through onsite CourseLink kiosks that enable visitors to use Twitter, take photos and share personalized messages through Facebook and Foursquare ¹⁰
 - (b) American Express introduced an innovative feature at a PGA Tour event with a program dubbed the "Course Curator," which enables Amex cardholders to customize their experience at the golf tournament by guiding them through the course and helping them to find their favorite golfers. "This has the potential to really change the golf-day experience for fans," said Barry Hyde, the USGA's chief marketing officer in an interview with the Sports Business Journal. ¹¹
 - (c) The Minnesota Twins feature a "Tweet Board" at Target Field, which shares tweets from Twins games via a large video board with the crowd during games
 - (d) The San Francisco Giants opened a sports "social media" café (called the "@Cafe") inside AT&T Park behind the centerfield wall where fans can view their own social media content from Twitter and Instagram on six, 55-inch screens, all while enjoying some coffee, recharging a smartphone and following "worldwide social media chatter about the team, players and all things Giants and Major League Baseball"
 - (e) In 2018, the Nashville Predators introduced an interactive "social green-screen board", allowing fans to pick different backdrops and take photos with friends with the photo being sent directly to their social media accounts
- iv. In-seat technology
 - (a) Minor league baseball's Round Rock Express offer a service that allows fans to order and pay for food and drinks from their smartphones. When the order is ready, a text message is sent back to the fan. Then, they pick it up at one of four stations at the stadium and skip waiting in line. ¹²
 - (i) Taking it one step further, fans attending New York Yankees and Dallas Cowboys games can now order food and drinks in their seats from a mobile app and have it delivered
 - (b) The San Francisco 49ers launched an app to be used at Levi's Stadium that can steer fans to the bathrooms and concessions with the shortest lines and the fastest routes out of parking lots.
- v. Ticketing technology

- (a) The Golden State Warriors now give fans the ability to upgrade their seats during the game using mobile devices, helping them to improve customer service and generating additional revenue while helping to move unsold ticket inventory ¹³
- (b) Prior to kicking off the 2019-20 NFL season, the University of California Golden Bears introduced a new ticketing system, aimed at improving the overall fan experience ¹⁴
 - (i) After analyzing data, the team recognized that most non-season ticket game attendees purchase seats last-minute, whether through the athletics department or secondary market
 - (ii) The “buy-as-you-go” system ensures fans get the best seats available without having to shop online, comparing ticket prices or spending time looking at seat locations
- d. Fan health and safety and protecting the team from liability
 - i. How might technology impact the fan experience in a post-pandemic world?
 - ii. Sports Business Journal offered a look at how technology might play a role in how sports and entertainment business professionals keep fans healthy and safe at venues throughout the industry
 - (a) Security / Liability
 - (i) Beginning with the purchase of a ticket on the app, fans would be presented with a liability waiver that assures the team that would release the team from liability should the fan contract any virus at the venue
 - (ii) The app would also provide fans with gate and security line assignments, and a range of times to arrive to venue entry points
 - (iii) Upon arrival, fans would receive temperature checks and be asked health screening questions prior to having their ticket scanned
 - (iv) Fans could then receive a Bluetooth-enabled device that they would be required to wear at all times while they are at the game that would allow stadium staff to track fan movement and help maintain safe social-distancing measures
 - (b) Cleaning and Sanitization
 - (i) Stadiums could consider the implementation of technology that can detect concealed weapons and crowd disturbances from parking lots to the seating bowl. It can also detect thermal elevated body temperature, lack of social distancing and perform contact tracing, which can help identify those who may have come in contact with an infected person.
 - (ii) Technology that can help sanitize venues will most certainly play a role in fan safety, along with improved equipment that can improve air quality at venues
 - 1. For example, technology called bipolar ionization that significantly improves air quality at venues, was incorporated into the $185 million renovation of Rocket Mortgage FieldHouse and is in the Texas Rangers’ new ballpark, Globe Life Park

Consider assigning a slight variation of the existing “Stadium Project” (located in the “Activities and Projects” folder) here. Rather than asking them to come up with a stadium development strategy, position this as a capital improvement project. Instead of building a new venue, task them with focusing on upgrades to an existing facility.

How might technology play a role in the improvements? What ticket sales concepts from unit 9 might translate to this project? How might they be able to improve the overall fan experience with a stadium upgrade strategy?

 INSTRUCTOR’S NOTE ***

A PDF document entitled “Unit 10 Student Handout – StadiumsRaceToDigitize” provides an excellent case study on ways venues and facilities are scrambling to implement technology to keep pace with fan demands. It could be used as a supplement to this lesson (or unit as a whole) in many ways, either as a case study, discussion topic, activity or even extra credit!

2. Proactively controlling environment

a. Monitoring alcohol consumption

- i. Less than 40 of the roughly 120 largest NCAA Division 1 schools allow the sale of alcohol inside their stadiums and many limit sales to luxury suites, lounges or club-seating areas ¹⁵
- ii. Many teams staff members in place dedicated to monitoring tweets and gauging fan behavior on game days to help prevent issues from arising
- iii. Because of the increase in complaints about intoxicated patrons disrupting fellow fans' viewing of the game, the Los Angeles Dodgers took the drastic step of placing a ban on tailgating prior to all home games ¹⁶
 - (a) Organizations can gain a better understanding of fan behavior prior to an event taking place and make adjustments to staffing accordingly. For example, statistically Boston Bruins fans consume 30 percent more alcohol at the Boston Garden than Celtics fans do. As a result, management at the arena may choose to implement measures that can help them to proactively manage a potentially rowdier crowd. ¹⁷
- iv. Much to the disappointment of fans who enjoyed a slightly different atmosphere at a PGA sanctioned golf event, the Tour imposed a ban at the

Waste Management Phoenix Open on players throwing things to fans (previously a tournament tradition) as a means for improving both player and fan safety at the event

- v. 2019, the Buffalo Bills announced changes in their tailgating policy, requiring fans who arrive on buses with plans to tailgate to purchase a package along with their parking pass
 - (a) To better manage the experience, the franchise created a "Tailgate Village" which charges around $15 per person for fans that want to tailgate in the designated area, hoping the addition of the fee will keep unruly fans from the stadium
 - (b) The team's vice president of operations and guest experience explained the decision to the Buffalo News: "Our No. 1 concern as an organization is fan safety. When you're seeing what was happening in the bus lot the last couple seasons, especially last year, it gets very concerning. It's dangerous behavior, not just negative fan behavior. It's dangerous to security, the sheriffs and staff who are trying to police things."
- b. Fan safety
 - i. Understanding the intense rivalry between fans of the Portland Timbers and Seattle Sounders, management for both respective MLS clubs limited the number of tickets available for sale to the opposing team at its home games (seating all opposing fans in a section inaccessible to home fans) in an effort to curtail any potential confrontations during the game
 - ii. This season, the Chicago White Sox became the first MLB team to extend protective netting all the way from one foul pole to the other to better protect fans from the risk of being hit by foul balls
 - (a) The Washington Nationals also debuted an extended protective netting in 2019, but not covering as much area as the White Sox netting
- c. Lines and wait times
 - i. It is incumbent upon an organization to consider factors like parking and lines for bathrooms and concessions as part of the overall fan experience while developing strategies for improving those dynamics at events
 - (a) For example, Arrowhead Stadium (home to the NFL's Kansas City Chiefs) recently renovated the stadium to expand the concourse to reduce congestion, increase the number of concessions stands (and diversify the food offerings), and add more bathrooms, all with the intent of improving the overall fan experience
 - (b) Recognizing that long lines at concessions areas have a negative impact on the fan experience (and reduces potential for maximizing sales), food providers are now exploring creative advances in technology for self-serve concessions stations and using research data to support the reconfiguration of food stands in stadiums
 - (i) According to a study released in 2019, 72% of U.S. sports fans typically buy food when attending a game and 76% buy a drink yet lines at concessions lines restrict the ability to maximize food and beverage sales: 59% of respondents of the same survey said they would spend more on food and drinks if teams and venues could improve speed of service ¹⁸
 - (ii) Mercedes-Benz Stadium, home to the NFL Atlanta Falcons, which opened in 2017, features 670 different concessions locations (65% more than what the team had in the Georgia Dome) to help provide easier access for hungry fans

1. Concessions cost an exact dollar amount, so fans don't have to deal with coins and soda refill stations will be self-serve and separate from ordering lines
2. Falcons owner Arthur Blank said the aim was to produce a "unique fan experience" that would allow game attendees to focus on the game and not become frustrated with concession inconveniences
- (iii) This season, the Los Angeles Dodgers debuted the services of "Flippy", a burger flipping robot, to help the kitchen staff quickly prepare foods ranging from burgers to tater tots and fried chicken
 1. Click here for a YouTube video of "Flippy" in action
- (iv) The New York Mets unveiled a new bio-tech enabled self-checkout feature at Citi Field last season, enabling fans to purchase concessions items at kiosks with a single touch
- d. Every detail is important, including the gameday sights and sounds that influence the overall fan experience
 - i. The Seattle Seahawks game day staff includes a combination of engineers, directors, producers, editors and more in a "control room" with the sole responsibility of enhancing the gameday experience
 - (a) According to Geekwire, the staff is responsible for showing different angles of live action, instant replays, highlights from other games, advertisements, and miscellaneous video content before, during and after the game
 - ii. Managing the game or event day environment is challenging because not all fans want the exact same experience
 - (a) For example, Notre Dame, who have sold out every home football game dating back to 1973, struggles to find ways to appease a fan base that is conflicted as to whether they should sit or stand throughout the game
 - (i) Click here to see how the University trains stadium ushers to handle the situation on game days
 - iii. In 2018, the Baltimore Ravens dropped concessions prices to include $3 hot dogs and $6 burgers, recognizing the influence affordability can have on the overall fan experience
 - (a) The Baltimore Sun reports that the new "Flock Friendly Fare" initiative lowered prices on 21 of the most popular menu items with an average decrease of 33 percent while favorites like pretzels and fries were reduced by 53 percent. No single item was listed at over $9 as part of the team's new effort to create a more affordable game day experience.
 - iv. Failure to proactively control the environment and manage the experience can result in a shift in consumer perceptions
 - (a) After a parking lot shooting following a San Francisco 49ers and Oakland Raiders pre-season game in 2011, USA Today conducted a poll online, asking fans whether stadium violence would impact their decision to attend a game. 35% of participants responded that it would. ¹⁹
 - (b) After several injuries (including two deaths), Major League Baseball faced a lot of scrutiny for their stadium safety regulations
 - (i) In 2018 the league responded, announcing all 30 Major League Baseball teams extended the protective netting at ballparks to help protect fans in field level seats from low-flying foul balls and broken bats
- e. Communicating expectations for fan behavior
 - i. NFL commissioner Roger Goodell issued of a "Code of Fan Conduct" policy which prohibits, among other things, "unruly, disruptive, or illegal" behavior; "drunkenness" resulting in "irresponsible" behavior; and "foul or abusive language or obscene gestures.” The code also proscribes “verbal or physical” harassment of opposing teams' fans.²⁰

- (a) The NFL extended the policy even further, requiring any fan who gets kicked out of an NFL stadium for unruly behavior to take a $75 four-hour online class and pass a code-of-conduct test before being allowed to attend another NFL game
- ii. NBA arenas, like the Moda Center in Portland, Oregon, have the league's “Fan Code of Conduct” posted in many locations around the building
- iii. Most organizations will also post expectations of fan conduct on their websites
 - (a) Click here to see Major League Soccer's fan code of conduct policy
 - (b) Click here to see the Denver Bronco's RESPECT: Fan Code of Conduct
- f. After the COVID-19 pandemic, industry professionals expect fans will see a vastly different approach to how organizations manage the overall spectator experience
 - i. The “new normal” at sports stadiums around the world could include fan safety features like temperature checks and staggered entry at the gate, cashless concessions, and touchless ticketing
 - (a) According to Sports Business Journal, fans could even receive specially issued coronavirus immunity cards with a separate entrance that allows them to bypass lines that typically form at the gate
 - (b) Industry professionals also project that an entirely new industry segment could be created if teams and organizations if and when infectious disease specialists were required to be on staff while sanitization experts would need to be consulted at venues to insure fan and player/staff safety at arenas, stadiums and ballparks
 - (i) By May of 2020, the NBA had already begun instructing its franchises to assign a training facility hygiene officer role as teams looked to return to practice facilities
- 3. Game Operations
 - a. Game operations provide an effective vehicle for an organization to manage, control and enhance the fan experience
 - i. The Green Bay Packers game-day staff is heralded for creating one of the best atmospheres in all of sports, and their strategic game day plan is detailed down to every minute of the game
 - (a) Click here to see more about how the Packers plan for game days from the Green Bay Press-Gazette
- 4. Several rankings are published each year with opinions on the best fan and/or stadium experience
 - a. Click here to see which NBA arenas offer the best fan experience, according to fans (via Business Insider)
 - b. Click here to read “From the dumps to the best game-day experiences the league can offer, here is Sporting News' ranking of all 31 NFL stadiums” at SportingNews.com.

Lesson 10.2

What are Game Operations?

- A. The term game operations refers to the planning, organization and execution of game production, presentation, entertainment and promotion
 1. The game operations process begins in the creative minds of sports marketing professionals before any games are played
 2. This process includes the development of a game plan for incorporating all the elements of game entertainment
 - a. National Anthem
 - b. Pre-game groups
 - c. Half-time entertainment
 - d. Execution of promotions
 - e. Dance team and stunt team integration
 - f. Mascot coordination
 - g. Managing any additional entertainment such as in-arena blimps
 3. The role of game entertainment in the sports business model is two-fold
 - a. Enhance the experience for the fans while keeping them involved throughout the entire event
 - i. Erik Spanberg of the Sports Business Journal explains in a post on sportsbusinessdaily.com: "Now more than ever, fans want to be entertained throughout each step of game day. And much of what they want is a place to gather; to see and be seen. A place to sip on custom cocktails and craft beers; to munch on traditional and nontraditional snacks; to listen to a DJ or live music and then glance up at television screens showing highlights and broadcasts of other games in progress. If they can't have all of that, and comfortably, then they'll go to a sports bar or stay home and have a party with friends while watching the main event on a 70-inch, high-definition TV."
 - b. The show actually starts hours before the game when the events that will take place are scripted out and shared with anyone who will be a part of the process, whether it is a mascot skit, a promotion during a break in the action or pre-game announcements read by the public address announcer
 - c. Game entertainment creates opportunities to generate revenue by adding additional valuable inventory to include as part of sponsorship packages
 - i. It also helps generate revenue by helping to sell more tickets
 4. Game day staff
 - a. To execute and implement each element of the game operations plan, an organization typically has a game day staff in place
 - b. The Boston Red Sox staff features a General Manager of in-game entertainment who is responsible for overseeing a crew that includes a DJ to run the music, seven people to edit the replays and type out the graphics that appear on the video scoreboard, two additional people who control an additional video board and four people running video cameras around the park ²¹
 - c. Software programs like "Sound Director" and Total Sports Entertainment's "Game Time Pro" make it easier for teams to manage game operations and entertainment
- B. Why are game operations important?
 1. Successful game operations can help the organization achieve its goals
 - a. Driving ticket sales
 - b. Increasing sponsorship sales opportunities
 - c. Generating publicity

- i. To generate buzz for a home game, the Minnesota Wild brought in a member of the St. Paul SWAT team to rappel from the ceiling and drop the ceremonial puck
 - d. Assisting in customer service
 - e. Enhancing the overall event experience, regardless of the game's outcome
- 2. Game operations also provide game attractiveness ²²
 - a. Game attractiveness refers to the customer's perception of the event as a whole
 - b. Game attractiveness is a situational factor that varies from game to game and week to week
 - c. Event variables that contribute to game attractiveness
 - i. Highly visible star athletes (Bryce Harper, Aaron Rodgers, Skylar Diggins-Smith, Alex Ovechkin, etc.)
 - ii. Team record / opponent record
 - iii. Opening day
 - iv. Giveaways
 - v. Presence of mascots, dance teams and cheerleaders
 - (a) According to a SportsBusiness Journal survey, all but 20 of the 122 teams in the NFL, NBA, NHL and MLB have at least one mascot character, collectively they have a total of 166 characters (racing sausages, pierogies and big-headed retired players) while the 106 affiliated Minor League Baseball clubs that responded reported 192 mascot characters ²³
 - (b) In 2014, the Cleveland Browns made the decision to introduce a live dog (a bullmastiff) named "Swagger" as a mascot after years of having a costumed mascot at games

 DISCUSSION IDEA / TRIVIA ***

Trivia #1: Few NFL teams have live animal mascots. In fact, other than the Cleveland Browns, just four other teams have them: The Seattle Seahawks with Taima the Hawk, the Denver Broncos' horse named Thunder II, the Baltimore Ravens and their two ravens, Rise and Conquer, and the Kansas City Chiefs' horse, Warpaint.

Trivia #2: Just two North American teams have real, human mascots (not in a caricature costume). Who are they? Ragnar, the Minnesota Vikings mascot and Lucky the Leprechaun of the Boston Celtics.

* INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE *

- vi. Prominent half time entertainment (Blues Brothers, The Extreme Dunk Team, Quick Change etc.)
- vii. Pre and post-game concerts
- viii. T-shirt canons
- ix. Fireworks and other entertainment

 - 1. For the Eagles, the stadium offered a South Philly roast pork sandwich and for the Patriots, they added a New England clam roll to the menu
 - (iv) MLB’s “London Series” in 2019 between the Yankees and Red sox featured some of the league’s more notable dishes while offering some items that paid tribute to England’s culinary scene:
 - 1. The Boomstick – A 2-foot-long hot dog covered in braised beef American chili, jalapeno cheese sauce, tomato & chili relish, spring onions, jalapenos

 - (i) Among the new items appearing on stadium menus in the last two seasons:
 1. Generating more buzz than any perhaps other concessions item at MLB ballparks in recent memory was the Seattle Mariners' introduction of toasted grasshoppers (dusted with a chili-lime seasoning) at Safeco Field
 - a. They sold more than 18,000 orders during the first series of the season last year
 - b. Click here for a visually stunning look at the popular Seattle snack from ESPN
 2. MiLB's Erie Seawolves hosted a theme night called "Sugar Rush Night", putting a cotton candy hot dog on the menu (a hot dog, wrapped in a cotton candy bun, and sprinkled with nerds candy on top)
 3. Prior to the COVID-19 shutdown, MLB stadiums were set to offer plenty of crazy options in 2020, including such "culinary delights" as the Detroit Tigers' "Chicken Churro Sandwich" (chicken tender topped with Michigan maple syrup on a churro bun), the Texas Rangers' "Rattler" (rattlesnake sausage drizzled with "venom sauce") and the Milwaukee Brewers' "Greek Fry" (fries topped with gyro meat, tzatziki sauce, feta crumbles and diced tomatoes)
 - a. Click here for CBS Sports' rundown of the best MLB stadium foods in 2019
 - b. Click here for some of the crazy concessions items the Texas Rangers will offer when they open their new stadium

 - (ii) According to ESPN, anyone who finished the seven-pound "burger" in under an hour would win a jersey and his or her photo on the video board inside the stadium

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

So how exactly do these teams determine which concessions items to offer? Where do they find the inspiration for creative ways to present specialty items (like nachos served in a batting helmet)? USA Today's "For the Win" provided a great behind-the-scenes look at how the Chicago White Sox catering staff prepares their menu for a new season.

In addition to provide a fun story to share in class, the article discusses the role fan feedback plays in their decision-making. This provides a great way to reinforce some of the lessons already covered in class and is one of the most important principles helping drive the business of sports and entertainment.

 As a reminder, please read/review the article before sharing with students to determine whether it is appropriate for your classroom. Click here to read the story.*

- (d) Offering quirky concessions offerings help sports teams at all levels generate publicity for the franchise
 - (i) McCormick Field in North Carolina (home of the Asheville Tourists) offered a concessions item featuring fried chicken and french fries in a waffle cone, smothered with a choice of maple syrup or nacho cheese
 - (ii) As part of their "Halfway to Halloween" promotion, the Fresno Grizzlies served up the "Frankenslice", a pizza with full hot dogs baked into the crust
 - (iii) Minor League Baseball held a "#FoodFight" competition online and on Twitter, allowing fans to vote for their favorite ballpark concessions items
 - 1. The winner was Round Rock Express' "Lava Rock Fire and Ice", a beef tenderloin and shrimp dish cooked on actual lava rock, which edged out the New Hampshire Fisher Cats' "Squealer" sandwich
 - a. Click here to see a complete list of the contest entries
 - (iv) Last season, the Wisconsin Timber Rattler's held a "Food Fight" competition of their own (the 4th annual), asking fans to weigh in on several new recipes (submitted by fans) to determine what new food item would permanently appear on the stadium menu
 - 1. The fans voted the "Almighty Pork Sandwich" (a grilled brat cut in half, topped with BBQ pulled pork, melted Swiss cheese, peppered bacon, red pepper jelly, and fried pickles served on an onion roll) as the best new item, beating out a Mushroom & Swiss Steak Sandwich, BBQ Pulled Pork Chippers, Grilled Mac & Cheese Sandwich, and Grilled BBQ Mac & Cheese

- a. The promotion generated a lot of publicity for the Timber Rattlers with the big reveal announced on Facebook Live with a food and drink reporter for the USA Today Network
- (e) Broadway shows have caught on to the concession crave – Sweet Hospitality Group works with theatres to offer patrons unique food and drink depending on the show
 - (i) Click here to read how Sweet Hospitality Group has re-invented theatre's concessions sales strategy from inc.com

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Challenge students to come up with their own concessions menu that they would serve at a sports or entertainment event. How much will they charge for the items? Will they have any outlandish concessions items like the food mentioned above? What will it be called?

3. Traditions (seventh inning stretch, throwing out the first pitch etc.)

 - i. PGA Tour stars Jordan Speith and Zach Johnson threw out the first pitches for the Texas Rangers and Chicago Cubs, respectively, in 2015 and made a $5,000 wager on who would throw the best pitch (with the money going to charity). ESPN’s SportsCenter was responsible for crowning the champion (Speith).
 - ii. Actors Will Ferrell and Zach Galifianakis ate deep dish pizza on the mound after throwing out the first pitch at a Cubs game (in a great example of cross promotion as they were promoting the film “The Campaign”) while they also read starting lineups for each team and included some “little-known facts” about the players
 - iii. Click here to see an infographic from Washington Post analyzing the best and worst first pitches from celebrities over the years

 - i. Click here to see the list

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

The concept of "traditions" provides a great opportunity for class discussion. To enhance the discussion in class, consider passing out the "traditions" student handout (a past SCC blog post) in the folder marked "Lesson 10.1". After reviewing the handout, distribute the "traditions" assignment.

 DISCUSSION IDEA / TRIVIA ***

Ask students how many of the aforementioned traditions they have heard of before? Can they think of any that are not mentioned? Are there any local traditions with high schools or colleges? Do you think you could start a tradition? Why or why not?

Lesson 10.3

Role of Game Operations in Sports Marketing

- A. Game operations is an integral activity within the framework of a successful sports marketing organization as it can effectively assist the business in many areas
1. Ticket sales & attendance
 - a. Keeps fans entertained throughout the event, increasing the likelihood that they will return for another game
 - i. As technology continues to evolve and the at-home viewing experience improvise, sports teams feel more pressure to create an experience that trumps the experience of enjoying a game from the comfort of a fan's own home
 - (a) According to the San Francisco Gate, the 49ers built Levi's Stadium with the game day experience in mind, understanding that they have to compete for the attention of fans who could watch from the comfort of their homes, with kitchens, bathrooms and laptops within easy reach
 - b. Provides game "attractiveness" which is a factor that directly influences game attendance
 - i. The level of consumer perceived values increases when the game or event features additional entertainment and promotion ²³
 - c. Game operations include numerous connections to ticket sales promotions within the event. For example, a team may host a "Hawaiian Night", offering $5 off tickets to any fans wearing tropical shirts to the game. Game operations may choose to implement:
 - i. An all staff memo or email, encouraging them to dress in tropical attire if they plan to attend the game
 - ii. National anthem performed by a Hawaiian musician or steel drum band
 - iii. Hawaiian lei give-away to the first 500 fans through the gate
 - iv. A limbo contest at a quarter break
 - v. Hawaiian music or bands on the venue concourse
 - vi. A hammock free throw shooting contest at half time
 - vii. Hawaiian themed food at concessions stands

Divide your class into groups or pairs. Have each group come up with a game or event promotion idea, then develop strategies for integrating ticket sales, sponsorship, publicity and in-game entertainment in conjunction with the promotion. Have them create some visual aids to support their promotion and present their ideas in class.

2. Sponsorship
 - a. Adds value to sponsorship packages
 - b. Creates new inventory available to sell
 - c. Assists in the fulfillment aspect of a client sponsorship package

- i. For example, a team may sell a sponsorship for their “Hawaiian Night”. As part of the sponsorship package, game operations may be responsible for fulfilling several elements which could include:
 - (a) PA announcements throughout the game announcing “Hawaiian Night”, sponsored by ABC Travel
 - (b) A trip to Hawaii giveaway, presented by ABC Travel
 - (c) Special on court promotions
 - (d) Signage
- 3. Publicity
 - a. A successful event will also help generate community “buzz” surrounding the team
 - i. In addition to talking about the outcome of the game, fans may discuss the entertaining half-time act and the free coupon for a burger they won when the team scored 100 points
 - b. Publicity can be used to help promote future events
 - i. The Vancouver Whitecaps (MLS) enjoyed tremendous success with a “dime dog night” event, and later tweeted “10,866 hot dogs consumed tonight for dime dog night! Next one is July 31. #wcaps” to promote a future game
 - c. Special game entertainment promotions are communicated to fans through a variety of channels
 - i. Minor League Baseball’s Charlotte StoneCrabs scheduled an appearance from Santa Claus to visit the ballpark and entertain fans for their “Christmas in August” promotion. The special appearance was communicated via press releases, the team’s advertising and through their social media channels. ²⁴
 - d. Communications professionals are typically responsible for creating a connection between the team and the media, including the facilitation of access to players and coaches for interviews and providing game notes (statistics, information regarding the opponent etc.) for the media
- 4. Customer Service
 - a. Game operations affords organizations an excellent opportunity to effectively serve customers
 - b. Examples
 - i. Recognizing long-time season ticket holders on the Jumbotron

 INSTRUCTOR’S NOTE ***

The use of the word “jumbotron” provides an excellent branding example...Jumbotrons are actually manufactured by Sony, although the term is synonymous among sports fans as a scoreboard type apparatus within stadiums and other facilities.

- ii. Birthday greetings to season ticket holders over the PA
- iii. Special congratulatory announcements on the scoreboard

- c. Ultimately, customer service is about retention and keeping fans coming back for more
 - i. To achieve a high level of retention, game operations and entertainment staff must understand fan tastes and distastes, game situations and the atmosphere of the event as whole in an effort to help fans to enjoy the game or event experience in its entirety
 - (a) The Pittsburgh Pirates' producer and director of in-game entertainment explains the music selection being played during at games at PNC Park: *"We always try to have one or two very contemporary songs -- something on the iTunes most-downloaded list, something in the Top 10. Then, one or two good rock songs from the '80s or '90s. One or two classic rock songs -- this is Pittsburgh; everyone loves the classic rock -- and one or two oldies. We try to cover all the bases -- no pun intended."*²⁵

Game Promotion & Entertainment:

A Unit 10 SEM Case Study

Following the departure of super star Michael Jordan, the NBA's Chicago Bulls suffer dismal season after dismal season. Although the franchise finished last in their division the next four seasons, the team still managed to sell out most United Center home games, often playing to capacity crowds of over 22,000. In fact, the team sold out every home game in 1998-99 and 1999-2000, despite losing more than 70% of their games.¹

How do they do it? The strategy, according to Steve Schanwald, the Bulls' Executive Vice President of Business Operations, is to "keep the fans distracted...it's a 48-minute game but the fans are here for two hours."² The entertainment is all encompassing and can take on many forms, including more than 1,000 different songs pumping over the speaker system, more than 50 television and movie clips (including John Belushi in "Animal House" and Bart from "The Simpsons"), a dance team (The Luva-Bulls), a break dancing team (The BreakaBulls), a male spirit team (The IncrediBulls) and inflatable mascots (InflataBulls). The game entertainment staff also has a number of on-court promotions to keep fans engaged throughout the contest. One such promotion, the "Dunkin' Donuts Race", is a fan favorite. The race is animated on the score-board and features "Dashing Donut", "Biggie Bagel", and "Cuppy Coffee", and fans holding the coupon featuring the winner of the race have the opportunity to redeem the coupon at a local Dunkin' Donuts for a free doughnut.

In addition to the entertainment provided on the court and in the arena, the Bulls strive to keep the entertainment experience alive throughout the stadium. According to Jeff Wohlschlaeger, Bulls Director of Game Operations, the team likes to entertain fans "from the moment they enter the building." To do that, the United Center concourse must maintain a consistent level of excitement. The Bulls feature a theme for each home game (such as Mardi Gras) and live entertainment acts will perform throughout the concourse.

Case Study Questions

- 1.) Do you think the Chicago Bulls overall success in ticket sales is contingent upon wins and losses on the court? Why or why not?
- 2.) The Bulls have effectively implemented a plan for keeping fans entertained. Do you think other sports teams share the same philosophy on keeping fans involved? Why or why not?
- 3.) Do you think the game operations efforts create other opportunities to generate revenue outside of ticket sales (sponsorship etc.)? Provide an example.

Unit 10 Discussion Question Review

Have you participated in any events that have relied on some type of marketing to attract consumer attendance?

Answers could include:

- Any local festivals
- Any local sporting events
- Any local entertainment events
- Beach volleyball tournament
- Independent film festival
- Music festival
- Shakespeare or other theatre festivals

Overview

The topics covered in unit eleven introduce the various components of sports and entertainment communications including publicity, public relations, community relations and media relations. A key concept discussed is the integration of publicity with the sponsorship component of the sports and entertainment business model, as well as aligning publicity plans with promotional and sales efforts. Unit eleven also examines the various methods organizations employ to effectively communicate information about their products and services with customers, media and fans.

Objectives

- 1) Explain why sports and entertainment communications are important
- 2) Define publicity
- 3) Differentiate between publicity, public relations, media relations and community relations
- 4) Identify the three approaches to media relations
- 5) Describe the three ways community relations programs are implemented
- 6) Name the six functions of sports and entertainment communications

 - 1. The world of public relations has changed drastically, especially for entertainers whose careers are based on gaining and keeping public opinion
 - 2. How else has technology and the Internet shifted trends in the entertainment business climate? ²
 - a. Musicians can now start a career entirely over the Internet using a web site and a strategic online marketing plan

 - ii. Internet radio stations like Pandora and YouTube offer music "discovery" services to help aspiring artists launch their careers ³
 - iii. Justin Bieber was originally "discovered" by a talent executive on YouTube when he was searching for new talent online. Pop stars Justin Timberlake and Usher would later engage in a bidding war to sign Bieber (he eventually signed with Usher). ⁴
 - (a) Since then, other artists like Tori Kelly, Soulja Boy, Lana Del Rey and The Weeknd have launched their careers through YouTube
 - iv. Shawn Mendes launched his pop career in six seconds...by posting a clip to Vine, a now defunct video sharing app that only allowed six second videos
 - x. In 2019, Lil' Nas X broke the record for most consecutive weeks at the top of the Billboard charts with his breakout song (featuring Billy Ray Cyrus), "Old Town Road"
 - (a) The song debuted on the popular social media platform, TikTok
 - (b) Lil' Nas X attributes strategic marketing to his success, even posting on Twitter, "the rumors are true i am a marketing genius"

 - 4. Rihanna (97.7m followers)
 - 5. Taylor Swift (86.7m followers)
 - ii. At times, an artists' social media following can be as important as their talent in terms of attracting attention from directors and fans
 - (a) Said veteran casting director Mike Fenton in an interview with thewrap.com, *"There is no question that today if you have good numbers on social media, you have become a better choice to be cast. It would behoove actors to generate a social media presence."*⁵
- c. Movie studio executives have the ability to place movie trailers online for people to download or stream in an effort to promote upcoming films
 - i. Consumers can watch trailers for upcoming films like the highly anticipated 2020 releases of 'TENET', 'Black Widow', or 'Wonder Woman - 1984'
 - (a) By August of 2020, the 'TENET' trailer had already been viewed almost 29 million times on YouTube while the official trailer for 'Wonder Woman -1984' had been viewed 34 million times and 'Black Widow' 44 million times
- d. Fans can discuss topics surrounding their favorite entertainers and celebrities on web sites like www.IMDB.com and read movie reviews with apps like Rotten Tomatoes
- e. Sports and entertainment organizations have embraced technology and social media as an additional means for communicating information to fans
 - i. For example, a baseball team might turn to social platforms like Twitter to keep fans updated during rain delays
- 3. The instant accessibility provided by social media applications like Twitter can pose challenges for sports and entertainment communications professionals
 - a. Sports and entertainment organizations have less control now over the flow of information between the organization and its fans
 - i. In one of the first examples of a sports star bypassing traditional communication channels (like press conferences and press releases), legendary Yankees captain Derek Jeter announced that he would be retiring via Facebook⁶
 - (a) Click here to read the transcript of the official announcement posted on Jeter's Facebook page

- b. Athletes and celebrities now enjoy a unique platform to communicate directly with fans, providing a medium for delivering unfiltered opinions and dialogue
 - i. For example, Beyoncé announced she was pregnant via Instagram
 - ii. Instead of relying on traditional media channels, social media platforms allow athletes to tell their side of the story on their own terms
- c. Social media can also create headaches for both the organization and/or the athlete/celebrity when the individual posts a controversial message
 - i. Just before the 2016 NFL Draft began, a picture was tweeted from Laremy Tunsil's own account of the prospect smoking something out of a gas mask while images of text messages asking his assistant athletic director at Ole Miss for money were posted to his Instagram feed (his account was hacked), leading to a tumble down the draft board
 - (a) According to Fortune, Tunsil's draft day slide cost the NFL rookie between $8 and $13 million based on the lower draft position (he was projected to be selected between picks 3 and 6 but fell to the Miami Dolphins at pick 13)

 - iii. Swimmer Ryan Lochte posted an incriminating photo of himself with an IV infusion with a caption suggesting the activity was helping him to recover after a workout, prompting an investigation that resulted in a 14 month ban from competition

 - (i) Collectively, their entire catalogs (all of their music) experienced an 893 percent sales gain while on-demand streams (audio and video combined) jumped 193%
2. In the world of sports and entertainment communication, publicity is generated and defined by three primary components
 - a. Public relations
 - b. Media relations
 - c. Community relations
3. Publicity is essentially a by-product of those three components
4. Organizations use publicity as a vehicle to increase sales
5. Disadvantages of publicity

 - i. For example, the New York Times may give a film a negative review, discouraging consumers from purchasing tickets and going to the theater
 - b. Perceived as more credible than advertising

B. Public relations

1. Public relations are activities that promote the image and communications an organization has with its employees, customers and public ⁹

 - ii. Organizations will often strategically launch a media blitz as way to support a sales or marketing effort
 - (a) In the lead up to the 2018 Ryder Cup, the PGA Tour launched a media blitz that sent team captain Jim Furyk on a 9,000-mile, 14-city trophy tour beginning at Yankee Stadium (the Team USA captain took the championship trophy from the last Ryder Cup to each stop) ¹²

- 4. What effect on an organization can media relations have? How can publicity and the media impact a sports or entertainment brand?
 - a. A perception exists that the media tends to seek out and report stories with negative connotations implicating sports and entertainment organizations, celebrities and athletes
 - b. Many factors influence this journalistic tendency
 - i. Inflated contracts of athletes and entertainers (some which have a tendency to flaunt their riches)
 - (a) In 2020, the Kansas City Chiefs signed to their star quarterback, Patrick Mahomes, to the richest contract in NFL history, providing him with the opportunity to earn $503 million over the span of the ten-year deal
 - (i) Over the course of his contract, Mahomes will make $137,808 per day. According to the latest figures, the median household income in the U.S. was $61,372 per year.

 - 1. The only other athletes to surpass $1 billion in career earnings are Michael Jordan and Tiger Woods
 - 2. In 2017, Mayweather was also under investigation by the IRS as they claimed he owed over $22 million in back taxes from 2015

 - (d) Forbes reported that the world’s 100 highest-paid athletes banked a cumulative $3.6 billion last year, down 9% from the previous year, representing the first time that figure has dropped in four years (due in large part to the pandemic’s impact on the business of sports and entertainment) ¹⁴
 - (i) Click here for the complete rankings in 2020
 - (e) The Boston Red Sox traveled to Europe for their 2019 “London Series” games vs. the Yankees in style, reportedly chartering the most luxurious private plane in the world

 - (i) However, the Los Angeles Lakers (a franchise valued at $4.4 billion according to Forbes latest rankings of the most valuable teams in sports) applied for, and received, a $4.6 million loan from the federal government as part of the program
 1. Recognizing the negative publicity that the loan would create for the franchise, the team did return the money. According to CNN, a Lakers spokesperson said in a statement: “The Lakers qualified for and received a loan under the Payroll Protection Program. However, once we found out the funds from the program had been depleted, we repaid the loan so that financial support would be directed to those most in need. The Lakers remain completely committed to supporting both our employees and our community.” ¹⁵
- ii. Gambling
- (a) In 2016, a huge scandal rocked the tennis world when two Italian players, Daniele Bracciali and Potito Starace, were accused of criminally conspiring to fix at least two matches for an illegal gambling ring

- (c) Officials say the illegal betting market generates hundreds of billions of dollars every year, and the International Olympic Committee goes to great lengths to prevent events from being “fixed.” Sports betting is perfectly legal in the United Kingdom and is considered a legitimate part of the national economy but, in 2012, the country’s gambling establishments partnered with government officials leading up to the London Games to report and prevent any event fixing. The BBC reported that Olympic organizers also set up an intelligence team to monitor suspicious betting patterns and tip the government with any information on individuals that may have attempted to fix Olympic events.¹⁷
- (d) The 2018 legalization of sports gambling in the United States has organizations at all levels debating how concerned they should be about the potential of compromised integrity of their respective sports
- (e) In 2019, the coach who led Nigeria to two Olympic Games medals has been banned for life by FIFA for agreeing to receive bribes to fix soccer matches

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Ask students how (or if) they think the legalization of could change the industry. Who stands to gain from the new law? Who might be influenced negatively? Do they think we will see examples of match fixing or point shaving? Considering the potential for gambling addiction, is it ethical to allow the practice of betting on sports? USA Today had a great story offering some perspective on the influence betting could have on college sports. Consider sharing the story (click here for the article) in class and discussing the merits of legalized sports gambling with your students.

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Have students select their favorite athlete or entertainer, then use the Internet to find out if they have a foundation or if they are affiliated with a cause. If not, have them keep researching until they find one. Ask them to bring a short essay to class and share as much information as they can about their research. Then ask them if the research has inspired them to become involved at any level with the cause.

Alternatively, divide the class into groups or pairs, and have each team select a favorite charity or cause and create a campaign to generate publicity and raise awareness for the cause. Encourage them to link their efforts to an athlete or celebrity foundation as a way to help amplify the message.

 - c. Crisis management often includes a strong focus on public relations to recover any damage to public image and assure consumers that recovery is underway
 - d. According to Joe Favorito, sports media expert and author of the book Sports Publicity, the key to effective crisis management is keeping everyone on track, following the flow of information, working with public authorities and media who may

- not be familiar with your situation or practices, and having the organization speak with one voice when problems arise ⁴⁶
- e. Crisis management examples

 - (b) However, some were skeptical, wondering if the show and its "be kind" brand would ever recover

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Crisis management presents one of the biggest challenges for sports and entertainment organizations from a PR perspective. Carefully crafted messages can, and often do, come across as too scripted. Kneejerk reactions can be perceived as tone deaf, or unsympathetic. An effective crisis management plan will strike an effective balance that resonates with a fan base in a positive way.

In 2020, several sports and entertainment organizations made headlines for transgressions that necessitated a crisis management strategy. Select one of the stories below and discuss the organization's response, and how students think they should have responded. Alternatively, you might assign each story to groups of students and have each group develop a crisis management strategy and present their plans in class.

The Washington Football Team – The NFL franchise in Washington D.C., formerly the Washington Redskins, spent a lot of time in the news in 2020. In addition to the scrutiny surrounding the team's former nickname, the franchise was also investigated by the league for allegations of sexual harassment in the workplace.

Houston Astros – In response to a cheating scandal that rocked Major League Baseball, the Houston Astros organization held a press conference to issue public apologies. However, that plan backfired, creating even more animosity toward the franchise.

The 'Ellen' Show – A story broke reporting a “toxic” culture behind-the-scenes at ‘Ellen’, and the network launched an investigation, fired several executives, issued multiple apologies, and promised to improve the culture for employees in response.

Lesson 11.4

Integrating Publicity

 - 1. Many corporations (including those outside of the sports and entertainment industry view public relations as one all-encompassing arena that includes:
 - a. Promotion
 - b. Sponsorship and endorsement
 - c. Marketing
 - d. Sales
 - 2. Sports and entertainment organizations follow the same trend and integrate ticket sales to that mix
 - 3. Effectively integrating publicity within an organization's marketing strategy positions the rest of the organization for success
- B. Publicity affects many other critical components of the sports and entertainment business model
 - 1. Overall revenue
 - 2. Sales
 - a. The presence of negative publicity can have an adverse impact on sales
 - i. Statistically, consumers have shown a decline in willingness to support organizations who demonstrate an inability to effectively control or manage their image
 - ii. A combination of poor on-field performance and consistent negative publicity off the field resulted in an almost 8,000 fans per game drop in attendance for the 2011 Los Angeles Dodgers for the season ⁴⁹
 - (a) Under new ownership and a resurgence on the field, the Dodgers attendance rebounded in 2012, increasing by nearly 5,000 fans per game by the all-star break and by 2013, the team was leading the league in attendance

 - (b) With just two weeks prior to the start of the Paralympic Games (hosted in Rio right after the Olympic Games), only 12% of ticket inventory had been sold despite being priced at around $3 each
 - (i) Compare that to the Summer Games in 2012 when the London Paralympics attracted a nearly sold-out crowd
 - iv. In 2017, Wells Fargo pulled their sponsorship of the Iditarod (the world's most famous sled dog race)
 - (a) Event organizers speculated the decision was based on pressure created publicly by animal rights organizations
 - v. If a newly released film receives poor reviews from the New York Times or negative reviews through social platforms like Rotten Tomatoes, movie-goers are less likely to flock to the theatre to see it

- (a) Hoping to follow the formula that made Sony's '21 Jump Street' a box office success, Paramount enlisted Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson and Zac Efron to star in their 2017 adaptation of the popular television series, 'Baywatch' ⁵⁰
- (b) Unfortunately for the studio, sometimes negative publicity can trump even the best marketing and promotional efforts. The movie was crushed by critics and the film flopped.
 - (i) Hollywood Reporter explains: "The most striking difference between 21 'Jump Street' and 'Baywatch' was the critical reaction. The former, starring Channing Tatum and Jonah Hill, garnered an 85 percent fresh rating on Rotten Tomatoes, compared to a 19 percent rotten rating for 'Baywatch'." ⁵⁰
 1. "The reviews really hurt the film, which scored great in test screenings. We were all surprised," says Paramount's Megan Colligan, president of worldwide marketing and distribution. "It is a brand that maybe relied on a positive critical reaction more than we recognized. The cast could not have done more work in aggressively promoting Baywatch. Dwayne gave this 150 percent."
- (c) The negative publicity associated with 'Blackfish', a documentary drawing attention to SeaWorld's treatment of killer whales, was still eroding the theme park company's revenues four years after the film's release
 - (i) Despite a heavy investment in marketing and promotional efforts, the company has been unable to reverse the trend of declining attendance
 - (ii) Increases in marketing expenditures also contributed to declining profits
- b. On the flip side, positive publicity can result in a significant uptick in sales

 - (b) In 2018, in celebration of the 100th PGA Championship, event organizers expected to sell over $2 million in headwear merchandise at the tournament's merchandise shop alone
- iv. While the idea is not always true, in some cases "any publicity can be good publicity"
 - (a) While many were critical of LaVar Ball's approach to generating publicity leading up to the NBA Draft for his son Lonzo Ball, a standout basketball player at UCLA, the buzz surrounding their "Big Baller Brand" helped bring large crowds to the NBA's Summer League in 2017

- 4. Promotions
 - a. Some promotions can be offensive to some consumers

 - (a) The team promised that, upon entering the park, fans would receive a participation ribbon, stating in a news release: "We know it's a big feat to leave the safe confines of your home with Netflix beaconing you to stay on the couch, so the Legends are ready to congratulate fans on their accomplishment, even if they are still in sweatpants." ⁵³
 - b. Promotions may become too "gimmicky" or don't feel authentic and turn fans off to the product or backfire in a way that creates negative publicity
 - i. Woody Harrelson participated in one of Reddit's "Ask Me Anything" (AMA) threads, but the actor's answers infuriated the website's users as he attempted to promote his film, "Rampart." After Harrelson grew frustrated with fan questions and left the discussion, users called it "the worst AMA of all time" and an "epic fail by Woody Harrelson's PR machine." ⁵⁴
 - c. Publicity can help generate revenue in other ways through the implementation of creative promotions
 - i. The University of Notre Dame offers membership opportunities for kids 14 and younger to join "Clancy's Kids Club" for an annual fee of $15. Members receive, among other things, free admission to more than 100 Notre Dame athletic events each year, a newsletter, t-shirts, coupons and invitations to special kid's club events.⁵⁴

 - ii. Particular entertainment acts may be offensive to some fans
 - b. Game entertainment can also be a valuable source of positive word-of-mouth advertising

- 6. Merchandise
 - a. Sales of team, player, or celebrity related merchandise tends to slump in the wake of negative publicity
 - b. Positive publicity or associations can help increase merchandise sales

- i. When news broke that the New York Mets' would sign former Heisman trophy winning ex-NFL QB Tim Tebow to a minor league baseball contract, sales of jerseys bearing his name shot to #1 among Mets players on MLB's online store and #3 overall in just one day ⁵⁵

- B. Key strategies that should be included in any comprehensive publicity plan include:
 - 1. Identification of any specific information the organization intends to communicate
 - 2. A "hook" to make information newsworthy and grab the reader's immediate attention

 2. Publicity stunts can serve as an effective vehicle in generating public “buzz” surrounding an organization or athlete/entertainer
 - a. The PR agency responsible for marketing the film “Kong: Skull Island”, staged a creative stunt when they placed giant ape “footprints” in five separate locations around Los Angeles
 - i. To enhance the imagery and make the footprints look even more realistic, fog machines, broken chairs, crushed vehicles and scenic props were added to the sites to create the illusion that Kong had been wreaking havoc around town ⁶¹
 - b. To generate publicity for the start of their inaugural season, Ice Cube’s “Big 3” basketball league teamed up with the ad agency Wieden+Kennedy (representing Fox Sports, the official broadcaster of the upstart league) to take over an iconic basketball court in NYC and stage a four-point shooting contest ⁶²
 - i. Click here to see a video

 - ii. The stunt generated more publicity than the team had imagined (the tweet generated more than 15,000 retweets), but cost the franchise $10,000 (they selected one fan via Facebook Live as the lucky winner) ⁶⁴
 - e. In 2020, former “Jackass” star Steve-O literally taped himself to a Los Angeles area billboard outside a CVS to promote an upcoming comedy special, “Gnarly” (perhaps not coincidentally, a new Jackass movie is set to hit theaters in 2021)
 3. When spontaneous, publicity stunts pose a risk and could yield undesired results
 - a. From the USA Today: When U.S. luge slider Kate Hansen posted a video online questioning whether there was a wolf walking down her hallway in the Olympic Village (where athletes stay) during the 2014 Sochi Winter Games, it was part of a hoax involving talk show host Jimmy Kimmel. Hansen, who finished competing Feb. 11 and is staying at the Olympic village, tweeted a video Thursday morning with the hashtag #sochiproblems and #sochifail. The #sochiproblems hashtag was commonly used by visitors to Sochi for complaints surrounding the Games. "I'm not sure about repercussions, but I can tell you that our organization is not happy with the incident," USA Luge spokesman Sandy Caligiore said in an email to USA TODAY Sports. "Sochi problems? Sochi fail? That's not USA Luge speaking."

 - (a) “Exploitation of women’s bodies is never a good look. Another sexist campaign. You value animals over women.”
 - (b) “This is absolutely disgusting – you should be ashamed of yourselves for this utterly sexist and misogynistic objectification of women.”
- 4. In some instances, an event takes place where the public is not sure whether or not the activity was a publicity stunt
 - a. NASCAR driver Jeff Gordon released a video that showed him purportedly taking an unsuspecting car salesman for a wild test drive, sparking a wild debate online as to whether the video was fake
 - i. In 2014, Jeff Gordon and Pepsi released a second version of the “test drive” viral video to exact revenge on the blogger who originally called Gordon’s video out as “fake” the first time around, this time posing as a cab driver (the video reached over a million views in a few hours)
 - b. Pepsi’s “Uncle Drew” videos (starring Kyrie Irving playing pickup basketball as an old man) have generated millions of views over the past several years
 - i. When they were first posted, fans were not sure if the videos were staged
 - ii. Pepsi described the video on its YouTube page as such: “Pepsi MAX went to a pick-up game in Bloomfield, NJ pretending to shoot a documentary on a basketball player named Kevin. When his Uncle Drew came into the game, some magical things happened.”
 - iii. Another video, released just after Irving and the Cleveland Cavaliers won the NBA championship, racked up 1.5 million views despite the fact that most fans were aware the games were not real
 - (a) Click here to see the videos on Pepsi’s YouTube page
 - iv. The campaign was so successful that it spawned a box office film, ‘Uncle Drew’, which was released in the summer of 2018 and beat box office projections
 - c. Several sports teams have engaged fans over the years with April Fool’s Day pranks to generate publicity
 - i. In 2016, the Oregon Ducks went “all in” on an April Fool’s prank, tweeting out an announcement that they would be replacing the Autzen Stadium playing surface with an LED field that would change colors and shoot fireworks whenever the Ducks scored
 - (a) The Ducks even posted an entire gallery of images featuring the “construction work” on their athletics website
 - ii. In 2018, the NHL’s Phoenix Coyotes issued a press release suggesting the franchise had just hired NBA legend and TNT analyst Charles Barkley as a “special advisor” with the bottom of the release reading, “Also, Happy April Fool’s Day!”

- d. Despite denials from the Mets' organization upon signing Tim Tebow to a minor league contract, the team's GM admitted nearly a year later that the decision was, in fact, partially a PR ploy
 - (a) Said Mr. Alderson in an interview, *"Look, we signed him because he is a good guy, partly because of his celebrity, partly because this is an entertainment business. My attitude is 'why not?'"*⁶⁶
- e. In 2019, Nike pulled its 'Betsy Ross' sneakers from the market after Colin Kaepernick, one of the brand's ambassadors, suggested the concept behind the design was offensive
 - i. The decision to side with Kaepernick drew some backlash, but ultimately the conversation would generate $3 billion in free advertising (according to Forbes), leading some to speculate whether the whole product release was intended to be a publicity stunt from the start

Lesson 11.6

Press Releases

* ACTIVITY IDEA *

Press releases have been an important tool for sports and entertainment communications professionals for a very long time. However, as the landscape continues to shift from traditional media to digital throughout the industry, the role of the press release has evolved. Much of the information that would be shared with fans in another era via news release is now posted on social media platforms like Facebook and Twitter. However, that does not mean that the press release is no longer relevant as organizations work to maximize exposure through as many communications channels as possible. For a quick activity, divide your classroom into groups or pairs. Task each team with developing a press release for a fictitious sports or entertainment event. Then ask them to create a strategy for which the information will be disseminated to the media AND shared with fans through broader, digital platforms.

A. Press releases

1. A press release is a prewritten story about an organization or athlete/entertainer that is disseminated to various media ⁶⁷
2. Often referred to as news or media releases
3. Must be clear and to the point
4. Every press release must address several specific pieces of information
 - a. Date
 - b. Release statement
 - i. Typically states FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE or TO BE RELEASED ON
 - c. Headline
 - d. Contact information
 - e. The Lead
 - i. Lead paragraph must grab reader's attention
 - f. Text (body of release)
 - i. Should answer the questions who, what, where, when, why and how
 - g. Pitch ⁶⁸
 - i. The release ends with identifying information, including a phone number and email address. This is where you pitch to the audience
 - ii. Example: "Call this number to find out more about the new Dallas Stars "Adopt-a-Family" program
 - h. End
 - i. Press releases typically end with "end" or "#####"
5. Must be creative and informative or the organization runs the risk of the media not reporting the information
6. An effective release will feature a catchy title
 - a. According to a study from SEO Agency suggests a properly crafted headline can increase web traffic by 500%
7. Press releases should be kept to one page if possible

B. Three categories of press releases define when information is disseminated ⁶⁹

1. Pre-release
 - a. Occurs before the event takes place
 - b. If a team wanted to release the signing of a key free agent to the media, an advance story would alert the media to a press conference the following day
 2. Live-release
 - a. Occurs during the event
 - b. A second story is released at the actual news release when the new player is formally introduced to the media at the press conference
 3. Post-release
 - a. Occurs after the event has taken place
 - b. The next few days following the press conference, additional releases are sent out referencing details of the player's new contract, plans for success and past statistics
- C. Information an organization may distribute via a press release
1. Announcement of a team's key free agent acquisition
 2. Release of game schedules
 3. Highlights of a new blockbuster film to be released
 4. Announcement of an upcoming promotion
 5. Description of an upcoming community relations event

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

Lesson 4.8 covers the concept of “upfront marketing” in advertising. ESPN pulled out all the stops for their upfront presentation in 2012 and issued a press release online to call attention to the event. Click here to review the press release and ask your students why they think ESPN put so much emphasis on the upfront presentation. Use the press release to illustrate the importance of communicating information like this to the media and consumers.

Lesson 11.7

Press Kits

- A. Press kits are important as they provide much information regarding an organization or event to media in a variety of ways
 - 1. A press kit is a package of information distributed to the media to assist them in reporting ⁷⁰
 - 2. Press kits could include: ⁷¹
 - a. Athlete, entertainer, organization or event background
 - b. Fact sheets
 - c. Biographies
 - d. Photographs
 - e. Statistical information
 - f. Contact information
 - g. Current press releases
 - h. Related press clippings
 - i. Historical chronologies
 - j. Organizational newsletters
 - k. Testimonials from key personnel
 - l. Recommendations for features
 - 3. Each piece included in the press kit should include contact information, as press kit material often becomes separated
 - 4. Many organizations now create an electronic version of the media kit
 - a. Ease of distribution
 - b. Distribution to more outlets
 - c. Allows for incorporation of audio, video and multimedia presentation materials
 - 5. Frequently, organizations will send annually updated press kits to keep media informed

Lesson 11.8

Social Issues in Sports & Entertainment

A. Social Issues

1. Social issues in sports and entertainment refer to everything from the ethical actions of athletes, entertainers and sport/entertainment organizations to the sports and entertainment industry's efforts to do their part to positively impact society
 - a. Ethics are the moral standards by which people judge behavior
 - b. Words often associated with ethical behavior could include honesty, integrity, respectfulness, confidentiality, non-discriminating, legal and socially responsible
 - c. Most sports and entertainment organizations feel they have an obligation to operate their business from an ethical standpoint
 - i. Last year, one of the biggest, most widespread scandals in history rocked the industry with revelations of corruption throughout one of the most powerful organizations in the sports world (FIFA)
 - (a) Dozens of FIFA officials were arrested on charges of allegedly pocketing well over $150 million in bribes dating back 24 years
 - ii. The NBA moved the 2017 NBA All-Star game from Charlotte, North Carolina after the state passed legislation blocking cities and local governments from passing antidiscrimination measures that could protect gay and transgender people.
 - (a) The Charlotte Regional Visitors Authority would later report that the city would lose out on a potential $100 million in economic impact for the area
 - (b) After the state made a slight amendment to the bill, the NBA promised to bring the All-Star game back to the city in 2019
 - iii. The Washington Post reported that, in an effort to protect baseball's integrity, MLB partnered with Genius Sports to monitor and report gambling trends
 - (a) In 2019, the PGA Tour and LPGA Tour also partnered with Genius Sports to keep an eye on betting on golf tournaments as well as educating players and caddies on corruption

B. Examples of hot button social issues

1. The "greening" of sports and entertainment
 - a. Today's consumer is more aware of how their buying decisions affect society and the environment around them, and are willing to make choices in their product purchases to have an impact on the world around them
 - i. A recent market research study concluded that environmentally-friendly packaging plays a vital role in consumer purchase decisions and helps greener companies gain a competitive advantage over non eco-friendly competitors ⁷²
 - (a) Adidas partnered with Parley on an initiative that would take ocean waste and transform it into clothing and sneakers and recently launched a sneaker made entirely of yarns and filaments reclaimed and recycled from ocean waste and illegal deep-sea gillnets ⁷³
 - (i) Parley is described as "A collaboration space where creators, thinkers and leaders from art, film, music, fashion, technology and science partner up with major brands and environmentalists to raise awareness and to collaborate on projects that can end the destruction of the magic blue universe beneath us: Our Oceans.")
 - (ii) In 2018, adidas outfitted every Major League Soccer team with uniforms made from recycled ocean waste

- (iii) In 2019, adidas executed a fantastic publicity stunt when they teamed up with Parley for the Oceans to turn the iconic Bondi Icebergs Pool in Sydney into a tennis court in the leadup to the Australian Open
 - 1. Click here for a behind-the-scenes look at the project
- (b) Puma announced plans to launch a greener packaging initiative by phasing out the traditional cardboard shoe box and replacing it with a new package that includes a bag, ultimately using 65% less cardboard ⁷⁴
- (c) Nike released a free app (called “Making”) to help designers make informed decisions about the environmental impacts of the materials they select, powered by data from the Nike Materials Sustainability Index (a database built on more than seven years of materials research and analysis)
- (d) The Sports Business Journal reported in 2016 that roughly 60% of teams are selling sponsorships that include 'green' assets
- ii. Other examples of the “greening” of sports and entertainment include:
 - (a) Brazil, the world’s largest biofuel producer (in order to be considered “biofuel” the product must contain over 80% renewable materials), transported athletes during the 2014 World Cup in bio-diesel buses containing fuel that is made from 20% recycled oil. ⁷⁵
 - (i) Click here and here for two interesting infographics illustrating Brazil’s plans for an even “greener” Olympic Games in 2016
 - (ii) Despite Brazil’s claims of efforts to minimize the carbon footprint of hosting the Olympic Games, the host country has been subject to much criticism for high levels of water pollution with the event just one year away
 - (b) Lincoln Financial Field in Philadelphia (home to the NFL’s Eagles) is powered by solar panels and wind turbines and plans are already in play to capture rain that falls from the stadium roof to potentially flush the toilets or even water the field ⁷⁶
 - (c) NASCAR has the largest recycling and environmental sustainability programs among all U.S. sports. NASCAR has the world’s largest solar-powered sports facility, a tree planting program capturing 100% of the emissions produced by on-track racing, and the largest recycling program in sports with Coca-Cola Recycling, Coors Light, Safety-Kleen and Creative Recycling. As NASCAR Green enters its fifth year, it continues to educate NASCAR fans and reduce the sport’s environmental impact through strategic partnerships with the teams, tracks, and Official Partners while validating green technologies.
 - (i) NASCAR’s program even features its own Twitter handle (@NASCARGreen)
 - (d) The Baltimore Orioles’ website features an entire page dedicated to informing fans about their commitment to sustainability, including the fact that the team recycles 600,000 pounds of materials annually, encourages bicycle transportation to games and recognizing that only green-friendly cleaning products are used to clean Oriole Park
 - (e) Nike announced its NBA uniforms would be partially made from recycled plastic bottles
 - (i) Click here to see the uniforms
 - (f) Nearly 400 sports teams and venues spanning 14 countries, including almost all NFL, NHL and MLB teams, are members of the Green Sports Alliance, an organization whose goal is to leverage “the cultural and market influence of sports to promote healthy, sustainable communities.”

- (i) Click here to see how the Atlanta Falcons implemented “green” strategies when building their new home (Mercedes-Benz Stadium)
- (ii) Click here to see how the Sacramento Kings focused on sustainability when building the Golden 1 Center (a venue the franchise proclaims as the “greenest arena in the U.S.”)
- (g) Organizers of the 2028 Summer Games in Los Angeles has been hard at work trying to determine methods to create the most sustainable Olympics in history, beginning with the formation of a 50-person Sustainability Committee to help lead the initiative
- (h) Amazon invested in the naming rights to Seattle’s new NHL arena, but instead of calling it “Amazon Stadium”, they opted for the name “Climate Pledge Arena”
 - (i) According to a release, Amazon founder Jeff Bezos said “Instead of naming it after Amazon, we’re calling it Climate Pledge Arena as a regular reminder of the importance of fighting climate change.”
 1. Climate Pledge Arena will use recaptured rainwater to make the ice and will source a significant amount local food for concessions, while operating on “zero waste” and powering the arena with “100 percent renewable energy”
 2. Estimates suggest the investment was between $300 million and $400 million over the lifetime of the deal

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Ask students to research their favorite teams online to see if they have any green initiatives (click here to visit green.nba.com as an example). How about the stadiums or events they visit? Then ask them to create a list of five specific items that their team and the team’s venue could do to become even greener.

 INSTRUCTOR’S NOTE ***

Now would be a good time to distribute the case study marked “Unit 11 – Case Study – Title IX” in the Lesson 11.8 folder and work through the questions in class.

1. Gender equality in sports and entertainment
 - a. Title IX is a federal law enacted in the United States in 1972 that mandates equal educational and athletic opportunities for students of both genders
 - i. According to the Women's Sports Foundation, one in thirty-five high school girls played sports forty years ago; one in three do today. Before Title IX, fewer than 16,000 women participated in college sports; today that number exceeds 200,000.
 - ii. The summer of 2012 marked the 40th anniversary of Title IX and for the first time in history, American women outnumbered the number of men representing the United States at the Olympic Games
 - iii. Eight women now hold the title of "General Manager" in minor league baseball, believed to be the most at any time ⁷⁷
 - iv. In 2012, Shannon Eastin became the first woman to officiate an NFL game when she worked the opening game of the pre-season between the Green Bay Packers and San Diego Chargers
 - (a) In 2015, the Arizona Cardinals added Jen Welter to the team's coaching staff to work with the team's inside linebackers as a training camp/preseason intern
 - (b) In 2018, Katie Sowers became the second full-time female assistant coach in NFL history when she was hired by the San Francisco 49ers, joining Buffalo Bills quality control coach Kathryn Smith, who last year became the league's first female full-time assistant
 - v. In 2014, Becky Hammon became the first woman to be hired as an assistant coach in the NBA when the San Antonio Spurs announced that she would be joining head coach Greg Popovich's staff
 - (a) In 2015, Hammon led the Spurs to a Summer League championship as the team's head coach
 - (b) In 2019, the Cleveland Cavaliers hired Lindsay Gottlieb, former University of California head coach who led the Golden Bears to seven NCAA Tournament appearances, making her the seventh female assistant in the NBA
 - vi. Just prior to the 2019 NBA draft, the New Orleans Pelicans hired former WNBA and UConn star Swin Cash as VP of Basketball Operations and Team Development — making her the first high-ranking African-American woman in an executive position with the league, according to the NY Post
 - vii. In 2020, Tori Miller was promoted to General Manager of the College Park Skyhawks, the NBA G League affiliate of the Atlanta Hawks. Miller's promotion makes her the first woman to hold the title of General Manager in the history of the NBA G League.
 - viii. Today, according to the Women's Sports Foundation, all four tennis Grand Slam events offer equal prize money to the male and female winners
 - ix. When the Association of Surfing Professionals was acquired in 2012, now known as the World Surf League, the new ownership made it a policy that the men's and women's Championship Tour events would offer equal prize money
 - b. Despite the progress that women's sports have made since the law was enacted, disparity remains
 - i. For example, in 1972, women coached 90 percent of women's college athletic teams. Today it's only 42.9 percent. ⁷⁸
 - (a) According to a newsweek.com report, there remains a large gap in compensation between men and women playing for the United States Soccer Federation

- (i) In 2017, women earned $99,000 only if their team won a minimum of 20 matches – men on the other hand earned $263,320 for the same feat, and were guaranteed $100,000 even if their team lost all 20 games
 - 1. The women also received no compensation for any matches played beyond 20, whereas the men were paid between $5,000 and $17,625 for each game played beyond 20
- ii. The gender pay gap issue was perhaps the biggest storyline of the 2019 FIFA Women's World Cup with the US Women's National Team bringing the conversation to the masses throughout their championship run
 - (a) According to statistics from Time.com, prize money totaled to $30 million in 2019 for the Women's World Cup, with the USWNT earning roughly $4 million for winning the tournament. By contrast, the prize money pool for the 2018 Men's World Cup totaled about $400 million, giving reigning champion France's men's team $38 million—more than the total pool for the women.
 - (b) In May of 2020, Federal Judge R. Gary Klausner rejected the women's team's argument over receiving lower pay than the U.S. men's team. He also dismissed a claim of unequal working conditions related to the number of turf and real grass fields.

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

For more on the U.S. Women's National Team and their championship run at the 2019 FIFA World Cup, access the "2019 World Cup by the Numbers" PowerPoint. Use the figures from the PPT to guide a discussion relating to the gender pay gap in women's sports.

- iii. Male and female golfers and basketball players receive drastically different levels of compensation
 - (a) In 2015, the LPGA offered $61.6 million in total prize money, compared to the PGA which offered $320 million
 - (i) The top purse for an LPGA major was $4.5 million (the winner received $810,000), compared to $10 million for each of the PGA majors (the winner received $1.8 million)
 - (b) In 2018, High Post Hoops reported that Diana Taurasi, one of the greatest WNBA players of all-time, earned $115,233 last season. To put that into perspective, it would take an NBA rookie earning the NBA's minimum salary for players with zero experience just 7 games to earn that amount.
 - iv. In Forbes' annual ranking of highest-paid athletes in 2020, just two women made the ranks (Naomi Osaka and Serena Williams) and no female athlete from any other sport besides tennis has ever made the list

 VIDEO SUGGESTION ***

ESPN released a series of “shorts” (called Nine for IX). One of the films in particular, “Branded”, really does a nice job on this particular social issue while also addressing a topic from a previous unit on branding.

Here is the summary from on ESPN.com: “Anna Kournikova was never the greatest tennis player in the world. In fact, she never rose higher than No. 8 on the WTA world singles rankings. But her looks and willingness to capitalize on them made her the most famous tennis player on the planet and ultimately, a pioneer for fellow women athletes who understand that sometimes, sex sells. Sports is supposed to be the ultimate level playing field, but in the media and on Madison Avenue sometimes looks matter more than accomplishments. This film explores the double standard placed on women athletes to be the best players on the field and the sexiest off them. Branded explores the question: can women's sports ever gain an equal footing with their male counterparts or will sex always override achievement?” At the time this version of the text was published, ESPN was offering free copies to educators. Here is the link to sign up for your free copy (for those of you who might want to share in class): <http://espn.go.com/espnw/w-in-action/nine-for-ix/knowledge-center/sign-up>.

2. Racial equality in sports and entertainment
 - a. Hiring practices in the sports and entertainment industry have historically demonstrated a racial imbalance
 - i. In 2003, the National Football League established the Rooney Rule, requiring all NFL teams to interview minority candidates for head coaching and senior football operations positions
 - (a) In 2020, NFL owners approved changes to the Rooney Rule aimed at improving diversity in coach and front-office hiring, also discussing an addition to the rule that would have rewarded minority hiring with draft-pick compensation (a discussion regarding that proposal was ultimately pushed back for a later date)
 - (i) Click here to read more about the changes to the Rooney Rule from espn.com
 - (b) Bill Russell, the 11-time NBA champion with the Boston Celtics, endorsed a measure in 2020 that made the NCAA's West Coast Conference the first Division I league to require all schools to include a minority finalist for job openings in athletics
 - (i) According to the new “Russell Rule”, finalists for any opening for an athletic director, senior administrator, head coach or full-time assistant coach within the West Coast Conference must include a member of a traditionally underrepresented community

- ii. The NBA regularly scores high marks and sets the bar for other professional sports leagues in racial and gender diversity, according to a 2020 report released by The Institute for Diversity and Ethics in Sport.⁷⁹
 - (a) One week before the NBA would resume its season “in the bubble” at ESPN Wide World of Sports with a commitment to combating racism and social injustice during the pandemic, the league earned an A+ for racial hiring practices and a B for gender hiring practices in a report compiled by The Institute for Diversity and Ethics in Sport.
 - (b) Major League Baseball had one of the lowest scores among professional sports leagues, earning an overall “B/B+/C” in the Institute for Diversity and Ethics in Sport’s annual report⁸⁰
 - iii. Click here for links to more racial and gender reports from the University of Central Florida's Institute for Diversity and Ethics in Sport
 - b. Unfortunately, with regards to racism, the industry still has much room for improvement
 - i. The University of Central Florida's Institute for Diversity and Ethics in Sport recorded 52 acts of racism in sports in the United States in 2018, up from 41 in 2017. Internationally, there were 137 instances of racism in sports in 2018, a sharp increase from the 79 acts of racism in 2017.
 - c. When the 2020 murder of George Floyd sparked protests around the country, the sports and entertainment world took the opportunity to use their position of influence as a platform to fight for racial injustice and police brutality
 - i. After Floyd's death, the Minnesota Twins made multiple statements in support of the racial and social justice movement and removed a statue of the team's former owner Calvin Griffith, who made explicitly racist comments in the past. The Twins also donated $25 million to the racial justice movement in the Twin Cities.
 - ii. When NBA players resumed the 2019-20 season “in the bubble” during the COVID-19 health crisis, many players included messages of social justice on their jerseys instead of their names while the league unveiled a basketball court that prominently displayed the message “Black Lives Matter”
 - iii. The day after Jacob Blake was shot seven times in the back by police in Kenosha, Wisconsin, leaving him paralyzed from the waist down, the Milwaukee Bucks boycotted their playoff game with the Orlando Magic, which led to the NBA and the NBPA agreeing to call off all the playoff games for the next two days. The WNBA quickly followed suit, followed by several MLB and NHL games being postponed, while several NFL teams had walkouts at practice.
- 3. Sportsmanship
 - a. Sportsmanship and the spirit of competition (competing in a moral and ethical manner and not with a “win at all costs” mentality)
 - i. A cheating scandal rocked the 2014 Little League World Series when the U.S. champion, Jackie Robinson West out of Chicago, allegedly used ineligible players
 - ii. Another scandal disrupted the 2015 Little League Softball World Series when one team allegedly intentionally tried to lose in an effort to force a three-way tie in the U.S. division that would eliminate an Iowa team that the Washington team wanted to avoid playing in the championship game
 - (a) Click here to read more about the 2015 scandal from foxsports.com.
 - iii. U.S. women’s soccer star Hope Solo was criticized for being “unsportsmanlike” with her comments when she called the Swedish team “a

- bunch of cowards” following the team’s loss to Sweden in the 2016 Summer Games in Rio
- iv. In 2017, two of the world’s most popular soccer players were hit with suspensions and fines for treatment of league officials
 - (a) Lionel Messi received a four-game ban and was fined $10,000 by FIFA for verbally abusing a match official
 - (b) Cristiano Ronaldo Cristiano Ronaldo received a five-match suspension for pushing a referee in the back after being sent off with a red card
 - v. Also in 2017, an operations employee for the St. Louis Cardinals was given a 46-month prison sentence, fined and banned for life from Major League Baseball for hacking into the Houston Astros’ computer system and gaining access to the team’s classified information
 - vi. In 2020, the Houston Astros were criticized by many fans and media members when Major League Baseball confirmed they found evidence of the team orchestrating an elaborate “sign-stealing” scandal during the 2017 playoffs when the team went on to win the World Series
 - vii. Poor sportsmanship can trickle down to all levels of sport
 - (a) In 2019, a New Hampshire Little League coached accused a Rhode Island team of cheating (stealing signs) in a tournament game leading up to the Little League World Series
- b. Professional sports teams are subject to public scorn and fan ridicule when the actions of the front office are perceived as “tanking” (intentionally losing games) in an effort to gain a higher draft pick the following season (typically positioned by the franchise as a “rebuilding year”)
- i. In 2015, it was the NHL’s Buffalo Sabres, which led one Buffalo area sports reporter to publish this story online: “At Every Level of Sport, Tanking Raises Moral Questions”
 - ii. Last year, it was NBA teams being accused of tanking for the opportunity to draft LSU’s Ben Simmons, one of the most heralded basketball prospects to enter the NBA in recent history
 - iii. In 2017, Dallas Mavericks owner Mark Cuban came under scrutiny and received a call from league commissioner, Adam Silver, for his comment, “once we were eliminated from the playoffs, we did everything we could to lose games.”
 - iv. In 2020, after the front office completed a complete shake up of the franchise’s roster, including trading and releasing several of the team’s top players, many in the media suggested the team was “tanking” to end up with the worst record, and top draft pick next year, for the opportunity to select Clemson’s QB Trevor Lawrence in 2021 (Lawrence is considered by many to be a “can’t miss” NFL prospect)
 - (a) After the team traded Pro Bowl defensive standout Yannick Ngakoue and released star running back Leonard Fournette, many in the media accused the team of “Tanking for Trevor”
 - (i) USA Today: “The team waived running back Leonard Fournette on Monday, a stunning decision many outsiders view as the latest in a series of head scratchers that could help the franchise tank the season and get the No. 1 draft pick” while a Fan Sided headline reported “Jaguars going into complete Tank for Trevor Lawrence mode” and a Bleacher Report headline read “Jacksonville Jaguars in Driver’s Seat for Trevor Lawrence After Ngakoue Trade”

- v. The concept of tanking has long been a conversation in the NFL with several teams in recent years all but admitting they were trying to lose games to secure higher draft picks
 - (a) Many experts think if the NFL adopted a draft lottery system they could eliminate teams from losing on purpose
 - c. In addition to athletes being caught using PEDs, teams will sometimes skirt the rules in effort to gain a competitive edge with the result typically being the organization being called out as “cheaters” by the media and fans
 - i. In 2015, the NFL punished the Atlanta Falcons for pumping fake crowd noise into the stadium during games to create more noise when the opposition had the football
 - ii. While doping has long been a problem in the sport of cycling, former U.S. champion Greg LeMond alleged in 2015 that riders in major races like the Tour de France could be trying to gain an unfair edge by installing tiny motors in their bikes (according to washingtonpost.com)
- 4. Sexual Assault and Harassment
 - a. 2018 saw the launch of the #metoo movement, as sexual assault and harassment allegations became rampant in the sports and entertainment industry, shining a light on how much work the industry has to do to create a safer environment for women
 - i. In Hollywood, several successful producers and popular actors were accused of harassment and assault
 - ii. Nearly a dozen high profile executives at Nike were exiled from the company based on claims of harassment in the workplace
 - iii. Tampa Bay Buccaneers Jameis Winston, already with a history of sexual misconduct allegations, was suspended three games by the NFL after a female uber driver accused the quarterback of groping her
 - iv. Ex–USA Gymnastics and Michigan State athletics doctor Larry Nassar was sentenced to up to 175 years in prison for sexually abusing more than 250 2021women and girls
 - b. At least three female reporters at the 2018 World Cup were sexually harassed, live and on air, including Colombian reporter Julieth Gonzalez Theran who was groped and kissed as she was reporting on the tournament
- 5. Compensation for college athletes
 - a. In 2020, the NCAA announced plans for a new rule change that would allow college players to profit off their name, image and likeness
 - i. While the rule change came before some high-profile collegiate athletes could be compensated for their contributions to their respective athletics programs, the new proposal paves the way for future generates to earn thousands of dollars

 DISCUSSION IDEA ***

See if your students can come up with any other examples of “hot button” topics surrounding the sports and entertainment industry. Ask them how these issues impact their strategies for branding, marketing and selling their products and encourage them to find specific examples to support their opinions.

Case Study

Communications in Sports & Entertainment:

A Unit 11 SEM Case Study

Cubs Care connects with its community. It couldn't be any other way, considering the bond that exists between the team and the city of Chicago. The team and its players are woven into the fabric of the North Side of "the windy city." The neighborhood surrounding Wrigley Field is known as "Wrigleyville," owing as much to the mutual affection between team and fans as to the name of the famous ballpark at its center.

Thousands of non-profit organizations in the Greater Chicago area benefit from the funds and merchandise provided by the team, its players, the fans, and outside contributions. Cubs Care provides "financial support for youth sports, children with special needs, victims of domestic violence, and social service agencies in the community." Established in 1991, the charity has distributed over $12 million and has recently averaged more than $1 million a year.

Funds come from a variety of activities. One of the most popular is the Cubs Convention, an off-season opportunity for fans to interact with players, team management, and broadcasters. To participate, fans must pay an admission fee. The three day event provides attendees with a chance to discuss plans for the upcoming season, have photos taken with their favorite players, and get autographs. In-season events include Meet the Team, Have a Ball, where those donating to Cubs Care can meet with players and receive autographed baseballs and Hey Dad, Wanna Have a Catch, which allows youngsters to play catch in the outfield with parents, run the bases, and spend time touring the playing field. Participants also receive baseballs, T-shirts, and can eat lunch in the Friendly Confines Café.

Players' wives also help by participating in food drives, writing and editing books (Wrigley Field, A to Z is one recent publication), and organizing charity events.

Much effort goes into promoting youth baseball in Chicago. Cubs Care grants not only support Little League and other youth programs, but also have been used to rehabilitate and upgrade several fields. The fund has partnered with local agencies to refurbish and build four diamonds, named "Legends Fields" in honor of former Cubs players, at Hamlin Park. A $500,000 donation, made in partnership with the Chicago Park District, the City of Chicago, and the Thillens family, also helped revive Thillens Stadium, a historic local field first opened in 1938.

Case Study Questions

1. What role does the team's management of Cubs Care play in its overall marketing strategy?
2. Can you think of other fund raising activities that would be consistent with the team's approach to its participation in Cubs Care?
3. Why are community relations programs important to sports and entertainment organizations? Are they also important to athletes and celebrities? Why or why not?
4. Would a program similar to Cubs Care work as well in another city or in another sport where the fans are less passionate about the team, where the team hasn't been around as long, or where the ties between team and community are not as strong? Why or why not?

Unit 11 Discussion Question Review

How do you find out when your favorite team is playing its next home game? Where do you go to find out how well your favorite player is performing? How do you know when your favorite actor will be featured in a new movie? What other sources might be available to help you find that information?

In today's information age, this kind of information is readily available in a number of formats. In most cases, information is distributed by the sports or entertainment organization. In other cases (typically the source of negative publicity), a story may be broken by a member of the media.

These could include:

- Internet
- Newspaper
- Television
- Radio
- Magazines

What instances can you think of where an athlete or entertainer has engaged in activities that generated negative publicity for themselves or the organization that employed them? What was the activity? How did you hear about that activity? Did that act have a negative impact on the celebrity or organization? Why or why not?

A hot topic now among sports fans and enthusiasts is the use of illegal performance enhancing drugs (steroids) among Major League baseball players. Other issues that seem prevalent among celebrities and entertainers include drug use/abuse and public behavior not conducive with the public's perception of how "role models" should act.

What instances can you think of where an athlete or entertainer has engaged in activities that generated negative publicity for themselves or the organization that employed them? What was the activity? How did you hear about that activity? Did that act have a negative impact on the celebrity or organization? Why or why not?

Many times celebrities will get involved with events in which the general public is very aware. There is probably no better example of this right now than the negative publicity surrounding several of the major league sports (steroid scandal, Barry Bonds and Major League Baseball...NBA referee allegedly fixing games for gambling purposes...Michael Vick in the NFL).

Think about some of the stories you have read in the news recently and how they apply to the sports and entertainment industry. Can you think of any social issues that impact the business of sports and entertainment?

Social issues in sports and entertainment refer to everything from ethical actions of athletes, entertainers and sports/entertainment organizations to the industry's efforts to do their part to positively impact society.

 - 4. Online profile(s) – LinkedIn, Facebook
 - 5. Employers often request documentation to be submitted electronically via email or via an online website
 - 6. Cover letters, job interviews and resumes are all valuable employment tools for both the employer and prospective employee
- C. Career development
 - 1. Career development refers to the process of gaining the skills and knowledge necessary for, in the short term, beginning a career in a desired field and, in the long term, creating opportunities for career advancement
 - 2. Athletes and celebrities aren't the only ones who should be developing a personal brand
 - a. From the Montreal Gazette: “Regardless of age, regardless of position, regardless of the business we happen to be in, all of us need to understand the importance of branding. We are CEOs of our own companies: Me Inc. To be in business today, our most important job is to be head marketer for the brand called You. You're every bit as much a brand as Nike, Coke, Pepsi, or the Body Shop.”
 - b. The career development process includes building your personal brand to become more marketable to prospective employers
 - 3. In addition to creating an effective cover letter and resume, there are a number of ways to build your personal brand
 - a. Reading as much about the industry as you can
 - b. Talking with industry professionals to learn more about the business
 - c. Networking
 - d. Volunteering, participating in an internship opportunity
 - e. Online presence: LinkedIn, blogs, self-branded websites, etc.
 - i. Careful consideration of posts on social media channels is critical to developing your personal brand

(a) Hiring managers will review social media accounts when evaluating whether a potential employee is a good fit with the company

(b) Think before you post!

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

After reviewing this section on personal branding, have students take some time to reflect on their own personal brands. Have them write a brief essay describing their personal brand and why developing and maintaining this brand might be helpful when applying for jobs. Encourage them to create a LinkedIn profile if they don't have one already.

Here are a few links that you might want to share with your students to help provide additional guidance:

 INSTRUCTOR'S NOTE ***

This would be a good time to distribute the student handout marked “Five Keys to the Game” located in the Lesson 12.3 folder on your thumb drive. The handout is a previous SCC blog post which outlines several key criteria for students to consider as it relates to career development. After reviewing the handout, distribute the “career development” assignment, also located in the Lesson 12.3 folder on your thumb drive. The assignment can also be found online in the “assignments” section of the website.

D. Interview process

1. Careful preparation for the interview is essential
 - a. Learn as much as possible about the company and the products and/or services they provide prior to the interview
 - b. The individual should bring a copy of the resume and references for interviewer
 - c. The interviewee must understand what the employer is looking for in prospective employees and tailor their skill sets, cover letter and resume to fit those needs
 - d. Interviewee should dress appropriately
 - e. Interviewee must offer a firm handshake during the introduction and look the interviewer in the eyes
2. After the interview
 - a. The interviewee should send the interviewer a note thanking them for the opportunity and for their time as quickly as possible
 - b. The prospective employee should place a follow up call to employer within one week following the interview

 ACTIVITY IDEA ***

Consider staging mock interviews in class. Post a few fictitious jobs, encourage students to apply, then engage in practice interviews in class. Remind them to think about their personal brands as they go through the process.

Lesson 12.4

Cover Letters & Resumes

- A. The cover letter (also known as a letter of introduction or letter of application) tells the employer the type of position the individual is seeking and specifically how the applicant is qualified to fill the job opening

Lesson 12.5

The Job Market

A. Forecast

1. Although the competition for careers in sports and entertainment business is fierce, the field has experienced and will continue to experience rapid growth
 - a. The expansion of major league sports, growth of minor league sports and rapid expansion of sports related ventures by corporate giants like Disney, Warner and Fox indicate continued growth in job opportunities
 - b. Introduction of new entertainment and the rise in popularity of existing entertainment opportunities (action sports, rodeos, fishing)
2. Making oneself more marketable as an individual becomes increasingly important
 - a. Gain experience
 - b. Become knowledgeable
 - c. Have a desire to learn (anyone is willing to learn, not everyone truly wants to learn)
 - d. Strong references
 - i. Job seekers in sports and entertainment must perform well when given the opportunity to gain the confidence of employers
 - (a) Strong performance will result in positive recommendations for future positions, either within the existing organization or with another company
3. Importance of networking
 - a. It is often said that “it isn’t what you know but rather who you know.” That couldn’t be more accurate when it comes to the business of sports and entertainment and the employment process.
 - b. The development of a strong network and ability to impress employers with hard work, dedication and effective job performance are paramount in building a career in the sports and entertainment industry
 - c. Use of social media such as LinkedIn and Facebook can influence the employment process, both positively and negatively. While enabling people to connect with potential employers, it has also led to applicants being “shut off” because of “inappropriate” messages or pictures posted to social media accounts. Employers do check these sites!
4. Expectations
 - a. Careers in the sports and entertainment industry are in extremely high demand. Because of that demand, employers are in a position to offer lower salaries than similar positions in other industries.
 - i. According to sportscareers.com, there is an overabundance of people seeking work in sports and willing to work for less money
 - b. Job seekers must recognize the level of commitment required by professionals in the sports and entertainment industry. Most jobs require long hours on a pretty consistent basis.
 - c. A willingness to make sacrifices is paramount
 - i. According to sportscareers.com, the average sports worker will change jobs 8 times, and make 3 career changes, contributing to an annual industry turnover rate nearing 65% ⁸
 - ii. Job seekers should be willing to move because there are only a limited number of potential positions in each respective market
 - d. Competition for jobs in sports and entertainment is very high. As such, a positive attitude, strong work ethic and track record of success on-the-job are all essential characteristics for distinguishing candidates from one another

- e. General manager of the Atlanta Braves, John Coppolella, offers the following sports industry career advice to young fans: "Look for internships. Don't worry about the money. Work hard & don't have expectations beyond being part of a team. Assume nothing."
 - i. Click here for more career advice from Mr. Coppolella at cnbc.com.
 - f. Although sports and entertainment professionals often make less money and work longer hours than a similar position outside of the industry, one thing remains constant: most sports and entertainment industry professionals enjoy going to work every day.
5. Realistic expectations of a sports or entertainment career
- a. Just because someone works for the Dallas Cowboys does not necessarily mean they will be watching games every Sunday from a luxury suite. Working for Warner Brothers Studios does not mean an employee will be hanging out with Natalie Portman or Dwayne Johnson on weekends.
 - b. Many times, regardless of degree, job seekers must start with entry level positions just to get a foot in the door
- B. Resources
- 1. Industry books, magazines, periodicals and trade journals
 - 2. Newspapers
 - 3. Guidance counselor
 - 4. School career centers
 - 5. Online resources
 - a. Monster.com

Case Study

Careers in Sports & Entertainment:

A Unit 12 SEM Case Study

When Ryan Langan was a student at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse majoring in Sports Management, the Vice President of a local minor league basketball team was featured as a guest speaker in a class. Immediately following class, Mr. Langan approached the speaker and asked about internship opportunities with the team. Soon, he was involved in many aspects of the team's day to day activities.

The following year, the team's Vice President left the franchise to pursue an opportunity with another organization, but Mr. Langan was promoted to Director of Sales, where he was responsible for overseeing the development of corporate partnerships with local businesses as well as many other aspects of the team's daily business operation.

After several years with the basketball team, Mr. Langan received a call from the recently departed Vice President, asking if he might have some interest in joining the Portland Trail Blazers ticket sales team. After weighing his options, Mr. Langan chose to interview with the Blazers, accepting a position soon after.

While with the Portland Trail Blazers, he went back to school to pursue an MBA at the University of Portland. Upon receiving the degree, Mr. Langan would learn that one of his professors would be leaving the University of Portland to accept the position of Dean of the Business School at the University of South Florida in St. Petersburg, Florida. He would later recruit Mr. Langan to join his staff as an Instructor of Sports Marketing. His class featured guest speakers from sports executives across the nation and was one of the first classes on campus to fill up each semester.

Case Study Questions

- 1.) Do you think networking played an important role in helping Mr. Langan get to where he is today? Why or why not?
- 2.) Was Mr. Langan proactive in his pursuit of a career in the sports industry? Do you think that helped to advance his career in any way? Why or why not?
- 3.) Did his internship have any impact on breaking into the field as a sports marketing professional?

Unit 12 Discussion Question Review

Do you think there are many career opportunities in sports and entertainment? Why or why not?

There are a number of career paths in the sports and entertainment industry. Many potential avenues get overlooked by career seekers, such as careers in the health and fitness industry or working for a major corporation with their sports and entertainment marketing relationships (such as a Sports Marketing Executive position for Pepsi or Ford Motor Company).

Do you think a potential career in this industry is attainable? How competitive do you think careers in this field can be?

As stated previously, there are a number of opportunities and possible paths in the industry. However, competition for available positions can be fierce. The demand for sports and entertainment jobs is incredibly high. The candidates with the best chance of fulfilling an open position are those who have effectively marketed themselves through networking and gaining field experience.

By a show of hands, how many people in the class know what a resume is? How many have actually prepared a resume in the past? Why is a resume important? Can you pursue a professional career in sports and entertainment without one?

The resume is any individual's gateway to obtaining a job in any field. It is one of the most important tools in helping candidates land jobs, as it allows employers to quickly get a snapshot of candidate qualifications, experience and highlights of individual skills and accomplishments. Without a resume, a career in sports and entertainment would be next to impossible to achieve.

How would someone go about finding out about potential job openings? What do you think an individual would need to do to increase their marketability to sports and entertainment industry employers?

Networking and gaining experience through volunteer and internship opportunities are the most effective means for securing future positions within the sports and entertainment industry. Individuals can learn more about job openings through trade journals, industry publications and the Internet.
